The invocation was offered by Steven Cook, pastor, Oak Park United Methodist Church, Paris, as follows:

"O God, our help in ages past, our hope for years to come, our shelter from the stormy blast, and our eternal home."

We begin this session of legislative business with the keen awareness that our presence in this place is secondary to your presence with us. We give thanks for a political process that provides opportunity for all citizens to participate in electing fellow citizens to represent each of us. We ask for your divine counsel and wisdom as issues that affect the least of us oftentimes neglect the insignificant and powerless among us. We lift up each member of this elected body as each person seeks to give her or his best effort to act decisively yet with caring concern on issues. We pray for focused minds and pure hearts for each member of the house as weighty matters with multiple resolutions are presented.

Divine Sovereign God, you have created us to love our neighbors as we love ourselves and to treat others as we desire to be treated. Give each of us a heaping measure of humility as well as a wonderful sense of humor as we serve one another for the common good. With the Psalmist of old, let us note: "This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it!" (Psalm 118:24)

We remember to pray for all leaders of all peoples and know that all powers that be are your servants to do good and not evil. For men and women serving in our armed services representing the values of our country worldwide, we ask for your peace in their lives. For peoples who wake up each day oppressed by others and especially for children who are unsafe and unloved, we pray for divine rescue. With St. Francis of Assisi who uttered these words over 800 years ago: "O Divine Master, grant that we may not so much see to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

Bless the speaker of this house and all leaders on both sides of the aisle. Grant each of them an ample measure of respect for reasoned thoughts and ideas, and remind all of us that all of the citizens of our great State of Texas are represented with an equal voice in this elected body.

"O God, our help in ages past, our hope for years to come; be thou our guide while life shall last, and our eternal home."

In the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The speaker recognized Representative Homer who led the house in the pledges of allegiance to the United States and Texas flags.
