Address of Hon. Coke R. Stevenson

On motion of Senator Winfield and by unanimous consent, the following address of Hon. Coke R. Stevenson, Lieutenant Governor, at the ceremonies on the State Capitol grounds on yesterday to celebrate “I Am an American Day” was ordered printed in the Journal:

Mayor Miller, Chief Justice Alexander, Ladies and Gentlemen and My Friends Everywhere:

The significance of this day is one that can not be overestimated. It is somewhat like the custom of standing up in the old “camp meetin’” to show which side we were on. We who enjoy the privileges of the American way of life do not need a stimulant. We who enjoy its blessings do not need any argument in its favor. We who shoulder its responsibilities need nothing to convince us of its ever-living presence.

There is no necessity of a badge on the lapel of most of us. To advertise that one is an American is to create a shadow of doubt. It is somewhat analogous to advertise that one is honest. The man who labels himself as an honest man admits that his honesty has been questioned. If he is honest, his neighbors know it, and if he is indeed honest, he needs no spokesman to proclaim the fact. This is somewhat like the story of the mother who admonished her child never to ask a stranger what state he was from. She said, “If he is from any state other than Texas it will be embarrassing to him to admit it, and if he is from Texas, you will know it soon enough.”

The same may be said of all of us who are true Americans. It would be embarrassing to admit that we are anything else except Americans in thought and deed, and if we are truly such, the world will learn of it soon enough.

There is occasion, however, for us to show the colors under which we march. We are accustomed to watching the flag of our country wave over federal possessions. But on special occasions each of us unfurls his own flag, even though it is the common banner—the stars and stripes forever, the colors of all humanity, red, white and blue. In such manner we celebrate the 4th of July, the 11th of November and Washington’s birthday.

Referring again to that great American institution, the camp meeting, we are reminded of heroic spirits who rededicated themselves to the forces of righteousness. It was regarded as an opportunity, not for advertising one’s virtues, but to reaffirm one’s devotion to the ideals which prompted those virtues.

And so, today, we seize the opportunity to reaffirm our faith in the ideals of a system of living which we know as the American way.

The chief purpose of the “I Am an American Day” is that of reconsolation for those of us who are distinctly American. The chief value of this day to those who have recently become Americans is one of education. Let us keep in mind these
