This publication is intended to be a convenient reference for the main features of enacted measures within particular subject areas. A person should examine the enrolled copy of any piece of legislation to obtain a fuller understanding of its application and implications.

Copies of enrolled bills and resolutions from the 68th Legislature may be obtained from house and senate document distribution offices until November, 1984, when bill prefiling will begin for the 69th Legislature. House measures are available from the House Document Distribution Office, located in room 500 in the John H. Reagan State Office Building [P.O. Box 12128, Austin, Texas 78711; phone (512) 475-8452]. Senate measures are available from the Senate Document Distribution Office, located in room G27H in the Capitol [P.O. Box 12086, Austin, Texas 78711; phone (512) 475-2520]. The charge for copies is 15 cents per page.

*This number includes two bills (S.B. 179 and S.B. 325) in which the governor made only line item appropriation vetoes.

The amount of legislation considered and approved was greater than in recent regular sessions. During the 67th regular session, 3,696 bills were introduced and 902 were passed; during the 66th regular session, 3,596 bills were introduced and 890 were passed.

Of the 18 joint resolutions proposing amendments to the Texas Constitution that were passed during the regular session, 10 will appear on the November 8, 1983, general election ballot for voter approval. Another amendment, proposed during the 1st called session, will also appear on the 1983 ballot. The remaining eight proposed amendments will be presented to the voters on the November 6, 1984, general election ballot.

All joint resolutions and bills passed by the legislature during the regular session and not vetoed by the governor are summarized in the following pages. The summaries, grouped by subject, are not comprehensive but are intended to provide a general review of significant provisions of each enactment.

1st Called Session

The 1st Called Session of the 68th Legislature convened on June 22, 1983, and adjourned on June 25, 1983. The special session was called by the governor to consider legislation relating to the state's brucellosis program, the continued existence of the Texas Employment Commission, and an appropriation for certain construction at Texas Southern University. A subsequent proclamation expanded the list of subjects to include legislation (1) appropriating and paying certain miscellaneous claims and judgments against the state; (2) requiring persons who operate hotels to install and maintain smoke alarms in sleeping quarters; (3) appropriating state funds for the operation of the State Ethics Advisory Commission; (4) amending the state constitution to allow for the advancement of food and fiber production and marketing through research, education, and promotion financed by the producers of agricultural products; (5) including certain farm and ranch laborers under the workers' compensation law; and (6) dealing with the prohibition of certain discriminatory practices and the denial of human rights.

During the called session, legislation was passed relating to all submitted subjects except item (5). Summaries of legislation passed during the called session are included with the summaries from the regular session and are distinguished by the designation (1st C.S.) after the bill or resolution number.

House Bill 1253 strengthens the penalties for improper use of pesticides by creating an offense for a person who knowingly or intentionally handles pesticides in a way that injures a human being or pollutes a water supply; this new offense is a Class A misdemeanor. HOUSE BILL 1 (1st C.S.)
EFFECTIVE:  6-27-83
HOUSE AUTHOR:  B. Gibson, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR:  Glasgow
House Bill 1 substantially revises the statutes concerning the state’s brucellosis control program. The act permits the Texas Animal Health Commission to classify different areas of the state according to the incidence of the disease and to prescribe different control procedures for each area. It gives the commission discretion in establishing procedures for testing cattle, vaccinating them, and handling diseased cattle, as well as in regulating the sale and use of brucellosis antigens and vaccines.

House Bill 1 also allows the commission to adopt any rules necessary to regulate the movement of cattle intrastate, regardless of whether or not those cattle are subject to restrictions in interstate or international commerce. The commission, instead of establishing uniform procedures for handling herds in which infection is found, can now handle them according to an individual herd plan.

Under the provisions of the act, the commission can exempt certain livestock from the requirement that they be certified free of brucellosis 30 days before entry into the state. It continues, however, the statutory prohibition against importing cattle from quarantined herds while allowing the commission to make exceptions. House Bill 1 additionally establishes penalties for failure to comply with the act, and adds brucellosis to the list of diseases veterinarians must report to the commission within 24 hours of diagnosis.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES

HOUSE BILL 493
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act amends the law allowing county commissioners to approve the sale of alcoholic beverages in professional sports stadiums or regional airports of certain counties if the county has legalized the sale of alcoholic beverages in all or part of the county. House Bill 493 lowers the population limitation from 500,000 to 240,000 or more and thereby increases the number of eligible counties from four to nine. Those counties are Harris, Dallas, Bexar, Tarrant, El Paso, Travis, Hidalgo, Nueces, and Jefferson.

HOUSE BILL 706
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

House Bill 706 amends the provision of the Alcoholic Beverage Code relating to the issuance of daily temporary mixed beverage permits. In addition to a holder of a mixed beverage permit, such permits may now be issued to a political party or certain political associations, to charitable or civic organizations, to certain fraternal organizations, or to religious organizations. The act allows these organizations to hold not more than two daily temporary mixed beverage permits a year.

HOUSE BILL 877
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

House Bill 877 makes it an offense for a person to knowingly consume liquor or beer on the premises of either a holder of a wine and beer retailer's off-premise permit or a retail dealer's off-premise license. The act requires wine and beer retailer's off-premise permittees and retail dealer's off-premise licensees to display a sign warning that it is a crime to consume liquor or beer on their premises.

The act further requires a wine and beer retailer's permittee and a retail dealer's on-premise licensee to designate an area for customers to sit and consume beverages bought on the premises.

A person convicted of not more than one violation of on-premise consumption is allowed by this act to apply to the court to have the conviction expunged.

HOUSE BILL 1310
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

The Administrative Procedure and Texas Register Act requires a person who wishes to contest a final decision of a state agency to file a petition for review in a district court of Travis County, Texas. House Bill 1310 amends the Administrative Procedure and Texas Register Act to make it inapplicable to an appeal from a decision of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission relating to a private club registration, which may be brought in a district court of the county in which the private club is located.

HOUSE BILL 1361
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act amends the Alcoholic Beverage Code to allow a holder of a wine and beer retailer's permit to change the permit to a wine and beer retailer's off-premise permit and to allow a holder of a retail dealer's on-premise license to change the license to a retail dealer's off-premise license, for the same location, without an interruption of regular business. The act also provides for the procedures relevant to the application for the change, fees, and termination and effective dates of the licenses and permits.

HOUSE BILL 1618
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

House Bill 1618 allows the holder of a wholesaler's permit, a class B wholesaler's permit, or an importer's license to furnish, in lieu of all or part of the amount of the bond required to secure payment of the gross receipts tax on mixed beverages, a certificate of deposit or savings or a letter or letters of credit from a bank or savings institution. The act also exempts these permittees and this licensee from furnishing a bond if the required taxes have been paid on a timely basis for the preceding 36 months. The bond exemption terminates if a permittee or licensee fails to pay the required tax or fee. The act reduces the number of consecutive months from 36 to 18 in which a permittee or licensee must timely pay taxes and fees in order to regain the exemption.
The final section of this act allows a permittee who has a bond exemption to qualify for bond exemption for any other permit or license for which an exemption may be obtained, issued to the same permittee or licensee for use at different or additional licensed premises.

HOUSE BILL 1875

HOUSE AUTHORITY: Geistweidt
SENATE SPONSOR: Kothmann

The act changes the requirement that each report be made in quadruplicate by requiring the reports to be made in triplicate. Under this act, only one copy instead of two is required to be verified by oath. The act also eliminates the requirement that one verified copy be filed in the permanent files of the comptroller, leaving the only verified copy for the permanent files of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission or agency making the seizure.

HOUSE AUTHORITY: Luna
SENATE SPONSOR: Harris

House Bill 1877 eliminates the requirement that a photograph be included on a wine and beer retailer's permit or a retail dealer's on-premise license.

The act further provides for the printing of Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission rules governing the collection or refund of the gross receipts tax, and it entitles a permittee to a refund or tax credit for a mistaken overpayment. A claim for a credit or refund must be made within four years of the overpayment.

The act also limits the detailed information that may be required in a permittee's tax return to the information that is ordinarily available from typical daily sales records.

HOUSE BILL 1889
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHORITY: G. Hill
SENATE SPONSOR: Traeger

The act requires each holder of a general, local, or branch distributor's license to enter into a written contract with each manufacturer from which the licensee purchases beer to set the sales territory within which beer purchased by that distributor may be sold and it prohibits distributors selling beer outside their sales territory. A manufacturer may agree to not assign all or part of a sales territory to more than one distributor.

SENATE BILL 21
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHORITY: Sarpalious
HOUSE SPONSOR: Laney

It is an offense under the Alcoholic Beverage Code for a person to knowingly sell an alcoholic beverage to a minor. It is not an offense, however, if a minor falsely represents himself to be at least 19 years old by displaying an apparently valid Texas driver's license. Under Senate Bill 21 it is also not an offense to sell an alcoholic beverage to a minor who falsely represents himself as being 19 years old by displaying an identification card issued by the Department of Public Safety.

SENATE BILL 285
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHORITY: Leedom
HOUSE SPONSOR: Keller

During the last interim, a special committee on fees and grants was established to study among other things the various fees charged by state agencies for licenses and permits. Based on committee recommendations, this act increases various alcoholic beverage permit and license fees.
Senate Bill 554

Effective: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 554 amends the Alcoholic Beverage Code relating to the verification and filing of a petition for a local option liquor election by transferring the responsibility of verifying the names on the petition from the office of the county clerk to that of the voter registrar of the county in whose office the records concerning registered voters are kept. This act applies only to the petitions for a local option liquor election.

Effective: 9-1-83

State law authorizes a county commissioners court and the governing board of an incorporated city or town to prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages by a dealer whose place of business is within 300 feet of a church, public school, or public hospital. Senate Bill 964 revises the method of measuring the distance between a public school and a place of business where alcoholic beverages are sold if minors are not prohibited from entering the premises. In addition, an applicant for an original alcoholic beverage license or permit for a place of business that is within 1,000 feet of a public school is now required to give written notice of the application to officials of the public school before filing the application with the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

This act also authorizes a county commissioners court and the governing body of a city or town to allow variances to the regulation under certain circumstances.
APPROPRIATIONS

The 68th Legislature passed a number of bills that appropriated funds for the current biennium and for the 1984-1985 biennium in support of state government and as aid to local governments. The comptroller of public accounts certified, under the constitution's "pay-as-you-go" provision, a total of $30.9 billion in spending measures passed during the regular session. Spending measures passed during the first called session totaled $15.4 million.

General Appropriations Act

SENATE BILL 179  SENATE AUTHORITY:  Jones
EFFECTIVE:  9-1-83  HOUSE SPONSOR:  Presnal

The General Appropriations Act provides the major portion of funds for the 1984-1985 biennium. It appropriates $30.8 billion, an increase of 15.7 percent over the estimated spending level of the 1982-1983 biennium.

The governor vetoed only one line-item appropriation in the act: $200,000 allocated to the University of Houston System for a planning study regarding a new branch campus.

Education was allocated the largest share of the state’s appropriations, with a 12.1 percent increase over the previous biennium. The $14.3 billion appropriation for education accounts for 46.5 percent of the state's total spending for the next biennium. When the appropriation of $1.2 billion for the Teacher Retirement System is included, this figure increases to 50.3 percent.

The state's share of the Foundation School Program totals $7.7 billion, representing an increase of 12.9 percent over the state's share for the current biennium. Funding for teachers' salaries is maintained at the level required under current law. Under the existing salary schedule, a teacher with a B.A. degree would receive step increases ranging from 2 percent at step 14 to 9.4 percent at step 8.

As in the current biennium, of the higher education funds public junior colleges received the largest increase. Junior colleges received a 25.7 percent increase compared to the 4 percent increase provided senior colleges and universities.

For programs outside the Foundation School Program, significant increases were provided in two areas. Funding for textbooks increased by $33.6 million over the current biennium, and funding for school community guidance centers increased to $3 million for the biennium.

Executive and administrative departments and agencies were appropriated $8.3 billion, or 27 percent of the state's total appropriation. This figure represents a 26 percent increase over the 1982-1983 biennium. One important provision of the appropriations act was increased funding in the area of corrections. Funding for the Board of Pardons and Paroles increased $29.2 million over the current biennium, or 65.6 percent. A portion of the additional funds will provide for additional parole officers and an increase in the cost per day for halfway house placements. The budget for the Adult Probation Commission increased 111 percent for the biennium, for a total of $114.6 million. Major increases occur in the state aid program and in the intensive supervision programs.

The Department of Public Safety received an increase in funds of 14.5 percent, for a total of $295.6 million. Agency personnel will increase by 104, with 40 highway patrol troopers to be added during the next biennium.

Public health, welfare, and rehabilitation agencies received $6.1 billion, or 20 percent of the state’s total appropriation for the next biennium. This figure represents a 15.8 percent increase in funding over the 1982-1983 biennium. Although no new health services are provided by the Texas Department of Health, there are significant changes in several areas, including an increase of $15.1 million for the biennium to maintain the current level of caseloads in the crippled children services program, an increase of $7.4 million for the biennium in general revenue to expand the early childhood intervention program, an increase of $8.0 million for the biennium in general revenue for the long term care program, and an increase of $4.5 million primarily in general revenue to replace lost federal funding in various programs.

The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation received $1.1 billion in general revenue funds, for an increase of 12.4 percent over the 1982-1983 biennium. Some significant issues addressed were an increase of $21.2 million in the state’s contribution to mental health and mental retardation centers sufficient... to improve all areas of service currently provided, an increase of $10.3 million to increase staff-to-client ratios and to provide staff to operate additional beds for mentally ill and mentally retarded persons, and $8.8 million to be used for projects throughout the system such as roof and paving repairs and utility improvements.

Another provision of the act includes an increase in the state employee salary schedule of 4 percent in fiscal 1984 and 3 percent in fiscal 1985. The same increases are provided to colleges and universities. Additional funds are included in the act to improve fringe benefits for state employees. The state's contribution for employee group insurance increases from $58 per month in fiscal 1983 to $70 per month in fiscal 1984 and $85 per month in fiscal 1985. Employees of higher education, junior colleges, and state agencies are included in the group insurance program.

A detailed analysis of this act and state government spending is presented in Fiscal Size Up, Summary of the 1984-85 State Budget prepared by the Legislative Budget Board.

SENATE BILL 668

Foreign merchandise is allowed into the United States within foreign trade zones without being subject to customs duties and regulations. Applications for foreign trade zones must come from a corporation in an area in or adjacent to ports of entry under United States jurisdiction. The Foreign Trade Zone Board will not grant approval for a corporation’s application without prior state approval. Senate Bill 769 authorizes the Midlothian Trade Zone Corporation to apply for and accept a grant to establish, operate, and maintain a foreign trade zone adjacent to the port limits of the Dallas-Fort Worth Port of Entry at Midlothian, Ellis County, and other subzones within Ellis County.

SENATE BILL 1321
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

The Business Opportunity Act, passed in 1981, was designed to protect Texas citizens from being defrauded by regulating the sale, lease, or transfer of business opportunities, such as franchises and distributorships. When the act was passed, “product franchises” or “package franchises” were considered to be adequately regulated by the Federal Trade Commission and were exempt from the act. Since then, the attorney general’s office has discovered that such businesses are not sufficiently regulated, and Senate Bill 1321 amends the act to remove from exemption the sale of “product franchises” or “package franchises.” The act also includes Texas state registered trademarks with federally registered trademarks for a partial exclusion from the definition of “business opportunity” and requires only the principal seller of a business opportunity to file disclosure statements with the secretary of state.

The subsidiary could receive consideration for indebtedness, rather than the parent company.

HOUSE BILL 622
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 622 amends the Texas Non-Profit Corporation Act by adding a definition of “state agency.” Corporations having a board member, other than one serving in an ex officio, nonvoting, or advisory capacity, who is also an official or employee of the affected state agency, with the exception of bona fide alumni associations, are subject to audit at the discretion of the state auditor. All other nonprofit corporations whose purpose is to assist a state agency must file an annual report with the secretary of state. Most state-related foundations were previously exempt from the requirement to maintain annual financial reports for public inspection and copying and from regular state inspections or audits.

SENATE BILL 420
EFFECTIVE: 5-20-83

Corporations doing business in Texas are required under the Texas Business Corporation Act to designate a registered agent as official contact for the corporation in Texas for the office of the secretary of state. The act provides standards for indemnification of a corporation's officers, directors, or former officers who become involved in litigation. It also clarifies accounting procedures for corporations and permits the directors of a corporation to fill a maximum of two board vacancies created when the number of positions on the board is increased. Previous law specified that only shareholders could fill vacancies on the board of directors.

HOUSE BILL 1372

Under previous law, officers, directors, and employees of a state or national bank in Texas having fewer than 500 shareholders are exempt from registration and licensing under The Securities Act. House Bill 1372 extends this exemption to officers, directors, and employees of bank holding companies having fewer than 500 shareholders that own the majority of voting shares of a bank domiciled in Texas. This act applies only to transactions occurring on or after the effective date of the act.

HOUSE BILL 2220
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Under previous law, there was no provision for a floating interest rate for public securities. House Bill 2220 allows this type of rate and defines the terms "bond years," "floating rate public securities," and "net interest cost" of floating rate public securities.
HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 29
FOR ELECTION:  11-6-84

House Joint Resolution 29 proposes a constitutional amendment that would grant state-chartered banks the same rights and privileges as nationally chartered banks domiciled in Texas.

SENATE BILL 405
SENATE AUTHOR:  McFarland
HOUSE SPONSOR:  Coody

Effective:  See below

Senate Bill 405 lowers interest-rate ceilings on bank credit card and retail credit card loans. Under previous law, the rate fluctuated between 18 and 24 percent. This act changes the interest-rate ceiling on bank credit cards to fluctuate between 14 and 22 percent. It also requires banks to use quarterly ceilings. Banks are permitted to charge interest from the date of purchase but may not charge cardholders an annual user's fee.

The interest-rate ceiling on retail credit cards will fluctuate between 18 and 21 percent per year. Retailers may not charge interest from the date of purchase but must instead allow borrowers one billing cycle to pay the balance on their accounts without added interest. The annual interest rate will be calculated by the consumer credit commissioner as the average of weekly United States Treasury bill auction rates for the three months prior to computation rather than the 12 months as provided by previous law.

The provisions of Senate Bill 405 presented above are effective July 1, 1983. All other provisions of this act take effect May 24, 1983.

This act permits state and national banks and state and federal savings and loan associations to make small consumer loans without obtaining a license from the consumer credit commissioner. In addition, the regulatory authority of the Office of Consumer Credit Commissioner over pawnshops is outlined.

This act also authorizes the continuation of the Office of Consumer Credit Commissioner. The provisions of the remaining sections are discussed in the chapter on sunset review.

HOUSE SPONSOR:  C. Evans

SENATE AUTHOR:  Brown
HOUSE SPONSOR:  Coody

Effective:  5-20-83

SENATE BILL 488
SENATE AUTHOR:  Harris
HOUSE SPONSOR:  C. Evans

Effective:  8-29-83

Senate Bill 488 amends The Texas Banking Code of 1943 to provide that the banking commissioner may assess and collect from each bank an annual fee, based on total assets, to cover the operating expenses of the Banking Department of Texas and enforcement of the code. The fees will be deposited in a special fund in the state treasury to be known as the banking department expense fund. It also removes the requirement that a bank's statement of financial condition must be sworn to by an officer or employee of the bank and attested to by at least three directors.

Banks are permitted to secure loans by a real estate lien other than a first lien. For example, a bank may secure a home improvement loan with a real estate lien even if there is a mortgage lien on the property.

Current law states that no state bank may permit any person or corporation to become liable to it in excess of 25 percent of its capital and certified surplus, with certain exemptions. Senate Bill 488 adds to the list of exemptions indebtedness secured by obligations issued or guaranteed by the United States having a market value of 100 percent of the indebtedness at all times and indebtedness fully secured by a segregated deposit account in the lending bank.

The Federal Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 gives the federal government authority to establish reserve requirements for all financial institutions. This bill removes reserve requirements at the state level. It also deletes the authority of the State Banking Board to close a bank.
The section of the banking code providing that certain mortgage banking institutions are subject to supervision by the banking commissioner is repealed. Finally, the act specifies restrictions on a state bank's investment in bank subsidiary corporations.

HOUSE BILL 1125
EFFECTIVE: See below
HOUSE AUTHOR: Hinojosa
SENATE SPONSOR: Uribe

The enterprise zone is a concept that attempts to deal with the problem of stagnant economic growth and high unemployment rates by offering incentives for businesses to locate or expand in areas most drastically affected by a faltering economy. Federal legislation has been introduced which would provide authorization for a limited number of federal enterprise zones to be designated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). House Bill 1125, also known as the Texas Enterprise Zone Act, provides for the creation, operation, and dissolution of enterprise zones and enables Texas to compete with other states for the award of enterprise zones as designated by HUD. It creates the Enterprise Zone Board and provides membership requirements and duties for the board. The board is subject to the Texas Sunset Act and, unless it is renewed, will be abolished September 1, 1995.

House Bill 1125 distinguishes between local and state-federal enterprise zones. Local zones are not eligible for the state tax incentives provided by this act. The benefits available to qualified businesses, qualified property, qualified employees, and neighborhood enterprise associations in both local and state-federal enterprise zones include: exemption from certain state agency regulations; reduction or elimination of certain local fees or taxes; preference over other eligible applicants for certain grants or loans that are administered by a state agency; authorization to issue development bonds as provided by the Act for Development of Employment, Industrial and Health Resources of 1971 and by the Development Corporation Act of 1979; and provision for three methods for disposing of any surplus building or vacant land owned by the state or a local government, including an urban homestead program.

This act permits individuals residing in an enterprise zone to establish a neighborhood enterprise association, as a nonprofit corporation, to provide certain public services. The administration of an enterprise zone is under the jurisdiction of the appropriate unit of local government.

Finally, the act amends the Tax Code; the Act for Development of Employment, Industrial and Health Resources of 1971; the Development Corporation Act of 1979; the Texas Tax Increment Financing Act of 1981; the Property Redevelopment and Tax Abatement Act; and the Local Sales and Use Tax Act to provide for certain tax and financing incentives to qualified businesses. However, because the state tax incentives are available only to state-federal enterprise zones, the sections amending the Tax Code take effect on the first day of the state fiscal year following the date on which the governor certifies that a federal enterprise zone law has been enacted. All other provisions of this bill take effect September 1, 1983.

SENEGAL BILL 1141
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Brown
HOUSE SPONSOR: Schlueter
Senate Bill 1141 amends the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission Code to address certain problems faced by motor vehicle dealers and to enforce warranty provisions. This act expands the definition of "motor vehicle" to include specialized engines and drive trains for heavy duty trucks. This allows dealers providing warranty service on such component equipment warranty enforcement for manufacturer reimbursement. The act also prohibits dealer members of the commission from being involved in hearings concerning franchise location or ownership of a dealership if the dealer member operates a franchise for the same parent manufacturer company as the dealership. Senate Bill 1141 prohibits charge-backs by motor vehicle manufacturers to dealers for warranty service performed unless the claim was false or fraudulent, the repairs were not properly made or were unnecessary to correct the defective condition, or the dealer failed to substantiate the claim.

The act provides protest procedures for franchisees if manufacturers attempt to block relocation of a franchise. This act also contains a provision of direct interest to consumers. This provision is commonly called the “lemon law.” If a defect in a motor vehicle that is under warranty has not been repaired after a reasonable attempt to obtain repairs by the owner, the manufacturer or distributor will have to replace the vehicle or refund the price, less an allowance for usage of the vehicle. It is presumed that the owner has made a reasonable attempt to obtain repairs if repair has been attempted four or more times during the warranty term or first year of ownership, whichever is earlier, or if the car has been out of service for repairs for a cumulative total of 30 days during the warranty term or first year of ownership, whichever is earlier. The defect in question must be one that “substantially impairs the use and market value” of the vehicle. The owner is required to notify the manufacturer or distributor in writing, and the manufacturer or distributor must be given the opportunity to fix the vehicle before having to replace it or refund the price before the owner is entitled to the presumption mentioned above. If the owner is unsatisfied with the dealer’s response, the case may be appealed to the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission. The commission must hold a hearing within six months after expiration of the warranty or first year of ownership. The commission shall determine responsibility for the refund or replacement. Manufacturers or distributors may not charge the cost to the dealers unless the commission so orders.

The “lemon” provision of Senate Bill 1141 applies only to new motor vehicles originally purchased after October 1, 1983.

SENATE BILL 1190

EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee

Previous law did not require that the attorney general be notified on the filing of any pleading in a civil case naming the State of Texas or any agency in the executive or legislative department as a party. Senate Bill 1190 seeks to lower the incidence of default judgments against the state by requiring service of pleadings on the attorney general as well as on any implicated state officer, board, commission, agency, or institution. Notice of suit must be served on the attorney general at his office in Austin by United States Postal Service, certified mail, return receipt requested, and notice of intent to take a default judgment must be served in the same manner at least 10 days prior to the date of the proposed default or the judgment against the state or the agency is void.

Parole

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 13  SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee
FOR ELECTION: 11-8-83  HOUSE SPONSOR: Rudd

This proposed amendment of Article IV, Section 11, of the Texas Constitution would make the following changes in the pardons and paroles process in Texas:

1. The composition of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, now required by the constitution to consist of one person appointed by the governor, one person appointed by the chief justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, and one person appointed by the presiding judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, would be changed to a composition authorized by the legislature;

2. Case law has interpreted the constitution and statutes as requiring the governor's approval before a parole is granted, and this amendment, in conjunction with amendments to the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1965, eliminates the need for that approval; and

3. The constitution currently authorizes the governor to revoke paroles, and this amendment eliminates that authorization.

This act broadens Texas statutory provisions relating to the duty of a county to provide physical facilities, equipment, and utilities for adult probation services. The act states that district judges may authorize the expenditure of district funds in addition to county funds if certain conditions exist. Under this act, the Texas Adult Probation Commission is to set the level of contributions counties must meet or exceed to receive district funds. That level of contributions must be equal to or higher than the average level of funding provided by the county during the county fiscal years 1979 through 1983. The act further states that if the probation department needs to expand and it is determined that effective management of the department requires the department to be moved to rented or leased space outside county-owned buildings, the county shall provide the funds necessary to pay for the same number of square feet provided to the department in county-owned buildings. This act also allows district judges to authorize the expenditure of funds provided by the Texas Adult Probation Commission for the purpose of funding facilities, equipment, and utilities for community-based correctional programs.

COURTS

General Legislation

HOUSE BILL 33
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Modern office technology has made it possible to transmit court documents electronically to a court that has the equipment to receive the transmission. This act provides for the electronic filing of documents with a district or county court or a court of appeals that has established a system for receiving electronically transmitted information from an electronic copying device. The supreme court must establish rules and procedures to regulate the use of electronic copying devices for filing in the courts. A court clerk who believes there is justification for use of an electronic filing system in his office is required to request approval from the supreme court.

HOUSE BILL 42
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This amendatory act provides that the small claims courts shall exercise concurrent jurisdiction with the justice of the peace courts in all actions for the recovery of money in which the amount in controversy does not exceed $1,000. This concurrent jurisdiction is extended to cases in which the claim is for wages or salary earned or for work or labor performed under any contract of employment. The act also repeals certain provisions relating to fees charged in the small claims courts and stipulates that those fees are the same as those provided by law for cases in justice courts.

HOUSE BILL 164
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act extends the civil jurisdiction of the justice courts to cases in which the amount in controversy does not exceed $1,000, exclusive of interest. The act seeks to reduce the docket load for the supreme court by establishing the courts of appeals as the final forum for appeals involving child custody and support as well as the issuance or dissolution of temporary injunctions. The act deletes a provision permitting direct appeal to the supreme court of district court orders based on the validity of administrative orders. Additional provisions are amended to broaden the authority of the courts of appeals and their justices to issue writs of mandamus to compel a district court judge to take or refrain from taking a particular action.

HOUSE BILL 2245

The act eliminates the need to enter orders on motions in the minutes of the court and also eliminates the requirement that costs collected by the court clerk be accounted for in the minutes of the court. A report of the costs is now required to be filed with the financial records of the court rather than with the minutes of the court.
SENATE BILL 36
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 36 increases the interest rates on judgments rendered by state courts. Under previous law, monetary judgments carried an annual interest rate of nine percent except when the judgment was based on a contract that specified a rate of interest, in which case the judgment carried the specified rate up to a maximum of 10 percent. This act provides for the interest rate on judgments to float with the rate on 52-week United States Treasury bills. This rate is specified to never go lower than 10 percent nor higher than 20 percent. The consumer credit commissioner is responsible for computing the rate and having it published in the Texas Register. In cases when a judgment is based on a contract that specified an interest rate, the rate on the judgment will be the lesser of the specified rate or 18 percent. This act does not apply to judgments that earn interest as set by Title 2 of the Tax Code. Finally, this act raises from nine percent to 10 percent the rate earned by the state on a judgment for delinquent taxes.

FOR ELECTION: 11-6-84

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment relating to the composition and powers of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct. If the voters approve this amendment, the membership of the commission will be altered by eliminating one of the two seats for court of appeals judges and one of the two seats for district judges and by assigning these seats to one county court at law judge and one municipal judge, to be chosen by the supreme court, subject to senate confirmation. The requirement that the supreme court select the commissioner representing justices of the peace from a list of five names submitted by the Justice of the Peace and Constable Association would be deleted.

The provisions for removing from office any justice or judge of a court established by the state constitution or by the legislature would be expanded to include wilful or persistent violation of the rules of the supreme court, wilful violation of the Code of Judicial Conduct, or incompetence in performing the duties of office. In addition, a judge may be disciplined or censured in lieu of removal. Under current law, a judge or justice is immediately suspended from office upon being indicted for a felony offense. This amendment adds being charged with a misdemeanor involving official misconduct to the grounds for suspension.

The proposed amendment would expand the authority of the commission to include masters or magistrates appointed to assist judges and retired or former judges who may continue to hear cases. The commission or the review tribunal may prohibit a retired or former judge from holding future judicial office or from receiving a future assignment. The commission may also issue a private or public warning, reprimand, or requirement that the person obtain additional training or education. A recommendation by the commission for removal or retirement will be referred to a review tribunal composed of seven judges of the courts of appeals who are randomly selected by the chief justice of the supreme court. The review tribunal must take action within 90 days after the report is filed. A justice, judge, master, or magistrate may appeal a decision of the review tribunal to the supreme court under the substantial evidence rule, meaning that the supreme court will review the record to determine if the evidence was sufficient to support the tribunal's findings.

House Joint Resolution 4 proposes to retain the confidentiality of records in judicial misconduct cases, unless otherwise provided by law. Following the institution of formal charges, a judge will have the right to discovery of evidence against him.

The proposed amendment also states that no person shall sit as a member of the commission in any proceeding involving disciplinary action against himself and removes the requirement stating that a commission recommendation concerning a supreme court justice be considered by a tribunal of seven court of appeals judges, rather than by the supreme court.

Finally, a temporary provision is included that addresses the method of changing the composition of the commission. If the amendment is approved by the voters on November 6, 1984, it takes effect January 1, 1985.

HOUSE BILL 44
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act amends certain statutory provisions relating to the discipline of judges and to the powers, duties, and procedures of the State Commission on Judicial Conduct. The act broadens provisions describing what constitutes conduct inconsistent with the performance of a judge's duties. A judge is now considered to engage in that conduct if he wilfully violates a provision of the Texas penal statutes or the Code of Judicial Conduct, persistently or wilfully violates the rules promulgated by the Supreme Court of Texas, or is incompetent in the performance of his duties of the office. The commission is required to inform the judge of the commencement and completion of an investigation as well as of the nature of the matters investigated. If the commission concludes that formal proceedings shall be instituted, written notice must be issued to the judge without delay. This notice must specify the charges against the judge, the alleged facts on which the charges are based, and the specific statute or rule the judge is charged with violating. Rules are provided for the service of this notice on the judge, and it is stipulated that, in the conduct of the investigations and formal proceedings, the judge may elect to have any hearing open to the public or to persons designated by him.

The commission is also required to notify the complainant of the disposition of the complaint. Unless formal proceedings have been instituted, this notification may not contain the judge's name. Papers filed with the proceedings before the commission are confidential prior to the convening of a formal hearing; however, the papers and proceedings are public after the hearing is convened.

The commission is further required to submit an annual report to the legislature and to cause the report to be printed in the Annual Report of the Texas Judicial Council and in the Texas Bar Journal. This report, which must contain particular matters relating to the activities of the commission, is to be prepared and distributed at state expense.

This act creates new law to authorize the assignment of judges of the statutory probate courts to other courts having probate jurisdiction. The act states that a presiding judge must be elected from among the other statutory probate judges. The presiding judge, for whom adequate facilities must be provided by the commissioners court of the county in which he resides, is responsible for the assignment of judges. Judges subject to assignment include both current and retired judges of the statutory probate courts. These judges may be assigned to another court when: the regular judge requests an assignment; the regular judge is absent, disabled, or disqualified; the regular judge is present and trying cases; or the office of the regular judge is vacant by reason of death, resignation, or other cause. An assigned judge has the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties of the regular judge. The act also includes provisions for the compensation, expenses, and per diem of assigned judges. The presiding judge is required to call and preside over an annual meeting of the statutory probate judges and is permitted to call additional meetings that he considers necessary for the promotion of the orderly and efficient administration of justice. This act will take effect only if the constitutional amendment proposed by House Joint Resolution 70, 68th Legislature, Regular Session, 1983, is approved by the voters.

Jurors

HOUSE BILL 176
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Under existing state law, a person who is legally blind is not disqualified to serve as a juror solely by reason of his legal blindness. However, the person could formerly be disqualified unless the court, all parties to the suit, and the prospective juror himself agreed that his blindness did not render him unfit to act as a juror. House Bill 176 amends the law to grant the trial judge sole discretion to determine if a person's blindness renders him unfit for jury service in a particular civil or criminal case.

House Bill 176 also adds a new article to the Revised Statutes to allow the judge of a district court to excuse a person from jury service for a physical or mental impairment or for the inability to comprehend the English language. A person requesting to be so excused must submit an affidavit and, in some instances, a physician's statement to the district court. The clerk of the court must notify the county tax assessor-collector of each person excused and the county tax assessor-collector must maintain a current register of these persons.

HOUSE BILL 533

This act provides for the impaneling of alternate jurors in district and county courts. The act authorizes alternate jurors to replace regular jurors who, prior to the time the jury retires to consider its verdict, become or are found to be unable or disqualified to perform their duties. If alternate jurors are impaneled, as may be directed by the judge, a certain number of additional peremptory challenges are permitted but must be used only against the alternate jurors. Alternate jurors have the same qualifications, functions, powers, and privileges as regular jurors. An alternate juror who does not replace a regular juror shall be discharged after the jury retires to consider its verdict.

This act also amends an article of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1965, that provides that in district court misdemeanor cases, a verdict may be rendered by as few as nine rather than the regular 12 jurors if one or more jurors have been discharged. The act stipulates that a verdict may be rendered by as few as nine jurors only if all the alternate jurors are included among the nine or have been discharged.

SENATE AUTHOR: Parmer, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: L. Hall

This act seeks to minimize the intimidation that a child might experience when serving as a witness in certain civil and criminal proceedings involving a parent or other person who has allegedly sexually or otherwise abused the child. The act provides for the admissibility, under certain conditions, of a visual and aural recording of a child 12 years of age or under made prior to the courtroom proceedings and further provides for the taking of the child's testimony in a room other than the courtroom to be televised in the courtroom via closed circuit equipment. Throughout the recording procedures, a protection is sought for the child from hearing or seeing the defendant while a protection is also sought for the defendant from any abridgment of his constitutional right to face his accuser.

The act also allows certain persons empowered to take possession of a child without a court order to take possession on personal knowledge or on information corroborated by personal knowledge of facts that would lead a person of ordinary prudence and caution to believe that the child has been sexually abused. A person taking possession is required to request the court to appoint a guardian ad litem for the child and the court is required to find that there is a "continuing danger" to the child if evidence of sexual abuse is visible and such abuse is likely to occur again.

SENATE BILL 7
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

Under prior law, if a defendant accused of a crime claimed that he was insane at the time of the crime, he had to prove either that he did not know his conduct was wrong or that he was incapable of conforming his conduct to the law. If a jury acquitted a defendant on the basis of one of these conditions, the judge could, if he deemed the defendant to be mentally ill, transfer him to civil court for commitment proceedings. If the civil court declared the defendant to be a danger to himself or others, it could then commit him to a mental health or mental retardation facility. Once inside the facility, judicial discretion ceased and the facility director could confine or release the patient as his judgment dictated.

This act amends the law to restrict the insanity defense in criminal prosecutions to only those defendants who, as a result of severe mental illness, did not know that their conduct was wrong. The act also eliminates civil commitment proceedings for defendants who are found not guilty by reason of insanity and who are determined to have committed an act, attempt, or threat of serious bodily injury to another person. In lieu of civil proceedings, the defendant is sent to a maximum security facility designated by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. Within 30 days, the original trial court must hold a hearing to determine whether to confine the patient or to release him on an out-patient treatment basis. If the patient is confined, he may be released only at the request of the hospital director and with the concurrence of the trial court. The patient may not be confined for a period longer than the maximum sentence provided for the crime committed.

The council, which is to be abolished on September 1, 1989, must report annually and make any recommendations it considers appropriate to the governor, lieutenant governor, and speaker of the house of representatives.

SENATE BILL 302
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

Under previous law, all persons committed to a mental health or mental retardation facility pursuant to provisions under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1965, have been temporarily committed to a maximum security unit. Also under prior law, there have been no provisions clarifying procedures to be followed when a defendant initially found incompetent to stand trial was discharged from a facility and returned to the court but was again found incompetent to stand trial.

This act amends the law to provide that persons charged with misdemeanor offenses and committed to a mental health facility be placed in the facility serving the area in which the committing court is located while persons charged with misdemeanor offenses and committed to a mental retardation facility be placed in a maximum security unit for no longer than 60 days pending alternate placement. The act also provides that, when a defendant is discharged from a facility as competent to stand trial and is again found incompetent to stand trial, the court may civilly recommit the defendant.

EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act allows a judge to sentence a prisoner convicted of a third-degree felony or an offense punishable by confinement in county jail to an alternate term in the county jail work release program of the county in which the offense was committed. The judge may pronounce such a sentence only if it is determined, on the defendant's request for a special issue, that the defendant did not cause bodily injury or death of another and if the prosecuting attorney makes a written request that the defendant be sentenced to the county jail work release program. A defendant sentenced to the county jail work release program may earn good conduct credit and, if the defendant would otherwise be sentenced to the Texas Department of Corrections, the defendant may also become eligible for release on parole or mandatory supervision.

Under this act, the sheriff must attempt to secure employment for each prisoner sentenced to the county jail work release program. If the sheriff fails to find employment for a prisoner who would otherwise be incarcerated in the Texas Department of Corrections, he may transfer the prisoner to another county jail work release program. A prisoner's salary shall be paid to the sheriff and shall be given to the prisoner on his release after deducting the prisoner's county incarceration costs, costs of restitution to the victim, and support costs of the prisoner's dependents.

HOUSE BILL 1191
HOUSE AUTHOR: C. Evans
SENATE SPONSOR: Farabee

During the regular session of the 67th Legislature, several substantive and procedural laws concerning the manufacture, distribution, dispensing, possession, and delivery of marihuana, controlled substances, and drug paraphernalia were enacted as part of the governor's war-on-drugs package. So many bills were aimed at a major revision of the Texas Controlled Substances Act, characterized by stronger penalties, newly created offenses, and changes in regard to the seizure and forfeiture of personal property, that the act has contained duplications and apparent contradictions in language. House Bill 1191 seeks to resolve these duplications and apparent contradictions while also providing a definition for the word "believes" which was placed in the act by the 67th Legislature. House Bill 1191 also reenacts several provisions challenged in the courts on the basis that they were not covered in the 67th Legislature's bill caption and provides for the expiration of certain provisions of the Texas Controlled Substances Act if not reenacted by December 31, 1985.

SENATE BILL 108
SENATE AUTHOR: Vale
HOUSE SPONSOR: Madla

Several over-the-counter drugs have been advertised and promoted on the market as controlled substances even though they have actually been chemically different from these substances. Senate Bill 627 seeks to minimize the abuse of such "look-alike" drugs by declaring it a third degree felony to deliver or to manufacture with the intent to deliver a simulated controlled substance. Evidentiary rules are provided for determining whether a person has represented a simulated controlled substance as a controlled substance and certain defenses to prosecution are provided for peace officers and for medical practitioners or persons authorized to dispense or administer controlled substances. The act also states that simulated controlled substances are subject to forfeiture and disposition in the same manner as are controlled substances under the Texas Controlled Substances Act.

SENATE BILL 688
SENATE AUTHOR: Santiesteban
HOUSE SPONSOR: D. Lee

Under the Texas Controlled Substances Act, the Texas Board of Health was required to establish a controlled substances therapeutic research program for the supervised use of tetrahydrocannabinols and to appoint a review board to review research proposals and maintain records regarding the research program.

This act amends the law to make the establishment of a therapeutic research program and review board optional rather than mandatory. It is declared that the manufacture, delivery, and possession of tetrahydrocannabinols, their derivatives, or drug paraphernalia for such a therapeutic research program is lawful. The act also protects certain persons from prosecution on the state level for their participation in a federally approved therapeutic research program which the commissioner of health has reviewed and has found, in writing, to contain a medically responsible research protocol.
The controlled substance methaqualone is transferred to Schedule I from Schedule II of the Texas Controlled Substances Act. Substances listed under Schedule I not only are prohibited from possession or use by the general public but also are prohibited from being dispensed or administered through a practitioner's written prescription.

HOUSE BILL 2008
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Under previous law, provisions for offenses related to rape and sexual abuse have been included in the Sexual Offenses Chapter of the Penal Code along with provisions for such offenses as public lewdness and indecent exposure. These provisions have been written in masculine gender language which has made classification of the offenses dependent on the sex of the actor and the victim.

House Bill 2008 redefines offenses related to rape and sexual abuse as assaultive offenses by repealing certain sections of the Sexual Offenses Chapter and by replacing these sections with two new sections under the Assaultive Offenses Chapter of the Penal Code. These two new sections, entitled “Sexual Assault” and “Aggravated Sexual Assault,” revise the classification and elements of as well as the penalties for the offenses of rape, aggravated rape, rape of a child, sexual abuse, aggravated sexual abuse, and sexual abuse of a child. The sections also stipulate what consent is and provide certain defenses to prosecution. House Bill 2008 additionally revises the elements of the offense of capital murder to include murder committed in the course of committing aggravated sexual assault and amends the language of provisions to be written in neuter gender.

HOUSE BILL 2352
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This amendatory act seeks to make the acceptance of a bribe by a fiduciary a criminal offense regardless of whether such acceptance can be shown to have resulted in harm to the beneficiary or to have constituted a breach of the fiduciary’s duty. The act provides that a fiduciary commits a criminal offense if, without the consent of his beneficiary, he solicits, accepts, or agrees to accept a benefit taken to influence his conduct in relation to his beneficiary. The act further provides that punishment for this offense may include a fine equal to double the value of the benefit gained by the fiduciary.

HOUSE BILL 2398
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act declares that it is a misdemeanor offense to make, provide, or possess a card or document that identifies a person as a peace officer or a reserve law enforcement officer with the knowledge that the person so identified is not actually certified or licensed as a peace officer or reserve law enforcement officer. The act also defines “reserve law enforcement officer” and provides certain defenses to prosecution for this offense.

SENATE BILL 1
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

Senate Bill 1 is a wide-ranging measure that stiffens the penalties for drunken driving while making it easier to prosecute such cases. The act changes the procedure, sentencing structure, and punishment alternatives that apply to the criminal offenses of driving while intoxicated (DWI), driving under the influence of drugs (DUID), and involuntary manslaughter involving the operation of a motor vehicle while intoxicated (DWI involuntary manslaughter).
Among its major provisions, the act requires suspension of an individual’s driver’s license upon conviction of a DWI offense, following a specific scheme for first, second, and third offenses. It also provides for an offender a method of reporting completion of an educational program designed to rehabilitate persons with DWI convictions.

The act amends the definition of intoxication to include a blood alcohol concentration of .10 percent or more. It provides a new schedule of punishments that increases minimum fines and jail terms. The act also authorizes the taking of blood or breath tests to determine alcohol concentration and provides that refusal to submit to such a test may be used against an offender in court.

The court now is prevented from granting deferred adjudication to a DWI offender. Deferred adjudication allowed the DWI conviction not to be entered on a driver’s record if the driver successfully completed probation. Therefore, some repeat offenders were able under current law to accumulate multiple DWI offenses without facing stiffer penalties.

The act provides for a rehabilitation plan for DWI offenders and requires mandatory jail time for second and third offenses and in case of serious bodily injury or DWI involuntary manslaughter. The court now must send a convicted person to jail, even if probation is granted in these instances, and also must require the offender to undergo rehabilitation evaluation. Defendants facing DWI or DWI involuntary manslaughter charges are prevented from being placed on community service restitution probation, which in the past served as another kind of deferred adjudication.

Another provision of the act disallows early probation release for defendants with DWI or DWI involuntary manslaughter convictions. A defendant now must serve full probation if convicted of these offenses. If a jury assesses probation of a first offense DWI conviction and the defendant's license is not suspended, the defendant is required to complete successfully a DWI educational course. If the course is completed, the jury may permit the defendant to keep his license.

The act creates a misdemeanor offense if a person loans a vehicle to another person whose license has been suspended for a DWI-related offense. It also provides for discretionary forfeiture of a vehicle by a person who receives a DWI conviction while serving probation for an earlier DWI offense. The vehicle may be forfeited only if the offender owns the vehicle and was using it at the time of the offense. This forfeiture procedure is optional with the court and applies only to fourth offenders and those convicted of a DWI offense while on probation for DWI involuntary manslaughter.

The act provides for license suspension of a repeat DWI juvenile offender for one year, or until legal drinking age is attained, whichever period is longer. A first offender minor is subject to the same license suspension provisions as an adult.

Another provision of the act authorizes an insurance premium surcharge for first offense DWI offenders; the surcharge may be assessed for up to three years following conviction. Upon a subsequent DWI conviction, the surcharge must be assessed for three additional years if the subsequent offense occurs during the period of the first surcharge.

Other important provisions of the act include requiring an evaluation for alcohol or drug dependency for a person charged with a first offense for DWI; allowing certain county courts to transfer misdemeanor DWI cases to another county court or to district court if the judge is not an attorney; allowing the court to require offenders convicted of DWI or DWI involuntary manslaughter offenses who are placed on probation to participate in a community service program; and requiring counties with a population of 25,000 or more to buy and use videotape equipment to record persons who have been arrested for DWI or DUID offenses.

SENATE BILL 22

SENATE AUTHOR: Doggett
HOUSE SPONSOR: Criss

This act amends the Penal Code to define “armor-piercing ammunition” and to declare that it is a criminal offense to intentionally or knowingly possess, manufacture, transport, repair, or sell such ammunition. By prohibiting armor-piercing ammunition, the act prohibits such handgun ammunition as Teflon-coated bullets which are designed primarily for the purpose of penetrating metal or body armor and which are capable of piercing a type of bulletproof vest used by many law enforcement officers. The act also provides a defense to prosecution for persons whose conduct in dealing with armor-piercing ammunition is solely for the purpose of making the ammunition available to the armed forces, national guard, a governmental law enforcement agency, or a penal institution.

An accomplice to a felony offense, upon whose uncorroborated testimony a conviction may be had, may be required to furnish evidence or to testify about the offense but may not then be prosecuted for the offense. A defense to prosecution is provided for persons who cause a dog fight to protect property, including livestock, or to protect a person. Provisions are also enacted for the destruction of dogs, if necessary, by a licensed veterinarian as well as for the destruction or forfeiture to the state of dog-fighting equipment.

SENATE BILL 1096
EFFECTIVE: 5-27-83

Many school districts are suffering financially due to high outstanding debt from bonds issued when interest rates were much higher. Now that interest rates are lower, school districts wish to issue new, lower-interest-rate bonds, called refunding bonds, to retire the debt created by the high interest rate bonds. Senate Bill 1096 expands the provisions of the Education Code relating to refunding bonds. The interest rate on the new bonds may not exceed that of the bonds to be refunded and the total debt service on the refunding bonds must be less than that on the bonds to be refunded. The refunding bonds may be issued and delivered in lieu of those to be refunded. They may also be sold for cash to pay the principal and interest to accrue on the refunding bonds to maturity or to redeem any bonds being refunded before maturity including principal, any redemption premium, and the interest accrued to the redemption date. This gives school districts the opportunity to sell low interest bonds and invest the proceeds from the sale until the call date of the bonds to be refunded, which may be several years away. If the new bonds are sold for cash, the proceeds from the sale are placed in an escrow account in an amount sufficient to provide for payment or redemption of the bonds to be refunded. Deposits in the escrow accounts may be invested only in direct obligations of the United States. Refunding bonds may be sold at public or private sale and may be issued to retire any bonds scheduled to mature or that may be redeemed not more than 20 years from the date of the refunding bonds. The interest rate on the refunding bonds is determined by the governing board of the school district or by the local commissioners court.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 19
FOR ELECTION: 11-6-84
HOUSE AUTHORITY: Delco
SENATE SPONSOR: Parker
House Joint Resolution 19 proposes a constitutional amendment to provide funding for the support of all state institutions of higher learning. When the state property tax was repealed in 1982, the state institutions of higher learning that relied on state property tax revenues for financing construction were left without dedicated funding for construction and related activities. This proposed amendment would appropriate $100 million annually from the general revenue fund for a higher education fund to support construction and other designated purposes at the state universities ineligible to benefit from the permanent university fund.
Additionally, this amendment proposes a change in the structure of the permanent university fund by allowing all branches of The Texas A&M University System and The University of Texas System to benefit from the bonds issued under the permanent university fund for construction and related activities. Prairie View A&M University would also receive an additional appropriation of $6 million annually for 10 years from the available university fund.
Should this amendment be adopted, no state institution of higher learning would receive any funds from the general revenue fund for construction or other designated purposes except in the case of fire or natural disaster or by special legislative appropriation.

SENATE SPONSOR: Washington
The act exempts the presiding election judge and election clerks at a central counting station from the qualifications and disqualifications, except for being related to a candidate, that apply to the other judges and clerks. The disqualification as to relationship, however, does not apply if the candidate is the county clerk. The act also changes the requirement that election clerks at a counting station be residents of the county to a requirement that they be qualified voters of the county.

HOUSE BILL 1269
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Uher
SENATE SPONSOR: Sharp
This act increases from 3,000 to 5,000 the maximum number of registered voters in election precincts that use voting machines or electronic voting systems in counties of less than 175,000 population.

HOUSE BILL 1293
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: E. F. Lee
SENATE SPONSOR: Doggett
The act increases from $3 per unit to $5 per unit the maximum fee that may be charged by the county to political parties for the use of a county-owned electronic voting system.

SENATE BILL 67
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE SPONSOR: Mauzy
HOUSE SPONSOR: Gandy
The act allows a candidate for the office of precinct chairman to file his application for a place on the ballot during the 90 days immediately before the filing deadline rather than during the 30 days before the deadline. The act also prohibits the county chairman from being reimbursed for expenses incurred in processing early filings by those candidates.
SENATE BILL 122
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

This act changes the last day that a candidate's name may be removed from the ballot from the 45th day to the 65th day before general election day. The act also provides that a political party may not make a substitute nomination following the declination of the nomination unless the nominee declines because of a catastrophic illness evidenced by a doctor's certificate.

SENATE BILL 587
EFFECTIVE:  6-19-83

The act requires each voter registrar, not later than the 90th day before primary and general election day, to deliver to the secretary of state, for updating the master voter file, a list of additions, deletions, and changes that have occurred in the lists of registered voters since the registrar's last report. The voter registrar must comply with this new duty in order to receive a state warrant from the comptroller of public accounts for voter registration. The act also requires the voter registrar to send to the secretary of state, on or before September 15 of each even-numbered year, a list of persons who were on the list of returned registration certificates indicating the status of each registration after August 15.

Miscellaneous

HOUSE BILL 1006
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

The provisions dealing with contested legislative elections leave some questions unresolved. For example, what happens if the election contest is withdrawn, and may a contestee take the oath of office and be seated if the election contest is still pending? Also, the law was vague as to the timing of certain procedures, such as when a master of discovery is appointed and when the election contest is referred to a committee. This act resolves these questions.

HOUSE BILL 1818
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

To prevent surprise in a primary election contest, the act requires "due diligence" to be exercised in the service of process on the contestee and requires a copy of the papers served to be mailed to the contestee when the contestee has not been served in person. The act also changes the deadline for filing an answer in the contest from five days after the filing of the contest to five days after the date of service on the contestee. Finally, the act provides that failure to file an answer by the deadline is not a ground for a default judgment and a contestee may plead orally in court if the trial date is within the period for filing the answer.

SENATE BILL 664
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

This act changes the composition of a re-count committee for paper ballots from three to at least four disinterested registered voters.

SENATE BILL 1228
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

The act deletes language providing a formula for selecting delegates to a political party's county, senatorial district, and state conventions and requires that the delegates be selected in accordance with party rules.
ENERGY

Besides the enactments summarized in this chapter, the 68th Legislature considered sunset renewal legislation for several state agencies having duties in the area of energy. The Public Utility Commission of Texas, with regulatory authority over electric utilities, and the Railroad Commission of Texas, with regulatory authority over gas utilities and various forms of energy extraction and conveyance, were both renewed. The Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, with administrative authority over various federal and state energy programs, was allowed to expire, however. Some of its energy duties, including those conferred by Senate Bill 360 found in this chapter, are to be assumed by the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The chapter on sunset legislation discusses the sunset process and includes pertinent summaries of renewal legislation for the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Senate Bill 232) and Railroad Commission of Texas (House Bill 593). Renewal legislation for the Texas Department of Community Affairs (Senate Bill 515) confers on that agency certain other energy functions.

Oil and Gas

HOUSE BILL 1775
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Hanna
SENATE SPONSOR: Traeger

Until now, Texas law has offered recipients of oil and gas royalties little support in seeking timely payment of royalties, nor have royalty payment deadlines usually been written into oil and gas leases. House Bill 1775 addresses this situation. It requires: (1) an initial royalty payment to be made within 120 days of the end of the month in which the first sale of oil or gas from a well occurs; and (2) subsequent payments to be made within 60 days of the end of each month in which oil sales occur and within 90 days of the end of each month in which gas sales occur. An exception to these requirements is provided if the accrued amount due is less than $25, in which case payment may be made annually. Exceptions also are provided if there are certain title questions or title disputes. Otherwise, late payments are subject to an interest penalty based on the lending rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank or on a rate of interest established by written agreement. With 30 days' notice, a royalty owner may sue to obtain payment. House Bill 1775 does not apply to royalties payable to the State of Texas.

HOUSE BILL 846
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Craddick
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

A security interest is a legal instrument that provides to a seller a priority claim on the assets of a purchaser who defaults on a payment because of insololvency or some other reason. In most cases, Texas law requires the filing of a “financing statement” to legally establish the security interest. This act protects oil and gas operators and holders of oil and gas royalties by creating an automatic security interest in their behalf, without the prerequisite of financing statements, if their respective interests in an oil or gas well are evidenced by a deed, mineral lease, or other filed document. Also, the act creates a lien to secure the rights of the persons granted this automatic security interest, and to secure all state taxes that are due on the oil and gas. The act establishes an order of precedence among these security interests, liens, and other competing claims, and governs the priority by which they are to be settled.

HOUSE BILL 687

HOUSE AUTHOR: G. Hill, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Uribe

Marginal oil wells, which are exempt from certain production limits imposed by the Railroad Commission of Texas, are those that can achieve only modest production in spite of the use of pumps or other supportive systems. They are defined according to maximum daily production and well depth, based on a test production period. This act shortens the test period from 30 to 10 consecutive days.

HOUSE BILL 1277
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Clark
SENATE SPONSOR: Farabee

This act authorizes the Railroad Commission of Texas, through its administrative process, to levy civil penalties for violations of safety standards pertaining to gas pipelines and gas transportation. The commission is directed to consider the violator's past record in determining the amount of the fine, the maximum for which shall be $10,000 per day of violation. The act requires that fined parties seeking judicial review of the commission’s administrative action post a bond or pay into an escrow account pending a judicial determination in the matter.

This act gives the Railroad Commission of Texas safety regulatory jurisdiction with respect to the intrastate pipeline transportation of certain hazardous liquids. Those liquids include petroleum, petroleum products, and other federally designated liquids, other than liquefied natural gas. The act requires the commission to adopt rules setting safety standards compatible with standards of the United States Department of Transportation. Such rules apply to intrastate pipeline transportation of hazardous liquids and to related pipeline facilities, though not to gathering lines, manufacturing or refining facilities, or in-plant piping systems associated with manufacturing or refining facilities. Owners and operators of pipelines carrying hazardous liquids are required to keep various records for examination by the commission and must allow commission officials to enter their properties for purposes of determining safety compliance. Violators of the act, including those who damage or attempt to damage pipelines carrying hazardous liquids, are subject to criminal and civil penalties. The act preempts local safety ordinances pertaining to such pipelines, except that cities retain ordinance-making authority to establish conditions for pipeline placement near public streets or alleys within city limits.

In situ mining involves injection of a fluid into the mined material, in order to bring it to the surface in dissolved form. This act recognizes the Railroad Commission of Texas as having regulatory jurisdiction over injection wells for in situ recovery of tar sands, a source of hydrocarbon fuel. Clarification of this authority is necessary because the Texas Department of Water Resources also regulates certain types of injection wells. The act validates permits previously issued by either agency for in situ recovery of tar sands and directs pending permit applications to the railroad commission.

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

Under prior law, a landowner having a mineral interest in an oil or gas well could be held responsible for plugging the well upon its abandonment. House Bill 2135 relieves landowners entirely of this responsibility. Plugging is instead the responsibility of the prior operator of the well, other parties who had a working interest in the well, or if neither the operator nor other parties are available, the Railroad Commission of Texas.

State law requires a license from the Railroad Commission of Texas for certain activities relating to liquefied petroleum gas (LPG). This act amends a provision that exempted from the license requirement all sales of LPG containers below a certain size, so that the exemption applies only to sales of new containers of that size or smaller. The act also reduces monetary penalties for first offenses under the LPG statutes, reserving the previous level of penalties only for subsequent offenses.

Pursuant to certain federal laws and regulations, House Bill 2194 extends the regulatory authority of the Railroad Commission of Texas to review and approve applications of gas utilities to purchase natural gas produced by an affiliate in the federal offshore areas of the Gulf of Mexico. The price charged the distributor is presumed to be reasonable if it: (1) does not exceed the price permitted under federal regulations; or (2) in the absence of federal regulation, does not exceed the price for offshore gas charged to parties who are affiliated with the producer. Persons challenging the price have the burden of showing that it is not reasonable.

Use of compressed natural gas (CNG) to fuel school buses and other public transit vehicles is expanding in Texas. Senate Bill 617 gives the Railroad Commission of Texas safety regulatory authority over this fuel.
Licenses from the commission are required for the manufacture, sale, installation, or repair of CNG equipment. Also, training and examination of persons to be employed in these activities is required.

Registration with the commission is required for motor vehicles operating on, or used to transport, CNG. Senate Bill 617 calls for the cooperation of the Department of Public Safety in enforcing the chapter's provisions and commission rules. Criminal penalties are provided for each day of violation and for higher administrative penalties in the case of violations that pollute the air or water or pose a threat to public safety. Miscellaneous provisions require that CNG be odorized and that a registered CNG motor vehicle carry a conspicuous warning tag.

SENATE BILL 946
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act addresses potential conflicts, in expanding urban areas, between the use of outlying land for mineral exploitation and the use of that land for urban development. The act applies to unincorporated areas in counties with a population of 400,000 or more (Bexar, Dallas, El Paso, Harris, Tarrant, and Travis) and to adjacent counties with a population of 140,000 or more (Brazoria, Collin, Denton, and Galveston), and provides that the surface owner of a parcel of land of 160 acres or less, on approval of the Railroad Commission of Texas and the filing of a plat with the county clerk, may create a "qualified subdivision" on the parcel that includes two or more "operations sites" to be set aside for mineral exploration and development. Each operations site would include at least two acres, and owners of associated mineral interests would be guaranteed access by road and pipeline easements. The rest of the parcel would be reserved for residential, commercial, or industrial use unless, within three years, the surface owner failed to sell any lots or construct any roads or utilities. The new law does not affect, in incorporated areas, the authority of cities generally to approve subdivision plats or the authority of home-rule cities specifically to regulate exploration or development of mineral interests.

Summaries of other enactments relating to oil and gas can be found in other chapters of this publication. House Bill 2112 and House Bill 2005, found in the chapter on environment, are intended to mitigate the impact of oil well operations on surrounding water supplies. Senate Bill 739 and Senate Bill 643, found in the chapter on public lands, amend procedures for oil and gas leases on state-owned lands. Finally, Senate Bill 617, found in the chapter on transportation, extends the regulatory authority of the Railroad Commission of Texas to encompass compressed natural gas used as a fuel for motor vehicles.

Energy Conservation and Efficiency

SENATE BILL 1140
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 1140 directs the Public Utility Commission of Texas to adopt, prior to March, 1984, statewide efficiency standards for the performance rating and certification of solar energy equipment. Under prior law this equipment has been exempt from state sales taxes, but in order to continue to qualify for that exemption, it must now meet the commission's standards. Site-built solar energy equipment, however, is not subject to the standards.

HOUSE BILL 651

The Texas Housing Agency was created by the 65th Legislature in 1979 to finance housing loans for low-income individuals and low- to moderate-income families. House Bill 651 allows the agency to assist in making financing available to those parties for the purchase, installation, or repair of energy conservation devices or renewable energy systems. It amends the Texas Housing Agency Act's definition of "mortgage loans" to include all liens.

SENATE BILL 360
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 360 designates, as a resource center to assist school districts in developing energy-efficient facilities, the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council (TENRAC) or a successor agency.
TENRAC is being abolished in 1983, as explained in the sunset chapter. Consequently, based on provisions of Senate Bill 232 renewing the Public Utility Commission of Texas, summarized in the chapter on sunset legislation, these assistance responsibilities and certain other energy responsibilities will be transferred to the latter agency. The activities of the resource center are to be funded to the extent possible by money obtained from settlements in oil overcharge litigation.

A 1977 Texas law adopted to foster energy conservation requires that construction plans for new apartment complexes provide for individual metering of each dwelling unit. Senate Bill 1408 exempts from that law any apartment complex constructed by a nonprofit organization for the low-income elderly if savings evidenced by engineering and cost data are passed on to the prospective tenants.

Three other pieces of energy conservation legislation are found in the chapter on environment. House Bill 1719, Senate Bill 649, and Senate Bill 317 deal with the recovery of energy and other resources from solid wastes.

Energy Utilities and Cooperatives

HOUSE BILL 1255  HOUSE AUTHORIZER:  Haley
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83  SENATE SPONSOR:  Blake

Previously, electric cooperatives have been allowed to sell electricity only to their own members and to other cooperatives. House Bill 1255 amends state law to allow electric cooperatives to sell also to: (1) investor-owned public utilities; (2) municipal power agencies that co-own, with the cooperative, an electric power plant; (3) a political subdivision of the state with an installed electric generation capacity greater than 500 megawatts; (4) a political subdivision engaged in resale of electricity to which the cooperative was selling electricity prior to 1983; (5) the state; or (6) a federal agency. Restrictions on other sales are continued.

Electric utilities serving an unincorporated area certificated by the Public Utility Commission of Texas may continue and extend their service among customers within the area, even following its annexation by an adjacent city. House Bill 2232, which applies to the city of Garland, continues this principle but provides that the commission is to separately certificate each newly incorporated area in that city that is served by more than one electric utility. In so doing, however, the commission must preserve the respective electric utilities’ rights to serve their present customers. Also, certain customers who had previously given cancellation notice may proceed to terminate a utility’s service.

Waste Management

HOUSE BILL 487

HOUSE AUTHOR: Watson, et al.

SENATE SPONSOR: Brooks

Effective: 9-1-83

Under state law, the Texas Department of Water Resources and Texas Department of Health have responsibility for the issuance of permits for hazardous waste management facilities, TDWR having authority over industrial hazardous wastes and TDH having authority over municipal hazardous wastes. House Bill 487 requires the two agencies, by September 1, 1984, to adopt rules defining the characteristics that make an area unsuitable for hazardous waste management facilities, with attention to such factors as flood dangers, soil conditions, and effects on underground aquifers. A permit for a new or expanded facility will be conditional on selection of a site that minimizes contamination of surface water or groundwater, and issuance of a permit will be prohibited in an area determined by its characteristics to be unsuitable for the facility, unless design features incorporated in the facility will prevent any adverse effects. The two agencies, in developing rules under House Bill 487, are required to consult with the State Soil and Water Conservation Board, Bureau of Economic Geology, and other appropriate state sources. Rules may distinguish between different types of hazardous wastes and different methods of management.

HOUSE BILL 1719

HOUSE AUTHOR: Madla

SENATE SPONSOR: Parmer

Effective: 9-1-83

House Bill 1719, the Comprehensive Municipal Solid Waste Management, Resource Recovery, and Conservation Act, is designed to promote the safe disposal of solid wastes and to encourage the recovery of energy and useful materials from solid wastes. It results from recommendations of the Texas Department of Health made pursuant to a state solid waste management plan adopted in 1981. The department, which is responsible for the portion of that plan dealing with municipal solid wastes (as opposed to industrial solid wastes, regulated by the Texas Department of Water Resources), found that many waste disposal operations have been managed improperly, often due to insufficient financial resources or lack of economies of scale on the part of isolated local governments. Also, the sheer volume of discarded wastes has been a growing problem, leading to proposals to increase recycling efforts. House Bill 1719 seeks to overcome these difficulties by encouraging local governments to more efficiently coordinate their solid waste management activities.

House Bill 1719, applicable to solid wastes regulated by the Texas Department of Health, requires each city and county, by December 31, 1987, to review the provision of solid waste management services in its jurisdiction and ensure that service is available everywhere in that jurisdiction. A local government participating in a regional council of governments or other regional planning entity designated by the governor may join in development of a regional solid waste management plan. Plan development involves three stages of required study, aimed at generating detailed data on waste composition, optional management technologies, markets for recovered materials, financing alternatives, and other matters dealing with feasibility. The regional plan must be consistent with the state plan and must be submitted to and approved by the Texas Department of Health. It is binding on all public and private solid waste management activities within the region, except for those granted variances by the department. Subsidiary local plans, adopted by cities or counties pursuant to and in conformity with the regional plan, likewise require department approval. If no regional plan exists, however, a city or county may submit its own independent local plan.

House Bill 1719 confers on public agencies, including cities, counties, and certain other local-government entities, the power to contract to furnish or be furnished solid waste management services. Required contract payments may be met through user fees or utility revenues. An agency may elect to finance, through the creation of an industrial development corporation, resource recovery systems contemplated under its contracts.

If a public agency seeks to acquire or expand its own solid waste management system, it may issue revenue or tax bonds for purposes of financing the improvement. A resource recovery system owned by the agency itself is exempt from property taxes of other political subdivisions.

A public agency may adopt various regulations to govern solid waste management activities within its jurisdiction. City and county regulations, however, may not contradict any prohibitions of applicable federal or state laws or regulations. Moreover, a city or county not having a local plan that has been approved by the Texas Department of Health may not prohibit solid waste disposal in specific areas of the city or county, except by designating other areas where disposal is allowed.

State support is provided through the authorization of two new funds, a planning fund and an applied research and technical assistance fund. The first is to be used to assist regional entities and local governments in developing their solid waste management plans and in conducting requisite feasibility studies. The regional entity or local government must provide matching funds in an amount of at least 50 percent of the total cost of funded projects. The second fund is to be administered by the Texas Department of Health to conduct research related to improved resource recovery and solid waste management practices. To assist the department, House Bill 1719 authorizes the appointment of a new, 15-member Municipal Solid Waste Management and Resource Recovery Advisory Council. The applied research and technical assistance fund is to consist entirely of legislative appropriations; the planning fund, of legislative appropriations, private-sector contributions, and federal funds. House Bill 1719, however, appropriates no money to either fund.

SENATE BILL 649
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Brown
HOUSE SPONSOR: Pennington

Senate Bill 649, like House Bill 1719, seeks to encourage solid waste management practices enabling the recovery of energy and useful materials. It clarifies the authorization of cities to own and operate garbage reclamation projects and to issue bonds to finance related facilities. In contrast to the financing mechanism of House Bill 1719, which requires voter approval only of bonds secured by taxes, the financing mechanism of Senate Bill 649 requires voter approval of both tax and revenue bonds.

SENATE BILL 317
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Parmer
HOUSE SPONSOR: Madla

This act adds a provision to the Solid Waste Disposal Act, extending the jurisdiction of the Texas Department of Health and Texas Department of Water Resources to extraction of energy resources and other materials from closed or inactive solid waste facilities. The agency with jurisdiction over a particular facility may require anyone extracting material from the facility to obtain a permit to do so, and it must adopt standards to ensure that the site is properly maintained when extraction occurs.

HOUSE BILL 1769
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Eckels, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

House Bill 1769 clarifies that the authority of the Texas Department of Water Resources and Texas Department of Health to require permits for solid waste facilities extends not only to the operation and maintenance of such facilities, but also to their initial construction. Other provisions authorize the department of water resources to impose an annual fee, ranging from $100 to $2,000, to cover waste treatment inspection costs related to permits for the discharge of treated waterborne wastes. Additional provisions of House Bill 1769 are covered in the chapters on special districts and general government.

HOUSE BILL 1845
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: DeLay
SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

Texas cities sometimes have been prevented from receiving federal funds for solid waste management because of city charters restricting the duration of city contracts to a period shorter than the federal government requires. Under House Bill 1845, home-rule cities are authorized to exceed the maximum contract term if necessary to qualify for these funds.

HOUSE BILL 1953
EFFECTIVE: See below
HOUSE AUTHOR: Craddick
SENATE SPONSOR: Traeger

In 1981, the 67th Legislature passed the Texas Litter Abatement Act, a nonsubstantive revision of prior law by which various statutes pertaining to litter were reorganized into one act. The same legislature passed various other items of legislation adding to Texas litter law, but did not include them in the revision. House Bill 1953 is a second nonsubstantive revision that transfers these 1981 laws to the Texas Litter Abatement Act passed that year. All but one section are transferred effective August 29, 1983. The other section, dealing with illegal disposal of solid waste, is transferred effective September 1, 1983.
HOUSE BILL 1970

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt, et al.

SENATE SPONSOR: Caperton

House Bill 1970 amends the Natural Resources Code and the Water Code to expand the authority of the Railroad Commission of Texas with respect to the prevention of water pollution as a result of oil field operations. The bill makes the following changes:

- Raises certain penalties under the oil and gas laws to a maximum of $10,000 for violations relating to safety and pollution.
- Creates a new $100 drilling permit fee.
- Establishes a state well plugging fund to be used by the commission to plug abandoned wells and for costs of administration and enforcement of laws or rules relating to pollution.
- Allows the commission, in the absence of a hearing, to plug leaking wells that are causing or are likely to cause a serious health or pollution threat.
- Deletes landowners from the chain of liability for well plugging.
- Standardizes all venue requirements.
- Gives the commission expanded enforcement powers, such as broad right of entry to property and records and the ability to recover civil penalties and obtain injunctive relief for violations.

HOUSE BILL 2112

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt

SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

This act would minimize the use of fresh water for enhanced oil recovery activities. The act provides that before a permit may be granted for an injection well to be used for enhanced recovery of oil, the applicant must provide to the Railroad Commission of Texas written information as to the material that the applicant plans to inject into the well, plus information on alternative substances available to the applicant for that purpose. Should the applicant propose to use fresh water for injection, the commission must consider whether an alternative substance is economically and technically feasible, and, if so, the commission must include as a condition of the permit that the applicant may not use fresh water or may use fresh water only to the extent specifically stated in the permit. Injection well permits for enhanced recovery wells in effect on September 1, 1983, are exempt from this act; a person may not continue use of industrial or municipal waste for enhanced recovery without first obtaining a permit from the Texas Department of Water Resources. Permits granted subsequent to that date remain in force until canceled by the Railroad Commission of Texas.

HOUSE BILL 2005

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt

SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

This act adds to the Texas Natural Resources Code a subchapter relating to saltwater disposal pits used to store or evaporate brine or other mineralized water that results from oil and gas development or production, geothermal operations, or underground hydrocarbon storage operations. Before using a saltwater disposal pit, one must obtain authorization from the Railroad Commission of Texas or its designated employee. The authorization is conditioned on use of impervious lining materials in the pit, protection from pollution of surrounding farmland and water supplies, and compliance with standards established by the commission, including specifications for eventual closure of the pit. The act gives the commission enforcement power to order the closure either of an authorized pit or of an unauthorized pit being operated in violation of the subchapter. Criminal and civil penalties are provided, and money from those penalties is to be deposited in the credit of a newly created fund in the state treasury and used by the commission to close these saltwater pits.

SENATE BILL 1241

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

SENATE AUTHOR: Brown

HOUSE SPONSOR: Craddick

Senate Bill 1241 amends a 1975 legislative act aimed at the prevention and control of oil spills or other unauthorized discharges of hazardous substances into the coastal waters of the state, expanding the scope of that act to the surface waters of the state generally. It designates the Texas Department of Water Resources as the principal state agency for spill response and authorizes the department, acting independently in the absence of a federal on-scene response coordinator, to appoint a state coordinator and enter property for purposes of cleanup. Under the new law, parties who are responsible for a spill may be assessed penalties when a discharge is the result of their own negligence, even if they report the accident and remove the discharged material. Senate Bill 1241 increases civil penalties under the act to not less than $100 and not more than $2,000 per day per violation. Felony provisions regarding falsification of spill or cleanup reports remain the same.

SENATE BILL 1018

SENATE AUTHOR: Sarpalius

HOUSE SPONSOR: Laney

The United States Department of Energy has narrowed to nine sites located in six states, the choice of a permanent underground repository for high-level nuclear wastes generated throughout the nation. Two of those six sites are found in Texas, in Deaf Smith and Swisher counties, where, in either case, the repository would be placed in a deep salt formation underlying vital groundwater supplies. Although it does not limit or even explicitly address itself to the nuclear-waste siting issue, Senate Bill 1018 is aimed at environmental and resource protection related to the energy department's exploratory studies and possible disposal activities.

Senate Bill 1018 requires a permit from the Texas Department of Water Resources for excavation through the topmost groundwater aquifer of a vertical shaft for subsurface transport of workers and materials. A permit must be accompanied by certain geophysical data obtained from test drillings, a letter from the Railroad Commission of Texas stating that the shaft will not negatively affect oil or gas recovery, and any environmental document required by federal law. The department is to circulate the application to other state agencies and reviewers that it designates and is to hold an adjudicatory hearing on the application with allowance for public notice and participation. A permit may be approved if: (1) after considering siting alternatives, the Texas Water Commission finds a public need for construction of the shaft at the chosen location; (2) the applicant demonstrates adequate financial responsibility; (3) existing water and mineral rights are not harmed; and (4) surface water and groundwater are protected from pollution. Regarding this last criterion, the Texas Department of Water Resources may impose technical specifications designed to seal the shaft from the water formation through which it is excavated. The department may also require the applicant to pay for the costs of monitoring compliance with the permit.

A permit recipient must file a copy of the permit with local county commissioners, whose representatives, along with those of the Texas Department of Water Resources, are authorized entry to the shaft site for purposes of inspection and monitoring. Senate Bill 1018 provides for various enforcement powers, including criminal and civil penalties and allowance for the filing of complaints by local governments or any other person. The department must propose rules in accordance with the new law by September, 1983, and no shaft permits may be issued until those rules are adopted.

HOUSE BILL 2276

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt

SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

Section 11.024 of the Water Code establishes the order of preference for use of state water. House Bill 2276 amends this section to emphasize that domestic and municipal uses are superior to the rights of the state to appropriate water for all other purposes.

For legislation relating to water districts, see the chapter on special-district government.

Air Quality

SENATE BILL 1205

SENATE AUTHOR: Brooks

The federal Clean Air Act establishes a timetable by which regions of the United States experiencing unacceptable levels of pollution must improve their air quality sufficiently to meet specified national standards for several pollutants. Urban areas projected to be unable to meet the air quality standards using only emission controls on industry are required to implement special vehicle inspection programs aimed at maintaining emission control devices on recent automobile models. Ultimate failure to meet the standards, or failure to implement a vehicle inspection program when required, may result in the imposition of sanctions by the United States Environmental Protection Agency. In Texas, the main problem area is Harris County, which has been unable to reduce its ozone pollution to a level that would meet the national standard.
Senate Bill 1205 requires the Department of Public Safety to implement a vehicle inspection program in any county for which such a program has been requested by the Texas Air Control Board. To cover the costs of the new program, the department could impose on subject motorists an inspection fee of up to $5. This fee would be in addition to the fee for annual safety inspections required of all Texas motorists.

The Texas Open Beaches Act protects public access to state-owned beaches bordering the Gulf of Mexico (practically the entire Texas coast) by prohibiting the placement of barriers or markers that interfere with public access. HOUSE BILL 1766

HOUSE AUTHOR: Shaw

House Bill 1766 authorizes the use of conservation easements, by which an owner of real property may convey to a qualifying nonprofit conservation or historical organization, or to a governmental entity, powers of oversight to guarantee the future preservation of special characteristics of the property. Conservation easements may be used, under the new law, to: (1) protect the natural, scenic, or open-space value of the property; (2) assure its availability for agricultural, forest, recreational, or open-space uses; (3) protect natural resources; (4) protect air or water quality; or (5) preserve historical, architectural, archaeological, or cultural values. A property owner voluntarily places restrictions and obligations on its subsequent use and development, which are enforced by the party to which the easement is conveyed or by certain enumerated third parties, and which can be binding on future owners of the property depending on the conditions of the easement. Conservation easements conveyed by Texas property owners are exempt from some of the restrictions applicable to common law easements. They qualify as charitable donations for federal income tax purposes.

FAMILY LAW

General Legislation

HOUSE BILL 1169
HOUSE AUTHOR: Khoury
SENATE SPONSOR: Mauzy
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act clarifies state law relating to orders and decrees in suits for the dissolution of marriage or in suits affecting the parent-child relationship. The act explicitly forbids the issuance of certain temporary restraining orders but allows the issuance of similar temporary injunctions, which require notice and a hearing, when those orders or injunctions contain provisions relating to a party’s business, living expenses, or occupancy of the residence during the pendency of a suit for the dissolution of marriage. A new subchapter is added to the Family Code to allow the parties to a dissolution of marriage, within a certain two-year statute of limitations, to file a motion for the enforcement of a court-ordered division of property. The court may not amend, modify, alter, or change any division of property approved by a prior order but may enter further orders solely for enforcement or clarification purposes. Provisions included within the new subchapter also authorize court-ordered delivery of property or payment of damages, certain contempt proceedings, enforcement of decrees awarding future benefits, and recovery of legal fees incurred in proceedings to enforce a property division.

In regard to suits affecting the parent-child relationship, this act amends language of the Family Code to provide a more precise definition for who is entitled to bring suit affecting the parent-child relationship and amends additional language of the code to authorize the court to issue a temporary order prohibiting a person from removing a child beyond a geographical area identified by the court. The act states that a decree in a suit affecting the parent-child relationship, in which any person is ordered to pay child support, must contain the social security number of each party to the suit. The act entitles a man to deny his paternity of a child who is the subject of a suit and who was born or conceived during the marriage of the man and the mother of the child. Decrees providing for the appointment of certain possessory conservators are required to stipulate that the managing conservator and each possessory conservator must give written notice of an intended change of residence. Certain orders changing the designation of managing conservator are prohibited unless necessary standards are met or unless there is a serious, immediate question concerning the welfare of the child. The act amends provisions of the Family Code that allow the court, after a hearing, to modify an order or portion of a decree that designates a managing conservator or provides for the support of a child. The act also creates provisions to allow the court, after a hearing, to modify an order or portion of a decree that sets the terms and conditions for possession of or access to a child or that prescribes the relative rights, privileges, duties, and powers of conservators. The provisions of this act apply to the enforcement of orders or decrees made by a Texas court before or after the effective date of this act.

Additionally, the Licensed Professional Counselor Act is amended to exempt from its provisions persons who provide counseling services exclusively related to marriage and family concerns and who hold a masters or doctorate degree in the field of marriage and family therapy from an accredited college or university.

SENATE BILL 99
SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee
HOUSE SPONSOR: Khoury
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act broadens provisions of the Family Code to encourage juvenile courts, after finding that a child has engaged in delinquent conduct or conduct indicating a need for supervision, to order parental or joint family

Family Violence

HOUSE BILL 358
HOUSE AUTHORE: Willis
SENATE SPONSOR: Parmer
EFFECTIVE: See below

The Family Code is amended to permit members of the Texas Department of Human Resources or other agency designated to be responsible for the protection of children, in the course of conducting an investigation of alleged child abuse, to interview the child at any reasonable time and place including the child's school and to permit the investigation to include an interview with the child's parents. The Open Records Act is amended to allow persons conducting child abuse investigations to have access to the child's student records at educational institutions funded wholly, or in part, by state revenue. The changes in law created by these amendments take effect on September 1, 1983.

SENATE BILL 878
SENATE AUTHORE: Brooks
HOUSE SPONSOR: Danburg
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

In 1979, the 66th Legislature enacted provisions addressing the protection of the family and allowing battered spouses to seek protective relief without seeking a permanent breakup of their families. This act clarifies ambiguities that have become apparent in the language of these provisions while also making these provisions more effective and procedurally workable. Provisions stipulating who may file an application for protective relief are expanded to include certain prosecuting attorneys, and the court is permitted to assess a reasonable attorney's fee as compensation for the services of the prosecuting attorney. Other provisions are amended to provide for a waiver of the filing fee and court costs if the applicant is determined to be unable to pay such fees and costs and to delete the requirement that an application for protective relief state the applicant's address. The act also requires the dismissal of an application that is filed after a suit for dissolution of marriage is filed.

SENATE BILL 997
SENATE AUTHORE: Doggett
HOUSE SPONSOR: Armbister
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act amends provisions of the Family Code that allow adults to file an application for a protective order to deter family violence. The act states that the court may issue a protective order on the motion of any party to a suit for the dissolution of marriage and on a showing that the other party to the suit has committed family violence. Such an order, which may be made only after notice and a hearing, remains valid only until the order is vacated by the court, the suit is dismissed, or the decree in the suit becomes final. In a protective order, the court may prohibit a party from committing family violence, directly communicating with a family or household member in a threatening or harassing manner, or going to or near the residence or place of employment or business of a family or household member. The court must specifically describe the prohibited locations and the minimum distances from those locations that the party must maintain.

This act also amends certain provisions of the Penal Code to establish a separate misdemeanor offense for the knowing or intentional violation of a protective order to deter family violence. If conduct constituting a violation of such a protective order also constitutes another offense, the party may be prosecuted for either or both offenses.

Marriage

HOUSE BILL 1819

HOUSE AUTHOR: Oliver

Existing law empowers various clergymen, federal judges, and state judges including justices of the peace to perform marriage ceremonies. In response to the recent refusal of several justices of the peace to wed interracial couples, the attorney general declared in an opinion, which does not carry the same weight as law, that justices of the peace must wed all qualified applicants if they choose to perform marriage ceremonies. This act provides for the removal from office of any judge or justice who is found to have intentionally discriminated on the basis of race, religion, or national origin against any applicants qualified to be married.

HOUSE AUTHOR: M. Garcia
SENATE SPONSOR: Caperton

Effective: 5-20-83

Provisions of the Family Code have not previously allowed a possessory conservator the right to view the medical, dental, and educational records of a child unless that right was expressly granted in the decree awarding possession of the child. HOUSE BILL 197

HOUSE AUTHOR: Cain, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Mauzy

Effective: 6-19-83

This act amends the statute of limitations period during which a man may be sued to establish the man's paternity of and the obligation for child support for the man's illegitimate child. The former law provided for a four-year period of limitations, while the amendment provides for a period ending on the second anniversary after the day on which the child becomes an adult. The change in the law was prompted by several United States Supreme Court decisions holding that an illegitimate child is entitled under the "equal protection clause" of the United States Constitution to an equal opportunity to receive support from his or her father that a legitimate child has to receive support from his or her father.

HOUSE BILL 229

HOUSE AUTHOR: S. Hudson
SENATE SPONSOR: Washington

Effective: 8-29-83

This amendatory act provides that a paternity affidavit executed by the father of an otherwise illegitimate child may be filed with the Texas Department of Health and maintained with the original birth record although it will not become a part of that record. Once filed, the affidavit becomes privileged and is made available only on motion of the trial judge in a court of competent jurisdiction in which a suit of paternity respecting the subject of the affidavit is pending.

HOUSE BILL 553

HOUSE AUTHOR: W. O. Harrison
SENATE SPONSOR: Sharp

Effective: 9-1-83

Under existing law, the natural or adoptive parent of a minor who is not a ward may apply to the court to be allowed to sell the minor's interest in an estate without being appointed guardian. This act amends

HOUSE BILL 642
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 642 amends the Family Code to give the courts the authority to award a reasonable fee to the Texas Department of Human Resources for a court-ordered social study in suits affecting the parent-child relationship.

HOUSE BILL 2218
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Geistweidt
SENATE SPONSOR: Glasgow

Although a guardian or receiver appointed for a child may bind the child to an agreement concerning inherited property or future interests, state law has not previously allowed a parent or managing conservator to execute such agreements on behalf of the child. Consequently, many state residents have been unable to qualify for an exemption from taxation on the child's property or future interests. This act amends the Family Code to empower parents and managing conservators, except when certain persons are appointed for the child, to act as an agent of the child in relation to the child's estate if the child's action is required by a state, the United States, or a foreign government.

Child Custody

HOUSE BILL 544
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Bush
SENATE SPONSOR: Doggett

This act explicitly authorizes a civil cause of action against any person who takes or retains possession of a child or who conceals the whereabouts of a child in violation of a court order. Liability is extended to persons who aid or assist in the commission of such a violation and is exempted from persons who do not have notice or cause to believe that the child has been the subject of a court order. The petitioner, who must give notice to the defendant in a specified manner prior to filing suit, is entitled to recover damages including the actual costs of locating and recovering the child and the actual costs of obtaining and enforcing a court order. Court-ordered counseling and posting of security are permitted to minimize the possibility of future custody disputes or violations, and the Department of Human Resources is required, in its administration of the federal Parent Locator Service, to provide assistance to persons showing evidence that their custody or visitation rights have been violated. The act also embodies associated provisions to govern affirmative defenses, venue, joinder of proceedings, frivolous suits, and other available remedies not affected by a suit under the provisions of this act.

HOUSE BILL 1370
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Khoury
SENATE SPONSOR: Brooks

Under prior law, when a court acquired continuing jurisdiction over a child pursuant to the initiation of a suit affecting the parent-child relationship, the clerk has been required to file any succeeding petitions and accompanying papers with the suit affecting the parent-child relationship under the same docket number. This act provides that if a succeeding petition requests the adoption of a child and alleges that the child has been placed for adoption with the petitioners by the Texas Department of Human Resources or by an agency authorized by the department to place children for adoption, then the clerk is required to file the petition and all other related papers in a new file having a new docket number.

HOUSE BILL 1677
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Salinas
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

This legislation was enacted in response to recent United States and Texas Supreme Court decisions indicating that, in suits for termination of the parent-child relationship, the state must provide the parents with fair court procedures and the court findings must be based on more than just a "preponderance of the evidence."

The Family Code is amended to provide for the appointment of an attorney ad litem to represent indigent parents in suits brought to terminate the parent-child relationship and to provide that the attorney ad litem is entitled to a reasonable fee paid from the general funds of the county where the suit is heard. The code is further amended to require each court finding in a parental termination suit to be based on “clear and convincing evidence.”

HOUSE BILL 1933

HOuse AUTHOR:  Glossbrenner
SENATE SPONSOR:  Truan

Because of typical docket delays and possible complications, the final decision in a civil case that is appealed may not be rendered for as long as five years. To protect children from the severe emotional trauma that may accompany protracted litigation and to provide parents with a degree of fairness, the Family Code is amended to grant suits affecting the parent-child relationship wherein termination of that relationship is in issue precedence over other civil cases in the appellate process.

SENATE BILL 79

SESSION AUTHOR:  Brooks
HOUSE SPONSOR:  Madla

This act abrogates the rule established by Texas courts which have held that a managing conservator must be appointed for a child before a grandparent may sue to acquire access rights to the child. The act allows a court to award grandparent access to a child in a suit brought for that purpose, irrespective of whether the conservatorship is at issue, if such access is in the best interests of the child, if a parent is the natural parent of the child when relief is sought, and if any one of several other enumerated circumstances is determined to exist.

SENATE BILL 439

SESSION AUTHOR:  Mauzy
HOUSE SPONSOR:  Bush

This legislation adds a subchapter to the Family Code adopting the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act and thereby adds Texas to the list of 48 states which are currently UCCJA adherents. Purposes of the UCCJA include the avoidance of jurisdictional competition and the promotion of the exchange of information and other forms of mutual assistance between the courts of this state and those of other states concerned with matters of a child’s custody. The UCCJA establishes jurisdictional considerations and procedures to be followed by Texas courts involved in interstate custody disputes. Certain classes of persons with an interest in the child, regardless of whether or not such persons are in this state, are required to be given reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard. Certain procedures must be followed in acquiring jurisdiction over persons outside this state; however, all parties properly served or notified are bound to the custody decree of a court in this state having jurisdiction. Unless all the contestants are residing in Texas, every party to a proceeding must give certain information under oath regarding past and present custody of the child. Texas courts are required to recognize and to enforce certain out-of-state custody decrees and are not permitted to modify these decrees except under particular circumstances. Guidelines are established for cooperation between the states in acquiring evidence, testimony, records, studies, or a person’s presence before a court. The general policies of the UCCJA are extended to the international area. Several related provisions of the Family Code are amended to harmonize in form and in substance with the UCCJA.

Child Support

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 1

SESSION AUTHOR:  Oliveira, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR:  Farabee

House Joint Resolution 1 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to allow garnishment of wages for the enforcement of court-ordered child support payments. This proposed constitutional amendment will be submitted to the voters at an election to be held on November 8, 1983.

HOUSE BILL 2

SESSION AUTHOR:  Oliveira, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR:  Farabee

This act amends provisions of the Family Code relating to the enforcement of court-ordered child support and relating to the possession of and access to a child. Section 1 of the act allows an obligor of child support to voluntarily assign a portion of his earnings for the payment of support and allows the court, on proper motion and after a hearing, to withhold a specific ascertainable amount from the assignor’s disposable earnings. Any assignment or order for assignment is required to contain particular data and the court is required to follow certain procedures and to take certain actions in the course of ordering an assignment. The employer is permitted to make a motion for hearing on the validity and application of an assignment. Section 1 of the act also provides procedures and rules to be followed by the employer and stipulates what the employer’s liabilities are.

Section 2 of the act provides that if House Joint Resolution 1 is adopted by the voters, then the Family Code is amended to allow a court of continuing jurisdiction to order an involuntary assignment of earnings on proper motion, notice to all parties, and a hearing. An involuntary assignment of earnings may be ordered only if the court finds that the total amount of child support in arrears was equal to or in excess of the amount due for a two-month period at the time the motion for involuntary assignment was filed with the court.

Section 3 of the act amends the Family Code to allow the court to require certain obligors of child support, including “self-employed” persons, to execute a bond or to pay security to the court as a means of enforcing the payment of court-ordered support when a designated amount of support is in arrears.

The final sections of this act stipulate that if the possession of or access to a child is court-ordered, then the times and conditions for such possession or access must be specific and expressly stated in the order unless a party shows good cause why specific orders would not be in the best interest of the child. These sections of the act also require the court to consider certain factors in determining the amount of child support and allow the court by local rule to establish and publish schedules, guidelines, and formulas to be used in determining the amount and manner of child support as well as the times and conditions for possession of and access to a child.

While Section 2 of this act is contingent and stipulated to take effect on the adoption of the constitutional amendment proposed by House Joint Resolution 1, all other sections became effective when the act was signed by the governor on June 17, 1983.

HOUSE BILL 2340
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act authorizes the Johnson County Juvenile Board to appoint the district court clerk in Johnson County to administer child support, spousal support, and separate maintenance payments for the county. The obligor of the payments is required to pay a $1 monthly service fee to the district court clerk. These service fees are to be assessed with all child support, spousal support, and separate maintenance payments ordered after September 1, 1983, and with all other of these kinds of payments when the obligor has defaulted and has been cited for contempt of court.

HOUSE BILL 2390
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act explicitly authorizes the Collin County Juvenile Board to appoint the district court clerk in Collin County to administer child support, temporary spousal support, and separate maintenance payments for the county. The obligor of such payments is required to pay to the clerk a monthly service fee of an amount set by the juvenile board but not more than $2.50. These service fees are to be assessed with all child support, spousal support, and separate maintenance payments ordered after September 1, 1983, and with all other of these kinds of payments when the obligor has defaulted and has been cited for contempt of court.

HOUSE BILL 2449
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This amendatory act, relating to the child support collection service fee in Smith County, makes the court’s assessment of such fees mandatory rather than optional. The act also stipulates that a payor or payee whose annual income is equal to or less than the federal poverty income guideline in effect when the support order is made is not required to pay the service fee.

SENATE BILL 45
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

This act empowers the commissioners court of a county to establish a domestic relations office, which may be administered by the juvenile board of the county, to collect and disburse child support payments, to make and keep records of payments and disbursements, and to provide services to enforce orders providing for the possession of, the support of, and the access to a child. A domestic relations office may, if authorized by its governing agency, also provide certain additional services. A court having proper jurisdiction may order that payments of child support be made through the domestic relations office and the commissioners court is authorized to impose certain court and service fees for deposit in a special domestic relations office fund. The act repeals certain prior provisions relating to the child support fund in counties having a population of more than 350,000 inhabitants and stipulates that its own provisions are cumulative of other statutes relating to juvenile boards and child support collection offices.

SENATE BILL 394
SENATE AUTHOR: Leedom
HOUSE SPONSOR: Wright

Effective: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 394 clarifies the nature of child support and how it is to be considered and charged by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for the support, maintenance, and treatment of patients in state facilities who are under 18 years of age. It also authorizes the department to seek a modification of a court order to require that the child support be paid directly to the state facility.

SENATE BILL 872
SENATE AUTHOR: Jones
HOUSE SPONSOR: Bush

Effective: 6-19-83

The Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act governs the collection of child support when the obligor and obligee are in different states. Although federal law has been amended to allow the states to charge for their services in a majority of URESA collection activities, Texas law has not previously authorized the charging of such fees. This legislation amends state law to authorize the charging of fees, including attorney’s fees, for collection activities in URESA cases. The charging of fees is not authorized by either federal or state law if a support payment is ordered to be made for the benefit of a child receiving financial assistance pursuant to the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program. However, in all other cases, Texas courts are now permitted to order that a portion of each child support payment be deducted until the full amount of certain costs incurred in the state are paid.
GOVERNMENT—CITY

Annexation

SENATE BILL 551  SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83  HOUSE SPONSOR: Hanna

The boundary of the State of Texas extends into the Gulf of Mexico to a distance of three marine leagues, or 10.35 miles. The state, as owner of this area, leases its submerged lands for offshore oil and gas development, from which it draws related revenues. Prior to 1981, in the absence of limits on their annexation powers, certain coastal home-rule cities extended their city limits into the gulf, with Port Arthur annexing all the way to the three-league line. City attempts to tax oil and gas wells in this area led to state and federal lawsuits, with the Texas Supreme Court upholding Port Arthur but with a federal district ruling against it on constitutional grounds. An appeal to higher federal courts is pending. In the meantime, the 67th Legislature in 1981 imposed on home-rule cities a temporary moratorium on gulfward annexations beyond a one-mile distance from the coast. Other major cities affected by this issue include Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Senate Bill 551 represents a legislative compromise regarding annexations by coastal home-rule cities extending into the Gulf of Mexico. It sets the seaward perimeter for city annexations at one marine league, or 3.45 miles, with prior annexations beyond that perimeter being rolled back to the one-league line. Within this offshore area, when annexed by a home-rule city, the city would have full taxing authority, plus authority to regulate oil and gas drilling and production (e.g., to protect city shores from spills and other hazards). Farther out, moreover, home-rule cities could create industrial districts extending as far as five miles into the gulf. In the industrial-district area between the one-league and five-mile lines, they would be denied regulatory authority over oil and gas development, but would be entitled to payments from the owners or lessees of property in the area in amounts up to 35 percent of the revenue that would be collected if property taxes were allowed there. Finally, irrespective of the new taxing arrangements, Port Arthur would remain entitled to any back taxes that might be awarded it as a result of final court decisions on its pending litigation.

HOUSE BILL 2227  HOUSE AUTHOR: Davis
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83  SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

Whereas Senate Bill 551 deals with offshore annexation by home-rule coastal cities, House Bill 2227 deals with offshore annexation by general-law coastal cities, towns, or villages. It authorizes the governing bodies of such municipalities, by means of ordinance, to extend city limits into the Gulf of Mexico to a distance of up to one mile.

HOUSE BILL 555  HOUSE AUTHOR: C. Evans
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83  SENATE SPONSOR: McFarland

This amendatory act modifies hearing requirements associated with municipal annexation proceedings. Existing law calls for two public hearings on an annexation, at least one of those to be held in the area to be annexed. The amendment eliminates the need for a hearing within the area, unless more than 20 adult residents there protest the annexation in writing within 10 days of published notice on the intended annexation.

HOUSE BILL 2226  HOUSE AUTHOR: Davis
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83  SENATE SPONSOR: Sharp

This act authorizes a general-law city, town, or village by ordinance to annex a navigable stream lying adjacent to its city limits and within its extraterritorial jurisdiction. It validates all prior annexations of this nature, and resultant boundary lines and related governmental proceedings, except in cases where pending litigation results in a final court judgment invalidating the annexation.

SENATE BILL 220  SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83  HOUSE SPONSOR: Turner

Senate Bill 220 permits a municipality by ordinance to annex an area if the area has been treated as a part of the municipality, with provision of police protection and other services, for 20 years, and if no final judicial determination within that period, nor any pending lawsuit, has ruled against or challenged the inclusion of the area within the municipality. If an area is made a part of a municipality under provisions of this act, the date on which the area is considered to have become incorporated is retroactive to the date on which the municipality began its continuous treatment of the area as a part of its territory.

Public Improvements

SENATE BILL 787
EFFECTIVE:  6-19-83

The 65th Legislature enacted the Public Improvement District Assessment Act of 1977, providing an alternative means for a city to undertake and finance public improvements within a specified portion of the city. Senate Bill 787 expands the scope of that act to include special supplemental services such as advertising and promotion, business recruitment, development, public safety and security, health and sanitation, recreation, and cultural enhancement. It also modifies the method for initiating improvement districts, changing from a citywide election system to a petition system involving property owners in the proposed district. A similar petition system is adopted for the dissolution of existing districts.

Petitioners for a new district must submit a proposed management structure for its administration, with provision for possible appointment of an advisory body from among the district’s property owners. Senate Bill 787 reduces published notice provisions related to public hearings on a petition, but it adds a requirement that all property owners be notified of hearings by mail. An established district, through its advisory body or some other responsible group, must develop an ongoing five-year service plan, to be updated annually. Other amended provisions deal with assessments on tax-exempt properties in a district and with changes in the interest rate on assessments.

HOUSE BILL 1304
EFFECTIVE:  6-19-83

State law authorizes Gulf Coast cities having a population greater than 5,000 to develop, maintain, and operate port facilities. The governing body of a city may issue tax and revenue bonds to finance the facilities, provided that bonds payable from ad valorem taxes receive the approval of city voters. The law also allows the city governing body to delegate the management and control of its port facilities to a separate board of trustees.

House Bill 1304 clarifies and expands the authority of these boards of trustees, with the proviso that a board’s statutory authority be consistent with the charter of any home-rule city. Generally, a board of trustees may exercise various budgeting, contracting, property management, and port operation powers, and may issue revenue bonds and other nontax obligations. Certain contracts are subject to competitive bidding, however, and any issuance of bonds or obligations or any sale of real property must be approved by means of city ordinance. Under House Bill 1304, a board of trustees may also commission peace officers to establish a port security force.

HOUSE BILL 1480
EFFECTIVE:  9-1-83

House Bill 1480 requires a housing authority to hold a public hearing concerning a proposed housing project before a permit for any part of the construction of the project may be issued or obtained.

HOUSE BILL 1505
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

House Bill 1505 expands the definition of “housing project” for purposes of the Housing Authorities Law. SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 17
FOR ELECTION: 11-8-83

The Texas Constitution prohibits cities and towns from lending their credit or spending public money for the benefit of a private group or individual. Senate Joint Resolution 17 proposes a constitutional amendment to eliminate this restriction where a city or town is replacing or relocating connective sewer lines on private property in the course of replacing or relocating the sewer main serving the property. The amendment would allow the legislature by general law to authorize municipal expenditures for this purpose, provided that the property owner consented to the affixing of a lien on the property. The owner would then be responsible, over the course of five years, for repaying the city or town via installments. The proposed amendment is to be submitted to Texas voters on November 8, 1983, and, if adopted, will take effect on the date of the official canvass of the election returns.

SENATE BILL 595
EFFECTIVE: See below

Senate Bill 595, the enabling legislation for the constitutional amendment proposed by Senate Joint Resolution 17, takes effect if and when Texas voters approve the amendment. It calls for a written contract, executed by ordinance, by which the property owner consents to the sewer work and to the assessment of associated costs against the property. The city or town must obtain bids on the work and, having accepted a bid, must notify the property owner of the bid price, after which the owner has 45 days to withdraw consent and reject the contract. The contract price may not be increased by more than 10 percent without the owner's consent, a fact that must be specified in the notice to the owner. Also, the city or town may not charge the owner in excess of 10 percent simple interest.

Hotel Occupancy Taxes

HOUSE BILL 1836
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Home-rule cities, towns, and villages in Texas are authorized to levy hotel occupancy taxes, the maximum rate for which in most cities has been four percent of the price of hotel accommodations. Resulting income is directed to tourist and convention promotion, encouragement of the arts, and historical preservation and restoration. House Bill 1836 raises the maximum hotel occupancy tax to seven percent but provides that the extra revenue may be used only for purposes of tourist and convention promotion. Furthermore, with respect to the other uses financed under the original four-percent maximum, it: (1) restricts expenditures for historical preservation and restoration to projects and activities that would be frequented by tourists and conventioneers; and (2) restricts expenditures for encouragement of the arts to an amount equivalent to a one-percent tax.

HOUSE BILL 1409
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

House Bill 1409, also dealing with hotel occupancy taxes, is a bracket law that affects cities with a council-manager form of government and a population of at least 900,000. Applicable effectively to Dallas, it removes that city from coverage by hotel occupancy tax rate provisions applicable to home-rule cities in general. House Bill 1409 raises the maximum rate in Dallas from four to five percent, the extra revenue to be directed 65 percent toward a convention center complex and 35 percent toward other promotional activities related to tourism and conventions. Revenue from the original four-percent portion may be used for the same purposes as apply to home-rule cities in general, though without the new restrictions on arts projects imposed by House Bill 1836.
HOUSE BILL 2158
HOUSE AUTHOR: Turner
SENATE SPONSOR: Caperton

House Bill 2158 authorizes a city's attorney, when a hotel operator has not paid a city hotel occupancy tax or filed a required occupancy report, to seek a court injunction to enjoin further hotel operations until the operator has complied with requirements of the injunction. SENATE BILL 358  SENATE AUTHOR: Sarpalius
EFFECTIVE: 5-3-83  HOUSE SPONSOR: Buchanan

Current state law allows a city to issue certificates of indebtedness, in the case of a final court judgment or decree against the city, to pay cash awards to a successful plaintiff. This power is conditional, a city being allowed to incur such indebtedness only if it does not have available funds with which to make the payment. Senate Bill 358 extends the same conditional authority, in the case of general-law cities having municipally owned and operated natural gas systems, to situations short of a final judgment or decree, in which a city has merely reached a settlement of a lawsuit with a plaintiff. Issuance must be preceded by newspaper notice, and it must be ratified in a city election whenever an election is requested by a petition of five percent of the city’s qualified voters.

SENATE BILL 1388  SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83  HOUSE SPONSOR: Prensal

This act affects home-rule cities whose charters enable their operation of separate municipal and rural electric utilities to furnish power within and outside city limits, respectively. Where in the best interests of the two systems, a city by ordinance may merge them into an enlarged municipal electric utility, all laws pertaining to such utilities to apply thereafter.
State law authorized cities of a population of 161,000 or more to issue warrants for payment of current expenses. Aggregate warrants issued during a fiscal year may not exceed 80 percent of the leftover revenue anticipated for the fiscal year after deductions are made for debt service. House Bill 2153 amends this law, authorizing cities of the requisite population to issue notes, as well as warrants, to pay current expenses, and authorizing them further to issue notes and warrants to refund past issuances. It also changes the nature of the 80 percent limitation, basing it not on the aggregate amount issued over a fiscal year, but on the aggregate amount outstanding at any time during the fiscal year. The law applies to cities ranging in size from Lubbock to Houston.

Several measures relating to municipal solid waste management are included in the chapter on environmental legislation. Among these is House Bill 1719, which encourages cities, counties, and regional governments to pursue solid waste management methods to obtain energy, or to recycle useful materials, from solid wastes. House Bill 1845 removes certain home-rule charter restrictions on contracts for federal solid waste management funds.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 91
FOR ELECTION: 11-8-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: D. Harrison
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims
This proposed amendment of Article V, Section 18, of the Texas Constitution authorizes each county commissioners court to determine, within a range based on county population, the number of precincts for justices of the peace and constables of the county. Under the amendment, a county with a population of 30,000 or more may have not less than four or more than eight precincts and a county with a population of 18,000 or more but less than 30,000 may have not less than two or more than five precincts. A county with a population of less than 18,000 would be designated as a single precinct, unless the commissioners court finds a greater need and divides the county into not more than four precincts. Each precinct is required to have one justice of the peace and one constable, and the amendment would call for two justices of the peace in each precinct in which there is a city of 18,000 or more population. A county would have until January 1, 1987, to comply with the new requirements. The amendment also provides for a transition in office for justices of the peace, constables, and commissioners each time their respective precinct boundaries are changed.

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Williams
HOUSE SPONSOR: Toomey

Senate Bill 1359 gives a commissioners court of a county having a population in excess of two million the authority to create a domestic relations office to provide services to establish and enforce court-ordered child support and rights of visitation and other family-related services. Based on the 1980 census, the law applies only to Harris County.
SENATE BILL 1397
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

The act gives the Nueces County Commissioners Court the authority to collect a child support service fee not to exceed $3 per month and to assess a fee as costs in certain contempt actions dealing with default in the payment of child support. Failure to pay a fee subjects a person to an action for contempt by the court or as otherwise provided by law.

FOR ELECTION:  11-6-84

Senate Joint Resolution 20 proposes a constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county treasurer in Bexar and Collin counties. The proposed amendment would take effect January 1, 1985, if approved by voters at the general election to be held on November 6, 1984.
GOVERNMENT—GENERAL

This chapter summarizes legislation that affects more than one level of government.

HOUSE BILL 490
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

House Bill 490 amends state law relating to subdivision controls in counties and extends it to apply to all counties, except for counties of more than 2.2 million population whose residents may elect to operate under another section of the act. The major change is the addition of an enforcement section which allows the county attorney, at the request of the commissioners court, to issue injunctions for violations and sue for damages on behalf of the county. In addition, there is now a criminal penalty for noncompliance except under the section for counties of more than 2.2 million population.

A new section is added pertaining to a city’s extraterritorial jurisdiction whereby a subdivision must comply with city and county regulations and if a conflict arises between the two sets of regulations, the more stringent provisions shall govern. In counties of more than 2.2 million, a subdivision in the city’s extraterritorial jurisdiction must comply with the city’s regulations.

HOUSE BILL 1263
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

House Bill 1263 gives the tribal council of the Alabama-Coushatta Indian Tribe or of the Tigua Indian Tribe authority to contract with local governments, the state, or state agencies. It also gives a tribal council and businesses owned by a tribal council authority to act as a nonprofit corporation. Finally, the act provides that the tribal council or a business owned by the tribal council is exempt from sales, excise, or use taxes on all taxable items sold, leased, or rented to, or stored, used, or consumed by it. Also, items sold, leased, or rented by them are exempt from these taxes if the item is made by a member of the Indian tribe, is a cultural artifact of the Indian tribe, and is sold at a location within the boundaries of the reservation.

HOUSE BILL 1769
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 1769 contains provisions affecting three different areas of law. Sections 6 through 8 are discussed below. The other provisions of this act are described in the chapters on special districts and on environment.

Sections 6 through 8 of House Bill 1769 amend the Bond Procedures Act of 1981 by providing that the interest rates on bonds issued by or on behalf of public agencies may be periodically determined by a formula or contractual arrangement to be set forth in the instrument providing for the issuance of the bonds. It also states that an issuer of bonds may provide for the transfer or exchange of previously issued bonds by the trustee or paying agent of the bonds. Lastly, this act establishes that pledges or liens securing bond issues are valid without further action on the part of the issuer and are effective from the time of payment for and delivery of the bonds.

HOUSE BILL 2009
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Under previous law, a joint airport board could enter into contracts, leases, or other arrangements for the improvement of the facility or for the privilege of supplying goods or services at the facility without the consent of its constituent public agencies. House Bill 2009 provides that if such contract, lease, or other arrangement shall be for a term, including any renewal terms, in excess of 40 years, the arrangement is subject to the approval of each constituent public agency unless the necessity for approval is waived by the agency.

HOUSE BILL 2066
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 2066 clarifies existing law concerning airport zoning regulations. It authorizes the creation of a joint airport zoning board in areas where an airport hazard area or controlled compatible land use area is located outside the territorial limits of a certain political subdivision. It permits state agencies owning and operating an airport within an area governed by a joint zoning board to have two representatives on the board. The act raises the minimum population requirement applicable to airport hazard zoning. It also expands the scope of this act to include airports with runways of at least 3,200 feet. Previous law applied to those airports having runways at least 4,000 feet in length. In addition, House Bill 2066 requires at least 15 days’ notice of a public hearing for zoning airport hazard areas or compatible land use areas.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 73
FOR ELECTION: 11-6-84

Current law prohibits political subdivisions from purchasing insurance from a mutual insurance company because policyholders are also owners of the company and have, sometimes in the past, been assessed additional premiums. House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment to permit the use of public funds or credit for paying premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident insurance policies and annuity contracts issued by a mutual insurance company authorized to do business in Texas.

SENATE BILL 109
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 109 is the Local Public Health Reorganization Act. It repeals 16 old laws relating to city and county health officers and local health programs and compiles and revises those provisions in one comprehensive act. The act includes sections relating to the authority of cities and counties to enforce public health laws, to appoint health authorities, and to cooperate in providing public health care; the duties and qualifications of health authorities; and the establishment and responsibilities of public health districts, local health departments, and public health regions. Coordinated public health organizations created under previous laws may continue to operate but must meet the provisions of this act within one year.

The act applies to a county having a population of 20,000 or less and an incorporated city or town in the county that has a population of 10,000 or more.

SENATE BILL 682
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

The regional historic resources depository and records division of the Texas State Library and Archives Commission was created in 1971 for the purpose of preserving valuable local records in regional depositories. These depositories are fast becoming overcrowded, and Senate Bill 682 authorizes a microfilming service to provide for the preservation of records that are too bulky to be preserved in their original paper form. The commission is authorized to accept privately donated funds to defray the costs of this program. Microfilm produced under this program is admissible in courts and administrative proceedings. Previous law relating to the maintenance and disposition of certain county records is repealed.

SENATE BILL 800
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

This act authorizes a city, town, or village to purchase from a conservation and reclamation district supplies of hydroelectric power or energy. It prescribes the use of the funds generated by the obligations and outlines the terms and conditions under which such obligations may be issued and delivered.
GOVERNMENT—SPECIAL DISTRICTS

The acts summarized in this chapter relate to water districts and authorities, hospital districts, and several other categories of special districts. Excluded are school districts, which are covered in the chapter on education. Some enactments apply generally to a certain type of district, while others create, dissolve, or otherwise affect individual districts. Unless stated otherwise, creation of newly authorized districts is contingent on a favorable confirmation election.

Water Districts

This section includes water supply districts, water control and improvement districts, municipal utility districts, river authorities, flood control districts, drainage districts, sewage districts, underground water conservation districts, navigation districts, port authorities, and other conservation and reclamation districts. The following laws are of general application to particular types of water districts.

SENATE BILL 1283
INTERNET: EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Parker
HOUSE SPONSOR: Stiles

Article III, Section 52, of the Texas Constitution authorizes creation of water districts for various purposes including navigation. It specifies that a district’s total debt cannot exceed one-fourth of its assessed property valuation and that sales of tax bond issues require a two-thirds vote of the district electorate. Article XVI, Section 59, of the Texas Constitution authorizes creation of similar districts with much broader financial authority. For these districts, tax bond approval necessitates only a simple majority of district voters.

Senate Bill 1283 amends the law relating to the conversion of a navigation district from the first type to the second. Under current law, the conversion can be implemented by the board of directors of the navigation district subsequent to a hearing on the matter. Under the new law, a board subsequent to its hearing may have the proposed conversion confirmed by a district election. Voters must confirm both the conversion and the continuation of the district’s annual maintenance tax. The election confirmation requires a simple majority.

HOUSE BILL 1858
INTERNET: EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84
HOUSE AUTHOR: D. Harrison
SENATE SPONSOR: Traeger

House Bill 1858 changes to four years the terms of office for directors of most general-law water districts. Exceptions include: (1) directors of certain navigation districts created under Article XVI, Section 59, of the Texas Constitution, who continue to serve six-year terms; and (2) appointed directors, where applicable, of drainage districts, who continue to serve two-year terms. House Bill 1858 further provides that most water district elections be held in even-numbered years. Exceptions include: (1) Article XVI, Section 59, navigation districts; (2) drainage districts having elected directors; and (3) levee improvement districts. House Bill 1858 does not affect districts created by special law.

HOUSE BILL 1769
INTERNET: EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Eckels, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

House Bill 1769, other portions of which are discussed in the chapters on environment and on general government, adds a new chapter to the Water Code providing for the conversion of certain member-owned, consumer-owned water supply corporations into a new type of water district known as a special utility district. Conversion to a special utility district will provide access as a governmental body to state water funds, allow issuance of tax-exempt bonds, and provide additional fee-based services, so as to improve financing capabilities. Most water supply corporations, in contrast, depend heavily on the federal Farmers Home Administration for loans that are becoming increasingly unavailable.

The new chapter provides for conversion to a special utility district that may own and operate sources of water supply, build and operate water transportation facilities, sell water to public entities and private customers, perform water purification functions, and establish and maintain fire-fighting units. Conversion is initiated by a petition of a cooperative’s governing body and requires approval by the Texas Water Commission as well as confirmation by voters included within the boundaries of the proposed district. Simultaneous to confirmation, voters elect a board of directors having terms of up to three years.
A special utility district may issue revenue bonds to support its functions. Also, the district may derive revenues from fees, charges, and rentals for the provision of district facilities and services.

HOUSE BILL 1341
HOUSE AUTHOREMmett
SENATE SPONSOREHenderson
This act raises to $50 the per diem compensation for directors of levee improvement districts and for directors or supervisors of general law water improvement districts, water control and improvement districts, fresh water supply districts, municipal utility districts, and drainage districts. Except for drainage district directors, who formerly received $7.50, previous per diem compensation levels for these officials were set at $25. The act increases from $100 to $200 the monthly maximum compensation for directors of general-law water control and improvement districts and directors of municipal utility districts.

HOUSE BILL 1840
HOUSE AUTHOREHinojosa
SENATE SPONSOREUribe
The act authorizes two contiguous irrigation districts having a joint main canal and diversion system to combine their respective offices on suitable jointly owned land.

SENATE BILL 339
SENATE AUTHOREUribe
HOUSE SPONSORBERlanga
Under prior law, port development activities of navigation districts have been slowed by financial restrictions related to the sale of district land and facilities. Facilities financed with revenue bonds cannot be sold until the bonds are retired, and sales are effectively limited to surplus properties disposed of under bidding procedures. Senate Bill 339 amends this scheme, allowing a navigation district to issue revenue bonds to finance port facilities and to sell the facilities to private parties, the bonds to be retired from the proceeds of the sale. The new financing mechanism, as opposed to privately financed development, provides the advantages of tax-exempt bonds, resulting in lower interest rates. Under this new authority, a district may enter into installment sales or may lease port facilities. To protect district taxpayers, the act incorporates a prohibition on the use of taxes or general revenue to secure or retire debt incurred under the new financing mechanism.

SENATE BILL 346
SENATE AUTHORETraeger
HOUSE SPONSORESAunders
This act clarifies the status of law enforcement personnel employed by water control and improvement districts by including them among those peace officers enumerated in the Code of Criminal Procedure. A district may commission individuals as peace officers subject to their certification by the Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education.

SENATE BILL 588
SENATE AUTHOREJones
HOUSE SPONSORSLaneY
Senate Bill 588 grants to water control and improvement districts broad authority to enter into contracts with other public entities and private parties for the joint construction, ownership, and operation of properties or facilities. Under prior law, these joint activities were confined to contracts with other similar districts.

SENATE BILL 732
SENATE AUTHOREHenderson
HOUSE SPONSOREmnett
Senate Bill 732 provides that director elections for municipal utility districts, exclusive of initial director elections held in conjunction with a district's confirmation election, be scheduled on the first Saturday in April. Prior law provided for use of any of the four uniform election dates depending on when the district was confirmed.

SENATE BILL 733
SENATE AUTHOREHenderson
HOUSE SPONSOREmnett
Generally, a municipal utility district retains 10 percent from the progress payments it makes on construction contracts until completion of the contract work or, in the discretion of the board, until: (1) the contract work is half completed; and (2) the board finds satisfactory progress, after which remaining payments are made in full. Senate Bill 733 continues a district's exemption from paying interest on retained amounts, except for those retained subsequent to the project's halfway point. The interest rate, in the latter case, is based on certain rates paid on interest-bearing accounts by the district's depository bank.

Exempt transporters may still be required to register with the district.

Other Special Districts

SENATE BILL 606
EFFECTIVE: 7-1-83
Senate Bill 606, the 9-1-1 Emergency Number Act, is a population bracket law that applies to the entirety of Harris County and to portions of Harris County cities extending into adjacent counties. It authorizes the creation of a communication district to develop an emergency telephone system within that region. The system would utilize a uniform 9-1-1 number, enabling automatic transfer of a caller to fire-fighting, law enforcement, medical, or ambulance services having responsibility for the area from which the call originated. The system could be expanded to include certain other emergency services.

The act provides for the appointment of a board of managers and for the tentative establishment of the district pending a confirmation election. Voter confirmation would include, besides the establishment of the district, approval of an emergency service fee not to exceed two percent of the monthly base telephone rate. Subsequent to establishment, Harris County cities could participate at their individual option, as could the county itself, acting in behalf of unincorporated areas, the fee to be imposed only within participating jurisdictions. Voter rejection of the district, in contrast, would result in its dissolution although attempts at establishment could be renewed following a waiting period of one year.
The communication district would have the responsibility to design, implement, and operate a 9-1-1 emergency telephone system for each participating jurisdiction. Final plans for a jurisdiction, however, would require the approval of its governing body. The telephone company would collect the emergency service fee and make quarterly payments to the district. The district could issue tax-exempt bonds secured by this revenue.

HOUSE BILL 1229
EFFECTIVE: 5-24-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Cain, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Lyon

A 1979 law, amended in 1981, authorizes the creation of a regional transportation authority in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, or of separate subregional authorities centered around Dallas, Fort Worth, Arlington, or Grand Prairie. Procedures for an authority’s establishment call for the appointment of an interim executive committee to develop a transportation service plan and to propose a tax rate sufficient to support the transportation system envisioned by the plan. Participating local governments and area voters must approve the plan and tax rate, but thereafter the authority’s executive committee exercises broad powers over the transportation system.

House Bill 1229, enacted in response to unfavorable confirmation elections in the region, revises only the portion of the law applicable to the establishment of a Dallas area subregional authority. Its intent is to ensure additional public input, beyond the required local government and voter approval, should the executive committee propose to modify the original service plan or original transit routes subsequent to establishment of the authority. In general, House Bill 1229 requires a public hearing for any modification involving a new transit route, a change in fare, or a change in service affecting specified percentages of the transportation system’s total mileage. The hearing would have to be preceded by public notice of at least 30 days, via publication in an area newspaper and posting in transit vehicles affected by the modification. Certain temporary fare changes, seasonal service variations, and other limited adjustments could be undertaken without the necessity of a public hearing.

Stricter requirements apply to specified “major” changes in the service plan, primarily including those that add or relocate rail routes or transit support facilities. A public hearing would be required, preceded by 20 days’ notice to affected cities and counties and to property owners in the vicinity of the affected rail route or support facility. Approval would require a two-thirds vote of the executive committee and, if a new rail route was to be added, a favorable vote of the governing body of each affected city. Changes not defined as “major,” however, could be approved by a simple majority of the executive committee.

House Bill 1018 authorizes a rural fire prevention district, on the approval of the commissioners court of each county in which all or part of the district is located, to issue bonds and notes to support all authorized activities of the district. Bonds and notes are payable from ad valorem taxes and other revenue, receipts, or income of the district. Bonds or notes secured in whole or in part by taxes, in addition to being approved by the appropriate county commissioners courts, must be approved by district voters. The district at the time of issuance of those bonds or notes may levy a tax sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds and notes and to create and maintain reserve funds. A constitutional provision limiting the tax to three cents per $100 valuation still applies.

SENATE BILL 95

SENATE BILL 117
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

The federal government has consolidated assistance programs into block grants to the states to offer states greater discretion in their use of federal funds. Currently, Texas receives funds through eight block grants—primary care, preventive health, maternal and child health, elementary and secondary education, social services, energy assistance, substance abuse-mental health, and small cities’ community development. Senate Bill 117 governs the administration and disbursement of block grant funds and applies to any agency that receives block grant funds. The act requires the agency to hold public hearings, solicit written comments, contact interested parties, and promote public participation. The act also provides for an administrative hearing and judicial review for persons denied services or benefits of the grant programs. In addition, the act expresses the intent of the legislature that, where appropriate, an agency give priority to antipoverty programs.

Specific provisions are set out in the act regarding primary care block grants to be administered through the Texas Department of Health. The Community Health Center Advisory Committee is established by this act to advise the department and to adopt a plan that would enhance the availability, utilization, and coordination of the delivery of primary and supplemental health services to underserved areas and populations within the state.

SENATE BILL 194
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

Prior to this act, the terms of office for many state commissions and boards expired between November 1 and January 15. Senate Bill 194 prohibits a “lame duck” governor from filling vacancies in state and district offices after November 1 if the vacancy occurred before November 1. This act amends various statutes regarding appointments to state and district offices so that normal expiration dates for many appointments are changed to February 1 of odd-numbered years thereby creating vacancies at the beginning of a new governor’s term.

This proposed amendment of Article III, Section 62, of the Texas Constitution authorizes the legislature to provide for temporary succession to the office of state senator or representative when an incumbent becomes unavailable to carry out the duties of that office during emergencies caused by enemy attack. The proposed amendment also authorizes and establishes a mechanism for the suspension of certain constitutional legislative procedural rules during emergencies caused by enemy attack.
GOVERNMENT—SUNSET LEGISLATION

The Texas Sunset Act, enacted in 1977, provides for the cyclical review of specified state agencies and advisory committees and for their automatic termination unless reauthorized periodically by law. The legislature reviews six groups of agencies over a 12-year interval, with a different group being subject to review each biennium. If an agency is reauthorized, its life is extended for a subsequent interval, usually of 12 years, after which it is again subject to sunset review.

Thirty-two state agencies were scheduled for expiration or renewal in 1983. The 68th Legislature, in its regular and first called sessions, renewed 29 of those agencies while allowing three others to expire. Legislation to renew the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council failed to pass, while legislation to renew the Texas Historical Resources Development Council and the Texas Commission on Interstate Cooperation was not introduced. The first of these expiring agencies was appropriated funds for use through December 1, 1983, to complete a phase-out of its activities. The other two have been inactive in recent years; hence, effectively, they have already ceased operation.

The sunset evaluation process encourages the incorporation into renewal legislation of numerous reforms. Some of these are individual to a specific agency, but other standard reforms are applied more generally. Many of the 29 renewal statutes passed in 1983, for example, include provisions: (1) to require of agencies regular written reports or state audits; (2) to discourage ethics conflicts among agency board members, staff, or consultants; (3) to promote nondiscrimination in board member selection and staff composition; and (4) to increase public awareness and involvement with respect to agency activities. Provisions applicable to agency board members include the specification of grounds for removal from the board, where a member ceases to hold the requisite qualifications, violates ethics standards, or habitually fails to attend board meetings. Provisions applicable to agency staff, beyond those dealing with ethics, require an agency to implement programs for equal employment opportunity, merit pay, and career advancement. Provisions applicable to agency consultants prohibit all or certain types of lobbyists from serving in the role of legal counsel. Provisions applicable to the general public include the required distribution of information on an agency's functions, the required establishment of a system to handle problems or complaints filed with the agency, and the required conformity of agency deliberations to the state's open meetings and administrative procedures acts. Important examples of, or exceptions to, these general provisions are discussed in the individual agency bill summaries that follow.

Major Regulatory Agencies

SENATE BILL 232
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
HOUSE SPONSOR: Turner

Senate Bill 232 reenacts the Public Utility Regulatory Act. In so doing, it renews the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC), which regulates electric, telecommunications, and water and sewer utilities. It transfers to the PUC, due to the scheduled abolishment of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, certain energy programs formerly administered by that agency.

Numerous PUC regulatory changes support Texas consumers. One of these creates an office of public utility counsel, designed to represent residential and small commercial customers in certain PUC rate proceedings. The counsellor who heads this office is appointed by the governor and serves a two-year term. Other amendments delay conditional utility bill increases allowed prior to final PUC rate determinations, grant to municipalities standing in most rate proceedings affecting service within their corporate limits, allow the PUC to set guidelines for the termination of services to elderly or disabled customers who are delinquent in paying utility bills, require a PUC audit of each regulated utility at least once every 10 years, and modify restrictions on utilities' employment of former PUC commissioners or employees.

Utilities' rate bases are affected by an amendment requiring that rates reflect the original costs of capital investments rather than their adjusted value as allowed under prior law. Furthermore, utilities are limited in including within their rate structures the costs of construction work in progress. The rate set by the PUC may reflect current construction costs only if necessary to a utility's financial integrity.
Electric utilities, whose expansion of generating capacity is significantly affected by the new policies on capital investments, must provide the PUC advance notice of anticipated power plant construction. The PUC is directed to maintain an updated forecast of statewide energy needs, based in part on information required of regulated electric utilities. Compatibility with this forecast is to be a consideration in the PUC’s certification of new power plants.

Additionally, electric utilities’ ability to pass on to the consumer certain operating costs is affected by a prohibition on automatic fuel adjustments. Such adjustments, a feature of previous PUC regulation, had allowed utilities acting independently to fluctuate their rates to reflect increased fuel costs for electric generation. Under Senate Bill 232, rate changes due to fuel cost increases must be evaluated and approved by the PUC on a case-by-case basis.

A recent federal antitrust settlement provides for the divestiture of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and for the consequent breakup of the Bell telecommunications system. Senate Bill 232 amends the PUC’s regulatory authority over telecommunications utilities to take into account this change in the industry. Specifically, it ensures the continued regulation of long-distance telephone services and provides for the possibility of regulating the telecommunications market on a regional rather than statewide basis.

Senate Bill 232 does not significantly modify the PUC’s regulatory authority over water and sewer utilities beyond those changes that are applicable to utilities in general. It removes from the Public Utility Regulatory Act provisions concerning gas utility regulation by the Railroad Commission of Texas. Those provisions were instead reenacted, with amendments, as part of that agency’s sunset renewal legislation. Senate Bill 232 also contains many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter.

HOUSE BILL 593

HOUSE AUTHOR: Messer, et al.

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

SENATE SPONSOR: Howard

The Railroad Commission of Texas, a three-member elective body, was created by an 1890 constitutional provision for purposes of regulating intrastate railroads. Since then, its responsibilities have expanded to include regulation of oil and gas, commercial motor vehicles such as trucks and buses, and surface mining.

House Bill 593 renews the commission with few jurisdictional changes. The act exempts from commission regulation practically all taxicab operations, and it establishes the commission’s exclusive regulatory jurisdiction over mining of iron ore and iron ore gravel. Other changes include many of the reforms outlined at the beginning of this chapter.

A major regulatory change eases entry requirements for the trucking industry by making it easier for an applicant to demonstrate that his services are needed while placing a heavier burden on opponents to a permit application.

House Bill 593 also relaxes restrictions on trucking by Texas farmers and ranchers of agricultural products and livestock. Under prior law, these parties could obtain a 120-day permit to cover seasonal needs, allowing them to transport their products within a 75-mile area. Under the new law they can obtain a permit for a full year, and can transport their products freely throughout the state until such time as they relinquish ownership. Receipt of an agricultural trucking permit requires only compliance with certain safety and insurance requirements.

A part of this act is a new Gas Utility Regulatory Act, that provides the details for the commission’s regulation of gas utilities. Previously, much of the commission’s regulatory authority in this area was covered by the Public Utility Regulatory Act. The act includes various amendments to prior law, designed to provide greater balance between utilities and customers with respect to the setting of gas rates. Provision is made for an office of public counsel (the same as that referred to in the summary for Senate Bill 232) to represent customers in gas rate cases. Also, the act grants to municipalities standing in most gas rate cases affecting service within their corporate limits.

House Bill 593 also includes several amendments relating to the commission’s regulation of liquefied petroleum gas and a system to help combat the growing problem of crude oil thefts by strengthening commission enforcement, including a manifest system for crude oil shipments, enabling the oil to be traced from point to point by the use of accompanying documentation filed with the commission.
SENATE BILL 928
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Jones
HOUSE SPONSOR: Simpson

Senate Bill 928, which renews the State Board of Insurance, makes several changes in Texas insurance law. A change applicable to all insurance companies provides that those companies may not refuse to insure handicapped individuals, limit the amount or scope of their coverage, or charge them differential rates, except where justified by sound actuarial principles or by actual or anticipated experience. Another change, applicable to automobile and homeowner insurance companies, requires that they respond in writing to policyholders or applicants requesting to know why a policy was refused, revoked, or canceled. Finally, Senate Bill 928 requires title insurance companies to initiate proceedings in favor of the insured, or take other defined actions, whenever a valid title defect is reported, not just when a claim against the insured has actually arisen.

Provisions relevant to board administration revise its system of funding and accounting. Also, the act eliminates certain procedural inefficiencies associated with the chartering of insurance companies. License and examination fees for insurance agents are authorized to be increased, and the board is authorized to implement a staggered system of license renewals. Another provision sets a four-year statute of limitations on protesting insurance premium taxes. Senate Bill 928 enacts as well many of the reforms outlined at the beginning of this chapter.

Financial Regulatory Agencies

SENATE BILL 295
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
HOUSE SPONSOR: Schlueer

The Finance Commission of Texas oversees three financial regulatory agencies, presided over by the banking commissioner, savings and loan commissioner, and consumer credit commissioner. Its oversight duties include the appointment of the three commissioners, the approval of the three agencies' proposed budgets, and other related duties. Sunset legislation for the commission and its subsidiary agencies is found in four separate bills.

Senate Bill 295 renews the commission itself, increasing its size to 12 members. The commission is enlarged to include, besides its six-member banking section and three-member savings and loan section, a new three-member consumer credit section. The latter section is given rulemaking and appeal authority with respect to the office of consumer credit commissioner. Other provisions of Senate Bill 295 enact many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter.

SENATE BILL 294
EFFECTIVE: See below
SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

Senate Bill 294, which renews the office of banking commissioner and amends the enabling legislation for the Banking Department of Texas, expands the commissioner's authority with respect to trust companies. Going beyond current law, which authorizes examination of trust company operations, the new law provides for the imposition of various corrective sanctions whenever a trust company is discovered to be violating the law or employing unsafe or unsound financial practices. Another amendment removes from confidential status call reports and profit and loss statements submitted to the department by state banks. Other provisions of Senate Bill 294 enact many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter. One important change requires that all fees and other money received by the department be deposited in a special fund in the state treasury, thereby subjecting the department for the first time to the legislative appropriations process undergone by most other state agencies. Also, a variation on the ethics statutes added in the course of sunset review requires that new department employees sign notarized affidavits stating that they have read the statutes that apply to them. Senate Bill 294 takes effect September 1, 1983, except for the treasury deposit change, which takes effect September 1, 1985.

SENATE BILL 149
EFFECTIVE: See below
SENATE AUTHOR: Henderson
HOUSE SPONSOR: Messer

Senate Bill 149, which renews the office of savings and loan commissioner and amends legislation relating to the Savings and Loan Department of Texas, adds new provisions to state law pertaining to changes of control among state-chartered savings and loan associations. It requires the commissioner's approval for any acquisition, if after the acquisition the entity acquiring the interest would own 25 percent or more of the voting stock of an association, reserving the power of disapproval if the acquisition would adversely affect competition or the financial stability or other best interests of the association. The new law also adds provisions authorizing a special charter for persons seeking to take over a savings and loan association deemed by the commissioner to be in unsafe financial condition. An association, when reorganized in this fashion, would be subject to capitalization requirements set by the commissioner rather than to the normal requirements specified by statute. Other changes pertinent to state-chartered savings and loan associations subject them to provisions in the Uniform Commercial Code relating to collecting and processing checks, and enable them to offer the same types of loans and accounts presently allowed federally chartered savings and loan associations.

As with the case of the Banking Department of Texas, the Savings and Loan Department of Texas is made subject to the legislative appropriations process by a requirement channelling its revenue into the state treasury. This requirement takes effect September 1, 1985, in contrast to the other provisions of Senate Bill 149, which take effect September 1, 1983. The sunset legislation for the commissioner and department contains many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter but omits the requirement that the department establish an equal employment opportunity program.

SENATE BILL 405

SENAE AUTHOR: McFarland

HOUSE SPONSOR: Coody

The office of consumer credit commissioner enforces provisions of the state's consumer credit code and regulates finance companies, small lenders, and pawnshops. Senate Bill 405 renews the office, enacting in the process important amendments dealing with interest rates on credit-card purchases and retail charge accounts. The interest-rate amendments are summarized elsewhere, in the chapter on business and occupational regulation.

Otherwise, Senate Bill 405 incorporates many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, and in addition requires the commissioner to adequately inform office personnel of applicable ethics statutes. Like the two other agencies under the Finance Commission of Texas, the office is required to deposit all money collected by it in a special fund in the state treasury, thus making the office subject to the legislative appropriations process. Additional changes: (1) give the commissioner discretion to deny pawnshop permits or pawnshop employee permits to persons convicted of certain felonies or misdemeanors; and (2) exempt from licensing requirements for small consumer loans all banks and savings and loan associations. The treasury deposit provisions take effect September 1, 1985; the interest-rate provisions, July 1, 1983; and all other provisions, May 24, 1983.

HOUSE BILL 1054

HOUSE AUTHORE: Messer

SENATE SPONSOR: Washington

House Bill 1054 renews the Credit Union Commission and revises the Texas Credit Union Act to increase the flexibility of operations of state credit unions. The revisions broaden the range of investments authorized of credit unions, broaden the range of depositors authorized to have accounts with credit unions, and broaden the range of services that credit unions may offer their members. At the discretion of the commission, dependent on its adoption of appropriate rules, credit unions may expand their range of investments even further.

Other revisions strengthen the enforcement powers of the Credit Union Commission. House Bill 1054 establishes as a third degree felony a lie or other action intended to deceive commission examiners or investigators. The new law specifies grounds under which the commission can invoke administrative sanctions against a credit union, and it allows the commission to remove credit union officials or to appoint a conservator for a credit union whenever legal violations threaten the credit union's solvency.

House Bill 1054 contains many of the sunset reforms mentioned at the beginning of this chapter. It directs commission revenue to the state treasury, thereby making the commission subject to the legislative appropriations process, and it contains standard sunset provisions relating to the resolution of complaints filed against regulated interests. The new complaint provisions and the revenue transfer provisions take effect September 1, 1985. Requirements for submission of a proposed biennial budget to the legislature take effect earlier, however, on January 1, 1984. All other portions of House Bill 1054 take effect September 1, 1983.
SENATE BILL 106
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

The reauthorizing legislation for the State Securities Board, Senate Bill 106, strengthens criminal sanctions for fraudulent securities activities. It increases the maximum penalties for certain offenses to 20 years in prison and a fine of $10,000, and provides for the filing of a legal suit by the attorney general to secure restitution for defrauded investors. The statute of limitations for offenses involving securities fraud is set at five years.

Senate Bill 106 amends appeals procedures for persons denied security registration, entitling them to a hearing before the board and allowing subsequent judicial review according to the substantial evidence rule. The new law amends license renewal requirements for securities agents and provides for voluntary continuing education programs for agents, the programs to be conducted by the board. It gives the securities commissioner, the agency chief executive appointed by the board, discretion to waive restrictions or requirements in the board’s rules if, in a particular case, the waiver will not impair the protection of investors. Senate Bill 106 contains several other minor amendments and incorporates many of the sunset reforms described at the beginning of this chapter.

SENATE BILL 151
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

The State Banking Board, staff support for which is provided by the Banking Department of Texas, consists of the banking commissioner, state treasurer, and one citizen member. It considers charter applications and amendments for state banks, orders the closing and liquidation of banks found to be insolvent, and adjudicates disputes concerning the use of electronic teller machines. Senate Bill 151 reauthorizes the board with few changes. It provides that: (1) financial statements of applicant bank officers or directors are confidential; (2) 10 days’ public notice on bank charter hearings is required; (3) ethics and antidiscrimination provisions are applicable, primarily, to the appointment of the board’s citizen member; (4) the board is required to maintain complaint files; and (5) the board is subject to the state’s open meetings and administrative procedures acts.

SENATE BILL 100
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 100 renews the State Depository Board, the major task of which is to select banks to serve as depositories for state funds. It adds to the board the comptroller of public accounts, who joins the state treasurer and banking commissioner as an ex officio member. The fourth member, a citizen appointed by the governor, is made subject to certain ethics provisions. The renewal legislation expands authorized investment alternatives to include United States treasury bills and security repurchase agreements, subject to the limitations that investments in the former may not exceed 10 percent of the average daily balance of eligible funds and that investments in the latter may be made only with state or national banks in Texas. Senate Bill 100 also authorizes deposits in insured savings and loan associations, in an amount up to 20 percent of the aggregate funds on deposit. Demand deposits, as opposed to time deposits, are limited to centrally located depositories and to other depositories considered necessary by the board to accommodate routine monetary transactions by the state.

Intergovernmental Agencies

SENATE BILL 137
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

The Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has the function of improving coordination and cooperation among counties, cities, school districts, other political subdivisions, the state, and the federal government. Senate Bill 137 renews the commission with few changes. The reauthorizing legislation adds, from among the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, provisions relating to: (1) disqualification of lobbyists from acting as general counsel to the commission; (2) grounds for removal of commission members; (3) development of merit pay and career advancement programs; (4) maintenance of complaint files; (5) distribution of literature on the commission’s functions; (6) applicability of the state’s open meetings and administrative procedures acts; (7) submission of an annual report to the governor and legislative presiding officers; and (8) annual audits by the state auditor.
SENATE BILL 315
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Traeger
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

The Texas Department of Community Affairs assists local governments in providing community services and acts as a conduit for the distribution of related federal and state funding. Senate Bill 315, in renewing the department, broadens its statutory responsibilities to include administration of the community development block grant portion of the federal Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981. The department is further authorized, through the establishment of an energy services program for persons of low income, to administer funds for energy crisis assistance and for home weatherization. Senate Bill 315 changes the composition of the department’s advisory council on community affairs, and it provides for the creation of a 12-member community development review committee appointed by the governor to advise the department on its exercise of the block grant responsibilities outlined above. The reauthorizing legislation also enacts many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter.

SENATE BILL 101
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Howard
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

Senate Bill 101 renews the office of the interstate oil compact commissioner for Texas. The only amendment to prior law requires that the commissioner file an annual report, to be included in the annual financial report of the governor’s office, on Texas’ participation in the compact.

SENATE BILL 273
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

Senate Bill 273 renews the office of the interstate mining compact commissioner for Texas, which is filled by the governor, or, in his or her absence, by an alternate selected from among an 11-member advisory Texas Mining Council. The reauthorizing legislation designates the alternate as chair of the council, adds ethics provisions relating to council members and employees, and provides for removal of council members if they cease to hold requisite qualifications or if they violate the new ethics provisions. Senate Bill 273 requires the filing of an annual report with the legislature on the state’s participation in the compact. It is to be included as part of the annual financial report of the governor’s office.

SENATE BILL 272
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

Senate Bill 272 modifies the composition of the Texas delegation to the Southern States Energy Board, known formerly as the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board. The Texas delegation to the Southern States Energy Board is to consist of not only an appointee of the governor, as before, but also a senator appointed by the lieutenant governor and a state representative appointed by the speaker of the house. Collectively, the delegation exercises one vote on the board. Senate Bill 272 amends prior law to conform to changes, adopted by the compact in 1978, expanding its scope to include all forms of energy and related environmental concerns.

SENATE BILL 225
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee
HOUSE SPONSOR: G. Hill

The Commission on Uniform State Laws, composed of six members of the state bar who are appointed by the governor, focuses on needed consistency between the laws of Texas and those of other states. Senate Bill 225 renews the commission, providing that appointees shall include at least one legal educator and at least one state judge. The reauthorizing legislation adds ethics and disqualification provisions related to the commission, makes the commission subject to the state’s open meetings act, requires the state auditor annually to audit the commission’s finances, and designates the Texas Legislative Council to provide the commission with administrative support.

_Cultural Agencies_

SENATE BILL 427
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton
HOUSE SPONSOR: Bomer

Senate Bill 427 reauthorizes the Texas State Library and Archives Commission and modifies its responsibilities with respect to management of state government records and coordination of Texas public libraries. It creates the records management and preservation advisory committee, which replaces a similar previous advisory committee and reflects a change of membership to represent state agencies holding the bulk of essential state government records. Senate Bill 427 also amends the Library Systems Act, under which the state's public libraries are organized into 10 major resource systems, each clustered around a large municipal library that serves as a resource center for other libraries in the vicinity. The amendments authorize, as an alternative, conversion to regional library systems administered by nonprofit corporations or private businesses. Changes to the act also alter the composition of the regional advisory councils associated with either type of system and restructure formula funding for the systems so as to make provision of such funding conditional on the exercise of financial oversight by the commission. The commission, in addition, is authorized to coordinate and encourage the dissemination of specialized library resources and services. Senate Bill 427 enacts many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, requires the commission to inform members and staff of applicable ethics statutes, and places the commission fully within the legislative appropriations process.

SENATE BILL 134
SENATE AUTHOR: Jones
HOUSE SPONSOR: G. Thompson

The Texas Commission on the Arts provides assistance to statewide arts programs through the distribution of state and federal grants. Senate Bill 134, in renewing the commission, revises grant allocation procedures. It: (1) requires applicants to specify a minimum and maximum amount for requested funds; (2) requires the commission to submit applications for recommendations by an advisory panel of consultants; and (3) prohibits the commission from allocating grants discriminatorily on the basis of ethnic or other characteristics. The new law enacts many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, and it includes the commission in the legislative appropriations process by requiring all donations to the commission to be deposited in the state treasury. Open meetings provisions adopted under Senate Bill 134 apply both to the commission and to its consultants.

SENATE BILL 135
SENATE AUTHOR: Jones
HOUSE SPONSOR: G. Thompson

Senate Bill 135, which renews the Texas Historical Commission, authorizes fees to cover costs to the commission of reviewing certain historical projects or proposals. A major substantive change requires state agencies anticipating the construction or lease of new office space to obtain and review a commission list of historical structures suitable for the expansion. In addition, Senate Bill 135 allows the state archaeologist to conceal information, the disclosure of which to the public poses a threat to the safety of archeological or historical resources. The new law includes many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, and it requires the commission to provide members and staff with information on applicable ethics statutes.

SENATE BILL 231
SENATE AUTHOR: Brown, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: Emmett

Senate Bill 231 renews the Antiquities Committee, the function of which is to protect archeological and historical resources on public lands. The reauthorizing legislation modifies the composition of the committee and increases its size from seven to nine members with the addition of representatives from the Texas Department of Water Resources and State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Detailed specifications in Senate Bill 231 describe the procedures and criteria the committee is to follow when a campus building has been proposed for designation as an historic landmark and the designation has been contested by the college or university on which it is located. Other specifications require that state agencies furnish to the State Purchasing and General Services Commission, for forwarding to the Antiquities Committee, annual inventories of agency buildings that are at least 45 years old. A building of this age may not be altered, renovated, or demolished, unless the committee is notified for purposes of determining its status as a landmark. Senate Bill 231 also prohibits salvage operations at sunken ship sites. Scientific investigations of these sites are allowed, but artifacts no longer may be removed as compensation for investigative efforts. The Antiquities Committee, under Senate Bill 231, is made responsible for curatorial arrangements for artifacts and other materials for which state agencies lack appropriate facilities. Other provisions of the new legislation enact many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter.
SENATE BILL 155
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: McFarland
HOUSE SPONSOR: C. Evans

Senate Bill 155, in renewing the Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education, toughens training and licensing requirements applicable to Texas law enforcement officers. It: (1) removes, beginning September 1, 1984, all training exemptions based on prior experience; (2) restricts reappointment of probationary officers who have yet to complete requisite training; (3) requires, for licensing of new officers, passage of a commission examination in addition to the requisite training; and (4) directs governmental entities employing law enforcement officers to provide them, at least once every two years, with refresher training courses of up to 40 hours length. A training institution, to receive accreditation by the commission, must establish an advisory board on curriculum, with at least one-third of the board's members drawn from the general public. Combined work and training for trainees may not exceed 40 hours per week.

The reauthorizing legislation establishes specific qualifications for the nine appointed members of the commission. Ex officio members are increased from four to five with the addition of the executive director of the governor's criminal justice division, and the authority of these members is revised to specify that they may not vote on matters before the commission. At least once every two years, the commission is required to convene to receive public comments and recommendations related to law enforcement training and standards. It must report on the public hearing to the governor and legislature, in addition to other reports which are newly required of it as part of standard sunset reforms enacted by the new law.

SENATE BILL 368
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Sarpaliius
HOUSE SPONSOR: Polk

Senate Bill 368, in a departure from other sunset renewal measures extending agencies until 1995, extends the life of the Council for Social Work Certification until 1987 and provides that subsequent sunset review shall occur in conjunction with that of the Texas Department of Human Resources. The new law amends experience requirements for different levels of social workers, and it amends the qualifications of council members to conform to the new experience requirements. Senate Bill 368 amends educational requirements, as well. It includes many of the reforms outlined at the beginning of this chapter, and it adds occupational regulatory provisions concerning council examination procedures and social-work advertising.

SENATE BILL 112
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Sarpaliius
HOUSE SPONSOR: Clark

The Advisory Council for Technical-Vocational Education was created in 1969 pursuant to a congressional act providing funding to states for vocational education. Senate Bill 112 renews the council, revising its duties to conform to present federal law. Changes in the composition of the council reduce its size from 25 to 24 members. Another change, related to the council's responsibility to evaluate state governmental programs in the field of technical-vocational education, directs the State Board of Education annually to submit to the council a list of topics for evaluation. Senate Bill 112 also enacts many of the reforms mentioned at the beginning of this chapter.

SENATE BILL 329
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Edwards
HOUSE SPONSOR: Arnold

The Texas Committee on Purchases of Products and Services of Blind and Severely Disabled Persons is concerned with state purchases from the handicapped. Senate Bill 329 renews the committee, reducing its size from 12 to nine members. The Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, and State Commission for the Blind are to share equally in reimbursing expenses of committee members who do not represent state agencies. The State Commission for the Blind is to serve as the paying agent for these reimbursements and as the depository for committee records. The renewal legislation provides for a three-member subcommittee to review data on fair market prices for purchases, and it sets forth procedures for the submission of annual budget requests by nonprofit agencies participating in the committee's program. Other changes include many of the reforms cited at the beginning of the chapter, among them a requirement for an annual report containing several enumerated items of information.
SENATE BILL 114

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Located in Washington, D.C., with support staff in Austin, the Office of State-Federal Relations serves as a liaison between the State of Texas and federal government. Senate Bill 114 renews the office with few changes. The legislation adds, from among the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter, provisions relating to: (1) the disqualification of lobbyists from acting as general counsel for the office; (2) the development of merit pay and career advancement programs; (3) distribution of literature on the functions of the office; (4) maintenance of complaint files; (5) applicability of the state's open meetings act; and (6) annual audits by the state auditor.

SENATE BILL 180

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 180 renews the Industrial Accident Board, which administers compensation programs for injured workers and victims of crime. Amendments to workers' compensation law alter procedures concerning the filing with the board of: (1) reports on injured workers; (2) notice of employers obtaining coverage from insurance carriers; and (3) notice of employer name and address changes. Prior law required the board, by means of judicial suit, to prove deliberate failure or refusal on the part of employers or insurance carriers to comply with these reporting and notification requirements before it could impose penalties. The new law, in contrast, enables the board to impose penalties by means of administrative hearings and eliminates its burden of proof. Appeals of board penalties may be initiated in the district court of Travis County. Additional workers' compensation provisions authorize the board to establish voluntary arbitration panels in cases of disputed medical fees or charges and require hospitals to furnish injured workers or their attorneys free copies of certain medical reports and records.

Amendments to the crime victims compensation law direct the board to take steps to balance awards to victims with receipts derived from court cost assessments against criminals. The maximum award is reduced from $50,000 to $25,000, and the board is authorized to deny awards to residents within the jurisdiction of any court it finds to be neglectful in collecting the assessments. Other provisions of Senate Bill 180 enact many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter. The board is directed to provide its members and employees with information on applicable ethics requirements.

SENATE BILL 105

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 105 changes the name of the Industrial Commission to the Texas Economic Development Commission and increases its membership from 12 to 15 with the addition of three more public members. The governor is authorized to appoint the chair, in contrast to prior law under which the chair was elected by members. Senate Bill 105 also modifies the composition of the commission's advisory council on small business assistance. Substantively, it requires that the commission adopt guidelines describing blighted or economically depressed areas that are eligible for the state's industrial revenue bond program and requires that Texas cities participating in the program consider the guidelines in designating such areas.

HOUSE BILL 2 (1st C.S.)

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

The Texas Employment Commission administers the state unemployment compensation program and provides services to match employers with prospective job applicants. The commission failed to be renewed during the regular session but was continued by an act passed in the first called session. House Bill 2 includes in the commission's legislation many of the reforms cited at the beginning of this chapter. It provides that commissioners may be impeached if they: (1) are absent from all commission meetings held during a 60-day period; (2) are unable to discharge their duties due to illness or disabilities; or (3) violate specified prohibitions on outside affiliations. House Bill 2 abolishes all existing advisory councils of the commission, and replaces them with a single 15-member state advisory council. The act also provides for the appointment of an agency administrator to serve as chief executive of the agency.

A change applicable to all insurance companies provides that such companies may not refuse to insure handicapped individuals, limit the amount or scope of their coverage, or charge them differential rates, except where justified by sound actuarial principles or by actual or anticipated experience. Another change, applicable to automobile and homeowner insurance companies, requires that the insurer respond in writing to policyholders or applicants requesting to know why a policy was refused, revoked, or canceled. Finally, Senate Bill 928 requires title insurance companies to initiate proceedings in favor of the insured whenever a valid title defect is reported, not just when a claim against the insured has actually arisen.
Provisions relevant to board administration revise its system of funding and accounting and eliminate certain procedural inefficiencies associated with the chartering of insurance companies. License and examination fees for insurance agents may be increased under authorizations in the act, and the board is authorized to implement a staggered system of license renewals. Another provision sets a four-year statute of limitations on protesting insurance premium taxes.

SENATE BILL 579
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Leedom
HOUSE SPONSOR: Barrientos

Current state statutes allow for the issuance of a temporary license to any person who submits an application to operate a migrant labor housing facility. A substandard or condemned facility could operate under a temporary license until an inspection is made by the Texas Department of Health. Senate Bill 579 abolishes temporary licenses and allows licenses to be issued only after inspection has determined the facility meets the department standards. The act also requires the Texas Department of Health to conduct inspections within 30 days after it receives an application and provides for reinspection of substandard housing facilities. This act increases license fees and provides that a person operating a migrant labor housing facility without a license is subject to a civil penalty rather than the previously prescribed misdemeanor criminal penalty.

Workers’ Compensation

HOUSE BILL 68
EFFECTIVE: 5-17-83
HOUSE AUTHOR: Criss
SENATE SPONSOR: Mauzy

House Bill 68 amends current law to provide that if an insurance carrier provides medical benefits to an employee for a claim that is denied by the association under the workers’ compensation program, the employee may assign his right to recovery under workers’ compensation to the insurance carrier.
Texas law provides that when death occurs as the result of an injury after a period of total or partial incapacity for which workers’ compensation benefits have been paid, the weekly death benefits paid to beneficiaries must be reduced by the amount of workers’ compensation benefits received before the death. Current law provides lifetime death benefits for certain widows and widowers and extended benefits for the children of the deceased employee. House Bill 99 exempts a widow, widower, or children from having to repay workers’ compensation benefits before receiving weekly death benefits in cases in which workers’ compensation benefits have been paid prior to death.

In 1977, the 65th Legislature provided that workers’ compensation would pay a maximum of $1,250 in funeral benefits for the burial of an employee. Because the cost of a funeral and burial has increased, House Bill 131 increases the maximum funeral benefit under workers’ compensation to $2,500.

A prime contractor and a subcontractor are permitted by this act to enter into a written contract to provide workers’ compensation benefits to the subcontractor and the subcontractor’s employees. The act establishes that under the contract the subcontractor and his employees shall be considered employees of the prime contractor only for the purpose of workers’ compensation. This act also includes definitions for subcontractor and prime contractor.

House Bill 2081 amends current law by adding a new provision that specifies a deadline for an insurance carrier to begin paying workers’ compensation payments. The bill authorizes the Industrial Accident Board and the commissioner of the State Board of Insurance to enforce payment of workers’ compensation benefits by private carriers and self-insurers. Under this act insurance carriers must begin payment on indemnity compensation or medical benefits within 20 days after notice or file a statement with the Industrial Accident Board as to why payments were not begun. This act also authorizes the Industrial Accident Board to penalize an insurance carrier who does not promptly and adequately investigate claims.

The Texas Workers’ Compensation Act provides that in a workers’ compensation case in which there is a compensable death claim but no eligible beneficiary, the association pays the amount of the benefit to the Industrial Accident Board for deposit in the second injury fund. The current law also provides a limit on this fund. Once the total amount in the fund reaches $750,000, no further payments are required until the amount in the fund is reduced below $300,000. The Industrial Accident Board has expressed concern that such a limit is inadvisable because of the high cost of lifetime benefits. House Bill 2106 removes the $750,000 limit and requires carriers in such a case to pay 360 weeks of benefits into the fund.

House Bill 2107 clarifies conflicting language concerning lump-sum settlements of death benefits to provide that the lump-sum settlements may not be made in violation of the workers’ compensation law.

This act extends the statute of limitations for filing workers’ compensation claims from six months to one year after occurrence of injury, manifestation of occupational disease, or physical or mental incapacity.
SENATE BILL 311
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 311 relates to disputes involving medical, hospital, nursing, chiropractic, and podiatric service payments in workers' compensation settlements and judgments. It provides that such a dispute be presented to the Industrial Accident Board. Suits may be brought to appeal the rulings of the board.

EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 864 provides for court-awarded attorney's fees, in lump sum, in certain death benefit cases where liability is not admitted or is in dispute.

Unemployment Benefits

HOUSE BILL 340
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 340 closes a loophole that allowed a seller of a business to take advantage of the unemployment benefits program. This act disqualifies from benefit eligibility a person who is an officer or majority or controlling shareholder in a corporation, a limited partner, or a sole proprietor if that person is involved in the sale of the corporation, partnership, or sole proprietorship. This disqualification lasts from the date of the sale until the person becomes eligible on the basis of income earned through new employment.

HOUSE BILL 896
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 896 amends the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act relating to the repayment of Texas' federal loan for unemployment compensation benefits and to the financing of interest payments on the federal loan. The act seeks to restore the state unemployment compensation fund to a secure level of solvency. It alters the taxing mechanism to redistribute the tax burden among all classes of employers.

HOUSE BILL 1352
EFFECTIVE: 4-19-83

In 1981 record unemployment in Texas depleted the Texas unemployment compensation trust fund. In September, 1982, the 67th Legislature passed House Bill 1 establishing the advance interest trust fund, thus permitting the governor to borrow from the federal unemployment trust fund to enable the state to continue unemployment benefits. The advance interest trust fund is financed by a surcharge levied on Texas payroll taxes. Although House Bill 1 helped maintain solvency in the Texas unemployment compensation trust fund, continued unemployment in Texas has created a need for an additional loan request. To authorize this additional request, an increase in the advance interest trust fund is necessary to cover the interest payments on the federal money Texas borrowed last year. House Bill 1352 will establish a one-time surtax of five percent on the amount of payroll taxes paid by Texas employers in 1982. The revenue gained from this surtax will pay the interest the state owes the federal government and will allow the state to continue borrowing federal money for unemployment benefits.

HOUSE BILL 1401
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Most private employers pay an unemployment-fund tax based on the amount of unemployment benefits paid to their former employees. Government agencies do not pay the tax, nor do other entities that choose to be "reimbursing employers." These government and private reimbursers repay the unemployment fund directly each quarter for the benefits paid to their former employees. House Bill 1401 establishes a fee to be paid by a reimbursing employer to cover the administration costs of a claim presented under the reimbursement system. The act also provides that if an employer is charged for benefits for a former employee, and that person is later determined to have been ineligible for benefits, the benefits shall be collected from the claimant and the charges shall be refunded to the employer's account by the Texas Employment Commission.
SENATE BILL 230

EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

SENATE AUTHOR: Brown

HOUSE SPONSOR: Saunders

Senate Bill 230 amends state law to delete the requirement that students of a public educational institution involved in work-study programs be less than 22 years old to be denied unemployment benefits. No student working in a work-study program can receive unemployment benefits if he loses the work-study job, regardless of his age. The act clarifies that a student employee who works in an apprenticeship training program or as a teaching assistant is eligible for unemployment compensation.

SENATE BILL 448

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

SENATE AUTHOR: Caperton

HOUSE SPONSOR: Criss

If state unemployment compensation regulations fail to conform with federal regulations, Texas employers become subject to the full federal tax rate. Elimination of the state tax credit would drastically increase taxes for Texas employers. Senate Bill 448 brings state law into compliance with new federal regulations relating to participation in approved training programs, changes in extended benefit periods, trade readjustment allowances, and child support payment deductions. This act also ensures compliance with federal directives that provide benefits to certain nonprofessional employees of educational institutions.
MENTAL HEALTH AND MENTAL RETARDATION

In the area of mental health and mental retardation, the 68th Legislature passed several measures relating to commitment procedure, including a substantive revision of the Texas Mental Health Code. Many of the acts are designed to protect a person's individual rights to liberty and dignity.

HOUSE BILL 2058
HOUSE AUTHORIZED: Millsap
SENATE SPONSOR: McFarland
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Under previous law, a person with a serious drug problem could be committed to a hospital for court-ordered treatment only if the person was addicted to narcotics. House Bill 2058 expands the list of drugs and substances for which court-ordered treatment may be sought in the civil court system. The term "drug dependency" is used in place of "addiction to narcotics," and the list of controlled substances includes toxic inhalants as well as any substance designated as a controlled substance in the Texas Controlled Substances Act. The act outlines the procedure for court-ordered commitment of a drug-dependent person and changes the procedure for obtaining an order of protective custody to satisfy constitutional requirements.

HOUSE BILL 500
HOUSE AUTHORIZED: Peveto
SENATE SPONSOR: Glasgow
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

House Bill 500 changes the membership of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation review board, which determines whether a person who is committed to the department is manifestly dangerous and requires treatment in a maximum security unit. Under previous law, the board was composed of three psychiatrists appointed by the commissioner of the department. This act provides that the board shall be composed of five members appointed by the commissioner, one of whom is to be a psychiatrist and two of whom are to be persons who work directly with mental health patients or mentally retarded clients. The act also clarifies the effect a finding of nondangerousness has on a person's status as a patient.

SENATE BILL 435
SENATE AUTHORIZED: Farabee
HOUSE SPONSOR: DeLay
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 435 is a substantive revision of the Texas Mental Health Code, resulting from recommendations of the Mental Health Code Task Force that was established in 1981 by a resolution of the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. The act updates and clarifies language of the mental health code; defines criteria for state-ordered involuntary care and treatment; establishes procedures for obtaining facts, carrying out examinations, and making decisions relating to mental health care in the most prompt and fair manner possible; and includes provisions safeguarding the legal rights of patients. It also revises procedures for voluntary in-patient mental health services and for emergency procedures. The protective custody sections of the code alleviate the constitutional concerns raised by the November 24, 1982, court decision that found the protective custody laws for the mentally ill then in force to be in violation of an individual's right to due process.

SENATE BILL 213
SENATE AUTHORIZED: Farabee, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: Hury
EFFECTIVE: 2-24-83

Senate Bill 213 was passed as an emergency measure in response to a November 24, 1982, United States District Court ruling that the protective custody provisions of the Texas Mental Health Code were in violation of an individual's right of due process and thereby unconstitutional. The act requires proper notification of the issuance of an order of protective custody, requires that a hearing for probable cause be held within 72 hours, clarifies detention procedures, provides for continued detention in an appropriate facility pending a final commitment hearing, and clarifies the physicians' certificate requirements. This act expires August 31, 1983. These same provisions are contained in Senate Bill 435, the revision of the mental health code, which takes effect September 1, 1983.

SENATE BILL 1278
SENATE AUTHORIZED: Farabee
HOUSE SPONSOR: Hury
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

The act also requires the department to hold seminars in various areas of the state on the changes made by the new code.
HOUSE BILL 338

HOUSE AUTHOR: Millsap, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Parmer

The act provides procedures for the transfer of these facilities to the community centers.

SENATE BILL 126

SENATE AUTHOR: Traeger
HOUSE SPONSOR: DeLay

Senate Bill 126 authorizes the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to obtain from the Department of Public Safety pertinent conviction data on applicants to whom an offer of employment has been made for a position having direct contact with mental health or mentally retarded clients. SENATE BILL 392

SENATE AUTHOR: Leedom
HOUSE SPONSOR: Wright

Senate Bill 392 clarifies the requirements for a trust, of which a mentally retarded person is beneficiary, to be exempted from charges for fees for support, maintenance, or treatment of the person by a residential care facility operated by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. It also specifies those items not considered trusts for the purpose of this exemption.

SENATE BILL 407

SENATE AUTHOR: Doggett
HOUSE SPONSOR: D. Lee

The State Funds Reform Act of 1981 requires that funds received by a state agency be deposited in the state treasury, credited to particular accounts, and subject to appropriation only for authorized purposes. This requirement has resulted in delays in paying sheltered workshop clients for their completed work. Senate Bill 407 provides that money in certain sheltered workshop operating funds is to be held in trust by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for the benefit of workshop participants.

SENATE BILL 393

Matagorda Island, located near Port O'Connor, is divided among three owners. The State of Texas owns about 16,370 acres, about 19,000 acres are federal government land, and 11,000 acres are privately owned.

The state has long been interested in the federal property since it includes much of the prime wildlife areas. The 66th Legislature created the Matagorda Island State Park and Wildlife Management Area.

In 1982, Texas entered into an agreement with the federal government under which the Parks and Wildlife Department will manage the federal land along with the state-owned land. Senate Bill 249 amends the law establishing the Matagorda Island State Park and Wildlife Management Area to eliminate the provision that it is to be used primarily for public recreational purposes and to add that the park also be used for wildlife conservation. The 67th Legislature authorized an interim committee to study the fees collected by state agencies for certain specific and definable services and to recommend desired changes. Licenses and fees increased by the provisions of this act include resident hunting and fishing license from $5 to $8; resident exempt, from $1.25 to $5; resident combination hunting and fishing license, from $8.75 to $12; white winged dove stamp, from $3 to $6; and archery hunting stamp, from $3.25 to $6.

A rural homestead is defined as up to 200 acres of land, and an urban homestead is defined as a lot or lots valued at no more than $10,000 when purchased, without regard to the value of the improvements on the land. General Legislation

This amendatory act deletes an obsolete provision of the Tax Code requiring the board of directors of an appraisal district to meet on October 1 of each year to receive the chief appraiser’s proposed budget.

HOUSE BILL 590
EFFECTIVE:  6-16-83

House Bill 590 amends the Education Code by requiring a school district’s board of trustees to adopt a budget for the succeeding fiscal year prior to the adoption of the tax rate for the same fiscal year.

HOUSE BILL 645
EFFECTIVE:  9-1-83

Existing provisions of the Tax Code authorize two types of elections to consolidate property tax assessing functions, collecting functions, or both. The first type of election authorized is one by which the voters residing in an appraisal district petition for an election to determine whether to consolidate these functions for all taxing units within the district. The functions could be assigned to the appraisal district itself, to the county tax assessor-collector, or to a taxing unit. This act specifies that the petition must be submitted to the county clerk of the county principally served by the appraisal district. The act also transfers the responsibility for determining the validity of the petition from the board of directors of the district to the county commissioner’s court.

The second type of election authorized is one by which the voters of a single taxing unit that handles its own assessing or collecting functions petition to require the appraisal district, the county tax assessor-collector, or another taxing unit to perform those functions. This act specifies that the petition must be submitted to the governing body of the taxing unit. The act also deletes a provision stating that if the governing body fails to act within 10 days after submission of the petition, the petition is treated as if it had been found valid.

Certain provisions are also added to the Tax Code stipulating that a person’s signature may not be counted for purposes of validating a petition if the signature is not dated or is not signed within 30 days preceding the submission of the petition.

HOUSE BILL 1203
EFFECTIVE:  8-29-83

In accordance with two 1982 constitutional amendments, the act deletes references and provisions relating to the now-abolished state property tax and adds a provision exempting implements of husbandry that are used in the production of farm or ranch products from property taxation.

Additionally, property tax relief for owners of residence homesteads authorized by a 1981 constitutional amendment is incorporated into the Tax Code by the act.

HOUSE BILL 1447

Provisions of the Property Tax Code stipulating that an official or agency required to deliver a notice to a property owner may deliver the notice by regular first-class mail are amended to provide that such a notice is presumed delivered when it is deposited in the mail. This presumption is rebuttable when evidence of failure to receive notice is provided.

HOUSE BILL 2031
EFFECTIVE:  9-1-83

In 1977, the 65th Legislature enacted The Texas Assessors Registration and Professional Certification Act to promote the practice of property assessment as a learned profession and to oblige property assessors to be accountable to the public. The act applies to those who appraise (determine the value of) property for taxation as well as those who assess (calculate) or collect property taxes. House Bill 2031, a comprehensive revision of The Texas Assessors Registration and Professional Certification Act, seeks to retain basic principles of the act.
while eliminating provisions that have become outdated or are inconsistent with other laws due to numerous changes in property tax administration since 1977.

The act is now titled "The Property Taxation Professional Certification Act" and the board established to administer its provisions is now titled the "Board of Tax Professional Examiners." Provisions of the original act which detailed administrative procedures and rules for the classification and certification of registrants are deleted and replaced by provisions granting the board a more general power in these areas. The board is required to adopt a classification system and to establish minimum requirements for each classification based on experience, education, training, professional performance, and compliance with the code of ethics. The board is further required to establish minimum requirements, including certain requirements as set out in the act, for the certification of registrants. Rules may also be adopted to govern recertification and to establish criteria necessary to maintain high standards of professional practice in all phases of property taxation. In prescribing the contents of application forms, the board must ensure that each form requires sufficient information to determine the applicant's proper classification. Registrants are now subject to a higher initial registration fee and annual renewal fee.

Under additional provisions of the act, the board is required to adopt rules for the conduct of proceedings to insure strict compliance with the act and with all rules promulgated by the board. The board is authorized to dismiss complaints regarding property appraisals without a hearing if the complainant did not raise the matter before local officials in a direct appeal of his tax liability. The act makes it a misdemeanor for a person to perform an appraisal, assessment, or collection function during a period in which his registration or certification is revoked or suspended. Complaints concerning the unauthorized practice of property tax appraisal, assessment, or collection may be filed with the board or with the county attorney.

The act permits the board to adopt rules and forms before September 1, 1983, to be effective on and after that date and to make other reasonable preparations before the effective date of this act.

HOUSE BILL 2284

HOUSE AUTHOR: Schlueter

SENATE SPONSOR: Jones

EFFECTIVE: See below

House Bill 2284 amends a law enacted during the 1st called session of the 67th Legislature which states that a taxing unit may not employ a person to appraise property for taxation purposes except to the extent necessary to perform certain contracts. As originally enacted, the terms of this law were to take effect beginning January 1, 1984. This law will now take effect beginning October 1, 1984, in appraisal districts that did not postpone appraising property pursuant to another enactment of the 67th Legislature. In all other districts, this law will take effect beginning October 1, 1985.

SENATE BILL 433

SENATE AUTHOR: Sharp

HOUSE SPONSOR: Saunders

EFFECTIVE: 5-17-83

Under existing provisions of the Tax Code, a taxing unit that has boundaries extending into two or more counties may decide to participate in only one of the appraisal districts in which the counties are included. Senate Bill 433 permits a taxing unit that has chosen to participate in only one appraisal district to revoke that choice and to choose to participate in another single appraisal district. The act stipulates, however, that if a taxing unit withdraws from an appraisal district, that taxing unit may not withdraw from the appraisal district in which it subsequently chooses to participate. When a taxing unit decides to transfer to another single appraisal district, the transferral becomes effective on the next January 1 that is at least 90 days from the date on which the decision was made.

SENATE BILL 641

SENATE AUTHOR: Farabee

HOUSE SPONSOR: Wolens

EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Senate Bill 641 is a general revision of the Texas Tax Increment Financing Act of 1981. The act, which was passed by the 67th Legislature and became effective on the approval of a constitutional amendment by Texas voters in 1981, provides certain municipalities with the authority to set up "reinvestment zones" and to freeze the tax revenues of taxing units from real property in the zones. Any increase in total tax revenues is deposited into a special fund from which the municipality may issue certain bonds to fund improvements in the zones.

By virtue of Senate Bill 641, the municipalities are now subject to more rigid criteria for the establishment of a reinvestment zone. The governing body of the municipality must determine that development or redevelopment would not occur solely through private investment in the reasonably foreseeable future. The municipality must also notify each affected taxing unit and must make a formal presentation to each affected county or school district. A reinvestment zone may not be created nor may its boundaries be changed if more than 15 percent of the total appraised value of real property taxable by a county or school district will then be located in one or more reinvestment zones.

Each taxing unit is now required to designate a representative to meet with the municipality to discuss preliminary plans for the zone. The board of directors of the zone is required to prepare and adopt certain plans consistent with these preliminary plans. Certain substantive amendments to the preliminary plans must be approved by ordinance adopted after a public hearing. Each taxing unit is now permitted to appoint a member to the board of directors. Although the municipality is still permitted to appoint additional members to the board, the municipality is no longer permitted to abolish the board and assume its powers, duties, and functions.

The taxing unit itself, rather than the tax collector for the municipality, is now responsible for the collection of its taxes in the zone. No later than 90 days after the unit’s delinquency date, the tax revenues over the fixed amount that the unit is entitled to retain must be deposited into the special fund from which the municipality may issue bonds. The plans for the zone may permit a taxing unit to retain up to 15 percent of the increase in tax revenue that under prior law was required to be deposited in the fund for the zone. If the municipality has not issued bonds, acquired property, or commenced construction of improvements within three years from the date the zone was created, the taxing units are no longer required to deposit taxes into the special fund. A reinvestment zone may be terminated upon the establishment of an escrow account sufficient to pay off all bonds issued to fund improvements in the zone.

Taxable Property and Exemptions

HOUSE BILL 845

EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

HOUSE AUTHOR: P. Hill
SENATE SPONSOR: Leedom

This act adds any organization promoting or operating an art gallery, museum, or collection, in a permanent location or on tour, that is open to the public, to the Tax Code enumeration of organizations qualifying as charitable organizations that are exempt from property taxation.

HOUSE BILL 1502

EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84
HOUSE AUTHOR: Peveto
SENATE SPONSOR: Jones

An existing section of the Tax Code provides that a residence homestead exemption applies to the property until the property changes ownership or the person’s qualification for the exemption changes. Another section states that if the appraisal roll shows that a property is eligible for taxation for only part of a year because an exemption applicable on January 1 of that year terminated during the year, the tax due against the property is prorated. The latter section is amended to provide that the proration of taxes to reflect the loss of an exemption during the tax year does not apply to residence homestead exemptions.

HOUSE BILL 1748

EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84
HOUSE AUTHOR: Schlueter, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Brooks

This act adds language to the Tax Code to clarify rules regarding the jurisdiction of this state to tax certain property that is used outside this state. The act provides that tangible personal property that is operated or located exclusively outside this state during the year preceding the tax year and on January 1 of the tax year is not taxable in Texas. However, if a vessel or other watercraft is used continually outside this state, it may be taxed on that portion of its total market value that fairly reflects its use in Texas. Uniform mechanical rules are set forth for determination of the taxable portion of the total market value of the vessel or other watercraft. Vessels and watercraft used primarily as instruments of commerce are taxed based on mileage while those designed to operate in a localized area and not primarily employed for transport purposes are taxed on a time basis. Guidelines are also provided for the determination of jurisdiction to tax when a vessel or other watercraft was located in more than one taxing unit in Texas during the year preceding the tax year.
The Tax Code is amended to provide that property held or dedicated for the support, maintenance, or benefit of an institution of higher education is not taxable unless used for certain nonpublic purposes. The property is not exempt if it is rented or leased for compensation to a private business enterprise to be used for a purpose not related to the performance of the duties and functions of the state or rented or leased to provide housing to members of the public other than students and employees of the state.

Senate Joint Resolution 1 proposes a constitutional amendment that would authorize a taxing unit to exempt from taxation the property of veterans' organizations that are chartered by the United States Congress, composed of members or former members of the armed forces of the United States, and organized for patriotic and public service purposes. This proposed constitutional amendment would also authorize taxing units to exempt from tax the property of fraternal organizations that are organized to perform and are primarily engaged in performing charitable and benevolent functions. The amendment would authorize the legislature to impose additional qualifications and restrictions on tax exemptions for fraternal organizations. Senate Bill 23 will implement the amendment if it is approved by the voters.

Senate Bill 23 allows the governing body of a taxing unit to exempt from taxation each of the buildings, including the land that is reasonably necessary for use of, access to, and ornamentation of the buildings, of certain veterans' and qualified fraternal organizations. To be exempted, a building must be owned by the organization and must not be used for residential purposes or to produce a profit. This bill will take effect on January 1, 1984, but only if the constitutional amendment proposed by Senate Joint Resolution 1, 68th Legislature, Regular Session, 1983, is approved by the voters.

Under existing provisions of the Tax Code, disabled veterans and survivors of disabled veterans are entitled to a certain exemption from property taxation. This amendatory act provides that such an exemption, once allowed, need not be claimed in subsequent years and applies to the property until it changes ownership or the person’s qualification for the exemption changes. Although the act does not take effect until January 1, 1984, it applies to exemptions granted for the 1983 tax year.

By virtue of current Property Tax Code provisions, certain agricultural and open-space land may qualify to be appraised at its value based on the land's productivity. If the agricultural land is sold or diverted to a nonagricultural use or if the open-space land undergoes a change in use, a rollback, or additional taxation, may be imposed by the taxing unit. Senate Bill 1143 provides that such land is not diverted to a nonagricultural use and does not change its use solely because the owner of the land claims it as part of his residence homestead for property tax purposes.

Appraisal and Assessment

Provisions of the Tax Code are amended to provide a stricter July 25 deadline for the chief appraiser to prepare and to certify to the assessor for each taxing unit the part of the district’s appraisal roll that lists the property taxable by the unit. These provisions are also expanded to require the chief appraiser to consult with the assessor for each taxing unit and to notify each unit in writing by April 1 of the form in which the roll will be provided to the unit. The board of directors of the appraisal district may, at its discretion, extend the July deadline to a date certain when such an extension is reasonably necessary to complete the appraisal roll and, when there is such an extension, the board shall notify each unit of the amended deadline.

HOUSE BILL 1308
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Kemp
SENATE SPONSOR: Sharp

This act amends provisions of the Tax Code relating to the reporting of the movement of a mobile home for the purposes of property tax records. A person who moves a mobile home in this state is now required to file a report of the movement not only with the chief appraiser of the appraisal district in which the move began, if the movement began in this state, but also with the chief appraiser of the appraisal district in which the move ended. These reports must now be filed before the day on which the move begins and must now be accompanied by a $10 filing fee. All filing fees are to be deposited to the credit of the general fund of the county for which the appraisal district is established. Associated provisions are also amended to permit local prosecutors as well as the attorney general to sue violators of the filing requirements and to provide venue in suits against violators.

HOUSE BILL 1500
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Peveto
SENATE SPONSOR: Williams

This act provides a procedure for the correction of a tax roll that is prepared by a tax assessor for a taxing unit prior to the participation of the taxing unit in an appraisal district and that is approved by the board of equalization or the appraisal review board for the unit. The tax assessor may change such a tax roll at any time to correct a name or address, a description of property, or a clerical error that does not affect the amount of tax liability. The governing body of the taxing unit, on motion of the tax assessor or a property owner, may direct by written order changes in the tax roll to correct multiple appraisals of a property in a single year, the tax liability of a property owner who has qualified for a residence homestead exemption for the tax year, or clerical errors that affect a property owner’s tax liability. The tax assessor is required to enter on the tax roll the changes made as provided by provisions of this act.

HOUSE BILL 1655
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Khoury
SENATE SPONSOR: Jones

Under existing provisions of the Tax Code, certain information regarding real and personal property is confidential and may not be disclosed by an appraisal office except to particular persons or under particular circumstances. House Bill 1655 provides that, after the chief appraiser has submitted the appraisal records to the appraisal review board, a property owner or his designated agent may inspect the appraisal records relating to the property of the owner together with supporting data and schedules used in making appraisals.

HOUSE BILL 2134
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

HOUSE AUTHOR: Schlueter
SENATE SPONSOR: Jones

This act amends provisions of the Tax Code relating to the calculation of the effective tax rate for a taxing unit. In determining the effective tax rate, the designated officer or employee of the taxing unit is required to subtract taxes levied to retire the debt of the unit. This act defines “debt” as an obligation secured by property taxes of the unit and not payable from revenues budgeted for current maintenance and operating expenses, including bonds, warrants, certificates of indebtedness, and other lawfully authorized evidences of indebtedness issued or assumed by the unit. This places a restriction on previous provisions by requiring securement by property taxes and by stipulating that debt may not be payable from certain revenues. The effect of these restrictions is to prevent a taxing unit from artificially lowering its effective tax rate using certain short-term loans. The act also allows the State Property Tax Board to conduct a biennial rather than an annual study to determine the uniformity of property appraisals throughout the state’s appraisal districts.

HOUSE BILL 2285
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

HOUSE AUTHOR: Schlueter
SENATE SPONSOR: Jones

This act provides taxing units with an alternative to the form that has been required for publishing notice of a public hearing on a proposed tax increase of more than three percent or a public meeting to vote on the tax increase. The act permits the notice to be given in either of two forms at the option of the governing body of the taxing unit. Notice may be given in the previously required form to show the proposed tax increase by indicating the percentage increase over the preceding year. Notice may also be given in the new alternative form to show the proposed tax increase by indicating the total amount of taxes that would be levied as compared to the total amount of taxes that were levied in the preceding year.

SENATE BILL 1345
EFFECTIVE: 6-17-83

This act authorizes a taxing unit to make special adjustments in the calculation of the effective tax rate when one or more errors in the preceding year caused the loss of a substantial amount of tax revenue. If one or more errors on the appraisal roll for the preceding year were discovered after adoption of the unit's tax rate and if those errors resulted in the loss of more than one percent of the total appraised value for the unit that year, the tax assessor may add to the current year's effective tax rate the amount necessary to adjust for the loss in an attempt to bring the unit to the status that it would have been in had the error not occurred.

Collections and Delinquency

HOUSE BILL 426
EFFECTIVE: 3-14-83

This act is aimed at provisions of the Tax Code relating to discount periods and delinquency dates for the payment of property taxes. The act deletes provisions that allow discounts on state ad valorem taxes, which are no longer collected, and amends provisions that allow local taxing units to grant discounts to citizens who pay their taxes promptly. Tax bills or separate statements accompanying the bills are now required to state the delinquency date and the date on which each available discount period concludes. A postponement of the delinquency date is required if a taxing unit does not mail its bills until after September 30 and chooses to offer a delayed discount schedule. The official mailing date is defined as the earliest date on which the unit has mailed all or substantially all of the tax bills. For taxing units that mail their tax bills on or before September 30, the available discount period is October-November-December at 3 percent-2 percent-1 percent respectively; for taxing units that mail their tax bills after September 30, a taxing unit may choose to delay the discount period to the next three full calendar months following the mailing of the tax bills at 3 percent-2 percent-1 percent respectively. Taxing units may adopt discount periods which apply to timely mailing of bills, delayed mailing of bills, or both timely and delayed mailing of bills.

HOUSE BILL 1282
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

This act amends state law to allow the governing body of a county that collects its own taxes to decide whether or not to provide the split payment option for the payment of property taxes. The split payment option allows a person who pays one-half of the unit's taxes before December 1 to pay the remaining one-half of the taxes without penalty or interest before July 1 of the following year. State law formerly allowed the governing bodies of other taxing units that collected their own taxes to adopt the split payment option but stipulated that if a county collected its own taxes, the split payment option was automatic by operation of law.

This act also amends state law to allow each taxing unit to decide whether to grant discounts to citizens who pay their taxes promptly. A collecting unit is no longer allowed to make such a decision for all units for which it collects. However, if an appraisal district collects, the decision is still made by a majority of the units for which the district collects.

HOUSE BILL 2282
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Under existing provisions of the Tax Code, the collector for a taxing unit must submit an annual report to the governing body accounting for all taxes collected or delinquent on property taxed by the unit during the preceding year. To accommodate different annual fiscal periods of taxing units, House Bill 2282 stipulates that these annual reports are due on the 60th day following the last day of the fiscal year rather than on the previously stipulated due date of August 1.
SENATE BILL 221
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Under current statutory provisions, a collector for a taxing unit must issue a certificate showing the amount of delinquent taxes, penalties, and interest due the unit on a property according to the unit's current tax records if requested to do so by any person. This amendatory act increases the fee charged by the collector for such a certificate from $2 to $4.

Remedies and Judicial Review

HOUSE BILL 1395
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

This act amends provisions of the Property Tax Code relating to the determination of and availability of remedies for unequal appraisal of property for property tax purposes. The act redefines "weighted average level of appraisal," so that it is to be determined by dividing the total appraised value, as determined by the appraisal office or the appraisal review board, of a "reasonable and representative" sample of properties in the appraisal district by the proper taxable values of those properties. The availability of remedies for an unequal appraisal is to be contingent on a comparison of the appraised value of the property subject to protest or appeal with the weighted average level of appraisal for other properties in the district.

HOUSE BILL 1446
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

This act, relating to the protest of a property tax appraisal, amends the deadline for a property owner to file a written notice of a protest with the appraisal review board to be determined by the date on which the board approves the appraisal records rather than the date on which the records are submitted. The chief appraiser is required to include in any supplemental records submitted to the appraisal review board a listing of property on which the board has not determined a protest at the time of its approval of the appraisal records. The chief appraiser is also required to prepare and certify to the assessor for each taxing unit a listing of those properties which are taxable by the unit but which are under protest and therefore not included in the appraisal roll. This listing must include values as determined by the appraisal review board and as claimed by the property owner. The assessor for the taxing unit is required to use the lower value for calculating the effective tax rate of the unit.

HOUSE BILL 1580
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

This act adds a new section to the Tax Code to allow a taxpayer who prevails in an appeal to the district court for a remedy on the basis of an unequal or excessive appraisal to be awarded reasonable attorney's fees not to exceed the greater of $5,000 or 20 percent of the total amount of taxes in dispute. The act also repeals a section of the Tax Code that allowed a taxpayer to appeal to the district court for an additional remedy on the basis of an erroneous market value.

HOUSE BILL 1582
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-84

This act amends a section of the Tax Code to stipulate that a protest on the ground that an appraisal district does not have the jurisdiction to tax certain personal property shall be determined in favor of the protesting party if he establishes that the property is subject to appraisal by another district or that the property is not taxable in this state. The act also requires the chief appraiser of a district in which a protesting property owner prevails to notify the appraisal office of the district in which jurisdiction to tax the property is established.

HOUSE BILL 1603
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Current provisions of the Tax Code require a property owner who appeals to district court to pay a provisional tax on the property involved in the pending appeal before the delinquency date or he forfeits his right to remedies. These provisions are amended to stipulate that the amount of tax required to be paid pending the appeal is not to exceed the amount of tax that would be due under the order from which the appeal was taken.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 22
HOUSE AUTHOR:  Watson
SENATE SPONSOR:  Jones

The Texas Constitution currently specifies a per diem allowance for members of the legislature of $30 for each day the legislature is in session. House Joint Resolution 22 proposes an amendment to the constitution that would set the per diem allowance during a calendar year for members of the legislature at an amount equal to the maximum daily amount allowed as of January 1 of that year for federal income tax purposes as a deduction for ordinary and necessary business expenses incurred by a state legislator, disregarding any exceptions in federal law for legislators residing near the Capitol. The amendment would become effective January 8, 1985, if approved by Texas voters at the election held on November 6, 1984.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 30
HOUSE AUTHOR:  Hollowell
SENATE SPONSOR:  Traeger

This proposed amendment of Article III, Section 62, of the Texas Constitution authorizes the legislature to provide for temporary succession to the office of state senator or representative when an incumbent becomes unavailable to carry out the duties of that office during emergencies caused by enemy attack. SENATE BILL 95
SENATE AUTHOR:  Blake
HOUSE SPONSOR:  Bomer

State law specifies which officers of the state are authorized to administer oaths in Texas. Under the provisions of the law the speaker of the house of representatives and the lieutenant governor were not included. Senate Bill 95 adds the speaker and the lieutenant governor to the list of officers authorized to administer oaths.
SENATE BILL 194
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

Prior to this act, the terms of office for many state commissions and boards expired between November 1 and January 15. When a vacancy occurred after a gubernatorial election and before the new governor took office, the law allowed the "lame duck" governor to appoint persons to fill the vacancies. Senate Bill 194 prohibits a "lame duck" governor from filling vacancies in state and district offices after November 1 if the vacancy occurred before November 1. This act amends various statutes regarding appointments to state and district offices so that normal expiration dates for many appointments are changed to February 1 of odd-numbered years thereby creating vacancies at the beginning of a new governor's term.

SENATE BILL 910
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 910 provides that employees and officials of the Board of Pardons and Paroles who have routine direct contact with inmates of any penal or correctional institution or with administratively released prisoners...

SENATE BILL 1245
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83

Current campaign reporting and disclosure laws do not address the method of financing governor for a day or speaker's day ceremonies. Senate Bill 1245 establishes procedures for receiving contributions and reporting expenditures for these ceremonial activities.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION 22
FOR ELECTION: 11-6-84

If a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor occurs, the constitution currently only provides for the president pro tempore of the senate to assume the duties of lieutenant governor; however, the constitution also requires the senate to select a new president pro tempore each time it convenes or adjourns. Senate Joint Resolution 22 proposes a constitutional amendment to provide a method to fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor. This proposed amendment would require the president pro tempore to convene the Committee of the Whole Senate within 30 days after the vacancy occurs. The Committee of the Whole would elect one of its members to perform the duties of lieutenant governor in addition to his duties as senator until the next general election. If the senator so elected ceases to be a senator before the election of a new lieutenant governor, another senator would be elected in the same manner to perform the duties of lieutenant governor until the next general election.

Insurance and Workers' Compensation

HOUSE BILL 242
EFFECTIVE: 6-19-83

SENATE BILL 739
EFFECTIVE: 8-29-83
SENATE AUTHOR: Sims
HOUSE SPONSOR: Craddick

Current practices for leasing oil and gas on the state's permanent university fund land provide for public auctions at which potential lessees bid on the amount of bonus to be paid the state per acre of leased tract, the Board for Lease of University Lands having stipulated beforehand a percentage royalty to be paid the state from gross earnings on the tract. Senate Bill 739 authorizes an alternative arrangement, whereby the board may stipulate the bonus and have potential lessees bid on the percentage royalty. It also provides that the board may use sealed bids as an alternative to public auctions or may use a combination of the two methods, as it elects. The new legislation retains a statutory minimum royalty equal to one-eighth of the gross production value of oil and gas.

Senate Bill 1112 provides for the transfer of the state’s entire portion to the county in which the federal land is located, to be distributed as follows: 50 percent is available to the independent school districts in proportionate shares based on average daily attendance; 15 percent is available to the incorporated cities in proportionate shares based on population; and the remaining 35 percent is retained by the county. The only county currently expected to produce income from federal mineral sales or leases is Bastrop County.

HOUSE BILL 1964

HOUSE AUTHOR: Whaley
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

Under previous law, land dedicated to the permanent school fund had to be sold with a reservation of only one-eighth of the sulphur and one-sixteenth of the other minerals as a royalty to the state. House Bill 1964 permits the School Land Board to set the mineral rights reserved on future sales, with the previous limits becoming the new minimum reservation. This act also makes several changes in the conditions for sale or lease of public school land.
REDISTRICTING

The legislature in 1981 redrew the state's house, senate, and U.S. Congressional districts. The house and senate districts were drawn again by the Legislative Redistricting Board after the state supreme court ruled the house plan unconstitutional and the governor vetoed the senate plan. In response to U.S. Justice Department objections and legal suits filed against all three plans, U.S. district court judges ordered temporary plans for the 1982 elections. The state was given until September 1, 1983, to enact its own permanent house and senate plans. The court retained jurisdiction to establish permanent districts if the state failed to enact valid plans.

The 68th Legislature enacted legislation establishing congressional and state house districts. A bill delineating senate districts was not passed, but the senate did adopt a resolution expressing its views regarding a court-ordered redistricting plan for the senate.

The comptroller may in turn charge the fee to the taxpayer against whom the lien was filed.

The act also extends the definition of a newspaper for sales and use tax purposes to include publications produced and distributed by a licensed certified carrier, thereby enabling these publications to be defined as classified newspapers and to be exempt from sales and use taxes.

The Tax Code provides sales tax exemptions on certain agricultural and agriculture-related items. House Bill 1613 amends the Tax Code to extend the sales tax exemption to bins used exclusively as containers for transporting fruit and vegetables from the field or place of harvest to a location where the items are processed, packaged, or marketed.

This act provides that an applicant for a direct payment permit for the payment of sales tax must provide records to the comptroller showing annual purchases of taxable items that have a value of $800,000 or more. Previous law required applicants to show an annual purchase of $200,000 in taxable items to qualify for a direct payment permit.

SENATE BILL 582
EFFECTIVE: 5-20-83

Senate Bill 582 adds a section to the Tax Code that exempts the retail buyer of a vehicle from paying the motor vehicle tax if the purchased vehicle is transported out of state prior to any use in Texas, other than its transportation out of state. The act imposes a use tax on an operator of a motor vehicle that was purchased tax-free under Texas law and brought back into Texas for use on public highways.

SENATE BILL 594
EFFECTIVE: 5-10-83

Senate Bill 594 amends the Tax Code by adding provisions for the application of sales and use taxes to accessories added to manufactured houses by a retailer. SENATE BILL 638

SENATE BILL 713
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-83

Senate Bill 713 simplifies and expedites the forwarding of county motor vehicle tax collections to the comptroller. Under this act, the frequency of payment by counties to the comptroller is based on the amount of taxes collected during the preceding fiscal year. In counties that collected less than $2 million in motor vehicle taxes the preceding year, the county tax assessor-collector must forward the collections to the comptroller on the 10th day of each month. In counties that collected between $2 million and $10 million, the county tax assessor-collector is required to forward the collections once a week, and in counties that collected over $10 million the previous year, daily payment to the comptroller is required. This act also amends the Motor Vehicle Sales and Use Tax Act to require the county tax assessor-collector to send tax receipts to the comptroller in accordance with the comptroller’s instructions.

SENATE BILL 985
EFFECTIVE: 10-1-83

This act revises the law that provided that the limited sales and excise taxes are paid quarterly, due on the last day of the month after the end of the quarter, or are paid monthly if the taxpayer owes more than $1,500 a month. To accelerate this collection of taxes, Senate Bill 985 requires these taxes to be paid quarterly, due on the 20th day of the month after the end of the quarter. If the taxpayer owes less than $500 for a month or $1,500 for a quarter the taxes must be paid monthly, due on the 20th day, unless the taxpayer has prepaid the tax on a quarterly basis. This act repeals provisions allowing certain manufacturers to pay sales taxes annually. The act also lowers the discount for all retailers who prepay their taxes from a rate of 2 percent to 1.25 percent.

Previous Texas law did not assign liability for delinquent hotel occupancy taxes if a hotel owner sold the hotel. Senate Bill 658 assigns liability for delinquent hotel taxes to the purchaser. The act requires that a purchaser of a hotel withhold an amount of the purchase price sufficient to pay the amount of tax due until the seller provides either a receipt from the comptroller that the amount has been paid or a certificate stating that no amount is due.
