FOREWORD

The Summary of Enactments of the 71st Legislature provides the official bill captions of all bills enacted during the 1989 regular session and 1st through 6th called sessions. Captions of joint resolutions passed by the legislature proposing amendments to the Texas Constitution are also included. This publication is intended to be a convenient index of enacted measures within particular subject areas.

Copies of enrolled bills and resolutions from the 71st Legislature may be obtained from the Legislative Reference Library located in room 207-B, Capitol (463-1252).
INTRODUCTION

The Regular Session of the 71st Legislature, which convened on January 19, 1989, adjourned sine die on May 29, 1989, after enacting 1,317 bills. Of this number, which was an increase of more than 25 percent from the previous regular session, 53 bills subsequently were vetoed by Governor William P. Clements.

During the regular session, lawmakers also considered 186 joint resolutions proposing amendments to the Texas Constitution. Of these, 21 proposed amendments subsequently were passed and submitted to Texas voters in the November 1989 election, at which all but two gained approval.

Following adjournment, the 71st Legislature met again in a series of six called sessions, a number unprecedented in the history of the legislature. The 1st and 2nd Called Sessions, beginning in June and November 1989, respectively, addressed the issue of workers’ compensation, while the remaining called sessions, held during the first half of 1990, focused on the subject of school finance. The 6th Called Session also saw the passage of one joint resolution to amend the state constitution, which was approved by Texas voters at the 1990 November election. The table below summarizes the disposition of legislation passed during the regular and six called sessions.

Though the complex subjects of school finance and workers’ compensation dominated much of the 71st Legislature’s efforts, significant action was taken in a number of other areas as well.
The following sections provide a brief overview of major legislation passed during the regular and called sessions of 1989 and 1990.

Appropriations

Senate Bill 222, the General Appropriations Act passed by the 71st Legislature in regular session, approved a budget of nearly $47 billion for the 1990-91 biennium. Reflecting an increase of roughly 13 percent over the previous level of budgeted spending, the bill contained a 15 percent increase in benefits for state employees, including a five percent across-the-board salary increase and a larger state contribution to employee health insurance.

Also approved in regular session were 12 emergency appropriations bills, most notably Senate Bill 338, which provided a $75 million appropriation to the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to cover that agency’s costs of complying with court orders. Other significant provisions in Senate Bill 338 included a $38 million appropriation to the Texas Department of Commerce to redeem bonds issued to finance Sematech improvements and a $24 million appropriation to community and junior colleges to reimburse funds spent on staff health insurance.

The 6th Called Session saw the passage of several measures affecting state appropriations as well. Senate Bill 11 revised the General Appropriations Act of the regular session to provide an additional $528 million for public education, plus an additional $100 million to be distributed among the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, the Texas Department of Health, and the Texas Department of Human Services. Senate Bill 3 appropriated funds to the Bond Review Board and broadened the scope of school facilities loans to include such items as land acquisition and the installation of equipment and furniture. Finally, Senate Bill 13 appropriated over $130 million in general obligations bonds for the construction of a 2,250-bed prototype prison unit and three 1,000-bed regional correctional centers.

Business

Lawmakers enacted several measures during the 71st Legislature designed to enhance the state’s business climate and foster economic development. House Bill 362 established the product commercialization fund to provide loans for the commercial development of products or processes unable to obtain financing in the private sector. This bill also authorized the issuance of up to $25 million in general obligation bonds for the Texas product development fund and up to $20 million for the Small Business Incubator Program. The authority for both bond issues was provided by a constitutional amendment contained in House Joint Resolution 51, approved by voters in the November 1989 election.
Senate Bill 437 revised the Deceptive Trade Practices Act (DTPA) to permit a consumer to waive most DTPA rights in a transaction involving $500,000 or more. However, the bill specifically prohibited a consumer to waive these rights in the purchase of a residence.

The issue of rural economic development was addressed in several pieces of legislation including House Bill 438, which established the Rural Economic Development Commission. Under provisions of the bill, the commission is directed to report to the legislature in January 1991 regarding studies and recommendations to encourage the revitalization of rural areas and the expansion of agribusiness. On a related note, House Bill 613 changed the name of the Texas rural industrial development fund to the rural economic development fund. Pursuant to this bill, the fund may guarantee loans to qualified parties but is prohibited from making such loans itself.

Corrections

The 71st Legislature mandated a comprehensive restructuring of the Texas criminal justice system through the passage of House Bill 2335. Authorizing significant changes in process and procedure, the bill consolidated the three major state correctional agencies—the Department of Corrections, the Board of Pardons and Paroles, and the Adult Probation Commission—into a single Texas Department of Criminal Justice. Among the issues addressed by House Bill 2335 were local and state administration of correctional institutions, alternative sentencing measures, and the redefinition of probation, parole, and mandatory supervision. The bill also authorized an enhanced information system to assist law enforcement agencies, provided for the issuance of bonds to finance the construction of more correctional facilities, and sought to increase offender employment opportunities through the use of Project RIO and other rehabilitation programs.

Additional corrections measures passed during the regular session included House Bill 1477, which appropriated over $142 million from approved general revenue bonds for the construction of new prison facilities and the renovation of youth correctional facilities. Similarly, Senate Bill 558 provided for the issuance of up to $400 million in general obligation bonds for the purchase or repair of various state facilities, including adult and youth correctional institutions. The latter bond issue was authorized by a constitutional amendment contained in Senate Joint Resolution 24, approved by voters in the November 1989 election.

Criminal Justice

During the regular legislative session, lawmakers enacted a number of measures aimed at protecting the rights of crime victims. Among these, Senate Bill 361 modified existing crime victim compensation statutes to provide coverage for Texas residents victimized while visiting a state that does not provide similar compensation. Senate Bill 359 increased the maximum amount of monetary loss for which a person may be compensated under the Crime Victims
Compensation Act, and Senate Bill 358 raised court costs for certain types of convictions in an effort to generate more revenue for the crime victims compensation fund.

Senate Joint Resolution 4, approved by voters in the November 1989 election, allowed the enactment of laws permitting juries to be informed about the effect of various factors, such as good-conduct time and parole eligibility, on the amount of prison time served by defendants convicted of criminal offenses. Senate Bill 54, the amendment's enabling legislation, established guidelines regarding what information may be provided to jurors in such cases and limiting the scope of its use.

In an effort to decrease recidivism, lawmakers enacted House Bill 2634, requiring a convicted offender to demonstrate at least a sixth grade educational skill level as a condition of probation. Under this bill, a court may order an offender to attain the minimum educational level unless that person is judged intellectually incapable of doing so.

On drug-related matters, House Bill 24 imposed a sales tax on marihuana and controlled substances, establishing a third-degree felony for possession of a taxable drug on which the tax has not been paid. In addition, Senate Bill 29 (1st Called Session) required drug testing for certain persons as a condition of probation or release to parole or mandatory supervision, and Senate Bill 32 (1st Called Session) removed the option of jury-recommended probation for a person 21 years or older convicted of delivering a controlled substance to a minor.

Environment and Water

Another important issue addressed by the 71st Legislature was the lack of safe drinking water in certain economically distressed border communities known as "colonias." Senate Bill 2 authorized a bond issue to provide financial assistance to such areas to provide adequate water and sewer services to residents who cannot afford them. Pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution 5, which gained approval at the November 1989 election, the Texas Constitution was amended to permit the issuance of $500 million in Texas water development bonds, with proceeds of up to $100 million earmarked for aid to colonias. The amendment's enabling legislation, Senate Bill 61, authorized the Texas Water Development Board to provide financial assistance for a variety of related projects, including water conservation and development, wastewater treatment, and flood control.

In action on other environmental issues, transportation departments in metropolitan areas including Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, El Paso, and Beaumont-Port Arthur were required to convert transit vehicles for operation using compressed natural gas or other alternative fuels (Senate Bill 769). Similarly, Senate Bill 740 required certain school districts, state agencies, and mass transit authorities to purchase or lease new vehicles capable of running on alternative fuels and provided a schedule for converting existing vehicles to alternative fuel use. Other environmental concerns were reflected in Senate Bill 1571, which designated the Texas General Land Office to develop a long-term management plan for Texas coastal public lands, and House
Bill 1588, which created a groundwater protection program and state remediation fund to assist in the cleanup of petroleum storage tank releases.

Health

Health legislation in the regular session of the 71st Legislature focused on easing the critical shortage of doctors and hospitals in rural areas and on expanding programs related to acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). House Bill 18, the Omnibus Health Care Rescue Act, established the Center for Rural Health Initiatives to promote access to rural health care. Among its provisions, the act obligated the state to indemnify certain health care professionals for damages brought in a medical malpractice suit and allowed more extensive delegation of duties to nurses and physicians' assistants in underserved areas.

Senate Bill 959, the Human Immunodeficiency Virus Services Act, designated the Texas Department of Health as the primary resource for HIV education, prevention, and policy and directed the department to develop model education programs to inform the public about AIDS. Addressing many of the recommendations of the Legislative Task Force on AIDS, the bill made provisions to improve access to health and social support services, increase the availability and quality of HIV testing and counseling programs, and eliminate discrimination against individuals infected with the human immunodeficiency virus.

In a related measure, House Bill 2608 established guidelines and restrictions for insurance coverage of individuals with an HIV infection or AIDS. Subject to specific criteria, the bill permitted insurers to require a test for HIV infection in applications for insurance coverage. However, cancellation of health insurance coverage for individuals infected with the HIV virus was prohibited, as was the exclusion of HIV-infected individuals from group health insurance coverage for state, higher education, or local government employees. In addition, the bill established civil and criminal penalties for the unauthorized release of an HIV test.

During the 1st Called Session of the 71st Legislature, lawmakers also addressed the issue of insurance coverage for children involved in child support disputes. Senate Bill 67 required health insurance to be provided for every child involved in any suit affecting a parent-child relationship and permitted courts to order parental reimbursement to the state for any public assistance provided to a child.

Higher Education

Major legislation enacted in the area of higher education included two merger bills significant for South Texas—Senate Bill 47, which transferred control of Pan American University to The University of Texas System, and Senate Bill 122, which incorporated Texas A&I University, Corpus Christi State University, and Laredo State University into The Texas A&M University System. Related measures included House Bill 2974, which established centers for economic and enterprise development at universities in El Paso, Laredo, and Edinburg; Senate Bill 583, which established a graduate school of international trade at Laredo State University; and Senate Bill 647, which expanded Corpus Christi State University to full four-year university status.

House Bill 2853 authorized the creation of Central Texas University in Killeen, House Bill 42 (1st Called Session) expanded The University of Texas at Dallas to four-year status, and Senate Bill 64 (1st Called Session) merged West Texas State University into The Texas A&M University System.

Higher education measures affecting student financial aid included House Bill 3, which established the Texas educational opportunity grant program to assist economically disadvantaged students. Senate Bill 94 permitted state agencies already holding bond-issuing authority to apply for permission to designate certain bond issues as college savings bonds. Senate Joint Resolution 74, approved in the November 1989 election, also allowed the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to issue college savings bonds pursuant to enabling legislation contained in Senate Bill 457.

Human Services and Mental Health

Among the measures passed in the area of human services during the 71st Legislature were House Bill 318, which increased the income eligibility cap for persons qualifying for nursing home care, and Senate Bill 487, which enacted requirements relating to Medicaid funding, licensing standards for nursing homes, and public information about services for the elderly or disabled. Senate Bill 1, passed in the regular session, repealed the law that had allowed medical assistance payments made by the Department of Human Services for health care and related services for the needy to constitute a claim and lien against the property and estate of the recipient.

Significant legislation in the area of mental health included Senate Bill 57 (1st Called Session), which enacted uniform commitment procedures and services for mentally ill or chemically dependent persons.

Insurance

One of the most significant measures affecting insurance was Senate Bill 1 (2nd Called Session), the Texas Workers’ Compensation Act. In a series of provisions to be phased in over several years, the act substantially revised various elements of the workers’ compensation system, including agency administration, calculation of benefits, dispute resolution, workplace safety, and regulation of the workers’ compensation insurance industry. The bill replaced the former Industrial Accident Board with a six-member Texas Workers’ Compensation Commission, appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate, and established an ombudsman program to protect the rights of injured workers and beneficiaries.
Additionally, the bill provided for the creation of a workers’ health and safety division within the commission to coordinate and enforce worker safety laws, identify hazardous employers, and provide education regarding workplace safety. Effective January 1990, the bill authorizes insurers to charge up to 25 percent less than the rates set by the State Board of Insurance for workers’ compensation policies and makes attorney’s fees subject to approval by the commission or by the court hearing a workers’ compensation case. By June 1991, an attorney representing an injured worker will be prohibited from loaning money to the worker while a compensation claim is pending. Employers who meet financial standards adopted by the commission will be allowed to provide workers’ compensation coverage through self-insurance by January 1993.

Other insurance-related measures passed by the 71st Legislature included Senate Bill 911, which expanded the requirements for mandatory insurance coverage for alcohol dependency to include other forms of chemical dependency, and House Bill 468, which required insurers to accept a clinical diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease as sufficient proof to authorize payment of benefits. Senate Bill 832 created the Texas Health Insurance Risk Pool to provide health insurance coverage to certain uninsurable Texans, while House Bill 116 (1st Called Session) brought state regulation of Medicare supplement insurance policies into conformity with federal law and provided additional safeguards for prospective policyholders.

Lawmakers provided for additional regulation of the insurance industry under Senate Bill 255, which eliminated secrecy provisions for insolvent insurance companies and increased capital requirements for new companies. The bill also required insurers to submit to annual audits.

Public Education

Arguably the most significant action of the 71st Legislature was the passage of Senate Bill 1 (6th Called Session). Drafted in response to a court ruling that found the Texas school finance system unconstitutional, the bill revised a system that had been modified previously under Senate Bill 1019 during the regular session. As finally enacted, Senate Bill 1 mandated the distribution of a greater portion of state money to districts with relatively low property values and relatively high tax rates, beginning with the 1990-91 school year. Excluding the wealthiest five percent of school districts, the bill established a standard of fiscal neutrality designed to provide the remaining 95 percent of Texas students with substantially equal access to funds, given a similar tax effort on the part of each district. Other sections of Senate Bill 1 will eventually tie increases in the level of school aid per student to the levels found in the state’s wealthier districts. It should be noted, however, that the finance system provided by this bill was held unconstitutional at the district court level in September 1990 and the case was on appeal while this summary was in preparation.

During the regular legislative session, lawmakers also took action on a number of other education-related matters. Among these, Senate Bill 152 required certain school districts to formulate dropout reduction plans and directed the Texas Education Agency (TEA) to establish an annual statewide goal to decrease the number of dropouts. The TEA also was authorized to develop a pilot prekindergarten program aimed at low-income or non-English speaking families under provisions of Senate Bill 246. On funding issues, a constitutional amendment contained in Senate Joint Resolution 53, approved at the November 1989 election, permitted lawmakers to use the Permanent School Fund to guarantee bonds issued by the state for the purpose of assisting school districts in acquiring or improving instructional facilities. Senate Bill 951 was the enabling legislation.

State Government

Lawmakers created a number of new state government entities during the 71st Legislature. These included the Department of Information Resources, established by House Bill 2736 to coordinate resource management and training for all state agencies; the Texas High-Speed Rail Authority, created by Senate Bill 1190 to select a franchisee for the construction and operation of a high-speed rail system; and the state government accounting division of the Comptroller’s Office, established by Senate Bill 985 to implement a uniform statewide accounting system for state agencies.

Also created was the Texas Hazardous Materials Safety Council, established by House Bill 1963 to recommend legislation regarding such materials. Under provisions of the bill, the council will collect relevant data, review accident response planning, and coordinate a unified response to federal regulations concerning hazardous materials.

The state’s flag desecration statute was amended by Senate Bill 80 (1st Called Session), in response to a decision by the United States Supreme Court holding the prior law unconstitutional.

State and Local Revenue

During the 71st Legislature, lawmakers acted to raise the sales tax for certain items and to authorize sales tax exemptions for others. House Bill 6 (6th Called Session) raised the basic state sales tax to 6-1/4 percent and increased taxes on cigarettes, chewing tobacco, snuff, smoking tobacco, alcoholic beverages, and nonalcoholic beverages sold as mixers. House Bill 2475 reinstated a temporary storage and use provision under which companies operating in several states pay tax only on items or products actually used in Texas. Senate Bill 693 provided a sales tax exemption for items purchased by a maquiladora enterprise for immediate export from the United States.

In the area of property taxes, Senate Joint Resolution 11, approved at the November 1989 election, resulted in a constitutional amendment to establish a "freeport" exemption for certain business goods acquired for the purpose of being forwarded out of state. House Bill 2959 was the enabling legislation. House Bill 82 created a property tax exemption for most tangible personal property not used to produce income but provided a method by which local governing bodies may override the exemption. House Joint Resolution 13, approved in the November 1989 election, amended the Texas Constitution to provide a property tax exemption for most property belonging to veterans’ organizations; however, since no enabling legislation was passed related to this amendment it is not clear whether this exemption is currently valid under Texas law.

Finally, in the area of local revenue, Senate Bill 328 authorized counties to increase optional road and bridge fees to any amount up to $10. However, the bill provided that a county with a population of over 2.39 million (Harris) may charge no more than $5 for this fee.

Sunset Provisions

The Texas Sunset Act provides for the recurring review of state agencies and advisory committees and for the termination of these bodies unless continuing legislation is enacted. Of the 30 entities scheduled for sunset review during the regular session, five were abolished, including three that were terminated without new legislation—the Texas Indian Commission, the Poultry Improvement Board, and the Western Information Network Association. Legislators enacted measures to abolish the state board of canvassers, whose functions were transferred to the governor’s office (House Bill 772), and the Governor’s Commission on Physical Fitness, whose functions were transferred to the Texas Department of Health (Senate Bill 545). A sixth agency, the Office of Commissioner of Labor and Standards, was renamed and continued as the Department of Licensing and Regulation (House Bill 863).

The remaining 24 agencies scheduled for sunset review were continued by lawmakers as indicated in the following table:

Legislators also rescheduled the sunset review process for several state agencies. House Bill 2437 delayed review of the Texas Air Control Board until 1997 and postponed until 1993 reviews of the Employees Retirement System of Texas, the Teacher Retirement System of Texas, the Texas County and District Retirement System, and the Texas Municipal Retirement System.

House Bill 94 (1st Called Session) reestablished the Texas Aeronautics Commission as the Texas Department of Aviation, governed by the Texas Board of Aviation, and postponed sunset review from 1993 to 1999. Conversely, Senate Bill 265 advanced the next scheduled review of the State Board on Insurance from 1995 to 1993.

The office of Multistate Tax Compact Commissioner for Texas was exempted from sunset review under Senate Bill 505, as was the office of Southern Regional Education Compact Commissioner for Texas under House Bill 2645. House Bill 2330 provided that the State Seed and Plant Board receive future reviews as part of the Texas Department of Agriculture. House Bill 2644 similarly directed that the Texas Industrialized Building Code Council receive future reviews as part of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards.

II. TEXT OF ITEM VETO PROCLAMATION, GENERAL APPROPRIATIONS ACT

Senate Bill 222, the General Appropriations Bill, has reached my desk for action, having been duly certified by the Comptroller of Public Accounts pursuant to Article III, Section 49a of the Texas Constitution. It authorizes an expenditure of $47.4 billion in total funds and $28.3 billion in general revenue-related funds for fiscal 1990-91, after rider adjustments.

Harmony, cooperation and consensus were key elements in the success of the Texas legislature this year in developing solutions to some of our state's most challenging problems. In every major area of government, significant progress was made.

The legislature answered the call for increased quality and equity in public education. The $450 million for equity and the various incentive programs, such as the Educational Excellence initiative, are benchmark legislative accomplishments. Our duty to improve education for all Texans continues and is unwavering. The 71st Session of the Texas legislature certainly met the test and helped to improve educational quality.

Legislation for accelerating the Texas economic recovery represents another major achievement. The last several years have witnessed the true Texas character and perseverance. We have moved out of the depths of economic recession when unemployment topped 10 percent in mid-1986 to the economic expansion of today with 300,000 new jobs and unemployment at less than six percent.

Important initiatives that will be recognized as historic steps--such as the dramatic reorganization of the state's criminal justice system and expansion of the number of prison facilities--are also funded in this budget. This spending plan calls for increased appropriations for health systems and programs to assist the mentally ill along with the creation of a uniform statewide accounting system and rural public transportation facilities.

The budget we have today is lean and efficient, yet it addresses the critical issues we face with innovative programs and, yes, ample and increased funding where needed. Overall, this budget provides increased spending on services of 14.7 percent; compared to the 1989 biennial level, actual revenue was increased $3.8 billion over the previous biennium. Moreover, the legislature accomplished this without an increase in state taxes. In fact, effective September 1, $560 million in taxes will expire. Lawmakers should be commended for recognizing that a tax increase at this critical time in our economic recovery would have only stifled continued growth.

Yet there are places in this budget that can and should stand additional scrutiny and additional economies. It is in that spirit that I exercise my constitutional prerogative of line-item veto so that modest advances are made in pursuit of fiscal discipline and budgetary integrity.

My line item vetoes, totaling $11 million, include the following:

Statement of Objections and Reasons for Veto

TEXAS AERONAUTICS COMMISSION

Items 1.a., 1.b., and 1.c.
Riders 2, 3, 4, and 5

The Aeronautics Commission in its present form and funding levels cannot adequately serve the needs of the aviation community in Texas. Legislation that would have addressed the aviation needs more coherently and created a Department of Transportation did not pass this session. Since the Aeronautics Commission in its present form is not a viable means for furthering the interests of aviation in the state, I am vetoing the agency's appropriations. Legislation creating a Department of Transportation will be added to the special session call after worker's compensation issues are addressed, provided sufficient time is available.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Item 1.b.

The legislature appropriated over $3.9 million for general administration. That total amount is sufficient to cover the administrative costs of a well-run agency of this size.

Rider 5

The program's poor loan record makes it unworthy of any additional funding.

Rider 28

This rider appropriates additional funds to the department contingent upon the passage of certain legislation. The line item budget for the department includes appropriations adequate for all the purposes set forth in the contingent legislation, so the additional funds are unnecessary.
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Rider 11

This rider appropriates all earned federal funds and all funds related to depreciation of child support capital equipment to the agency. It also allows unlimited transferability out of the child support program into the general administration program. Sufficient earned federal funds, along with other revenue sources, are already appropriated to cover all agency operations. Any additional unrestricted funding is poor budgeting practice and sets bad precedent.

Rider 14

This rider appropriates all litigation expenses recovered by the Attorney General, in excess of any amount appropriated in the line-item budget. The agency was appropriated $2.1 million for this program. Allowing the agency to spend additional unrestricted, unaccounted for amounts is not a prudent allocation of state funds.

TEXAS CONSERVATION FOUNDATION

Item 1. and Rider 1

At one time state law required a separate agency to solicit donations for money and property for the Department of Parks and Wildlife and other agencies. This is no longer the case and continuing the agency is not justified.

TEXAS EMPLOYMENT COMMISSION

Rider 22

Another rider already appropriates over $200,000 more to carry out this function than it cost to perform the function when it was at the Department of Labor and Standards. Such funding increases are not justified.
COMMISSION ON FIRE PROTECTION PERSONNEL STANDARDS AND EDUCATION

Rider 4

I fully support the concept of fire department training. However, a new function of the State Fire Marshal’s Office within the State Board of Insurance is to make training and equipment grants and loans to local fire departments. As a result, this appropriation is an unnecessary duplication of resources.

ADVISORY COMMISSION ON INTERGOVERNMENTAL RELATIONS

Item 1 and Rider 3

This agency’s appropriation for the coming biennium includes no general revenue funds, which would require other entities to fund the agency. It has been funded by grants from the Governor’s Office because it is unable to obtain sufficient contract work to sustain adequate revenue flow to survive. Texas colleges and universities are equipped to carry out any research studies that may be necessary. As a result, there is no longer a justification to fund a separate state agency for this purpose.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICER STANDARDS AND EDUCATION

Rider 6

I support the concept of attempting to attract bright young Texans into the law enforcement profession. However, this program is not a loan program; it is actually a grant program that will require continued subsidization from general revenue funds for the program to continue. Better mechanisms exist for attracting people into law enforcement.

PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPARTMENT

Rider 23

This program was transferred to the Department of Public Safety, so this rider is unnecessary.
Rider 45

The authority to sell alcoholic beverages in a state park is a precedent that does not need to be set in Texas.

PURCHASING AND GENERAL SERVICES COMMISSION

Rider 39

The agency’s increased funding this biennium will more than adequately cover the costs of additional services for interagency mail.

TEXAS HIGHER EDUCATION COORDINATING BOARD

Item 16

Additional non-specific studies by the Coordinating Board should be carried on as part of their normal operations and not require additional special funding.

Item 23

Texas’ colleges, universities, and medical schools are the largest utility users in state government. As a group they expended $140 million in 1988. A contingency fund would provide disincentive for energy savings.

Our state’s public servants have an obligation to the people of Texas to ensure that every dollar spent on state government is done so with maximum efficiency and effectiveness. As Texas continues its economic recovery, it is vital that our government continue to assist that recovery and does not hinder continued growth. The efforts of this session must continue.
APPENDIX B

APPENDIX C

INTERIM STUDIES

I. Legislation Relating to Legislative Interim Studies

A. RESOLUTIONS REQUESTING STUDIES

House Concurrent Resolution 142, adopted by the 71st Legislature in the regular session, authorizes the lieutenant governor and speaker of the house to create by proclamation joint select committees to conduct interim studies. The resolution also sets forth various joint rules governing the operation of such special committees. The house rules also specifically authorize the speaker to appoint select house committees to conduct interim studies and to assign interim studies to standing committees. By legislative precedent, the lieutenant governor may likewise authorize interim studies.

The resolutions listed in this part request one or both of the presiding officers to create interim study committees. The resolutions do not actually effectuate the studies.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 52
Author: Collazo
Senate Sponsor: Parker
Subject: Memorial honoring Korean War and Vietnam War Veterans
Suggested Study Committee: An advisory committee would be composed of two senators and two citizens appointed by the lieutenant governor and of two state representatives and two citizens appointed by the speaker of the house.
Duties: The committee would assist the State Preservation Board in planning and fund raising for construction of the veterans memorial on the Capitol grounds.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 107
Author: Arnold
Senate Sponsor: Barrientos
Subject: High school dropouts
Suggested Study Committee: The Statewide Media Task Force on Dropout Prevention would be composed of one member to be appointed by the governor, one senator to be appointed by the lieutenant governor, one state representative to be appointed by the speaker of the house, and representatives of media-related industries and organizations including radio, television, print media, advertising, and educational institutions.
Duties: The task force would be charged to develop and implement a statewide multimedia campaign that will focus attention on the need to stay in school; in addition, it shall explore the possibility of coordinating such media efforts on a statewide basis.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 115
Author: Dutton
Senate Sponsor: Washington
Subject: State regulation of proprietary schools
Suggested Study Committee: The special joint interim committee would be composed of two senators appointed by the lieutenant governor, two state representatives appointed by the speaker, and 10 citizen members appointed by the governor, who shall also designate the chair and vice-chair.
Duties: The committee would study state regulation of proprietary schools, evaluating the state’s effectiveness in ensuring quality course work and adequately preparing students for employment in a trade or profession.
Note: S.B. 417, by Green (sponsored by Hammond), authorizes a similar study by a committee composed of legislators, state officials, and citizen members.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 116
Author: Stiles
Senate Sponsor: Haley
Subject: Health care benefits for educators
Suggested Study Committee: The interim study committee would be composed of both legislative and public members, the latter being educators and representatives of health care benefit providers.
Duties: The committee would review current health care benefits for educators and the concept of a statewide program of health care for school districts.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 238
Author: Madla
Senate Sponsor: Washington
Subject: Mental retardation service delivery
Suggested Study Committee: The Joint Legislative Task Force on the Mentally Retarded Persons Act of 1977 would have 23 members: three members of the senate, to be appointed by the lieutenant governor; three members of the house, to be appointed by the speaker; the commissioner of the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation or his designee; the commissioner of the Texas Department of Human Services or his designee; representatives of 12 interested associations, to be appointed by the presidents of those associations; and three attorneys, to be appointed by the president of the Texas Bar Association.
Duties: The task force would review the Mentally Retarded Persons Act of 1977 and develop recommendations for amending and improving the act.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 240
Author: Patterson
Senate Sponsor: Harris
Subject: Financial institutions
Suggested Study Committee: The special joint committee would be composed of three members of the house of representatives, to be appointed by the speaker; three members of the senate, to be appointed by the lieutenant governor; a representative of the governor’s office, to be appointed by the governor, with the chair selected by the committee.

Subject: Minority and women-owned businesses
Study Committee: The Special Advisory Committee on the Creation and Expansion of Minority and Women-Owned Business Ownership Opportunities shall be composed of 15 members: the lieutenant governor shall appoint five members of the senate and three members of the general public; the speaker of the house is invited to appoint five members of the house of representatives and two members of the general public.
Duties: The special committee shall formulate a plan for remedying past discrimination against minority and women-owned businesses and other disadvantaged groups; it shall make recommendations on using current bonding practices for small business expansion and start-up loan assistance.

SENATE RESOLUTION 747
Author: Caperton
Subject: State procurement policies and practices
Study Committee: The committee shall be composed of five senators appointed by the lieutenant governor, who shall designate the chair from among the appointees. It may meet and report jointly with a special committee of the house of representatives, should the house create a similar committee.
Duties: The committee shall study the adequacy of current state law relating to statutory principles and policy guidance for managing and controlling the procurement of supplies, services, and construction for public purposes; administrative and judicial remedies for the resolution of controversies relating to public contracts; ethical standards governing public and private participants in the procurement process; and, if findings warrant, the committee shall develop statutory reforms of state procurement policies and practices.

SENATE RESOLUTION 748

Author: Truan
Subject: Psychiatric treatment for children
Study Committee: Senate Committee on Health and Human Services, Subcommittee on Health Services
Duties: The committee is directed to study the need, the availability, and the quality of presently accessible psychiatric care for children, both public and private, as well as alternatives to hospitalization for psychiatric needs of children.
Note: S.R. 801, by Truan, directs that family therapists and therapists skilled in dealing with services for children be made a part of the study authorized by S.R. 748.

SENATE RESOLUTION 749

Author: Truan
Subject: Radiation hazards
Study Committee: Senate Committee on Health and Human Services, Subcommittee on Health Services
Duties: The subcommittee shall study the control and regulation of exposure to radiation, including currently unregulated sources of radiation.

APPENDIX H

ENACTMENTS BY AUTHOR AND SPONSOR

In the Texas Legislature, the terms author and sponsor have distinctive meanings. The author is the legislator who introduces a legislative measure in the house of origin. The sponsor is the legislator who carries or is responsible for the passage of the measure in the other chamber after the measure has been passed in the house of origin.

The following is a list of state senators and representatives with the bills that they authored and sponsored and that were passed and sent to the governor. An asterisk (*) indicates a bill vetoed by the governor.
