FOREWORD

The Summary of Enactments of the 74th Legislature provides synopses of all bills enacted during the 1995 Regular Session. Summaries of joint resolutions passed by the legislature proposing amendments to the Texas Constitution and the governor's veto proclamations are also included.

This publication is intended to be a convenient reference for the main features of enacted measures within particular subject areas. A summary of an act should not be considered a comprehensive or legal analysis or used as a source of authority for legal interpretation.

Copies of enrolled bills and resolutions from the 74th Legislature may be obtained from house and senate document distribution offices until November 1996. House measures are available from the Document Distribution Office, located in room G09 in the John H. Reagan State Office Building (P.O. Box 12128, Austin, Texas 78711; (512) 463-1144). Senate measures are available from the Senate Bill Distribution Office, located in the Capitol Extension, room E1.716 (P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711; (512) 463-0252). The public may also access copies of all enrolled bills and resolutions from the Legislative Reference Library, located in the Capitol, room 2N.3, (512) 463-1252.

Online access of legislative information, including enrolled bills, resolutions, text for all bill versions, bill history, bill analysis, and fiscal notes, is available through the Internet at (“capitol.tlc.texas.gov”).

CHAPTER 1
ENACTMENTS OF THE 74TH LEGISLATURE AGRICULTURE

HOUSE BILL 722
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE SPONSOR: Lucio, Sims

House Bill 722 amends the Civil Practice and Remedies Code to hold liable a person who publicly disseminates information that states or implies that a perishable agriculture or aquaculture food product is not safe for public consumption if the person knows the information is false. It allows food producers to sue for monetary damages and for other appropriate relief.

The act requires the court in such a case to consider whether the information was based on reasonable and reliable scientific data. The act excludes from these provisions persons who label or market agricultural products as organically grown, grown without the use of synthetic additives, or grown or produced by using or not using a chemical or drug.

HOUSE BILL 1219
EFFECTIVE: 4-27-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Hightower
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

House Bill 1219 authorizes the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) to establish criteria for classifying areas in the state for animal disease control and allows the commission to restrict intrastate movement of animals. It also authorizes the commission by rule to regulate or prohibit the movement of animals into a quarantined herd or area but grants an exception for animals that are moved within an owner's contiguous lands. The act contains a hardship provision for animal owners that would take into consideration prolonged drought, inadequacy of pasturage, or unusual feed supply. The act broadens TAHC authority to make indemnity payments to an owner whose cattle are infected with brucellosis and required by federal law to be slaughtered.

House Bill 1219 also creates a Class C misdemeanor for animal owners and caretakers who refuse to allow the commission access to their animals for testing or other required procedures.

HOUSE BILL 1463
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Swinford
SENATE SPONSOR: Haywood

House Bill 1463 establishes procedures for a seller of agricultural chemicals, agricultural seed, or animal feed to perfect a lien on the debtor's proceeds. The act excludes proceeds due to or retained by a cooperative association from provisions of this law. A maximum of four liens can be filed against the same proceeds of a debtor even if the liens are filed by different claimants.

A seller must notify potential customers that a lien could be attached to the proceeds of their products if they fail to pay their debt. Notification may be made either generally as part of normal business practices or specifically to the debtor. The notice of claim of a lien must be filed with the secretary of state, and a lien may be set for the amount of unpaid charges and filing fees. A lien is effective for as long as the claimant remains unpaid or continues to provide products to the debtor on a regular basis.
The act lays out the terms of the lien and authorizes the commissioner of the Texas Department of Agriculture to establish procedures for the settlement of disputes. House Bill 1463 also contains enforcement procedures and allows a claimant to foreclose on a lien only to recover reasonable charges. It also provides that liens do not have priority over labor claims facing the debtor.

Lien claimants must file a termination statement with the secretary of state within 10 days of receiving payment for fees secured by a lien and must send a copy of the statement to the debtor. They are liable for damages suffered by the debtor if they fail to do so.

HOUSE BILL 1736
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Swinford
SENATE SPONSOR: Bivins

This act amends provisions of the Business & Commerce Code relating to the termination of agreements between dealers and suppliers of farm, industrial, and outdoor power equipment. Under current law, a dealer who terminates an agreement is entitled to a refund for the new, undamaged equipment or parts that the dealer returns to the supplier.

House Bill 1736 authorizes the dealer to return goods to a person designated by the supplier; the dealer need not return them directly to the supplier. The act requires dealers to send suppliers a list of the inventory the dealer intends to return and requires both dealers and suppliers to perform certain actions within a specified time frame that may be altered with the consent of both parties. The act also adds forklifts and material-handling equipment to the list of goods that the dealer may return for a refund.

HOUSE BILL 1757
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: P. Patterson
SENATE SPONSOR: Lucio

House Bill 1757 amends the Agriculture Code relating to the protection and preservation of agricultural operations. The act requires a municipality to substantiate that an annexed agricultural operation is a public health hazard before the municipality may regulate the operation.

HOUSE BILL 1957
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Black, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims, Brown

House Bill 1957 changes the penalties for the theft of livestock and adds the theft of exotic livestock and exotic fowl as an offense under the Penal Code. The theft of 10 or more head of cattle, horses, exotic livestock, or exotic fowl, or 100 or more head of sheep, swine, or goats having an aggregate value of less than $100,000 is classified as a third degree felony. Theft of fewer head of livestock with a value of less than $20,000 is a state jail felony. The act provides that exotic livestock and exotic fowl must be tagged, branded, or marked in a conspicuous manner to receive protection under this law.

HOUSE BILL 2245
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Black
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims, Armbrister

House Bill 2245 continues the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) and sets September 1, 2007, as its next sunset review date. The act implements many of the Sunset Advisory Commission’s across-the-board recommendations and adds several sections to the Agriculture Code expanding the TAHC’s authority.
House Bill 2245 authorizes the TAHC to regulate the exotic fowl and exotic livestock industries. The commission may establish exotic animal advisory committees and adopt rules to prevent the spread of disease within the exotic animal population. The act creates new misdemeanor offenses for individuals who violate exotic animal health regulations.

House Bill 2245 also authorizes the TAHC to impose administrative penalties of up to $1,000 per violation per day and establishes a hearing and appeals process. All penalties collected must be placed in the general revenue fund. TAHC is also authorized to enter into a cooperative agreement with the Texas Department of Agriculture to use the department's livestock export pens for animal health purposes. Finally, House Bill 2245 requires the TAHC to periodically consult with the Council on Competitive Government to determine the most cost-effective method for delivering animal health services.

HOUSE BILL 2341
EFFECTIVE: 5-23-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Ramsay
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims

House Bill 2341 abolishes the Fire Ant Advisory Board and replaces it with the Fire Ant Research and Management Account Advisory Committee within the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. The act delegates responsibility for fire ant research and management to the newly created advisory committee, the experiment station, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. House Bill 2341 delineates the duties of the advisory committee, the experiment station, and the extension service regarding fire ant research and management and sets out the composition, terms, and meeting guidelines for the advisory committee. The act also requires the experiment station to present a comprehensive report to the legislature before July 1, 1996, on fire ant research efforts, estimated costs associated with the fire ant problem in Texas, costs and benefits of research, recommendations for future research and management, and an estimate on the amount of appropriations needed to fund the program in the next biennium.

HOUSE BILL 2505
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-96

HOUSE AUTHOR: Swinford
SENATE SPONSOR: Bivins

House Bill 2505 amends the Agriculture Code relating to commercial animal feed. The act eliminates the current requirement of registering each feed and fertilizer product with the Texas Feed and Fertilizer Control Service and replaces it with a system that requires the licensing of a feed facility. The act requires a person who manufactures or distributes commercial feed to obtain a license from the service for each feed facility, exempts persons that make only retail sales of commercial feed, sets the terms of the license, and establishes a cap on the licensing fee.

House Bill 2505 also amends the feed-labeling requirements by deleting the name and percentage of roughage information required to be listed on the label and establishes a process for label review by the service. Inspection fees for feed provisions are amended to allow incremental increases, but the act caps the feed control fund at half the projected operating expense of the service for the next fiscal year.

The act requires feed facilities generating $100 or more during a license year in tonnage fees to file quarterly reports. Facilities that generate less than $100 a license year in tonnage fees are required to file an annual sworn report stating the tonnage of all commercial feed the facility manufactured and distributed in the state during the preceding license year. The act also establishes due dates for annual and quarterly reports and inspection fees.
Finally, House Bill 2505 makes it an offense to distribute feed that has been intentionally radiated unless the radiation conformed to federal regulations. The act requires the service to adopt rules that conform to, but are not more strict than, current manufacturing processes established under federal law for the use of drugs in the manufacture, processing, and packaging of commercial feed and sets a penalty.

HOUSE BILL 3003
EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Finnell
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims, Lucio

House Bill 3003 consolidates the boll weevil control and the pink bollworm control programs into a single cotton pest control program. The act clarifies language regarding the authority of the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) to prescribe qualifications for inspectors, to issue a quarantine for an infested area, and to prevent the movement of equipment contaminated or suspected of contamination with cotton pests. The legislation requires the TDA to issue a bill requesting payment for the destruction of infected host plants before the department may place a lien for nonpayment against an owner’s property.

House Bill 3003 also amends language detailing the composition of the administrative committee that governs a pest management zone and provides that each county in the zone must be represented on the committee. Finally, the act repeals statutory authority that allowed the department to create cotton escrow accounts.

SENATE BILL 251
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Bivins
HOUSE SPONSOR: R. Cuellar

Senate Bill 251 amends provisions in the Agriculture Code relating to the produce recovery fund and the handling and marketing of citrus fruits and vegetables. The act establishes that a person who holds a license to handle or market citrus fruits is considered to hold a license to handle or market vegetables and vice versa. The act replaces various types of licenses with two categories: one for registering cash dealers and another for licensing persons who make noncash transactions.

The act provides that a claim against the fund can be made only for Texas-grown produce, establishes a statute of limitations for filing a claim against the fund, and allows for more generous claim payments. Senate Bill 251 also authorizes the Texas Department of Agriculture to deduct the amount a license holder owes to the fund from the amount of the claim to be paid to the license holder.

SENATE BILL 368
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Armbrister
HOUSE SPONSOR: Black

Senate Bill 368 continues the Equine Research Account Advisory Committee (ERAAC) and sets September 1, 2001, as its next sunset review date. The act implements many of the Sunset Advisory Commission’s across-the-board recommendations, authorizes ERAAC to annually spend up to 10 percent of its funds for administrative costs, and prohibits an ERAAC member from participating in a grant proposal review process if the member has submitted a research grant proposal. The act also requires the director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, who administers the equine research account, to consult at least once a year with the Texas Racing Commission on the use of the account and the impact of state-funded equine research.
SENATE BILL 371
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Senate Bill 371 continues the Texas Food and Fibers Commission, removes the commission from the sunset review process, and applies to the commission many of the Sunset Advisory Commission's across-the-board recommendations.

SENATE BILL 372
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Senate Bill 372 continues the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) and its related entities, the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority, Agricultural Resources Protection Authority, State Seed and Plant Board, and Produce Recovery Fund Board, and sets September 1, 2007, as the department's next sunset review date. The act implements the Sunset Advisory Commission's across-the-board recommendations for TDA and its related agencies and amends provisions of the Agriculture Code relating to agricultural regulation, inspection, licensing, and financing programs.

Senate Bill 372 removes fee limits for the TDA's regulatory programs and requires the department to set fees high enough to recover administrative costs for programs not specifically exempted by the General Appropriations Act. The act requires the department to enter into an agreement under which its hearings are conducted by the State Office of Administrative Hearings, sets forth the details of this joint hearing process, and updates and modifies provisions relating to administrative hearing and penalty procedures. It also expands the number of programs for which administrative penalties may be assessed.

The department is authorized to contract with another state agency to enforce provisions relating to weights and measures and supervise all weights and measures sold or offered for sale in the state. The department is required to license private individuals and companies to inspect, calibrate, and repair devices used to weigh and measure. The act outlines the licensing process, requires the department to set fees for services performed by private entities, and establishes civil penalties and injunctions.

Senate Bill 372 alters provisions relating to the composition of the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority (TATA) board and transfers to the board many administrative powers currently vested in the TDA commissioner. The act requires that board members receive financial training and allows the board to give preference to certain types of linked deposit program loans. It also requires TATA to approve annual budgets for various programs, to file a biennial cost-benefit report with the state auditor, and to provide input into the TDA's strategic plans and biennial appropriations requests. Should the constitutional amendments proposed in Senate Joint Resolution 51 and House Joint Resolution 92 fail to achieve voter approval, Senate Bill 372 lowers the amount of TATA loan money available to a single eligible business.

The act adds six members to the Agricultural Resources Protection Authority board and adds new provisions relating to the registration of pesticides. It requires the authority to provide for semiannual public hearings and to regularly review and comment on the activities of the agencies it oversees.

Finally, Senate Bill 372 requires the TDA to coordinate egg regulations and egg inspection programs with the Texas Department of Health. It eliminates the requirement that food retailers maintain a separate egg dealer license and requires Texas egg standards to be at least equal to those set by the federal government. The act also requires the TDA to establish a program by which businesses may consolidate their agricultural licenses and inspections.
SENATE BILL 699

 EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

 SENATE AUTHOR: Sims, Lucio

 HOUSE SPONSOR: P. Patterson

 Senate Bill 699 amends the Agriculture Code governing the farm and ranch finance program, which was established to help young farmers purchase land for production. The act provides that applicants must prove that they intend to use the land primarily for farming and ranching and that they must have three years of pertinent experience. The cap on the applicant’s net worth is raised to $400,000.

 Senate Bill 699 also simplifies language on the loan rate and caps the amount of the loan at the lesser of $150,000 or 95 percent of the lesser of the land’s purchase price or its appraised value. Finally, the act abolishes the farm and ranch administrative expense fund.

SENATE BILL 810

 EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

 SENATE AUTHOR: Lucio

 HOUSE SPONSOR: Gutierrez

 Senate Bill 810 amends the Agriculture Code to authorize the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) to establish certification programs for both agricultural products and agricultural production processes. The act authorizes the TDA to certify products to ensure genetic purity, guarantee pest or disease resistance, or prevent the spread of pests, diseases, or pathogens. The department may develop minimum product certification standards, charge fees to cover the costs of product certification, and regulate the use of the term “Texas Certified Product” and terms and logos that indicate product quality standards. Senate Bill 810 also provides that a person who violates laws or rules relating to product certification is liable for a civil penalty of up to $500 per violation per day.

 The TDA is also authorized to create voluntary certification programs for agricultural production processes. The department may develop minimum process certification standards, set fees to cover the costs of process certification, and assess administrative penalties of up to $500 per violation per day against an agricultural processor who falsely claims to be certified.

SENATE BILL 897

 EFFECTIVE: 5-16-95

 SENATE AUTHOR: Sims, et al.

 HOUSE SPONSOR: P. Patterson

 Senate Bill 897 authorizes the review of current programs to research, control, and eradicate animal tuberculosis in order to develop and implement an improved comprehensive program. The agencies and colleges conducting the review are required to seek the advice and opinions of persons who commercially raise farm or ranch animals. The act provides that the improved program may not conflict with current law.

SENATE BILL 1028

 EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

 SENATE AUTHOR: Haywood

 HOUSE SPONSOR: Seidlits

 Senate Bill 1028 repeals Sections 146.004 and 146.007 of the Agriculture Code requiring livestock auctioneers to file with the county clerk a record of the horses, mules, and oxen sold.

SENATE BILL 1146

 EFFECTIVE: 6-5-95

 SENATE AUTHOR: Lucio

 HOUSE SPONSOR: R. Cuellar

 Senate Bill 1146 deletes provisions of the Agriculture Code regarding maturity standards for citrus fruit and requires the Texas Department of Agriculture to adopt rules that define new maturity standards for grapefruit and oranges based on the amount of juice, solids, and citric acid in the fruit. The act also amends provisions relating to the sale, transportation, and inspection of immature or early-season grapefruit and oranges.
SENATE BILL 1173
SENATE AUTHOR: Lucio
HOUSE SPONSOR: R. Cuellar

Senate Bill 1173 establishes a citrus budwood certification program under the administration of the Texas Department of Agriculture that enables commercial citrus growers and nursery owners in Texas to obtain citrus plants that are state-certified as being free of tristeza and other diseases. The department is required to designate foundation groves from which certified disease-free citrus budwood may be obtained. The act creates a budwood advisory council to help the department adopt standards and designate foundation groves and sets forth the composition and terms of the council.

Senate Bill 1173 requires the department to establish standards regarding the genetic purity of budwood and acceptable plant handling and inspection and testing procedures. The department is also required to adopt rules relating to the certification process and to set fees high enough to recover the cost of administering the program. Finally, the act provides that violators of these rules or regulations may be subject to stop-sale orders, criminal penalties, civil penalties, injunctions, or administrative penalties.

SENATE BILL 1196
SENATE AUTHOR: Sims, Lucio
HOUSE SPONSOR: P. Patterson

Senate Bill 1196 amends the Agriculture Code relating to the Texas boll weevil eradication program and its governing body, the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation Board, and amends provisions relating to herbicide and pesticide application.

Senate Bill 1196 broadens the duties of the boll weevil eradication foundation to include the suppression and eradication of the pink bollworm and authorizes the establishment of a pink bollworm eradication program. The act also allows for the creation of a pink bollworm eradication zone in Reeves and Pecos counties and shortens the time period under which cotton growers must pay assessments and penalties for boll weevil and pink bollworm eradication to 10 days after the grower receives a delinquent notice.

The act provides for the expansion and modification of eradication zones and amends several provisions relating to the collection and use of assessments. It expands the definition of cotton grower, sets forth new procedures relating to referendums and board elections, and provides that votes are confidential.

Senate Bill 1196 authorizes the board to accept gifts and grants, borrow money, and take other actions as needed to carry out its duties. The act grants governmental immunity to the foundation and absolves its directors of individual liability for their actions except in cases involving gross negligence, criminal actions, or dishonest acts.

The legislation provides additional protection to growers of organic cotton. It prohibits the board from treating organic cotton fields with chemicals not approved for use on certified organic cotton and provides that the board may plow up organic fields if necessary as an alternative to chemical spraying. The act authorizes the board to indemnify organic cotton growers, who may be required by the board to mitigate their losses by planting alternative crops.

Finally, Senate Bill 1196 holds certain persons exempt from damages caused by the application of a regulated herbicide or pesticide and from having to ensure that the application of a regulated herbicide is in compliance with the law, if the persons are required to apply the herbicide or pesticide under a government program.
APPROPRIATIONS

HOUSE BILL 1
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Junell
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, appropriates approximately $79.8 billion for the FY1996-FY1997 state fiscal biennium beginning September 1, 1995, after line-item vetoes of approximately $14 million by the governor. The vetoes primarily affect appropriations riders dependent on legislation that failed of enactment. The budgetary total reflects an expenditure increase of approximately 6.2 percent over FY1994-FY1995.

The act regroups agencies according to a new format, expanding from the former 6 substantive articles to 10. The revised articles include general government (I), health and human services (II), education (III), the judiciary (IV), public safety and criminal justice (V), natural resources (VI), business and economic development (VII), regulation (VIII), general provisions (IX), and the legislature (X). Education receives the largest share of funding at $33.6 billion, followed by health and human services at $26.4 billion, business and economic development at $8.8 billion, public safety and criminal justice at $6.9 billion, general government at $1.8 billion, natural resources at $1.7 billion, and regulation at $0.4 billion. The judiciary and legislature combined receive almost $0.5 billion.

The above figures total $80.1 billion, or slightly more than the previously cited figure. Article IX, however, contains a number of directives and contingent increases or decreases, resulting in a net reduction of $0.3 billion to the $79.8 billion spending level. Article IX derives largely from a provision directing the comptroller of public accounts by October 1995 to reduce general revenue appropriations by specified amounts. The article also expresses the legislature’s intent to cap employment among state agencies and public institutions of higher education. Accordingly, the other articles set target levels for full-time-equivalent (FTE) positions for each agency and institution. These total about 232,600 FTE positions for FY1996, declining slightly to 231,300 in FY1997. Capital expenditures anticipated for the new fiscal biennium equal about $848 million. The budget for debt service payments is about $673 million.

Approximately 56.3 percent of the appropriations total is funded from general revenue or from related or consolidated funds. Approximately 29.4 percent comes from federal funds, including earned federal funds. The remaining 14.3 percent derives from miscellaneous other revenue sources.

The General Appropriations Act is subject to four different constitutional or statutory limitations on expenditures. The oldest of these, the “pay-as-you-go” constitutional amendment adopted by Texas voters in 1942, requires the comptroller to certify that certain budgeted expenditures, including appropriations from outside the General Appropriations Act, are within the amount of revenue estimated to be available for the fiscal biennium. The legislature in case of emergency may exceed this limit by four-fifths vote of each chamber, but the 74th Legislature has not done so. Another constitutional amendment, adopted in 1978, limits the rate of appropriations growth from state tax revenue to the rate of growth of the state economy. The Legislative Budget Board in November 1994 established the limit for FY1996-FY1997, which House Bill 1 satisfies. The other two limits relate to welfare spending and debt payable from general revenue. The General Appropriations Act likewise meets both restrictions.
HOUSE BILL  982
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

The Children’s Trust Fund of Texas Council provides financial support for community efforts against child abuse and neglect through periodic transfers from the trust fund to an operating fund. House Bill 982 amends the Human Resources Code to require an annual schedule of transfers as part of the council’s state plan. It limits transfers in a fiscal year to the amount deposited in the trust fund in the preceding year, whereas under prior law, the limit was half the amount of the trust fund at the beginning of the new fiscal year. The act credits all current and future interest to the trust fund, deleting provisions that would have credited interest to the operating fund beginning FY1997. It limits administrative expenses during a fiscal year to half the interest credited in the preceding fiscal year, whereas under prior law, the limit was 10 percent of the maximum fiscal year transfer. The act authorizes the council in certain circumstances to approve grant extensions beyond the current three-year maximum. HOUSE BILL  3050
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

In 1991 the 72nd Legislature enacted legislation scheduling the consolidation of most state funds and the elimination of most statutory fund dedications, and allowing “fund sweeps” of certain unspent statutorily dedicated fund revenue, meaning the diversion of such revenue to availability for general government purposes at the end of the fiscal biennium. This act exempts miscellaneous funds, accounts, revenue sources, and bond proceeds from fund consolidation, dedication elimination, fund sweeps, or specified combinations of those three actions. Bond proceeds from bond issuances approved by the 74th Legislature are fully exempt from all three actions. House Bill 3050 provides that it prevails over any contrary enactments of that legislature purporting to create or reestablish a special fund or account or to dedicate or rededicate revenue to particular purposes. It repeals obsolete provisions relating to the scheduling of consolidations and dedication eliminations. The act revises fund sweep procedures and makes such sweeps applicable specifically to dedicated revenues that exceed appropriated amounts on the final day of FY1997.

House Bill 3050 amends Department of Public Safety funding contained in House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, to draw approximately $13.1 million from the state highway fund rather than the general revenue fund. It dedicates certain excess revenues to the financing of the Texas Department of Health laboratory facility provided for by House Bill 2022. It amends Natural Resources Code provisions relating to the coastal protection fund to make changes relating to fund investments and to clarify that certain fee-triggering statutes are based on the unencumbered fund balance rather than the gross balance.

The legislation takes effect generally on August 28, 1995, but individual exemptions and amendments take effect variously on August 30 or September 1, 1995.

EFFECTIVE: 3-31-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
HOUSE SPONSOR: Junell, Ramsay

The 73rd Legislature in 1993 enacted legislation delaying August 1995 payments from the foundation school fund to school districts, scheduling them instead for September 1995 and thus postponing state expenditures from FY1995 to FY1996. Similar measures from the same legislature delayed five weeks of payments to public junior colleges and certain institutions of higher education and delayed three months of payments to the trust funds for the Employees Retirement System of Texas and the Teacher Retirement System of Texas. Combined savings for FY1995 were estimated at $800 million, but the state’s fiscal situation later improved, yielding a $2 billion FY1995 surplus. Any unexpended funds from the enrollment and start-up appropriations at the end of FY1995 are reappropriated for the following fiscal biennium. The act reduces the FY1995 appropriations for the Texas Department of Health by $8.25 million and rechannels those funds in the following manner: $4 million to augment the governor’s disaster contingency account, $4 million to fund commitments to the Texas Youth Commission, and $0.25 million to compensate the Department of Public Safety for expenses incurred in certain investigations relating to the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. SENATE BILL 768

SENATE AUTHOR: Montford

EFFECTIVE: 6-5-95

HOUSE SPONSOR: Junell

The state water pollution control revolving fund, administered by the Texas Water Development Board, provides financial assistance to political subdivisions for the construction of treatment works. The revolving fund is fed by a combination of federal grants and state revenue and general obligation bonds, but allowable administrative expenses up to now have been based solely on the federal portion of the funding. Senate Bill 768 authorizes the board to assess cost recovery fees on its loans, consisting of a one-time loan origination charge and an annual loan servicing charge. These fees go to a separate operating fund outside the state treasury to be used for administration of the revolving fund. The board may transfer money from the operating fund to the revolving fund, but not vice versa. The legislation authorizes a similar administrative cost recovery scheme for any additional revolving fund for public works that is capitalized by federal grants.

HOUSE BILL 2460
EFFECTIVE: Vetoed

House Bill 2460 amends state law to meet requirements of recent federal legislation discouraging the use of cigarettes and other tobacco products by minors. The act amends the code to require retail establishments that sell or distribute cigarettes or tobacco products to demand proof of age from prospective purchasers of suspect age. It prohibits the installation or maintenance of vending machines containing such products in locations accessible to minors. Exceptions include bars, military installations, colleges and universities, industrial and manufacturing plants, business offices, and other specified locations. The act clarifies the offense relating to sale or distribution to minors and places criminal responsibility with the retail employee in the case of a retail sale and with the proprietor in the case of a vending machine sale. It requires notice to retail employees of legal requirements and prohibitions, and amends specifications regarding signs to be posted in retail establishments. The act makes it an offense to distribute cigarette or tobacco product samples to minors or to sell cigarettes or smokeless tobacco products from an opened package. Another new offense prohibits minors from possessing, purchasing, or accepting cigarettes or tobacco products or misrepresenting their age for such purposes. On conviction, the court suspends sentence but the minor must attend a smoking awareness course. The court additionally may order the Department of Public Safety to suspend or deny a driver’s license or permit for up to 180 days.

Other amendments to the code provide for enforcement by the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse in partnership with local law authorities. The act authorizes the commission to award block grants to cities and counties for local enforcement and requires random unannounced inspections at least annually at locations where cigarettes and tobacco products are sold. It authorizes the commission to assess administrative penalties against holders of cigarette and tobacco product tax permits if necessary to comply with federal law. Such penalties, if assessed, apply to unlawful sale or distribution or to violation of sign posting requirements.
The state treasurer, under the Tax Code, issues tax permits relating to cigarettes and tobacco products. The act amends the Tax Code to establish permit fees of $50 annually for cigarette and tobacco product retailers. SENATE BILL 1334

EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Barrientos

HOUSE SPONSOR: Naishatat, et al.

Senate Bill 1334 amends the Property Code to revise several provisions regarding the relationship between a landlord and tenant. The act prohibits a landlord from disconnecting utility service in an all-bills-paid unit except for repairs, construction, or an emergency, unless a tenant is late paying the rent, proper notification is made, and certain other conditions are met. The requirements apply to a unit that is not individually metered. A landlord may disconnect a tenant’s electrical service that is individually metered in accordance with rules established by the Public Utility Commission. The act imposes new requirements on a landlord who changes the locks of a unit in response to a tenant’s failure to pay rent and requires a landlord to disclose the name and address of the owner of a rental dwelling to government officials upon written request. It also directs governmental notices relating to health, sanitation, safety, and nuisance violations on the landlord’s property to the landlord’s agent. It clarifies that a landlord may not take a retaliatory measure against a tenant who in good faith has exercised his or her rights under a lease, municipal ordinance, or state or federal law or has complained to a governmental authority about a building code violation or utility problem. The act of interfering with a tenant’s rights or lease in bad faith is considered a retaliatory measure and subject to certain remedies. The act also requires that a landlord refund all or part of a tenant’s security deposit or prepaid rent in the event a tenant fails to occupy a rental unit and a suitable replacement tenant is found.

Senate Bill 1334 prohibits a residential rental locator from practicing without a license as a real estate broker or salesman and creates a misdemeanor offense for a violation. The act narrows the definition of a residential rental locator to exempt certain individuals and specifies that the service applies only to apartment units.

Senate Bill 1334 also revises provisions of the Property Code relating to the duty of a landlord to provide certain security devices and smoke detectors. It makes a tenant liable for knowingly disconnecting and damaging a smoke detector and grants certain remedies to a landlord and a tenant for violations.

House Bill 43 amends the Civil Practice and Remedies Code to establish liability for damages arising from stalking. Damages may be recovered by a claimant when a defendant has violated a restraining order prohibiting harassing behavior by repeatedly engaging in harassing behavior that causes the claimant to reasonably fear for the claimant’s safety or the safety of a member of claimant’s family, or when a claimant reasonably fears that a defendant may inflict bodily injury on the claimant or commit an offense against the claimant, a member of claimant’s family, or the claimant’s property, when the defendant had the apparent ability to inflict such injury, when the claimant clearly demanded that the defendant stop, and when the claimant has reported the harassing behavior to the police.

It is a defense if the defendant was engaged in conduct that consisted of activity in support of constitutionally or statutorily protected rights. A claimant may sue for actual and exemplary damages. The remedies provided in this bill are cumulative.

The act provides that the Tort Claims Act does not apply to a claim arising from the action of an employee while responding to an emergency call or situation if the employee’s action is not taken with conscious indifference or reckless disregard for the safety of others. The act exempts from the application of the Tort Claims Act municipalities with a population of 1.5 million or more that acquire land at a sale following the foreclosure of a lien held by the municipality if a claim arises after the date the land was acquired and before the date the land was conveyed by the municipality and the claim arises from the condition of the land, a premise defect, or an act committed by a person other than an agent or employee of a municipality.

HOUSE AUTHOR: Junell, et al.

SENATE SPONSOR: Bivins

House Bill 668 amends the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act (DTPA) and makes changes to the Property Code, the Insurance Code, and other laws.

The act limits the instances when a DTPA action may be brought by prohibiting a claim for damages based on the rendering of a professional service, the essence of which is providing advice, a judgment, or an opinion, except in certain enumerated circumstances. House Bill 668 excludes the application of the DTPA to written contracts worth more than $100,000 and not related to work performed on a consumer’s residence. The act also excludes a cause of action arising from a transaction, a project, or a set of transactions relating to the same project, involving total consideration by the consumer of more than $500,000.

House Bill 668 limits damage awards in DTPA actions to economic damages unless the defendant acted knowingly or intentionally. The act defines “economic damages” as compensatory damages for pecuniary loss, including costs of repair and replacement. The act also limits treble and double damage awards to specific circumstances. House Bill 668 defines “knowingly” as actual awareness, at the time of the act or practice complained of, of the falsity, deception, or unfairness of the act or practice.

The act restricts a consumer’s ability to waive the consumer’s rights pursuant to DTPA.

House Bill 668 provides that false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices that take advantage of a disaster by selling or leasing essential goods at an exorbitant price are subject to the DTPA.

The act authorizes mediation for certain claims and outlines settlement procedures. A party’s failure to settle a DTPA claim for substantially the same amount as received in a judgment may result in an assessment of court costs and attorney’s fees against the nonsettling party.

House Bill 668 amends the Insurance Code to conform to the changes made in the DTPA. This act also amends the Insurance Code to exclude commission-created rules as a cause of action pursuant to the DTPA or the Unfair Claims Settlement Practices Act.

SENATE BILL 25
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Senate Bill 25 amends the Civil Practice and Remedies Code to cap the amount of exemplary damages that may be awarded in tort cases to two times the award of economic damages, plus an amount equal to any noneconomic damages, up to $750,000, or a total award of $200,000, whichever is greater. This act further limits the award of exemplary damages to those acts in which the defendant acted with fraud or malice or committed a wilful act or omission or gross negligence in a wrongful death action. This standard requires the plaintiff to offer evidence that produces in the mind of the trier of fact a firm belief or conviction as to the truth of the allegations. The act also formalizes the bifurcated trial system and sets out clear jury instructions on what should be considered in determining culpability and awarding damages. The first phase of the trial involves the establishment of culpability by a preponderance of the evidence. The second phase of the trial assesses the amount of damages to be awarded.

However, each liable defendant is jointly and severally liable for the damages recoverable by the claimant if the percentage of responsibility attributed to the defendant is greater than 50 percent. In cases involving a toxic tort or the release, deposit, or discharge into the environment of any hazardous or harmful substance each defendant is jointly and severally liable for the damages recoverable by a claimant if the percentage of responsibility attributed to the defendant is greater than 15 percent. The act provides that a defendant is allowed to join a responsible third party who has not been joined by a claimant.

Senate Bill 28 amends the Civil Practice and Remedies Code by adding a new Chapter 95 limiting the liability of a property owner for personal injury, death, or property damage to a contractor, subcontractor, or an employee of a contractor or subcontractor who constructs, repairs, renovates, or modifies an improvement to real property. or the contractor’s or subcontractor’s employee if the property owner exercises or retains some control over the manner in which the work is performed and has actual knowledge of the danger or condition resulting in the injury or damage. The act authorizes the admission of workers’ compensation benefits in a trial for damages and requires the judge to deduct the amount of workers’ compensation benefits from the damages awarded unless the workers’ compensation carrier’s subrogation rights have been waived.

The act requires that department contracts with private vendors for operation of a correctional facility be cost-effective and grants the department flexibility in the procurement of facilities. The act also requires the department to review these contracts and provide a copy of the review to the Legislative Criminal Justice Board. The department is authorized to transfer a correctional facility to another state agency; the institutional division is authorized to use surplus agricultural lands to provide agricultural products to a nonprofit organization; and each inmate is required to work, if capable. The department is authorized to use the labor of state jail felons in certain programs or projects. Eligibility for pre-parolee transfer status is increased from 180 days to one year before the presumptive parole date, and eligibility for pre-parolee transfer status is expanded to include inmates who have been denied parole but are one year from mandatory release. Liability for destruction of state property is extended to include inmates in transfer facilities and state jails, and an inmate is required to exhaust all administrative procedures before seeking judicial review. The authority of the department to grant furloughs from prison is restricted, while the state jail division is authorized to grant furloughs for a wider variety of reasons. In addition, the act limits the duration of substance abuse treatment programs to one year as well as limiting the number of participants in those programs.
House Bill 2162 also reorganizes that part of the parole law in the Code of Criminal Procedure that specifies the conditions of release on parole that a parole panel may impose and that part that imposes supervision fees. The act creates a parolee restitution fund to receive and disburse restitution payments made by parolees.

The department is authorized to release otherwise confidential information to certain public and private entities for a law enforcement, correctional, or treatment purpose. The list of offenses for which a defendant is ineligible for placement in a substance abuse facility is amended to include attempted sex offenses and to exclude the offense of harboring a runaway child. SENATE BILL 440

EFFECTIVE: See below

SENATE AUTHOR: Montford, Shapiro

HOUSE SPONSOR: Gallego

Senate Bill 440 amends the Code of Criminal Procedure to provide new procedure for expediting applications for writs of habeas corpus and to require the appointment and compensation of competent counsel in proceedings where the death penalty is sought. In each administrative judicial region, local selection committees are created to adopt standards for attorneys appointed to death penalty cases. Listings of attorneys who meet these standards are to be prominently posted in each district court clerk's office, and trial court judges are required to select lead and second counsel for the defense from such lists. The act further stipulates that reasonable costs for defense may be paid in advance. If the trial court refuses payment of any defense costs, written notice must be provided and entered as a sealed exhibit into the court record. Defendants convicted of a capital felony are entitled to court-appointed counsel on direct appeal and to apply for a writ of certiorari to the United States Supreme Court. The defense costs for trial and direct appeal are to be paid by the county in which the trial occurred. If a defendant is sentenced to death on or after September 1, 1995, certified as indigent, and declares a desire for counsel, the convicting court is required to appoint counsel for the purpose of a writ of habeas corpus. Counsel for the trial or direct appeal is not allowed to be appointed to the writ application unless the court finds good cause for such appointment and the applicant and attorney both request the appointment on record. The costs of counsel and reasonable expenses for the application are to be drawn from state funds. If investigation shows cause for an application for a writ of habeas corpus, the writ must be filed not later than 45 days after the original brief is filed on direct appeal with the court of criminal appeals. Defendants who were convicted before September 1, 1995, and who have yet to file an initial writ, have 180 days after the court of criminal appeals appoints counsel. Except in extraordinary circumstances, failure to file an application for a writ within 90 days after these respective deadlines constitutes a waiver of all grounds for habeas corpus relief. Untimely applications must meet three very strenuous requirements before the court of criminal appeals may consider their merits or grant relief. Although given a 30-day deadline to respond to an application for a writ, the state may request an extension if justifying circumstances are shown. The act also provides a procedure for findings of fact without evidentiary hearings and for a hearing in the event that controverted, unresolved factual issues are found. The court of criminal appeals is required to review all submitted material in a timely manner and is granted authority to request further oral arguments and briefing by the state and the applicant. Execution dates may not be set by the convicting court until the court of criminal appeals denies relief or issues a mandate in the event that the case is filed for submission. The timing requirement for executions is altered so that they may be carried out at any time after 6 p.m. Except in circumstances where an initial application for a writ is pending or has yet to be filed, all procedural changes relating to habeas corpus appeals introduced by this act would only apply in all death penalty cases on or after September 1, 1995. Further, the effective date of this legislation is contingent on the appropriation of at least two million dollars for the implementation of these reforms.

The act also introduces several substantive changes and additions to the procedures for compensating victims for health care services and permits the claimant to be someone who acts on behalf of the victim. If the claimant is assisted by an attorney, the attorney general may award no more than 25 percent of the claim as attorney’s fees. Except in instances where the claimant’s injury is catastrophic, the attorney general is also authorized to pay no more than $25,000 in compensation. For catastrophic injuries that limit the claimant’s ability to work and live independently, the award cap is raised to $50,000. Concerning compensation paid to providers for services, the attorney general is required to follow medical fee guidelines enumerated in the Labor Code and providers are required to accept adjusted fees as payment in full.

The act adds a city located in a county of more than 1,100,000 in population and containing more than 40 incorporated cities in which the combined sales and use tax rate imposed by the city, state, and other taxing units within the city does not exceed 7.75 percent. This authorization expires September 1, 1997.

HOUSE BILL 1001
EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

House Bill 1001 amends the Local Government Code and the Water Code to impose strict subdivision platting requirements and water, sewer, electric, and gas utility service requirements on persons selling residential home lots from a subdivided plat in affected counties. “Affected counties” is defined as a county where the unemployment rate is 25 percent greater than the state average for three years in a row and the per capita income is 25 percent below the state average for the most recent three years and which is within 50 miles of an international border. A subdivider’s failure or refusal to comply with platting and service requirements is punishable by both civil and criminal penalties. Enforcement authority for a violation of the platting and utility service requirements rests with the attorney general or a local district or county attorney. The act also gives private individuals a right of action against a subdivider to void a sale and return the purchase price of a lot, and to recover the market value of any permanent improvements, actual expenses incurred as a direct result of the failure to provide adequate water and sewer facilities, court costs, and reasonable attorney fees.

The act also requires that all advertising regarding the sale of lots in an affected subdivision truthfully disclose the availability of water and sewer services, and gas and electricity utilities. The act requires that all disclosures and notices regarding utility services and platting be made in Spanish and English. Further, the act requires that prior to the execution of an executory contract for a lot, a subdivider shall make a written disclosure regarding the condition of the property. The written disclosure must be substantially similar to the disclosure form provided in the act.

The act authorizes affected counties to operate water and sewer facilities on the same basis as a municipality or other political subdivision. Because the act grants affected counties the authority to operate water and sewer facilities, the Water Code is amended to include affected county-run utilities within the scope of the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission’s regulatory authority. The act also limits the rate a political subdivision serving an economically distressed area may charge the residents to the lesser of the cost of providing service or the rate charged other residents plus 15 percent.

The counties affected by this act are required to comply with the provisions of this act by July 1, 1995. Provisions of this act relating to advertising standards are effective on July 1, 1995.

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Oliveira, Maxey
SENATE SPONSOR: Lucio

House Bill 2065 amends and codifies into the Government Code provisions of the Texas Enterprise Zone Act relating to enterprise zone and enterprise project designation. It expands the criteria used to designate economically distressed areas to include significant increases in juvenile crime activity. It also provides that enterprise zone designation of an area that is a federal enterprise zone, empowerment zone, or enterprise community does not reduce the number of enterprise zones that a city or county may designate.

The act clarifies provisions relating to the definitions and qualifications of enterprise projects. It authorizes qualified businesses in certain enterprise zones to request that the zone’s governing body apply to the Department of Commerce for enterprise project designation on behalf of the business. It also limits the number of businesses the department may designate as enterprise projects to 65 per biennium and provides that designation as an enterprise project is effective for 5 years, regardless of when the enterprise zone’s designation expires. The requirement of the Department of Commerce to produce an annual cost-benefit analysis of the enterprise zone program is reduced to once every biennium.

The act also amends the Tax Code to allow enterprise zone projects to receive a tax refund on construction labor and certain power consumption costs. It specifies that reinvestment zone designation continues for the same period as an enterprise zone designation for areas designated as both, and that separate agreements made by property owners in these areas are not required to contain identical terms.

HOUSE AUTHOR: Goolsby, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Leedom

House Bill 29 amends the Education Code to permit the governing board of a college or university to allow senior citizens to take courses for college credit totalling up to six hours of credit per semester or summer term without having to pay tuition, if space is available. The section of the code amended by House Bill 29 defines a senior citizen as a person 65 years of age or older.

The tuition waiver provided by House Bill 29 applies beginning with the 1995 fall semester.

HOUSE AUTHOR: T. Hunter, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Bivins

Currently, many Texas colleges and universities employ a wide range of computer and telecommunication technologies and networks to deliver courses for academic credit to approximately 50,000 students statewide. This act requires the Higher Education Coordinating Board to develop a comprehensive master plan for the development of distance learning and other applications of instructional electronic technology by Texas colleges and universities. The plan must include recommendations relating to the coordination and integration of distance learning activities among institutions of higher education and other private or public entities, infrastructure development, establishment of uniform or compatible standards, training of personnel, appropriate applications to meet identified student population needs, policy development, regulatory policy revision, and revision of applicable regulatory statute.

The act also requires the board to create an advisory committee of experts in the field, school administrators, lay persons, and at least three faculty members who teach a distance learning course to assist in the development of this master plan, which the board must approve and present to the legislature not later than December 31, 1996.

HOUSE BILL 114
EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Hochberg
SENATE SPONSOR: Ratliff

Since 1989, students enrolled at public colleges and universities have been required to take the Texas Assessment of Skills Proficiency (TASP) test and to pass the exam before taking any upper division course that would give the student more than 60 hours of credit. The requirement applies to all full-time or part-time freshman students in a degree or certificate program, transfer students with fewer than 60 hours of semester credit who have not already taken the test, and other students with fewer than 9 hours of credit not enrolled in a degree program.

This act provides an exemption from taking the TASP for college graduates and students from private, independent, or out-of-state colleges and universities who enroll in a public college or university on a temporary basis or take classes in a nondegree course of study.

House Bill 334 designates the Palacios Marine Education Center in Matagorda County as the state's official marine education center.
HOUSE BILL 666
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

The act allows a nonprofit tax-exempt corporation that operates certain types of primary or secondary schools to issue bonds to finance or refinance educational or housing facilities at that school in the same manner that a nonprofit corporation created by the governing body of a city or cities to finance capital improvements at local institutions of higher education is allowed to issue bonds for that purpose.

This provision is applicable only to the issuance of bonds for capital improvements at schools that currently offer or previously offered military-related instruction, that are located in a county that borders both the Rio Grande and the Gulf of Mexico or a county that borders the Brazos River and has a population of more than 120,000, and that are owned and operated by a nonprofit tax-exempt corporation.

HOUSE BILL 699
EFFECTIVE: 6-5-95

The Education Code provides an exemption from tuition, fees, and charges at public colleges and universities for military veterans, persons with military-related service, and offspring of certain deceased or missing military personnel. The exemption does not apply to a person who is eligible to receive federal educational benefits but applies to those individuals whose right to federal benefits has expired for whatever reason.

This act rescinds that exemption for individuals who have lost their rights to federal benefits because of defaults on loans obtained under a federal educational loan program or who are in default on educational loans made or guaranteed by the State of Texas.

HOUSE BILL 815
EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

House Bill 815 raises the allowable facilities fees at public universities, sometimes referred to as "general use fees" or "building use fees," from $12 per semester hour to no more than the in-state tuition rate and requires that a public hearing be held before the increase can occur.

This act also raises the limits of certain student fees that can be charged by The Texas A&M University System, the Texas State University System, and Texas Tech University and stipulates procedures by which increases of more than 10 percent in one year must be approved by the students. It also allows the University of Texas System board of regents to begin charging students at The University of Texas at Dallas a recreational facility fee to finance recreational facilities or programs at the university, subject to student approval and certain limits, and to collect a fee from students at The University of Texas at Austin to fund the construction of a Martin Luther King, Jr., statue on the campus. Excess funds are used to create a scholarship program in Dr. King's name, and the fee can be charged only through August 31, 1999. It directs the boards of all institutions of higher education to charge continuing education course fees in sufficient amounts to recover the costs of providing the courses.

In addition, the boards of regents of The University of Texas System and The Texas A&M University System are prohibited from issuing revenue bonds for the benefit of a certain institution unless the institution is reasonably expected to have the financial resources necessary to meet the obligation without using the resources of another institution in the system.
HOUSE BILL 1157

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

The Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation (TGSLC) was created by the Texas Legislature in 1979 to administer the federal student loan program now known as the Federal Family Educational Loan Program (FFELP) in this state. In 1993 Congress established the Federal Direct Student Loan Program (FDSLSP) to provide direct loans to institutions of higher education on behalf of the federal government. By 1998 the publicly funded FDSLSP is expected to handle approximately 60 percent of the total student loan business in Texas currently being handled by the privately funded, TGSLC-run FFELP. When the FDSLSP is fully operational, only a few loan guarantors will be needed to run the FFELP nationwide, and TGSLC is positioned to be one of those surviving guarantors, but in order to assist the federal government in administering the FFELP outside Texas, its charter needs to be amended.

House Bill 1157 allows the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation to merge with another entity and to guarantee loans in other states and makes minor changes in the corporation’s administrative structure.

HOUSE BILL 1214

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 1214 creates a prepaid higher education tuition program to increase access to higher education for future college and university students by allowing their families an opportunity to prepay tuition and fees and creates the Prepaid Higher Education Tuition Board in the office of the comptroller to administer the program.

Under the program a person may enter into a contract with the board under which the person agrees to prepay the tuition and fees for a beneficiary, who must be less than 18 years of age and either a resident or the child of a resident at the time the person enters the contract, to attend an institution of higher education. The board is required to deposit that prepayment in a fund to be called the Texas tomorrow fund, administered by the board, to invest the money and credit the income earned to the fund, and to apply money in the fund to the tuition and fees of the institution in which the beneficiary subsequently enrolls. If the beneficiary enrolls in a public institution of higher education, the board shall pay the tuition and fees of the institution. If the beneficiary enrolls in a private or independent institution of higher education, the board shall pay the lesser of the tuition and fees of the institution or the estimated average tuition and fees of private or independent institutions of higher education. If there is not enough money in the fund to pay the tuition and fees when the beneficiary enrolls, the legislature may appropriate to the fund an amount necessary to pay the tuition and fees.

House Bill 1214 requires the board to make four types of prepaid tuition contracts available: a junior college plan, a senior college plan, a junior-senior college plan, and a private college plan, each allowing a beneficiary to attend an institution for a specified number of undergraduate credit hours not to exceed the number of hours typically required for the appropriate degree or certificate. The act authorizes converting a contract from one plan to another plan or changing the beneficiary designation. The act provides for the termination of contracts and the refund of any money to which a person may be entitled if a contract is terminated for any of the reasons specified in the act. The act provides that, to the extent money provided by the private sector for that purpose is available, the board may award prepaid higher education tuition scholarships to needy students.

This act allows the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to provide alternative means for members of governing boards of Texas colleges and universities to obtain the training required of such members by law. Training programs developed by the board may provide alternative locations and formats to the current annual seminars in Austin but are required to cover essentially the same information as those seminars held in Austin. Under this act, the responsibility for conducting training programs rests primarily with the board’s staff, which is allowed to seek assistance from other state agencies. The act also allows the board to include topics it deems important to the content of these training programs in addition to those specified by the statute.

This act allows public junior colleges to offer courses that enable local high school students to earn simultaneous high school and college course credit. To earn the junior college course credit, students must have been admitted, or be eligible to enroll and subsequently be admitted, to the junior college. The junior college may waive tuition for high school students taking such courses, but the contact hours attributable to the enrollment in these classes are included in the junior college’s formula funding. The act directs the commissioner of education and the commissioner of higher education to develop a mechanism to identify and eliminate duplication of state funding so that a school district and a public junior college may not both collect full state funding for the same student.

House Bill 1337 allows a junior college district governing board to contract with an independent school district in its service area for the junior college to provide remedial education courses to the school district’s high school students prior to their graduation and entrance into college. A junior college district providing remedial programs to local high school students may exempt such students from tuition, but the student contact hours resulting from these courses are included in calculating the junior college’s share from the state’s junior college formula funding. The act directs the commissioner of education and the commissioner of higher education to develop a mechanism to identify and eliminate duplication of state funding so that a school district and a public junior college may not both collect state funding for the same student.

Since 1989 students enrolled in public colleges and universities have been required to take the Texas Assessment of Skills Proficiency (TASP) or, in the case of hearing impaired students, the Stanford Achievement Test, either during their freshman year or prior to the accumulation of nine or more hours of semester credit to determine whether they can be expected to perform effectively in an undergraduate degree or certificate program or whether they need remedial instruction before taking upper division coursework. House Bill 1338 provides an exemption from having to take either of these examinations for students enrolled in certificate programs requiring one year or less for completion.
HOUSE BILL 1465
EFFECTIVE: 5-17-95

The Education Code allows the governing board of a state-supported college or university in a county with a population of more than two million to close a street running through its campus. This act amends the code to give street-closing authority to any public institution of higher education in that county, including a junior college or community college, provided that the institution owns 20 or more acres of real property at the campus where the street or alley is located.

HOUSE BILL 1479
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

House Bill 1479 provides a one-year exemption from college tuition and fees for high school graduates who receive AFDC benefits as dependent children during their last year of high school. The exemptions apply to Texas residents who graduate or complete requirements for graduation from a public high school, are younger than 22 years when they enroll at a public college or university in this state, enroll within one year of their high school graduation, and meet the applicable college entrance examination requirements. It also establishes the Early High School Graduation Scholarship Program to provide $1,000 in tuition credits to resident students who complete their high school graduation requirements in three years or less and who have attended high school in this state only. Early graduates also must have written approval of a parent, guardian, or conservator.

The early graduation credits will be funded by savings to the foundation school fund that will result from students forgoing a fourth year of high school, and savings not needed for tuition credits for early graduates will be directed into the AFDC exemption program.

Institutions may begin granting the exemptions provided by the act in the fall 1995 semester.

HOUSE BILL 1510
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

House Bill 1510 raises the cap on the student fee charged students at Texas Tech University for the operation and maintenance of the University Center from $20 to $50 per semester and from $10 to $25 per summer session term. House Bill 1510 also makes any annual increase of more than 10 percent subject to approval either by a majority vote of the student body at a general election called for that purpose or by a majority vote of the student government. The act applies beginning with fees due for the fall 1995 semester.

HOUSE BILL 1664
EFFECTIVE: 5-23-95

Current law requires a college or university governing board to post notice of its meetings with the secretary of state 72 hours before the meeting; the notice is then printed in the Texas Register, but often the notice is printed after the meeting has occurred. This act requires the governing board to also post notice of each meeting at the county courthouse of the county where the meeting will be held and to publish a notice in a student newspaper, provided that an issue of the newspaper is published between the time of the posting and the time of the meeting. It also allows the board to post notice of a meeting at another place convenient to the public. The notice requirements are effective for meetings held on or after October 1, 1995.
HOUSE BILL 1689
EFFECTIVE: 5-16-95

The 73rd Texas Legislature amended the Education Code to require members of governing boards of institutions of higher education to attend a training seminar in Austin within the first two years of service. House Bill 1689 retains that requirement only for appointed board members; elected board members may attend a training program seminar but are not required to do so.

HOUSE BILL 1697
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 1697 requires the Texas Employment Commission to collect and maintain information relating to guaranteed student loans for proprietary schools, including barber and cosmetology schools, that shows each school’s graduation, job placement, and student loan default rates and to make this information available to any student applying for a guaranteed student loan to attend one of these schools. The bill stipulates that this information must include notification of the consequences of student loan default.

The act also requires each institution covered by this law and each administrator of guaranteed student loans to provide the data the commission needs to administer this law and requires each entity administering guaranteed student loans to furnish the information provided by the commission to each student loan applicant.

HOUSE BILL 1792
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

This act raises tuition rates for resident students in general academic teaching institutions. It raises tuition rates for nonresident students at Texas colleges and universities, including medical and dental schools, to the average undergraduate tuition charged Texas residents at public state universities in each of the five most populous states other than Texas. The new nonresident tuition formula replaces the prior formula, which used the average cost of education per student at general academic institutions in the state to determine nonresident tuition. Tuition rates for nonresident students for each academic year are set by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, and the tuition change takes effect for the fall 1995 semester. The act also establishes a range for tuition charges in optometry and undergraduate pharmacy programs in the state and increases both resident and nonresident law school tuition rates.

Foreign students who are residents of a nation adjacent to Texas and who register at Texas A&M University--Kingsville may be exempted from paying the foreign student tuition fee, and other general academic teaching institutions located within 100 miles of the Texas border may request that the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board lower their nonresident tuition rates if the board determines that the lower tuition rate will benefit the institution without causing unreasonable harm to any other institution of higher learning.

The amount of a competitive scholarship that entitles a nonresident student to resident tuition and fee rates is increased from $200 or more to $500 or more for the 1995-1996 academic year and to $1,000 or more after that. The scholarship must be awarded by an approved scholarship committee that includes Texas residents in its consideration. The provision formerly applicable only to academic scholarships now applies to all competitive scholarships, including athletic scholarships.
The act also establishes an exemption program for certain students who attend ROTC institutions and who are members of the Texas Army National Guard or the Texas Air National Guard. Students receiving such an exemption are required to accept a commission in the Texas National Guard after graduation and serve no less than four years as a commissioned officer. Any individual who does not complete this military service is obligated to repay the state for any exemptions received.

HOUSE BILL 1836

EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: R. Lewis, Price
SENATE SPONSOR: Ratliff

Current law exempts Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, or Oklahoma residents from having to pay out-of-state tuition when they enroll in a public junior college or technical institute in a Texas county immediately adjacent to the states where they reside. House Bill 1836 extends this exemption from out-of-state tuition charges to Louisiana residents registering at a two-year institution in the Lamar University System. These institutions include the Lamar University campuses at Orange and Port Arthur and the Lamar University Institute of Technology in Beaumont. The provisions of this bill will not be affected by the transfer of governance of the Lamar University System to another board of regents.

The nonresident tuition exemption granted to Louisiana residents by House Bill 1836 applies beginning with the fall 1995 semester.

The act also allows institutions of higher education to charge resident tuition rates to students who reside in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, and Oklahoma counties that are adjacent to Texas, provided that the other state has a reciprocal resident tuition agreement with Texas students residing in counties adjacent to that state.

HOUSE BILL 1877

EFFECTIVE: 5-23-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Stiles
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

House Bill 1877 amends the Education Code to grant The University of Texas System board of regents explicit statutory authority to delegate powers or duties to a committee, officer, employee, or other board agent.

House Bill 1877 also gives the board of regents the same authority to delegate investment authority and contract with investment professionals for the investment of the permanent university fund (PUF) as was given by Chapter 163 of the Property Code to governing boards of higher education institutions with respect to board management of institutional funds.

The act allows the board of regents to contract with a nonprofit corporation formed specifically to invest funds under the board’s control. The articles of incorporation, bylaws, and investment policies of such corporation are subject to approval of the board, and the appointment and removal of the corporation’s directors is the board of regents’ responsibility. At least three members of the board of regents and the chancellor of The University of Texas System must be appointed as directors of the corporation.

If the board enters an investment contract that includes the PUF, the act requires an annual financial audit of the fund by auditors from the two university systems that benefit from the PUF and further requires a financial audit of the fund by an independent accounting firm prior to implementation of the first contract.
HOUSE BILL 2066
EFFECTIVE: 5-16-95

This act allows the University of Houston—Clear Lake and the University of Houston—Victoria to enroll students who are concurrently enrolled at another higher education institution and who have earned at least 30 hours of college credit.

HOUSE BILL 2068
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2068 allows United States Air Force personnel stationed outside the state who are enrolled in degree programs in radiological sciences at Midwestern State University and who take courses in these programs by instructional telecommunications to pay the same tuition and fees as resident students, provided that they were stationed at a base in Texas when they enrolled in the programs.

HOUSE BILL 2187
EFFECTIVE: 6-10-95

Education Code provisions governing The University of Texas at Tyler state that the university is an upper-level institution authorized to offer upper division and graduate programs. Other provisions of the code encourage public upper-level universities and centers to form partnerships with public community colleges within the same service region to improve the continuity, quality, and efficiency of educational programs and services.

House Bill 2187 amends the code to allow The University of Texas at Tyler to offer lower division courses in an engineering degree program, provided that the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board approves the program and those lower division courses are offered under a partnership agreement with a local community or junior college. The institution may also enter into a partnership with a private institution of higher education in the county if the board approves such a venture.

If a joint engineering program is established, the board is required to accept and solicit donations and private endowments to provide equipment and other personal property for the program. Nonresident students who hold competitive scholarships and who are charged resident tuition rates at one of the schools in the partnership must be charged resident rates at the other school as well. The institutions may charge a special fee to students enrolled in the joint program to pay for all or part of the cost of a shuttle bus service between the participating institutions.

In developing courses to be offered under the agreement, the university and any partners to the agreement must consider the area’s need to recruit minority and low-income students into postsecondary degree programs, the cost-effectiveness of offering such courses, and the impact to the community. House Bill 2187 also requires the board to develop an appropriate formula to apply to such courses for purposes of distributing state formula funding for higher education.

HOUSE BILL 2313
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2313 abolishes the Lamar University System and its board of regents and transfers the system’s component institutions, the responsibility for their governance, and appropriations made by the legislature for the use of Lamar University and its educational center to the Texas State University System and its board of regents. The transfer made by this act does not affect funds other than legislative appropriations reserved for the use of Lamar University and its centers. Contracts and written obligations entered into by the Lamar University System regents, including bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness, remain in effect, and the Texas State University System board of regents is made to assume responsibilities of the abolished board. Rules and policies adopted by the Lamar University System board of regents will remain in effect until adopted, repealed, or superseded by the Texas State University System board of regents.

The act amends the Education Code by repealing Chapter 108, Lamar University System, and adding a new Subchapter E, Lamar University and Related Institutions, to Education Code Chapter 96, Institutions of the Texas State University System, conforming to the changes made by this act. The new subchapter comprises the provisions of Chapter 108, relating to Lamar University, its educational centers at Orange and Port Arthur, and related institutions, less the provisions relating to the abolished board of regents. This new subchapter also establishes the Lamar University Institute of Technology as a separate degree-granting institution and confers degree-granting authority to the centers at Orange and Port Arthur, both of which continue as lower-division only institutions.

In 1993, the legislature converted a Texas State Technical College extension center in McAllen into a new joint-county junior college known as South Texas Community College but made its creation subject to voter confirmation at an election to be held for that purpose not later than August 31, 2001. The legislation also provided for governance by a temporary seven-member board of trustees appointed by the governor to serve until the confirming election or the 2001 expiration date, and it required that board to call an election that would allow the voters of Hidalgo and Starr counties to confirm the college’s creation and to authorize the election of subsequent trustees from single-member districts. The legislation did not, however, address how the expiration of terms being served by the current trustees would be determined in the event that the college’s establishment were confirmed.

House Bill 2314 requires the initial board of appointed trustees to draw lots to determine when their terms expire in a manner that ensures subsequently elected trustees will serve staggered six-year terms and calls for trustee elections to be held on the first Saturday in May every even-numbered year, beginning with the first even-numbered year after the election at which the voters confirm the college’s creation.

House Bill 2495 transfers the Baylor College of Dentistry, which currently is an independent, freestanding institution governed by a nonprofit corporation, to The Texas A&M University System board of regents if the governing bodies of both entities agree to the transfer not later than August 31, 1996. If both boards agree, the transfer is effective September 1, 1996, and The Texas A&M University System board of regents assumes complete responsibility for the governance, management, and operation of The Texas A&M University System—Baylor College of Dentistry.
The act provides for the continuity of certain practices and procedures in the operation of the Baylor College of Dentistry upon the transfer as follows: the college of dentistry is authorized to continue awarding degrees as before, but new degree programs are subject to approval process applicable to other public dental schools; rules and policies adopted by the college’s board of trustees continue in effect until adopted, repealed, or superseded by The Texas A&M University System regents; contracts and written obligations entered into by Baylor College of Dentistry trustees remain valid and become the responsibility of the A&M regents; employees of the college become employees of the university system, eligible for all employment benefits as if new employees of the system, except that for leave accrual purposes they receive credit for their prior years of service as college employees; funds previously dedicated to the benefit of the college of dentistry continue to be reserved for that purpose under terms of the transfer; and students in the college of dentistry retain academic credit earned prior to the transfer.

House Bill 2495 also adds a new conforming chapter to the Education Code to reflect the acquisition of a new component by The Texas A&M University System.

In stating its legislative intent, House Bill 2495 states that the act does not create an institution entitled to funds under Sections 17 and 18, Article VII, Texas Constitution.

House Bill 2507 requires the board of regents of the Texas State Technical College System and the board of trustees of Amarillo College to enter into an agreement before July 1, 1995, arranging for a 20-year lease of parts of the TSTC-Amarillo campus to the Amarillo College trustees, with a provision included in the agreement that allows the college to terminate the lease, on 180 days’ notice, on September 1, 1997, or on September 1 of any subsequent odd-numbered year. House Bill 2507 also requires the TSTC System to transfer equipment, supplies, and other personal property used in the operation of its programs at the TSTC-Amarillo campus to Amarillo College. In return House Bill 2507 requires Amarillo College to assume responsibility for the operation of TSTC-Amarillo programs that have continued enrollment during the 1995-1996 academic year, but the bill allows the college to discontinue former TSTC programs after that academic year.

House Bill 2507 also delineates which of the system’s obligations, responsibilities, and liabilities regarding contracts, written obligations, bond issues, and other matters arising from the system’s governance, maintenance, and operation of TSTC-Amarillo campus and programs remain with the system subsequent to the agreement and what obligations, powers, or duties Amarillo College incurs in assuming responsibility for governance, maintenance, and operation of the property and programs being transferred under the agreement.

House Bill 2640 requires the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to establish uniform final dates for adding or dropping courses at public junior colleges. The act also prohibits students from enrolling in courses after the deadline set by the board for adding classes, and a student dropping a class after the date set by the board forfeits the right to any refund of tuition and fees paid for the dropped course.
House Bill 2640 requires the board to establish rules for setting such deadlines, which may provide for different dates for academic semesters or terms of varying durations, by December 1, 1995, and makes such deadlines applicable to a semester or term that begins on or after January 1, 1996.

The Education Code provides an exemption from tuition and fees at public colleges and universities for military veterans, persons with military-related service, and offspring of certain deceased or missing military personnel. The exemption does not apply to a person who is eligible to receive federal educational benefits at the time the person registers for classes.

House Bill 3119 amends the code to allow a person to receive both the federal educational benefits and the state exemption from tuition and fees if the value of the federal benefits is less than the value of the exemption. House Bill 3119 requires the individual to use the federal benefits first, and the total combined federal benefit and exemption cannot exceed the maximum value of the waived tuition and fees.

In 1993, with the passage of Senate Bill 7, the 73rd Texas Legislature repealed Titles 1 and 2 of the Education Code, with the exception of Chapters 16, 20, and 36, and abolished the Central Education Agency, with the repeal and abolition to take effect September 1, 1995. Senate Bill 1 amends and reenacts those titles to achieve a restructuring of the public education system in the state. The major new or amended provisions of the revised code are summarized below.

Chapter 7. State Organization

Previously, state oversight of public education was the function of the Central Education Agency, which comprised the State Board of Education (SBOE, which also served as the State Board for Vocational Education), the commissioner of education, and the State Department of Education. The commonly used term Texas Education Agency (TEA) was used sometimes to mean the Central Education Agency and sometimes to mean the State Department of Education, which consisted of the professional, technical, and clerical staff of the agency. Senate Bill 1 simplifies the state organization and separates and delineates the powers and duties of the TEA, the commissioner of education, and the SBOE in this chapter. It provides for the agency and the commissioner to maintain most of their current functions and also to assume some duties that formerly were the responsibility of the SBOE, but Senate Bill 1 enumerates these powers and duties and provides that educational functions not specifically delegated to the agency or to the board are reserved to and will be performed by school districts and open-enrollment charter schools.

Texas Education Agency. Under the revised code, the agency retains most of its functions and assumes some duties previously reserved to the SBOE. Senate Bill 1 lists the agency’s powers and duties in 14 areas of responsibility, which include administering and monitoring compliance with education programs required by state or federal law or implemented through state or federal funds; conducting research, analysis, and reporting; conducting hearings involving state law under the commissioner’s direction and supervision; establishing and implementing pilot programs established by statute; and carrying out duties specifically assigned to it in the code or by the legislature.

Commissioner of education. Under prior law, the commissioner was selected by a process that began with the SBOE submitting its recommendation to the governor. The governor could either reject the recommendation or accept the recommendation and appoint the person as commissioner, with the advice and consent of the senate. If the governor rejected the nomination, the SBOE was required to continue submitting recommendations until the governor accepted one and made the appointment. Prior law allowed the governor to remove the commissioner on the petition of two-thirds of the SBOE or for good cause. Removal also was subject to senate approval. Senate Bill 1 grants the governor the power to appoint and remove the commissioner, with the advice and consent of the senate. The commissioner serves a four-year term coinciding with that of the governor’s. Senate Bill 1 lists 40 powers and duties specifically granted to the commissioner in the code, among which are the authority to adopt a teacher appraisal process, to hear appeals in cases relating to laws or actions of a district that violate school laws or terms of an employment contract between a district and a district employee, and to grant school districts and campuses waivers from state requirements for up to three years. An application for a waiver is automatically approved unless the commissioner objects to the waiver within 30 days of receiving the application. The commissioner’s authority to grant waivers is limited and does not extend to waivers from rules regarding, among other things, essential elements, minimum graduation requirements, bilingual education, extracurricular activities, health and safety, class size limits except in hardship cases, removal of disruptive students, and employee rights and benefits.

State Board of Education. Senate Bill 1 retains the 15-member SBOE, but its authority is limited to that specifically granted it by the Texas Constitution or by statute, and an action by the board has effect only if the board includes in the record the legislative authority for the action. Senate Bill 1 lists 35 functions that the SBOE is specifically authorized or required to perform, including the development of a long-range plan for public education, establishment of curriculum and graduation requirements, establishment of performance standards considered satisfactory on student assessment instruments, creation of special purpose districts, granting of open-enrollment charters, adoption of procedures for placement on probation or revocation of home-rule school district charters, adoption and purchase or licensing of textbooks, development of rules and guidelines for carrying out various activities required by statute, investments relating to the permanent school fund, and other broad policymaking functions. Current SBOE rules, other than those dealing with curriculum essential elements, are sunset effective September 1, 1996, unless readopted before that date.

Chapter 8. Regional Education Service Centers

Senate Bill 1 retains the 20 regional education service centers currently in existence, along with their separate seven-member governing boards, but it allows any school district to purchase services from any regional education service center, not just from the center in its region. Section 59 of Senate Bill 1 repeals this chapter and abolishes all of the regional education service centers, effective August 31, 1997. It also requires the commissioner of education to submit a proposed revision of Chapter 8 to the legislature not later than December 1, 1996.

Chapter 11. School Districts

Senate Bill 1 provides that a school district board of trustees is composed of the number of members (three, five, seven, or nine) the district had on September 1, 1995. A board of trustees composed of three or five members is allowed to increase its membership to seven trustees by adoption of a resolution. Senate Bill 1 preserves current law for conversion from the at-large method of election to a method whereby at least 70 percent of its members are elected from single-member districts. A district electing more than one trustee at large in an election may do so using cumulative voting. Trustees must be elected for three- or four-year terms; two- and six-year terms are eliminated. Powers not specifically delegated to the TEA or the SBOE are reserved to the local boards of trustees. The SBOE is required to provide a training course for local school board trustees, offered through regional education service centers.

Each board is required to adopt an employment policy for district personnel. A board is prohibited from charging fees not authorized by the code. A school district may adopt a policy requiring students at some or all of its campuses to wear uniforms if the board determines that the requirement would improve the learning environment on those campuses. School districts adopting a mandatory uniform policy are required to set up a fund to buy uniforms for low-income students and allow parents who object to the policy to transfer their children to another school.

Senate Bill 1 requires school districts to develop a district improvement plan with the assistance of a district-level planning and decision-making committee; the district decision-making committee is required to meet at least once after the TEA issues a district performance report. The committee must comprise parents, community representatives, and business representatives, all selected according to board policies, and district professional staff, at least two-thirds of whom must be teachers, selected by their peers.

Senate Bill 1 also requires each school to maintain campus-level planning and decision-making committees to direct and support student improvement, with each committee having representatives of the same groups as the district-level decision-making committee. Each campus-level committee must hold at least one public meeting after publication of the annual TEA campus ratings.
Chapter 12. Charters

Senate Bill 1 provides an alternate method of operating public schools by allowing a school district, a school campus, a group of parents and teachers, or a nonprofit organization or governmental entity to operate under a charter that frees it from most state regulations. The three kinds of charters are home-rule district charters, campus or campus program charters, and open-enrollment school charters.

Home-rule district charters. Home-rule district charters allow school districts to operate under their own locally written charters and free themselves from most Education Code provisions, with some exceptions. A school district opting to become a home-rule school district is still subject to federal laws relating to bilingual and special education programs, to applicable court orders, and to certain Education Code provisions that establish criminal offenses, set limitations on liability, or impose prohibitions, restrictions, or requirements relating to (1) the public education information management system (PEIMS); (2) educator certification and educator rights; (3) criminal history records of district personnel; (4) student admissions; (5) compulsory school attendance; (6) interdistrict or intercounty student transfers; (7) the 22-to-1 student/teacher ratio for kindergarten and grades one through four, but only in the case of a low-performing campus; (8) high school graduation; (9) special education, bilingual, and prekindergarten programs; (10) transportation safety; (11) computation and distribution of state aid; (12) extracurricular activities; (13) student and employee health and safety; (14) public school accountability; (15) equalized wealth; (16) bond obligations and tax rates; and (17) purchasing personal property. Home-rule school districts also are required to provide coverage to district employees eligible to participate in the Teacher Retirement System.

Under the revised code, conversion to a home-rule school district may be initiated either by the voters petitioning the board of trustees or by adoption of a resolution by the board. Senate Bill 1 requires a board of trustees to appoint a 15-member charter commission to write a district charter if it receives a petition signed by at least five percent of the district’s registered voters or if at least two-thirds of the board’s membership adopts a resolution. The board must appoint the commission, which must be racially, ethnically, socioeconomically, and geographically representative of the district, within 30 days of its receipt of the petition or its adoption of the resolution, and the commission must complete its task of writing a proposed charter within one year of its appointment. A home-rule district charter must describe the educational programs to be offered, make continuation of the charter contingent on acceptable student performance on the required state tests and on compliance with public school accountability provisions, specify the bases for revocation of the charter or placement on probation, describe the governing structure of the district and its campuses, specify certain procedures to ensure the health and safety of students and employees, describe the district’s budget process, describe procedures relating to annual financial and operational audits, including its participation in PEIMS, and include any other provision the commission deems necessary.

Before the proposed charter may be placed on a ballot for approval by the district’s voters, the commission must submit it to the secretary of state, who must determine whether the charter contains a change in the district’s governance that requires preclearance by the U.S. Department of Justice or the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia for compliance with the Voting Rights Act. The proposed charter also must be submitted to the commissioner of education, who must complete a legal review of the charter within 30 days of its receipt by the commissioner. If the commissioner fails to act within that period, the charter is automatically approved; as soon as practicable after the charter is approved by the commissioner, the board of trustees must order an election, to be held on the first uniform election date that occurs at least 45 days after the date the election is ordered. A proposed charter is adopted if it is approved by a majority of the qualified voters voting in an election held for that purpose, but the election has no effect unless there is a voter turnout of at least 25 percent of the district's registered voters. An amendment to a charter, which may be initiated by petition or by resolution, also requires commissioner approval and then voter approval, but an election on a charter amendment requires a minimum voter turnout of 20 percent.

The SBOE may place on probation or revoke a home-rule charter if the SBOE determines that the district violated the charter, did not satisfy generally accepted accounting standards of fiscal management, or failed to comply with state law or applicable agency rule. The procedure for revocation or placement on probation must provide a district and parents of students in the district with an opportunity for a hearing.

Campus or program charters. As revised by Senate Bill 1, the Education Code also allows a school district's board of trustees or a home-rule district's governing body to grant a program charter to a group of parents and teachers to operate an educational program within an existing public school campus or to grant a campus charter that converts an existing public school into a charter school.

A school district's board of trustees or a home-rule district's governing body may grant a campus or program charter if it is presented with a petition signed by parents of a majority of the students on the campus and a majority of the campus's classroom teachers. A campus or program granted a charter is exempt from rules and policies of the board or governing body as specified in the charter and retains the authority to operate under its charter so long as student performance is maintained at a level specified in the charter. A campus or program granted a charter is subject to federal and state laws and to Education Code provisions that establish criminal offenses or that impose prohibitions, restrictions, or requirements relating to (1) PEIMS; (2) criminal history records of campus or program personnel; (3) high school graduation; (4) special education, bilingual, and prekindergarten programs; (5) extracurricular activities; (6) student and employee health and safety; and (7) public school accountability. The body granting the charter may revoke the charter or place the campus or program on probation if it determines that the campus or program has violated the charter, did not satisfy generally accepted accounting standards of fiscal management, or failed to comply with state law or applicable agency rule. The procedure for revocation or placement on probation must provide a campus and parents of students in the campus or program with an opportunity for a hearing.

Open-enrollment charter schools. Senate Bill 1 authorizes the SBOE to grant up to 20 charters creating open-enrollment schools operating outside of a school district facility. The SBOE may grant a charter for an open-enrollment school on receipt of an application from an eligible entity, including a public or private college or university, a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization, or a governmental body. The open-enrollment charter school may operate in a facility of a commercial or nonprofit entity or in a school district, including a home-rule district. The open-enrollment charter school is subject to the same federal and state laws and the same Education Code provisions as is a chartered campus or program. The SBOE may revoke the charter or place the school on probation if it determines that the school has violated the charter, did not satisfy generally accepted accounting standards of fiscal management, or failed to comply with state law or applicable agency rule. The procedure for revocation or placement on probation must provide the school and parents of students in the school with an opportunity for a hearing. An open-enrollment charter school is entitled to receive state and local funding for each student attending the school and may not charge a student additional tuition. Senate Bill 1 requires the SBOE to select an impartial organization experienced in evaluating school choice programs to perform an annual evaluation of open-enrollment charter schools.

Chapter 13. Creation, Consolidation, and Abolition of a District

Senate Bill 1 allows voters in a school district as well as the district’s board of trustees to initiate detachment, annexation, consolidation, abolition, and creation proceedings by petition. Voters in an area desiring to detach themselves from one or more existing school districts and form a new independent school district initiate detachment proceedings by petitioning the district board of trustees to call for a detachment election. An area to be detached and converted to a new independent school district must cover at least nine square miles and contain at least 8,000 public school students. The remainder of the original district or districts also must cover at least nine square miles and contain at least 8,000 students after detachment. A school board is required to call an election if at least 10 percent of the voters in the area to be detached submit a petition. The proposed detachment must be approved by a majority of voters in both the area to be detached and the area remaining in the original district or districts. The election is subject to approval by the U.S. Justice Department under the Voting Rights Act to protect the interests of minority voters.

Chapter 21. Educators

Employment contracts. Senate Bill 1 provides for three types of contracts for teachers: probationary contracts for periods of up to one year, term contracts for periods of one to five years, and continuing contracts that are in effect until the teacher is discharged or resigns. First-time teachers may be employed under probationary contracts, which may be renewed for three additional one-year periods. At the end of the first or second probationary year, a district must either hire the teacher under a term or continuing contract, release the teacher, or renew the probationary contract for an additional year. Teachers employed under term contracts may be discharged during the contract term for good cause, as determined by the board, or because of budgetary constraints that require a reduction in personnel. A district may, at the end of a teacher’s contract term, decide not to renew the contract for any lawful reason. Failure of the board to give notice at the end of the term constitutes an election to employ the teacher for the following year. Teachers employed under continuing contracts are entitled to continue in their positions without annual nomination or reappointment until their resignation, retirement, dismissal for cause, or release as part of a reduction in personnel. If a district decides to terminate a teacher’s probationary or term contract during its term, terminate a teacher’s continuing contract, or suspend a teacher without pay, the district must provide the teacher with an opportunity for a hearing with a hearing examiner. A hearing examiner must be an attorney and must be certified by the commissioner of education unless both parties agree to use a person who is not certified. A hearing examiner’s recommendation is submitted to the district board of trustees; the board or subcommittee of the board decides what action to take. The board’s decision may be appealed to the commissioner of education. The commissioner’s decision may be appealed to a district court. Either appeal is, except in certain circumstances, limited to a review of the evidence submitted to the hearing examiner.

Recruitment and certification. Senate Bill 1 requires the TEA to develop a teacher recruitment program that includes a technology program for presentation to high schools and colleges; it also requires the commissioner to identify the need for teachers in specific subject areas and to encourage underrepresented groups to enter the teaching profession.
Senate Bill 1 also creates a 15-member State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC) to regulate and oversee all aspects of teacher certification. The SBEC’s membership is to comprise three nonvoting members representing the commissioner of education, the commissioner of higher education, and the governor, respectively, and 12 other gubernatorial appointees, who shall include four public school teachers, two public school administrators, one public counselor, and five members of the general public. The SBEC’s rulemaking authority shall extend to regulation of educators; the specification of classes of certificates and the period for which each class of certificate is valid; requirements for issuance or renewal of certificates; disciplinary proceedings and sanctions, including suspension or revocation of certificates; adoption, amendment, and enforcement of a code of ethics; continuing education requirements; and certification of persons performing teacher appraisals. An SBEC rule must be submitted to the SBOE; the SBOE, within 90 days, may by a two-thirds vote reject the proposed rule. Senate Bill 1 provides for certification by the TEA to continue for the 1995-1996 school year and allows current programs for alternative certification of teachers to remain in place. Senate Bill 1 also allows an individual district to issue permits to teach in the district’s schools to persons without board certification under certain circumstances.

Teacher and administrator appraisal. Senate Bill 1 requires the commissioner to adopt recommended processes and criteria on which the performance of teachers and administrators may be appraised, but it allows school districts to use either the commissioner’s recommended appraisal processes and criteria or processes and criteria locally developed or adopted. Senate Bill 1 requires teachers and administrators to be appraised at least once a year; teachers need not be advised as to when they will be appraised, but they have the right to review and rebut an appraisal and request a second appraisal. Teacher appraisals shall be performed only on the basis of classroom teaching performance and not on performance connected with extracurricular activities. Senate Bill 1 prohibits the use of school district funds to pay an administrator’s salary if the administrator has not been appraised in the preceding 15 months. Evaluation of a principal’s performance shall be based on campus performance measured against academic excellence indicators and against specified campus objectives. Senate Bill 1 includes incentive provisions in the evaluation of principals’ performance that allow the commissioner to reward principals of campuses identified as high-performing or that have exhibited exceptional gains relative to past performance. Principals ranked in the top quartile are eligible for incentive awards of up to $5,000, while principals ranked in the second quartile are eligible for awards of up to $2,500.

Teacher salaries, duties and benefits. Senate Bill 1 boosts minimum teacher salaries and ties the teacher pay scale to school funding and growth in student enrollment so that increases in state funding for public schools result in automatic increases in teacher salaries. The revised schedule, which applies to librarians as well as classroom teachers, is phased in over the two-year cycle beginning September 1, 1995. Under this revised schedule, the minimum annual salary for beginning teachers is increased from the current $17,000 to $20,000 in 1996-1997; the minimum salary for teachers with 10 years’ experience is increased from the current $28,400 to $29,007 in 1996-1997. Senate Bill 1 also increases the number of days teachers must work from 183 to 185 in the 1996-1997 school year. Thereafter, minimum service days will be tied to increases in the minimum teacher salary. Senate Bill 1 requires teachers to have at least 450 minutes every two weeks for planning and preparation, with each planning period at least 45 minutes long. The former mandatory minimum sick leave program now refers to “personal leave,” which a teacher may take for any reason.
Chapter 25. Admission, Transfer, and Attendance

Senate Bill 1 retains current provisions relating to class size limits, requiring each school district to employ a sufficient number of certified teachers to maintain an average ratio of at least one teacher for each 20 students in average daily attendance and prohibiting a school district from exceeding a 22-to-1 student/teacher ratio in any class from kindergarten to fourth grade. The class size limits are modified to exempt a school district with a significant percentage of migrant students from those requirements during any 12-week period it chooses and to exempt any other district from those requirements during the last 12 weeks of any school year. Home-rule districts are free to determine their own class size limits, except in the case of low-performing schools, which must abide by the 22-to-1 rule in classes from kindergarten through fourth grade.

Chapter 25 includes a provision allowing public school students to exercise their constitutional right to pray or meditate, individually, silently, and voluntarily, provided that the prayer or meditation does not disrupt instructional or other activities and that no one is required, encouraged, or coerced to engage in or refrain from prayer or meditation.

Chapter 26. Parental Rights and Responsibilities

Senate Bill 1 adds a new chapter to the code that grants parents certain rights, encourages parental participation in their children’s education, and prohibits a school board, a school administrator, a teacher, or any other person from limiting those parental rights. Under this chapter, each school board is required to adopt procedures for considering complaints that a parent’s rights have been denied and to cooperate in the establishment of parent-teacher organizations.

Parental rights include the right to petition the school board designating the school the parent’s child will attend; to have reasonable access to school administrators with the authority to assign or reassign a student to request a change in the student’s class or teacher; to request the addition of a specific academic class in keeping with the required curriculum; to request that a child be allowed to take courses above the child’s grade level unless the board otherwise determines that the child cannot perform satisfactorily at that level; to request that a child be allowed to graduate early if the child has completed the course requirements for graduation; to have access to student records, student evaluations, state tests and test scores, and teaching materials; to have access to board meetings; and to receive full information regarding a child’s activities in school. Parental consent is required before a district may conduct certain psychological tests, videotape a child, or record a child’s voice, except in limited circumstances.

A parent also is entitled to remove a child from any class or school activity that conflicts with the parent’s religious, moral, or ethical beliefs. However, a parent may not remove a child from a class or activity to avoid a test or to prevent the child from taking a class in a subject for an entire semester, and a child must still comply with district and TEA grade-level and graduation requirements.

Chapter 28. Courses of Studies; Advancement

Senate Bill 1 requires school districts that offer classes from kindergarten through 12th grade to provide a required curriculum that includes a foundation curriculum consisting of English language arts, mathematics, science, and social studies, and an enrichment curriculum consisting of other languages, health, physical education, fine arts, economics, career and technology education, and technology applications. Senate Bill 1 requires the SBOE to designate subjects for a well-balanced curriculum in districts that do not offer kindergarten through 12th grade, to identify the essential knowledge and skills that each student should be able to demonstrate in each subject at each grade level of the foundation and enrichment curricula, respectively, to foster continued teaching of U.S. and Texas history and the free enterprise system, and to adopt rules necessary for implementation of the foundation and enrichment curricula. While a district must offer instruction meeting the essential knowledge and skills for the foundation curriculum, the essential knowledge and skills for the required curriculum are only a guideline. As under the former law, the SBOE is prohibited from adopting rules that specify how a teacher may teach a course or how the time on a subject or task may be spent by a teacher or a student, except that the SBOE may require laboratory instructions in secondary science courses and may require a specific amount or percentage of time in a secondary science course that must be spent in a laboratory.

Senate Bill 1 requires all Texas public schools that offer sex education to emphasize abstinence in their sex education classes and prohibits the distribution of condoms in public schools.

Other provisions of this chapter require that a student be promoted only on the basis of academic achievement or demonstrated proficiency, that parents be given written notice of their children's performance every 12 weeks, and that districts develop examinations that allow a primary school student's advancement to the next grade level to be accelerated and allow a secondary school student to receive additional course credit.

Senate Bill 1 requires the SBOE to determine curriculum requirements for the minimum, recommended, and advanced high school programs and requirements for high school graduation; it also allows school districts to issue certificates of completion in lieu of a diploma to seniors who complete the curriculum requirements for graduation but who fail the state exit examination or the state end-of-course examinations. Special education students and limited English proficiency students are exempted from having to take the exit test to receive their diplomas under Chapter 39. School districts are required to report the academic achievement record of students who complete the high school program to the SBOE on a board-approved transcript, differentiating between the programs and identifying whether each student completed the minimum, recommended, or advanced high school program. Senate Bill 1 retains and amends the Texas Advanced Placement Incentives program to provide monetary awards to students, teachers, and schools for successes in advanced placement or international baccalaureate programs. Awards are subject to availability of funds obtained through donations, grants, and legislative appropriations.

Chapter 29. Educational Programs

As redesignated by Senate Bill 1, Chapter 29 retains and amends Education Code provisions relating to special education, bilingual and special language education, compensatory education, education for gifted and talented students, career and technology education (formerly designated as vocational education), kindergarten and prekindergarten programs, and various programs for students with disabilities. A new provision is the establishment of a public education grant program to allow a student assigned to attend a low-performing school to transfer to another public school in or outside the student's district chosen by the student's parent. A low-performing school is defined as one that has been identified as such by the commissioner at any time within the past three years or one in which 50 percent or more of the student population has performed unsatisfactorily on a statewide examination for the preceding three years. If an eligible student transfers to a school outside the district where the student resides, using a public education grant, the student is included in the average daily attendance calculations of the student's home district for purposes of distribution of state aid. The student’s public education grant consists of the total state and local per-pupil funding available to the student’s home district, less the district’s technology and transportation allotments and any small district, sparsity, or cost of education adjustments that may apply; the district to which the student transfers may not charge the transferring student tuition in excess of the amount of the public education grant to which the student is entitled. The receiving district may accept or reject an application for a nonresident student to attend school in that district but is prohibited from using discriminatory criteria based on race, ethnicity, academic achievement, athletic ability, language proficiency, sex, or socioeconomic status. A district that has more applicants than available positions must give priority to students at risk of dropping out and fill available positions by lottery.

Another provision allows school districts to apply for funding for extended-year programs not to exceed 30 instructional days for students in kindergarten through 8th grade who are identified as likely not to be promoted to the next grade level.

Chapter 31. Textbooks

Senate Bill 1 maintains a state textbook adoption system but expands the choice of textbooks and computer software that school districts can buy with state funds. Under this system the SBOE places approved textbooks on one of two lists: conforming or nonconforming. A school district or open-enrollment charter school may select books from either list and/or books not on either list. Books on the conforming lists must contain all the elements the state identifies as essential to a required curriculum course. Books on the nonconforming lists must contain at least 50 percent of the essential elements. Books not on either list do not conform to state standards. For foundation curriculum courses, the state will provide only textbooks that are on the conforming or nonconforming list. Districts and schools choosing textbooks from the two approved lists receive the full amount of state funding to which they are entitled, except that if a district or school selects a textbook from either list whose costs exceed the limit set by the SBOE, the district or school is responsible for the difference. Districts or schools choosing textbooks not on either list are reimbursed 70 percent of the actual costs or 70 percent of the maximum allowable price, whichever is less, for books used in enrichment courses but not for books used in foundation courses. Districts are allowed to use local funds to purchase books not on any list. A district or school selecting textbooks not on either list of approved textbooks must use the textbook for the entire period corresponding to the review and adoption cycle established by the SBOE for state-approved textbooks for the subject area and grade level.

Chapter 31 also provides for a technology allotment, to be paid from the available school fund, of at least $30 per student and specifies the purposes for which the allotment may be used.

Chapter 33. Service Programs and Extracurricular Activities

Senate Bill 1 eases the no-pass, no-play provision by reducing the mandatory suspension period for failing students from six weeks to three weeks and allowing students to continue practicing or rehearsing with their athletic or academic teams during the suspension period. It requires a student’s grades to be reviewed after three weeks, and if the student is passing all classes, the student is again eligible to participate in competitive extracurricular activities. The no-pass, no-play provision does not apply to students in advanced placement and honors courses.

Senate Bill 1 sunsets each existing rule of the University Interscholastic League (UIL) as of August 31, 1996, unless the rule is readopted by the UIL and reapproved by the SBOE.
Chapter 34. Transportation

Senate Bill 1 maintains the state’s transportation funding formula, but it eliminates a previous requirement that school vehicles use alternative fuels. All buses, whether owned by a district or by a contractor providing services to the district, must comply with safety standards. A school district may not permit a child to stand on a moving school bus.

Chapter 37. Discipline; Law and Order

Senate Bill 1 creates a “zero-tolerance” safe schools policy. This policy requires districts to adopt a student code of conduct and to provide access to alternative education programs that allow for the removal of disruptive students, violent offenders, and others who commit crimes from a regular classroom to alternative classrooms, either on or off campus. This safe schools policy gives teachers the right to remove disruptive students and prevent the students’ return to their classrooms in most cases, but a teacher’s decision may be overruled by a three-member placement review committee, which each school is required to establish. The code of conduct required by the policy must specify what offenses would require a student to be suspended from school, put in an alternative education program, or expelled. Senate Bill 1 allows school officials to suspend students for up to three days without referring them to an alternative education program. The worst offenders, students committing serious offenses such as assaulting a teacher or another student or bringing weapons or drugs to school, are expelled and referred to the appropriate county juvenile court officer. Except under certain circumstances, a court is prohibited from returning the expelled student to regular classroom or campus or to the district’s alternative education program as a condition of probation without the district’s consent. Effective September 1, 1996, Senate Bill 1 requires counties with more than 125,000 residents to develop juvenile justice alternative education programs, subject to approval of the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission, for students expelled from school for serious offenses. For each student placed in a juvenile justice alternative education program, the school district in which the student is enrolled must transfer to the program state and local funds equal to the district’s per-student spending on alternative education programs. Additionally, House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, allocates $25 million for the safe schools program. Alternative education programs, whether operated by a school district or by county juvenile authorities, must focus on English language arts, mathematics, science, history, and self-discipline.

Chapter 39. Public School Accountability

Senate Bill 1 retains the requirements for a statewide test (currently, the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills or TAAS) to be administered to nonexempt students in grades three through eight and for a statewide exit-level test that nonexempt high school students must pass in order to receive a diploma, but adds two new sections, science and social studies, to the reading, writing, and mathematics sections already included in the TAAS battery of tests. Senate Bill 1 also authorizes the SBOE to administer end-of-course examinations for high school students who have taken courses in Algebra I, Biology I, English II, and U.S. History. Senate Bill 1 prohibits a student from receiving a high school diploma unless the student (1) has passed the exit-level examination or (2) has passed the end-of-course examinations in both Algebra I and English II and the end-of-course examination in either Biology I or U.S. History. Following administration of a statewide test, the TEA must release the questions and answer keys.
Special education students and limited English proficiency students are exempt from the statewide testing requirement as before, but Senate Bill 1 requires the commissioner to develop and propose to the legislature by December 1, 1996, an assessment system for evaluating the progress of those students currently exempted from the TAAS. Private schools may voluntarily administer the TAAS to their students.

Senate Bill 1 also retains the requirement for district and campus report cards to be published annually, but beginning in the 1998-1999 school year, the performance of students exempted from the TAAS must be included in the district and campus report cards and in the academic excellence indicator system used in the state accreditation ratings system.

Chapter 42. Foundation School Program

Redesignated as Chapter 42 by Senate Bill 1, this chapter retains the provisions of former Chapter 16, which was not repealed by Senate Bill 7 in 1993, with a few substantive changes. Senate Bill 1 raises the basic allotment to which each district is entitled from $2,300 to $2,387 for each student in average daily attendance. The former small district adjustment is retained for districts with fewer than 1,600 students; a new mid-sized adjustment, for districts with 1,600-5,000 students, will be implemented beginning in the 1996-1997 school year. The former technology and teacher compensation allotments are eliminated. House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, increases the guaranteed level under Tier 2 of the Foundation School Program from $20.55 to $21.00.

Senate Bill 1 adds a new subchapter to implement a school facilities assistance program; House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, allocates $170 million for school facilities, providing direct aid to school districts for construction of educational facilities. To be eligible for facilities assistance, a district must have a property wealth per student in average daily attendance below approximately $276,000 and either a total tax rate of $1.30 or a debt service tax rate of 20 cents. The amount of state assistance for a project may not exceed $500,000 and is in inverse proportion to a district’s property wealth per student in average daily attendance.

Senate Bill 1 redesignates the two other school finance chapters not repealed by Senate Bill 7 (former Chapter 20, School District Funds, and former Chapter 36, Equalized Wealth) as new Chapters 45 and 41, respectively, with the major substantive changes being the removal of debt service taxes from the calculation of the $1.50 cap on local school district property taxes and the elimination of the limitation that a district’s total bonded indebtedness may not exceed 10 percent of its property tax base. In addition, Senate Bill 1 includes several incentives for districts above the equalized wealth level to choose the option of purchasing state attendance credits to reduce their property wealth per student.

Chapter 44. Fiscal Management

Senate Bill 1 eliminates the requirement that most school district contracts valued at $25,000 or more be submitted to competitive bidding and permits a district to use whichever of five prescribed methods that provides the “best value” to the district. The five methods are: competitive bidding; competitive sealed proposal; catalog purchase in compliance with Subchapter B, Chapter 2157, Government Code; interlocal contract; or design/build contract.

Additional Provisions

In addition to revising Titles 1 and 2, Education Code, Senate Bill 1 amends numerous other statutes. Major provisions include the transfer from the TEA to the Texas Employment Commission of regulatory authority over proprietary schools and of the duty to administer the apprenticeship system of adult vocational education (now called career and technology education); the permitting of a school district located in a municipality with a population of 900,000 or more to petition the county commissioners court or city council to establish 1,000-foot alcohol-free zones around schools, the creation of an early high school graduation scholarship program, under which a student who graduates high school within three years or less may receive $1,000 in tuition credits to attend a public or private college or university in Texas, an amendment to the open records law that permits a school district to withhold the name of an applicant for employment as superintendent until 21 days before the meeting at which the final action will be taken on the person’s employment, and the establishment of 100-foot weapon-free school zones.

SENATE BILL 114
EFFECTIVE: 5-23-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Rosson, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: Willis, et al.

The Education Code provides an exemption from college tuition and fees for certain military veterans and to the children of certain deceased or missing military personnel, but to qualify for the exemption, an individual must be a Texas citizen, have resided in the state at least 12 months prior to registering in a college or university, and be able to show financial need. Senate Bill 114 deletes the requirement that the person seeking the exemption demonstrate financial need in order to qualify, establishes restrictions on qualification relating to when the military service occurred, and limits the exemption to a cumulative total of 150 semester hours.

The exemptions granted under this act apply to tuition and fees charged beginning in the fall 1995 semester.

SENATE BILL 181

SENATE AUTHOR: Ratliff
HOUSE SPONSOR: Kamel

Senate Bill 181 removes the three semester-hour limit that currently restricts the amount of college credit in history and government a student at a state-supported institution of higher education can earn through advanced placement examinations. The act allows students to place out of all required history and government courses.

SENATE BILL 221

SENATE BILL 397
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Ratliff
HOUSE SPONSOR: Craddick

Senate Bill 397 amends the Education Code to add a definition of junior college district service areas in general and then delineates the specific geographic area that constitutes the service area of each of the 50 existing junior college districts in the state. Senate Bill 397 also provides for the approval by the Legislative Budget Board of the establishment of any new junior college campus within an existing junior college district or of a new junior college district if the establishment occurs when the legislature is not in session. If the establishment is proposed within three months before the time the legislature convenes or while the legislature is in session, the legislature shall approve the establishment.
SENATE BILL 446
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

The Education Code requires a student pursuing a bachelor’s degree or a lesser academic degree or certificate at a public college or university to earn at least six semester hours of credit in government or political science in a course that emphasizes the Texas Constitution. This act provides an exemption from that requirement to military personnel, including reservists and national guardsmen, enrolled in a degree program operated by a medical or dental unit of an institution of higher education under contract with the United States Army.

The exemption applies only to members of the armed forces enrolled in a degree program if the program requires less than two years of residency in Texas and the principal participants are stationed outside the state.

SENATE BILL 525
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Senate Bill 525 requires public colleges and universities that purchase agricultural products to give preference to products grown, produced, or processed in the state if the cost and quality of those products are the same as the cost and quality of other products. Senate Bill 525 also requires those institutions to ensure that their bid specifications relating to the purchase of agricultural products do not preclude or discourage the purchase of products grown, produced, or processed in the state.

SENATE BILL 585
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

Senate Bill 585 requires the governing board of each general academic teaching institution to establish an office to assist applicants, potential applicants, high school guidance counselors, and others interested in applying for admission to a degree program, applying for financial aid, registering for a college entrance examination, or registering to take an examination for course credit or placement in a degree program. Senate Bill 585 requires each institution to establish this office, which may be operated in connection with an admissions office or another existing office, by January 1, 1996.

SENATE BILL 694
EFFECTIVE: 5-17-95

Senate Bill 694 extends state tuition exemptions provided for resident deaf individuals attending public institutions of higher education under Chapter 54 of the Education Code to residents attending the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Currently, under Section 54.205, deaf and blind Texas residents certified by appropriate state vocational or rehabilitative agencies may apply for exemption from tuition at any public institution of higher education. However, Chapter 131 of the code stipulates that resident students at this institute are not exempt and are required to pay tuition comparable to that charged students at Howard County Junior College.

The act amends the code to provide a definition of “institution of higher education” that includes Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and to remove the requirement that resident students at the institute pay tuition, extending to them the exemption granted deaf students at other institutions.

The tuition exemption for deaf students attending the institute applies beginning in the fall 1995 semester.
SENATE BILL 727
EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

Senate Bill 727 amends the Education Code to clarify provisions relating to the investment options of nonprofit corporations that purchase or make student or parent loan notes. Senate Bill 727 allows such corporations to invest their funds in investments authorized by the Public Funds Investment Act or in securities issued by another nonprofit corporation similarly engaged, as well as in other instruments previously specified. Senate Bill 727 further amends the Education Code explicitly to allow such nonprofit corporations to exercise the powers granted by the Texas Non-Profit Corporation Act; to service, or contract with another person to service, loans purchased or made from its funds; to grant security interest in a trust estate securing its securities; to purchase or make guaranteed or insured student or parent loans; and to make other authorized investments. Senate Bill 727 also clarifies that a security interest granted by a nonprofit corporation is a prior perfected security interest.

SENATE BILL 773
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

Senate Bill 773 grants governing boards of private institutions of higher education, including private junior colleges, the same authority given to governing boards of public institutions regarding the disposition of abandoned and unclaimed personal property coming into the institutions’ possession.

SENATE BILL 786
EFFECTIVE: 5-11-95

Senate Bill 786 raises the cap on the student union fee charged students at the University of Houston for operation, maintenance, and improvement of the campus student union building from $15 to $35 per semester and from $7.50 to $17.50 per summer session term. The act also requires any annual fee increase to be approved either by a majority vote of the student body in an election called for that purpose or by a majority vote of the elected student government.

These fees are deposited in a University of Houston Center fee account under the control of a student fees advisory committee, which had been required to submit an annual budget and report to the University of Houston System board of regents. Senate Bill 786 amends that provision to require the committee to submit its budget and report to the university president instead.

The increase in fees is applicable to student union fees levied beginning with the fall 1995 semester.

SENATE BILL 875
EFFECTIVE: 5-17-95

Senate Bill 875 changes the name of the Sul Ross State University Uvalde Study Center—an upper-level institution operating in Del Rio, Eagle Pass, and Uvalde—to Sul Ross State University Rio Grande College and amends the Education Code to reflect this name change.

SENATE BILL 944
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

Senate Bill 944 amends the Education Code to exempt college students diagnosed as being dyslexic from certain provisions of the Texas Academic Skills Program (TASP). That program requires college students to take and pass a standardized test before they are allowed to proceed with upper division coursework. Students who fail the examination must complete a program of remediation and retake the examination as often as necessary until they have passed the examination. Under the provisions of Senate Bill 944, a student diagnosed as having dyslexia or a related disorder who has completed the required remedial program may be required to retake the examination once but may not be required to take additional remedial courses nor may the student be barred from taking upper division courses because of the student's performance on the test.

A similar exemption for dyslexic students is provided for students required to take the Stanford Achievement Test in lieu of the TASP. That examination serves the same diagnostic function for deaf and hearing-impaired college students as the TASP does for other students.

In accordance with a 1993 amendment to the federal Higher Education Act of 1965, which required each state to establish a State Postsecondary Review Program to reduce student loan defaults, the governor designated the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board as the entity authorized to conduct the reviews.

Senate Bill 1228 amends the Education Code to add provisions relating to the conduct of such reviews. It requires the reviewing entity to notify an institution under review that the review has begun and to give the reasons for the review. It allows an employee or agent of the reviewing entity to execute and serve a civil investigative demand requiring the institution to produce, and allow the copying of, documents and records, and if the institution does not comply, it allows the entity to file a petition for an enforcement order in a district court in the county where the institution is located. Senate Bill 1228 allows an institution under review to appeal a decision by the entity and provides safeguards for the institution under review by making any information obtained as a result of the review privileged and confidential and prohibiting its unauthorized disclosure except under certain circumstances.

The act also expands the primary care residency program by providing for the creation of additional state-funded residency positions in family practice, general internal medicine, general pediatrics, and obstetrics and gynecology.

Senate Bill 1299 abolishes the East Texas State University board of regents and transfers responsibility for the governance, operation, management, and control of the East Texas State University campuses at Commerce and Texarkana to The Texas A&M University System and its board of regents.
Powers and duties of the abolished board, appropriations made to it for the benefit of the two institutions formerly under its control, and responsibility for contracts and written obligations entered into by the board are all transferred to or become the obligation of The Texas A&M University System board of regents. The change in governance made by this act does not affect funds other than legislative appropriations reserved for the use of the two East Texas State University campuses, academic credit earned by East Texas State University students before the transfer, or the employment status of administrative, faculty, or support staff at those institutions.

The change in governance also does not affect the right of East Texas State University and East Texas State University at Texarkana to receive money from the higher education assistance fund under Section 17, Article VII, Texas Constitution.

SENATE BILL 1491

SENATE AUTHOR: Shapiro

EFFECTIVE: 6-8-95

HOUSE SPONSOR: Reyna

Senate Bill 1491 amends the Education Code to allow public colleges and universities to provide an exemption from the testing requirement of the Texas Assessment of Skills Program (TASP) for students who are at least 55 years of age and who are not pursuing a degree or certificate.

Senate Bill 1491 also allows those institutions to charge students at least 55 years of age tuition fees at rates that are lower than the statutory rates. An institution may set conditions a student must meet to qualify for lower tuition and fees and may set different rates for different programs, campuses, or courses, or rates that apply to residents, nonresidents, or both, but the rates must apply uniformly to each student who qualifies for the given rate.
ELECTIONS

HOUSE BILL 2
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

This act amends the Election Code to prohibit contributions from noncaucus members being made to or accepted by a legislative caucus for 30 days before, and during, a regular session of the legislature and to require caucuses to file semiannual contribution and expenditure reports with the Texas Ethics Commission. A legislative caucus is defined as an organization composed exclusively of members of the legislature, or of such members and the governor or lieutenant governor, that selects officers, recognizes identified legislators as members, and exists for research and other support of policy development and common interests of the membership. The act clarifies that a contribution to or expenditure by a legislative caucus is not considered to be an officeholder contribution or expenditure.

A person who violates the prohibition against making or accepting contributions commits a Class A misdemeanor and is liable for damages in the amount of triple the value of the unlawful contribution.

HOUSE BILL 127
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

The 1993 National Voter Registration Act requires states to establish procedures to make registering to vote in federal elections easier. In 1994, the Texas secretary of state developed rules for statewide implementation of the act with general applicability to all elections. House Bill 127 amends the Election Code to codify these rules and to add other provisions.

The act establishes new provisions relating to voter address changes to increase the time a voter may be retained on registration rolls without voting. It requires a voter registrar to send a confirmation notice to a voter requesting a signed, written confirmation of the voter’s address if an initial registration certificate or renewal is returned undelivered or if there is any reason to believe that the address has changed. The notice must include an official response form for the voter to complete that is postage paid and addressed to the registrar, and it must inform the voter that if the address confirmation is not received in 30 days, the voter will be required to complete a statement of residence before voting. The notice must also inform the voter that the registration will be canceled by November 30 following the second subsequent general election for state and county officers unless the voter submits a current address or votes using a statement of residence in the intervening time period. The registrar must maintain a suspense list of voters who fail to return an address confirmation and whose voter registration is potentially subject to cancellation. The act sets out rules governing the contents and availability of the suspense list and creates a misdemeanor offense for its commercial use.

The act designates specific state agencies as voter registration agencies and requires them to provide clients with a voter registration application form at the time services are initially applied for and at other specified times. These agencies include the Texas Department of Health and Texas Department of Human Services—specifically the Medicaid, AFDC, WIC, and food stamp programs—plus the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Texas Rehabilitation Commission, agencies serving the visually and hearing impaired, and other agencies as designated by the secretary of state to comply with federal law. The act establishes detailed procedures governing the processing of voter applications and requires each agency to appoint a voter registration coordinator. Public libraries and marriage license offices of the county clerk also must dispense voter registration applications. The Department of Public Safety, which is currently required to supply voter registration forms to the public, is officially designated a voter registration agency and is subject to other provisions of the act with some exceptions.

Among its other provisions, the act revises certain requirements relating to the voter registration of students at high schools, authorizes a voter registrar to maintain an original voter registration application on optical disk or computer, updates the contents of a voter registration application, authorizes the use of general revenue funds to implement the provisions of the National Voter Registration Act, and enables a voter to cancel his or her registration by written request.

HOUSE AUTHOR: Denny, Hamric
SENATE SPONSOR: Nelson, Shapiro
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Under state law, an expense incurred by an organization or club of a political party is considered a political contribution or expenditure, and therefore subject to state law regulating campaign contributions and expenditures, if it results from a meeting in which a candidate in the general election for state and county offices appears before the organization's membership. However, if no political contribution or solicitation is made at the meeting and the meeting is held at a time other than the 20 days preceding a primary, general, or special election for state and county offices, the expense is not considered a political contribution or expenditure.

House Bill 485 amends the Election Code to remove the 20-day restriction from the law, so that a political candidate may appear at such meetings at any time without causing the organization to incur an expense that is subject to state regulation. The act retains the requirement that no political contributions or solicitations be made at a meeting.

SENATE BILL 94
SENATE AUTHOR: Ellis, et al.

EFFECTIVE: See below

Senate Bill 94 amends the Election Code to enact the Judicial Campaign Fairness Act, which applies to elections for justice of the supreme court, judge of the court of criminal appeals, justice of a court of appeals, district judge, statutory county court judge, and statutory probate court judge. The act establishes mandatory limits on political contributions made in campaigns for those offices. Limits are fixed for statewide judicial offices and are based on the population of the judicial district for the other offices. The act restricts the time period in which contributions can be made and establishes civil penalties for a candidate who violates the new limits. Other provisions limit group contributions by a law firm, restrict reimbursement of personal funds from political funds, and impose detailed contribution reporting requirements on candidates. The act also creates a system regulating political expenditures. While participation in the system is voluntary, a candidate or officeholder must file a declaration of his or her intent to comply or not comply with the expenditure limits. A candidate who chooses to participate, called a complying candidate, may state in political advertising that the candidate voluntarily complies with the Judicial Campaign Fairness Act, while a noncomplying candidate must state the opposite in his or her advertising. The act creates the judicial campaign fairness fund and directs the Texas Ethics Commission to use the fund, if practicable, to publish a voter's guide listing judicial candidates and their status as complying or noncomplying candidates.

In addition, Senate Bill 94 addresses other sections of the law relating to judicial officeholders. The act imposes financial disclosure requirements on a statutory county court judge and statutory probate court judge and creates a misdemeanor offense for failure to comply with the disclosure requirements.

The act took effect on June 16, 1995, except for the contribution reporting requirements, which took effect July 1, 1995, and the provisions requiring financial disclosure by statutory county court judges and statutory probate judges, which are effective September 1, 1995.

SENATE BILL 680
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Shapiro
HOUSE SPONSOR: Madden

Senate Bill 680 amends the Election Code to establish a method for a city, school district, or water district to cancel an election if each candidate on the ballot is unopposed and there are no write-in candidates and propositions on the ballot. The act requires the authority responsible for preparing the ballot to deliver written certification to the political subdivision's governing body if an election meets these criteria. The political subdivision may then declare the candidates elected by order or ordinance and cancel the election, but must post the order or ordinance at each regular polling place on election day. The act establishes a criminal offense for influencing a person by coercion or intimidation to not file as a candidate in an election subject to cancellation. It also shortens the filing periods for declarations of write-in candidacies in city, school board, and general-law water district elections. A current provision requiring a write-in candidate to appear on the list of write-in candidates in order to be counted in a general election for board members of certain water and utility districts is extended to apply to general-law water districts, water improvement districts, and irrigation districts. The new filing periods for declaring a write-in candidacy also apply to these districts.

HOUSE BILL 2128
EFFECCIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2128 amends the Public Utility Regulatory Act of 1995 to regulate telecommunications utilities and services and provide for the continuation of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC). The bill provides that it is the policy of the state to encourage a fully competitive telecommunications marketplace by promoting the diversity of providers while maintaining the availability of existing high quality telecommunications services at affordable rates.

The act allows local exchange companies (LECs) to elect an incentive form of regulation based on service category and competition for the service, in exchange for a six-year infrastructure investment commitment and a four-year basic service price freeze based on June 1, 1995, prices. Incentive regulation is a new framework for facilitating the orderly transition from rate of return regulation to a fully competitive telecommunications marketplace. A service provider has the choice of opting for incentive regulation or continuing under rate of return regulation.

Under incentive regulation, telecommunications services would fall into three “baskets” of service based on essentialness to society and extent of available competition. The act imposes a four-year rate cap on Basket I, basic network services, provided by the incumbent LEC. In exchange for the rate cap, the bill allows pricing flexibility for other services provided by the LEC. Basket II, discretionary services, are partially deregulated by allowing the PUC to set the floor and ceiling rate based on the company’s long range incremental cost (LRIC). Basket III, competitive services, are purely competitive, allowing the company to set the rate anywhere above the LRIC.

Companies that elect incentive regulation must participate in a specified infrastructure investment commitment over a six-year period on network enhancements to upgrade the state’s telecommunications infrastructure. Infrastructure money also would be used to upgrade telecommunications equipment and technology in schools, libraries, public hospitals, and health care facilities.

To promote competition in the local exchange market by permitting companies to provide local telephone service in established areas, the act creates a mechanism to allow new entrants into the market. A certificate of operating authority allows a company to repackage and resell services bought from the incumbent LEC to meet a part of its service requirement but requires new entrants to build their own phone lines and other infrastructure over a six-year period. A service provider certificate of operating authority enables a new entrant to repackage and resell services, with no build-out requirement.

The act also includes provisions relating to small locally owned investor companies and incumbent LECs that serve rural areas, to establish a system of regulatory flexibility and partial deregulation. It includes an infrastructure plan for companies that do not choose incentive regulation and new requirements relating to electronic publishing and broadcasters, creates the Telecommunications Infrastructure Fund, and amends the Universal Service Fund. In addition, the act provides for special distance learning rates for fiber optic lines and service, authorizes the PUC to implement competitive safeguards, includes provisions relating to portability of phone numbers, interconnections, and pay phones, and sets a PUC sunset date of September 1, 2001.

The act implements the Sunset Advisory Commission's across-the-board recommendations for the PUC and OPUC and requires the State Office of Administrative Hearings (SOAH) to establish a utility division to perform the contested case hearings for the PUC. The act stipulates that existing hearings personnel and equipment shall transfer to SOAH on September 1, 1995, and provides employment protections for one year. The act authorizes the PUC to impose administrative penalties up to $5,000 for violations of the act or a PUC rule or order and establishes criteria for determining the amount of a penalty. The act provides that a penalty will not be imposed on accidental or inadvertent violations and prohibits the PUC from imposing a penalty if the person has previously corrected the violation or corrects the violation before the end of the 30-day period. Senate Bill 373 removes outdated statutory organizational requirements, removes the age requirement for appointment as a PUC commissioner, and makes the executive director of the PUC responsible for running the day-to-day operations of the agency. The act also strengthens the conflict of interest provisions for PUC commissioners and applies them to the executive director, the general counsel, and the public counsel.

Regarding electric utility regulation, the act amends the Public Utility Regulatory Act to deregulate certain river authorities by prohibiting the PUC from regulating the revenue requirements, rates, fuel costs, fuel charges, or fuel acquisitions related to the generation and sale of wholesale electricity. The act allows utilities to use price flexibility but requires the PUC to ensure that the discounted rates offered by the utility are not being borne by the utility’s other customers. The act requires the PUC to develop an integrated resource planning process and requires public utilities to submit to the PUC a preliminary integrated resource plan every three years covering a 10-year period that demonstrates how the utility will meet load demand and what fuel mix will be used.

The act authorizes an exempt wholesale generator or power marketer to operate in the state, with certain limitations and safeguards. The PUC is authorized to require a utility to provide transmission service at wholesale to another utility, qualifying facility, exempt wholesale generator, or power marketer, and to determine whether the terms for the transmission service are reasonable.

Senate Bill 373 allows an electric cooperative to be exempted from rate regulation if the members of the cooperative approve the measure. The act sets out procedures concerning rate change notification, the ballot, and the election process. The act establishes methods for a cooperative to use in changing its rates and sets out requirements for a rate change notice that must be sent to affected parties. The act also provides safeguards against potential abuses by a deregulated cooperative by requiring the PUC to review a rate change under certain circumstances. Finally, Senate Bill 373 provides for discounted utility rates for certain institutions of higher education and authorizes an electric cooperative corporation to form and participate in a joint powers agency with one or more public entities.

SENATE BILL 726

SENATE AUTHOR: Sibley

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

HOUSE SPONSOR: Hirschi

This act amends provisions of the Education Code relating to energy conservation contracts entered into by institutions of higher education. Under previous law, an institution was required to submit notice of its request for proposals to the governor’s office prior to any contract award. The act eliminates that directive and instead requires that the proposals themselves be submitted to the state energy management center for review, comment, and economic analysis. The center may charge the institution a fee for that service. The act directs the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board in consultation with the center to establish guidelines and an approval process for energy conservation measures. It provides that the legislature base an institution’s annual energy appropriation on the sum of its energy costs for the fiscal year and the estimated annualized net savings achieved over the lifetime of the energy conservation contract.

SENATE BILL 744

SENATE AUTHOR: Cain

EFFECTIVE: Vetoed

HOUSE SPONSOR: Holzheuser

Senate Bill 744 authorizes local governments to enter into performance contracts for energy conservation measures to reduce energy consumption or operating costs of government facilities. The act requires the provider of the energy conservation measures to file a performance bond with the local government and authorizes a lease-purchase contract, not to exceed 10 years, that is consistent with federal tax requirements. The act also sets out the terms of the contract, the bidding process, and the awarding of the contract.

In addition, the act authorizes a retail public utility to provide nonconsumptive water service for the operation of a geothermal heat pump that circulates the water in a closed loop and returns it to the water main. A retail public utility that provides water service is required to retain total control over access to the water, not allow the water to enter any building, and locate the heat exchanger in a locked utility box that is under the control of the utility and in the public utility easement. The act also authorizes the retail public utility to adopt additional rules and procedures for installing, operating, and removing a geothermal heat pump and to charge a reasonable fee for services. Finally, the act provides that a retail public utility is immune from civil liability arising from the installation or use of a geothermal heat pump.

HOUSE SPONSOR: Duncan

Senate Bill 1227 amends provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act to exempt certain electric cooperative corporations from rate regulation upon an affirmative vote by a majority of the cooperative's members. The act sets out procedures concerning rate change notification, the ballot, and the election process. The act also establishes methods for a cooperative to use in changing its rates and sets out requirements for a rate change notice that must be sent to affected parties. The act stipulates that prior to changing a rate, an electric cooperative must have a cost of service study that is not more than five years old and is available for review by interested parties.

The act provides safeguards against potential abuses by a deregulated electric cooperative by requiring the Public Utility Commission (PUC) to review a rate change if, within a certain time period, the commission receives a petition requesting a review signed by at least 10 percent of all cooperative members or members of the cooperative who purchased more than 50 percent of the annual energy sales to any customer class. An executive officer of an affected electric utility could petition the PUC to have rates reviewed. Additionally, the act authorizes a single customer to seek a rate review if the customer consumes more than 250 million kwh and purchases more than 10 percent of the total energy sales or provides more than 7-1/2 percent of the total revenues of the electric cooperative. The act also authorizes the PUC to review a rate change if it finds good cause to believe the cooperative is earning more than a reasonable rate of return on overall system revenues or on revenues from a rate class, and it establishes guidelines for PUC review. Finally, the act authorizes an electric cooperative that has elected to be exempt from rate regulation to adopt by resolution retail tariffs or contracts containing charges that are less than average embedded cost retail rates but equal to or greater than the cooperative's marginal cost.

HOUSE BILL 327
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-96

House Bill 327 is the result of recommendations from the Joint Interim Committee on the Family Code. It revises Title 3 of the Family Code and substantially alters the juvenile justice system. It begins by changing the heading of Title 3 from “Delinquent Children and Children in Need of Supervision” to “Juvenile Justice Code.” The act makes public safety the primary purpose and promotes the concept of punishment for criminal acts, removes, where appropriate, the taint of criminality from children committing certain unlawful acts, and provides treatment, training, and rehabilitation that emphasizes the accountability and responsibility of both the parent and the child.

The act establishes a progressive sanctions program that enables courts and law enforcement agencies to respond to juvenile conduct. It creates seven progressive sanction levels, each more restrictive than the previous one, to guide the disposition of cases in the juvenile court. The act also lowers the age that a child can be tried as an adult from 15 to 14 years of age for certain felony conduct and expands the list of offenses punishable by a determinate sentence.

The act establishes a statewide computerized juvenile justice information system to be maintained by the Department of Public Safety to record information about children who come into contact with the juvenile justice system in this state. The act also includes provisions that focus on delinquency prevention and detention facilities for juveniles, including youth boot camps, vocational training programs, post-adjudication residential or day-treatment centers, and juvenile curfews.

The act designates the county attorney or the criminal district attorney as the prosecuting attorney responsible for filing protective orders unless the district attorney assumes the responsibility by giving notice to the county attorney. The prosecuting attorney having responsibility for filing applications is required to provide notice of those responsibilities to all law enforcement agencies within the jurisdiction of the prosecuting attorney. The act also exempts an applicant for a protective order from payment of any fees, court costs, or other fees associated with filing the order and requires the respondent, unless indigent, to pay the costs of the filing.

House Bill 2569 amends provisions of the Family Code relating to the investigation of child abuse and the protection of a child who is the subject of an investigation or a suit affecting the parent-child relationship, or who is under the jurisdiction of the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services. This summary will highlight the more important changes.

The act authorizes the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services to have an expedited hearing if the department determines that a child should be removed from the home because of an immediate danger to the physical health or safety of the child and provides an expedited appeals process if the child is not removed. In addition, the department or any other interested party is entitled to an expedited hearing on removal if the child is returned to the home and there is a subsequent allegation of abuse or neglect.

The act requires that an investigation of an allegation of child abuse be conducted jointly by DPRS and the local law enforcement agency and provides that the inability or unwillingness of local law enforcement to investigate does not constitute grounds to prevent the department from performing its duties of investigation.

The act authorizes DPRS to file a petition to remove an alleged perpetrator from the home if the department, after investigation, believes the child would be protected by the removal. Violation of a court order under this section is a Class A misdemeanor and is a third degree felony if the person has previously been convicted of this offense.

Effective March 1, 1996, the department may spend appropriated funds for protective services, child and family services, and purchased services only in a county that provides the department with a child abuse prevention plan. An exception may be made after the department documents the failure to submit.
The act requires the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services to provide medical tests, including HIV tests, to a child who the department believes has been sexually abused. The results of the tests are confidential except, if requested, the department shall report results to a court, a foster parent, and a person seeking to adopt the child.

The act establishes ad litem pools from which appointments are to be made in proceedings in the district courts of a county and requires persons seeking to be included in the pool to complete a training course provided by the State Bar of Texas, complete at least three hours of continuing legal education courses a year in family law, and fulfill any other requirements established by the local administrative district judge. It mandates compliance within a county of 2.8 million or more and allows participation in the remainder of the state.

 Senate Bill 81 sets up a mechanism to allow participating entities serving two or more contiguous counties to establish a children’s advocacy center to bring a cooperative, team approach to the investigation of child abuse cases. Before a center may be established, a memorandum of understanding must be executed by the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, a representative of county and municipal law enforcement agencies, the county or district attorney who routinely prosecutes child abuse cases, and any other individual or entity that provides services to children. Each participating entity is required to appoint a member to serve on the governing board of the center. The act requires the center to assess victims of child abuse and their families to determine their need for services, provide recommended services, provide a facility at which a multidisciplinary team can meet, and coordinate the activities of governmental entities relating to child abuse.

The act also establishes a new subchapter in the Family Code entitled Child Fatality Review and Investigation and provides for a child fatality review team committee. The committee, with the assistance of the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, the Children’s Trust Fund of Texas Council, and the Texas Department of Health, is to develop an understanding of the causes and incidence of child deaths in this state, identify procedures to reduce the number of preventable child deaths, and promote public awareness and make recommendations for changes in law, policy, and practice to reduce the number of preventable child deaths.

The act requires a person who knows of the death of a child younger than six years of age to immediately report the death to the medical examiner or a justice of the peace of the county. The law is amended to require a justice of the peace or a medical examiner to conduct an inquest and order an autopsy if the deceased is a child younger than six years of age and the death is reported under the child welfare services chapter of the Family Code.

Senate Bill 129 amends the Code of Criminal Procedure and the Penal Code to establish the authority and procedure of a magistrate’s order for emergency protection for a victim of family violence or stalking. Upon the arrest of a defendant charged with family violence or stalking, the order may be issued on the magistrate’s own authority or on the request of the victim, a guardian of the victim, a police officer, or an attorney for the state. The emergency order may restrict acts of family violence, stalking, inappropriate communications, and access to certain locations. The order prevails over any existing court orders regarding possession or access to a child. All emergency protective orders remain in effect until the 31st day after their issuance and contain a warning in bold-face type concerning the potential punishments for violation of the order. The act further requires that copies of the order be sent to the appropriate local law enforcement agency and that such agencies develop procedures for providing their officers with adequate listings of all persons in the area who are under emergency protective orders. If the order prohibits access to a school or child-care facility, the magistrate is required to send a copy of the order to the relevant facility. Violation of the protective order is a Class A misdemeanor for the first and second convictions and a state jail felony offense for all subsequent convictions.

SENATE BILL 793

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

SENATE AUTHOR: C. Harris

HOUSE SPONSOR: Goodman

Senate Bill 793 makes a number of changes to the law regarding interagency studies in child support collection and enforcement. The act requires the attorney general to work with the Texas Judicial Council, the Office of Court Administration, the federal Office of Child Support Enforcement, and appropriate state, county, and local officials in developing a statewide registry system for child support and medical support enforcement with participation by a county on a voluntary basis. The registry would use automated processes for recording and tracking child support orders, monitoring compliance with those orders, and initiating enforcement actions when delinquency occurs.

The act also implements provisions relating to medical support mandated by federal law as a condition of continued receipt of federal Medicaid funds.

The act requires the attorney general, when possible, to establish support obligations in a case involving a child receiving AFDC within one year of notification by the Texas Department of Human Services, and to create an interagency working group on child support enforcement. The work group is required to report to the governor, lieutenant governor, speaker of the house, and the attorney general by January 15, 1996, on the progress of the implementation of the child support registry system.

The act expands and simplifies the voluntary Employer New Hire Reporting program to include the development of an automated reporting system to be shared by the Texas Department of Human Services, the Texas Workers’ Compensation Commission, and the Texas Employment Commission to increase child and medical support and decrease fraud.

The attorney general is required to convene a child support collection privatization council made up of representatives of state and county officials to develop procedures necessary to encourage the cost-effective utilization of private collectors in the enforcement and collection of child and medical support. The Tax Code is amended to exempt collection of court-ordered child support and medical support from the sales and use tax on debt collection services.

The act also requires a Title IV-D agency to make information available to consumer reporting agencies regarding the amount of child support owed and the amount paid by an obligor in a Title IV-D case.

Senate Bill 1485 adds a subchapter to the Family Code to create the child fatality review team committee. The purpose of the committee is to develop an understanding of the causes of child deaths, to identify procedures within the state agencies represented on the committee that can reduce the number of preventable deaths, to promote public awareness, and to make policy recommendations to state leaders. The committee is required to make annual reports on the committee’s activities and to report biennially to the governor, lieutenant governor, and speaker of the house of representatives. To ensure that the committee achieves its purpose, the act requires the Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, the Children’s Trust Fund of Texas Council, and the Texas Department of Health to undertake specified duties.

In addition, Senate Bill 1485 authorizes a multidisciplinary and multiagency child fatality review team to be established for a county to review child deaths in that county. The purpose of a review team is to decrease the incidence of preventable child deaths, and specific duties of a review team are set forth. The act authorizes a review team to request information and records regarding a deceased child as necessary to carry out its duties, and it provides that the meeting of a review team is closed to the public and the information it uses is confidential and exempt from disclosure under the open records law. Senate Bill 1487 amends the Family Code to prohibit the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, a county child-care or welfare unit, or a licensed child-placing agency from making an adoption or foster care placement decision based on the presumption that placing a child in a family of the same race or ethnicity as the child is in the child’s best interest unless an independent psychological evaluation specific to a child indicates that placement with a family of a particular race or ethnicity would be detrimental to the child. A violation of this provision subjects a state or county employee to immediate dismissal and a licensed child-placing agency to possible revocation or suspension of the agency’s license.

The act also provides that the department may not remove a child from a foster family of a different race or ethnicity for the sole reason that continued foster care may strengthen emotional bonds or increase the family’s desire to adopt the child.

Under previous law, a municipality could require the repair or demolition of a substandard building. Before the building could be demolished or a receiver appointed to bring the property up to standards, the municipality was required to notify the owner of the building of the violations of standards and hold a hearing if the owner requested it.

House Bill 1743 allows a local preservation board to determine, before the city's initiation of the notification process, whether a substandard building slated for demolition by the municipality has historical significance. Owner-occupied single-family dwellings are exempt from the provision.

If the local preservation board ascertains that a property is eligible for designation as a historic building and can be repaired, the municipality may not allow the building to be demolished for at least 90 days. During that time, the municipality must attempt to locate the owner, identify a feasible alternative use for the building, locate an alternative purchaser, or appoint a receiver to bring the building up to standards. An alternative purchaser or receiver must rehabilitate the building in accordance with federal or municipal historic preservation board guidelines. When a restoration undertaken by a receiver has been completed, the property may be sold and all court costs, receiver costs, and valid liens repaid, with any remaining funds paid to the owner. Provisions relating to the rights and duties of the receiver are also included in the bill.

The person responsible for causing a public nuisance may also be assessed the cost of abating the nuisance and an the property to secure an assessment provided the commissioners court files a notice that owner if known.

GOVERNMENT—GENERAL

HOUSE BILL 52
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: McCall, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Shapiro

House Bill 52 makes various changes in purchasing and contracting provisions relating primarily to local government. It authorizes political subdivisions to participate with one another, or with local cooperative organizations, in cooperative purchasing programs. Local governments that participate in the purchasing program of the General Services Commission are permitted the option of sending purchasing orders electronically to vendors and reporting on their purchases electronically to the commission.

The act voids covenants or promises relating to engineering and architectural contracts if they contain certain mandatory indemnification provisions, but provides for enforcement of covenants in which an engineer or architect voluntarily agrees to indemnify or hold harmless a political subdivision for the personal injury or death of the engineer, the architect, or an employee of either. For public works not involving structural, electrical, or mechanical engineering, the act raises from $8,000 to $20,000 the expenditure threshold above which a political subdivision or the state must use a registered professional engineer.

Under the act, a county may use competitive proposal procedures in contracting for landscape maintenance, travel management, or recycling. Also, a county disposing of surplus or salvage property need not use competitive bidding or an auction if the purchaser is another county. The act expands the authority of county commissioners to delegate approval of change orders on contracts, raising from $15,000 to $50,000 the upper limit on change order values approvable by a delegated employee.

A similar provision raises from $15,000 to $25,000 the upper limit on contractual change order values approvable by a designated city administrative official. The act exempts cities from competitive sealed bidding procedures for expenditures under an interlocal contract for cooperative purchasing administered by a regional planning commission. It modifies provisions relating to city certification of historically underutilized businesses, authorizing cities to adopt the certification program of the General Services Commission, the federal Small Business Administration, a political subdivision, or another governmental entity.

It authorizes expenditures from the new endowment fund to decorate, furnish, preserve, or improve the Capitol, the Governor’s Mansion, or other state property of historical significance or to make grants in support of public schools or public libraries. The act creates an inaugural endowment fund committee composed of the chair of the Texas Historical Commission and one appointee each of the governor, lieutenant governor, and speaker of the house of representatives and suspends certain applicable nepotism laws with respect to those appointments. It prohibits the performance of committee functions at state expense or with state personnel and equipment and requires the committee to file an annual report with the secretary of state detailing endowment fund expenditures.

For the FY1994-FY1995 fiscal biennium, the act appropriates the balance of the inaugural endowment fund to the committee for the purposes authorized by the temporary code section.

HOUSE BILL 814

EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Coleman, et al.

SENATE SPONSOR: Ellis

House Bill 814 adds a new chapter to the Health and Safety Code to authorize a nonprofit corporation organized to restore, operate, and maintain a historic cemetery to petition for this right in the district court of the county where the cemetery is located. The petition must include a legal description of the property and must affirm that the nonprofit corporation has a cultural, historic, ethnic, or religious relationship to the cemetery; that the cemetery is more than 75 years old; that the cemetery endangers public welfare; and that a viable organization of plot owners in the cemetery does not exist. The petition, the subject of a subsequent court hearing, must be accompanied by a detailed plan of action regarding the restoration, operation, and maintenance of the cemetery. The act imposes detailed notification requirements directed to cemetery plot and property owners and to the county auditor and the Texas Historical Commission.

If granted responsibility for the cemetery following the hearing, the members of the nonprofit corporation are authorized to assess charges for the maintenance of the cemetery and may also sell burial rights in any unsold plots, provided that they first establish a trust fund for cemetery care and maintenance. The act sets out rules governing the trust fund and requires the nonprofit corporation to deposit at least 10 percent of the total purchase price of each burial plot in the trust fund. The district court retains continuing jurisdiction to monitor and review the nonprofit corporation’s compliance with the court order granting it responsibility for the cemetery.

Among other provisions, the act requires that the cemetery remain open to the public and stipulates that a cemetery, in order to qualify under the chapter, may not be a family cemetery or a perpetual care cemetery.

HOUSE BILL 1718

EFFECTIVE: See below

HOUSE AUTHORE: S. Turner

SENATE SPONSOR: Wentworth

House Bill 1718 amends the Texas open records law to revise it in a manner that recognizes that much governmental information is now stored in electronic, magnetic, or other non-paper media rather than in paper form. It requires information to be provided on diskette or magnetic tape if a requestor seeks a copy in that form and if the governmental entity has the technological capability to produce a copy in the requested medium, does not have to purchase software or hardware to accommodate the request, and does not violate a copyright agreement with a third party in providing the information. Copy requests necessitating programming or manipulation of data, however, are subject to special notice procedures, time allowances, and cost recovery provisions. Unless data programming or manipulation is involved, a governmental entity may not charge requestors who want only to inspect electronically stored information and are not seeking copies. The act encourages entities storing information electronically to explore options to separate confidential and nonconfidential information.

Under previous law, the General Services Commission issued guidelines for calculating charges to be assessed requestors for copies of information. The law is modified to require the commission to adopt rules that governmental entities must follow in setting charges for copies of information. The act allows governmental entities to seek and obtain exemptions from the commission’s calculation methods and directs the commission to annually publish in the Texas Register a list of the entities authorized to adopt modified cost determination methods. Legislative agencies are not subject to the rules, and local governmental entities may determine their own charges without seeking an exemption if the charges vary not more than 25 percent from commission rules. The act establishes procedures for administrative appeal to the commission of alleged overcharges. It clarifies that provisions relating to charges for public information do not apply to publications issued for public dissemination and provides that if state law does not specify a price, the governmental entity may determine the price or may offer the publication free. The act directs the commission to conduct a study to determine reasonable charges for geographic information systems (GIS) data and in the meantime authorizes certain cities to provide access to that data at little or no cost to requestors. These GIS provisions expire August 31, 1997.

The act clarifies that “public information” extends to information held by a governmental entity that is also contained in public court records and also extends to nonconfidential settlement agreements to which a governmental body is a party and to information in a bill for attorney’s fees, unless the information is subject to attorney-client privilege or is confidential under other law. It provides expressly for required responses to legislative members, committees, or agencies who seek public information, including confidential information, for legislative purposes. The act amends various statutory provisions to extend the protections from public disclosure to personal and family information relating to governmental officers and employees.

Other amendments clarify that governmental entities need not provide access to, or copies of, commercially available books, nor must they necessarily provide copies from publicly available library materials. The act also frees governmental entities from any requirement to reconstruct the form in which information existed before revision or update. It relaxes limitations regarding questions that may be asked of requestors, retaining the prohibition against inquiring about the purpose of the request but allowing questions to clarify or to help narrow a request. If requested information cannot be produced for public inspection within 10 days after the information is requested, the act requires the governmental entity to inform the requestor in writing of the date and time when the information will be available.

The act modifies procedures for requesting attorney general opinions on releasing information or withholding it from disclosure. Governmental entities are subject to new documentation requirements, and the attorney general must render a decision within 60 working days or may extend the period by 20 days if necessary. The attorney general must provide a copy of the opinion to the person who initiated the information request. The act prohibits a governmental entity from bringing legal suit against the requestor in cases in which it seeks to withhold information. Rather, the entity may bring suit only against the attorney general. The act, however, establishes certain notice and procedural requirements relating to the requestor’s right to intervene in a suit or to contest a withholding of information to which the attorney general has consented.
The 60-day deadline and 20-day extension applicable to the attorney general take effect January 1, 1996, as does the requirement that the attorney general provide copies of opinions to requestors. Other provisions of the act take effect September 1, 1995.

HOUSE BILL 2078
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Puente
SENATE SPONSOR: Madla

Previous law required a political subdivision to give notice and accept bids from the public to sell or exchange a parcel of land. Exemptions to this requirement are in Section 272.001, Local Government Code.

A political subdivision need not use the public bid process to exchange land for property needed to complete public projects or to sell land to an adjacent landowner if the parcel is inaccessible by public roads. The act also removes the exemption for easements for which one or more abutting property owners possesses the underlying fee simple.

The Local Government Code allows a political subdivision to convey land for less than its fair market value to an entity that develops low- or moderate-income housing; House Bill 2078 clarifies the definition of “entity” to include an individual, corporation, partnership, or other legal entity.

The act also directs the investment officer to submit to the governing body of the entity an investment transaction report at least monthly and requires reports of private firms with which public investments are made.

SENATE SPONSOR: Sibley

House Bill 1399 amends the Government Code to continue the Office of State-Federal Relations (OSFR) until 2007. The act imposes several new requirements intended to enhance coordination between the OSFR and state agencies. It requires the OSFR to enter into an interagency contract with the Legislative Budget Board (LBB) to locate an LBB staff member to work in the OSFR Washington office. The act requires state agencies receiving significant federal funding or significantly affected by federal policy decisions to develop a plan of state-federal coordination and to study the benefits of similar placement of agency staff in Washington under interagency contract. State agencies headed by a statewide elected official are exempt from this directive. The OSFR Advisory Policy Board must approve these interagency contracts. State agency staff working in the Washington office subject to such contracts must provide periodic updates at meetings of their agencies’ governing boards, report directly to their board chairs or agency heads, and have official roles in their agencies’ budget processes. The act directs the state auditor to establish a salary schedule for agencies’ Washington staff based on relevant expertise and experience, with an adjustment for the cost of living in Washington. The director and other Washington staff of the OSFR are also entitled to the cost-of-living adjustment. Other coordinative provisions require the advisory policy board and OSFR director to hold periodic meetings in Austin to discuss upcoming federal issues with state agency representatives and direct state agencies, to the extent practicable, to contact the OSFR before providing information to a federal agency or the United States Congress on state matters.
The act specifies that the OSFR is responsible for monitoring state efforts to secure federal formula funds and that the governor's office is responsible for monitoring opportunities for federal discretionary funds. It requires the director of the Governor's Office of Budget and Planning to establish a state grant writing team and transfers the current powers, duties, records, and obligations of the OSFR regarding grant assistance to that team. The team is charged to develop a plan for increased state access to federal grants and to coordinate with state agencies to develop a plan for grant usage. The team may enter into memoranda of understanding with state agencies to provide it technical assistance, information on funding opportunities, and grant proposal writing assistance, and also may establish a database of state agencies that are entitled to receive federal categorical and block grants. Another provision that relates to grants requires state agencies and institutions of higher education to report to the LBB on their grant activities. The act also contains standard, across-the-board sunset recommendations.

SENATE SPONSOR: Nelson

This act amends the Government Code to require the secretary of state to make the Texas Register and Texas Administrative Code available to the public on the Internet conditionally free of charge. The secretary of state may also make either publication available on an electronic bulletin board system (BBS), but if the secretary declines that option, any state agency operating a BBS has authority to obtain the publication electronically and make it available there. The act also changes the list of governmental entities and officials entitled to a free Texas Register subscription, but provides that if anyone on the list has the capability to receive the publication through the Internet or a BBS, the secretary of state may instead provide it by either of those means.
The act contains provisions to assist the secretary of state to recoup revenue lost in the conversion from paid subscribers to free public computer access. It authorizes the secretary of state to offer specialized information services relating to the Texas Register or Texas Administrative Code at the market price for those services. If, despite such marketing, the secretary of state experiences a revenue shortfall, the secretary is to report the shortfall to the Legislative Budget Board and request appropriations for the next biennial budget sufficient to compensate for the shortfall and continue free Internet or BBS availability. Only if the legislature does not appropriate such funds may the secretary of state begin to charge user fees for Internet or BBS access to the Texas Register. Similar provisions and contingent fees apply to any shortfall incurred from providing the Texas Register free of charge to specified governmental entities and officials.

The legislation sets a date of January 1, 1996, for Internet or BBS provision of the Texas Register and Texas Administrative Code to the public. It deletes a Government Code provision making the Texas Administrative Code database confidential.

The act clarifies that the commissioner is authorized to designate a single entity as the mental health authority and the mental retardation authority for a service area, and it authorizes the board to delegate certain responsibilities to the local authorities. The department is authorized to lease real property under its control, and guidelines are set forth for awarding a lease. In addition, the act authorizes one or more community centers to create a public facility corporation, and it sets forth guidelines for the use of public funds by a local authority.

HOUSE SPONSOR: Bosse

Senate Bill 12 establishes a natural resource conservation division within the State Office of Administrative Hearings (SOAH) to conduct contested case hearings for the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC). The act dissolves the Office of Hearings Examiners of the TNRCC and transfers its duties, authority, and equipment to SOAH, effective September 1, 1995.

Senate Bill 12 specifies that only an administrative law judge (ALJ) in the division may conduct a hearing on behalf of the commission, sets out the qualifications for an ALJ, authorizes the ALJ to impose sanctions, and lists the potential sanctions that can be imposed. The act requires SOAH and TNRCC to jointly adopt rules providing for the certification to the commission of an issue that involves an ultimate finding of compliance with or satisfaction of a statutory standard. Senate Bill 12 sets forth procedures that the ALJ must follow in issuing a proposal for decision to TNRCC. The commission must consider and act on the proposal for decision and any amendments it makes must be based solely on the record made before the ALJ and must be accompanied by an explanation of the basis of the amendment. Provisions in the Government Code relating to administrative procedure continue to apply to contested case hearings. The act also requires SOAH to charge TNRCC a fixed annual fee for services rendered.
The act directs the chief administrative law judge of SOAH to consult with the chief administrative hearings examiner of TNRCC to assist in determining the number of and requirements for administrative law judges needed to conduct TNRCC hearings and provides that this section is effective immediately. Senate Bill 12 also directs the chief administrative law judge to consider applicants for the ALJ position who were previously employed as hearings examiners with TNRCC before considering other applications. The act provides that if a TNRCC hearings examiner or administrative law judge with a case pending has been hired by SOAH, then the pending case will transfer with them.

SENATE BILL 360
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
HOUSE SPONSOR: Telford

Senate Bill 360 amends the Government Code to continue the Texas Commission on the Arts until 2007. The act requires that at least two of the commission’s 18 members be residents of a county with a population of less than 50,000. It requires the commission to adopt memoranda of understanding for purposes of program planning and budgeting with other state agencies involved in the arts. These include the Central Education Agency regarding public school arts education, the Texas Department of Commerce, Texas Department of Transportation, and Parks and Wildlife Department regarding tourism promotion, and the Music, Film, Television, and Multimedia Office in the governor’s office regarding the state’s music and film industries. The memoranda of understanding with these agencies may also cover other areas of mutual concern.

The act amends the State Purchasing and General Services Act to clarify provisions that allow a state agency to set aside up to one percent of the original cost of certain building construction projects for a fine arts project at or near the building site. A state agency proposing a construction project, termed the “using agency,” must specify in the general project description whether the agency wishes to set aside a percentage for this purpose and is authorized to consult with the Texas Commission on the Arts in preparing this description. The act authorizes the using agency, the commission, and the General Services Commission to hold a public hearing on the merits of using the fine arts percentage set aside on a particular project. The two commissions are required to adopt a memorandum of understanding establishing guidelines for implementation of the set-aside program.

Senate Bill 360 also prohibits the commission from knowingly promoting art projects that contain obscene material, as defined by state law, and contains standard, across-the-board sunset provisions.

SENATE BILL 365
EFFECTIVE: 8-30-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Moncrief
HOUSE SPONSOR: Gray

Senate Bill 365 amends the Antiquities Code to continue the Texas Historical Commission until 2007. The act abolishes the Antiquities Committee and transfers its duties, records, property, unexpended appropriations, and personnel to the commission, which is charged with the administration of the Antiquities Code of Texas. The act modifies the composition of the Texas Historical Commission to require the appointment of a professional archeologist, a professional historian, and a licensed architect and specifies that two other of the commission’s 18 members must be from counties with a population of less than 50,000.

The commission is required to develop a state register of historic places and to adopt rules to provide for its implementation. The commission must submit a report relating to the register to the legislature by February 1997, including any recommendations for statutory changes. The act authorizes the commission to establish advisory committees on matters relating to archeology, history, and the antiquities code.

The new law requires the person in charge of a construction project on state or local public land to notify the commission prior to breaking ground on the project. On notification, the commission must promptly determine if a historically significant archeological site is likely to exist there, if action is needed to protect such a site, and if an archeological survey is necessary. If a survey is judged necessary, the project must be halted until the survey is completed. The commission must make its determination within 30 days, or 15 days if the project involves operations related to oil and gas or mineral production. Otherwise, construction may proceed without further notice to the commission. Certain projects deemed to have little chance of damaging an archeological site are exempted from notification requirements. The act also requires notification of the commission and halting of construction if an archeological site is discovered during construction. In this case, the commission must make a determination as to the site's archeological significance within two business days.

The act deletes a requirement that the commission maintain lists of historic structures available for potential state lease or purchase. It exempts the Texas preservation trust fund account from Government Code provisions relating to fund consolidation, the elimination of fund dedication, and the diversion of unspent dedicated funds. The act authorizes local taxing units to grant property tax exemptions to landowners for archeological sites that have been designated state archeological landmarks. The act requires the commission to conduct a joint study with the Parks and Wildlife Commission on the possible transfer of historical sites from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to the historical commission and to issue a report of findings to the 75th Legislature. In addition, the commission is charged with identifying military sites that are historically significant to Texas. The act also contains standard, across-the-board sunset provisions.

SENATE BILL 366

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Armbrister

HOUSE SPONSOR: Telford

Senate Bill 366 amends the Government Code to continue the Texas State Library and Archives Commission until 2007 and to address its functions, including its involvement with the management of governmental records. The act abolishes the Records Management and Preservation Advisory Committee and replaces it with a Records Management Interagency Coordinating Council composed of the secretary of state, the comptroller of public accounts, the attorney general, the chief executive of the commission, the executive directors of the General Services Commission and Department of Information Resources, and the state auditor as a nonvoting member. The interagency council assumes the former advisory committee's duty to study record management issues and is charged additionally to review its member agencies' activities affecting state records management, adopt policies to coordinate those activities, and make improvements to state records management. The act reduces the size of the Local Government Records Committee to 12 members and provides for two appointees each representing counties, cities, school districts, appraisal districts, and water districts.

The act expands and clarifies the definition of "state publication" and requires the commission to establish a system for electronic access at the state library and other depository libraries to state publications whenever issued in electronic format. The state library must index all state publications available electronically, and state agencies offering on-line access to agency publications must provide the state library with at least one free on-line connection.

The commission must establish and keep current a cost recovery schedule for the record storage services it provides to state agencies. State agencies must send the commission an estimate of record storage services they will need each fiscal biennium, to be used as a basis for the commission's appropriations request for such services. The legislature then may appropriate necessary funds to the commission or separately to each agency.

The new law authorizes local governments to adopt records retention schedules of the state library and sets a deadline of January 4, 1999, for local governments to file record control schedules with the commission.
The act authorizes state agencies to recover from any person in the state state government records in private possession that were illegally removed from the state and also allows the director and librarian of the commission to recover state government records of permanent value in private possession. It grants the commission and state agencies the right to sue in Travis County district court for the return of such records.

Other major provisions allow a major resource system to extend membership to nonpublic libraries operated by public school districts, institutions of higher education, or state and local governments, and authorize the commission to create a grant program to address the information needs of libraries and citizens not adequately addressed by the law. The legislation directs the Council on Competitive Government to review the state library's microfilming, record storage, and document destruction services and to determine whether such services may be procured more efficiently from private sources.

The act also contains standard, across-the-board sunset recommendations.

This act amends the Government Code to authorize the Texas Legislative Council to make certain legislative information publicly available on the Internet to the extent that it considers feasible and appropriate. The information may include a list of legislators, committees and their membership, committee hearing schedules, the full text of each version of every bill including committee amendments and substitutes, house and senate calendars, matters pending on the house and senate floors, details on the legislative process including timetables set by the constitution or legislative rules, and boundaries or other identifying information for senate, house, congressional, and State Board of Education districts. The act does not affect copyright or other proprietary interests or entitlements of the State of Texas or its contractors. It does not affect Government Code provisions relating to the security of confidential information stored electronically by the council. The act authorizes the council to consider the needs of the disabled in making decisions regarding the availability of legislative information.

Other amendments to the code prohibit the use for political advertising or commercial purposes of audio or visual materials produced by a legislative entity. The Texas Ethics Commission may impose civil penalties of up to $5,000 for prohibited use for political advertising. A violation of the prohibition against commercial use constitutes a Class C misdemeanor. In addition to associated criminal penalties, the attorney general may bring a civil action on behalf of the legislative entity to enjoin such violations. The act creates an exception if the producing legislative entity grants permission for commercial use, if such use is limited to educational or public affairs programming, and if the person using the material transmits to paid subscribers an unedited feed of the audio or visual materials. It clarifies that the two prohibitions do not preclude describing or quoting the verbal intent of the materials for political purposes, nor likewise using such materials, or compiling, analyzing, or researching them, for commercial purposes.

The act also requires TNRCC to adopt rules specifying factors that must be used in determining whether a person is an affected person.

SENATE BILL 1675
SENATE AUTHOR: Zaffirini, et al.
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE SPONSOR: Berlanga, et al.
Senate Bill 1675 directs the Health and Human Services Commission to develop an integrated approach to the health and human services delivery system that includes a cost-effective one-stop or service center method of delivery to a client and broadens the oversight duties of the commission. The act requires the commission to review and comment on the annual operating budget and the transfer of funds between budget strategies and to coordinate and approve caseload estimates for programs administered by the agencies under its jurisdiction and to adopt uniform data and guidelines to be used in estimating caseloads. The commission is required to review and comment on the strategic plan and biennial updates of each agency and to have formal discussions regarding these reports. A health and human services agency is prohibited from submitting its legislative appropriations request to the legislature until the commission has reviewed and commented on the document and is prohibited from submitting required plans to the Department of Information Resources without commission approval. The act establishes reporting requirements relating to these provisions. The act requires the commission to develop ongoing mechanisms to receive consumer input and to involve consumers in the planning, delivery, and evaluation of the programs and services under the commission’s jurisdiction.

In addition Senate Bill 1675 requires the commission to expand its existing integrated eligibility pilot programs to include the Harris County Hospital District and the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston and, subject to the availability of funds, to have completed by September 1, 1996, the substantial implementation of a plan for an integrated system of eligibility and service delivery at regional and local levels that will achieve a cost savings of at least one percent. The commission is also directed to examine cost-effective methods to address fraud and error rates. The act authorizes the commissioner of human services to request an agency to take a specific action to integrate and streamline service delivery and to facilitate access to services, and it establishes related reporting requirements. The bill requires the commission, rather than the head of a health and human services agency, to determine the space and location needs of each agency and prohibits the General Services Commission from leasing office space to serve the needs of a health and human services agency without approval from the Health and Human Services Commission.

SENATE BILL 10
EFFECTIVE: 6-13-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Zaffirini, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: Berlanga, et al.

Senate Bill 10 requires the Health and Human Services Commission to develop a health care delivery system that restructures the delivery of services provided under the Medicaid program. The act outlines directives the commission must follow in developing a managed care delivery system to maximize the state match for federal funds and expand eligibility for Medicaid coverage. However, Senate Bill 10 also requires the commission to ensure that, with certain exceptions, no new general revenue appropriations are used to expand eligibility for Medicaid coverage. The act further requires that traditional Medicaid providers who have historically delivered a significant level of care to Medicaid clients be included in the provider network for a period of three years if certain conditions are met.

Senate Bill 10 provides that if the health care delivery system includes a method to finance the Medicaid program by obtaining federal matching funds, certain governmental entities are required to make resources available for matching and certain local mental health and mental retardation authorities, city or county health departments, and other governmental entities that provide health care services to indigent persons are authorized to make funds available for matching. A method of calculating matching amounts is set forth. Each entity that makes funds available for matching is required to negotiate a binding “matching funds agreement” between the governing body of the entity and the commission. The act enumerates provisions that must be included in an agreement.
In addition, the act provides for the implementation of the health care delivery system by authorizing one or more of the participating entities to form an intergovernmental initiative to operate the system in a geographical area. Guidelines for the creation and function of an initiative and provisions of a required health care delivery plan agreement between the initiative and the commission are set forth. The act requires the commission to monitor compliance with provisions governing the implementation of the system and to take any action, including the use of administrative penalties, to enforce their implementation. Senate Bill 10 authorizes the commission to delegate until the year 2001 all or part of its functions and powers to a health and human services agency that operates a part of the Medicaid program. In addition, the commission is authorized to grant an award for reporting Medicaid fraud, misuse, or overcharges.

The commission is directed to obtain from the federal government a waiver or other authorization to implement the restructured health care delivery system unless both the governor and the Legislative Budget Board determine that the revised program will not control state Medicaid costs. The waiver must be requested by August 31, 1995. The governor may by executive order postpone the application deadline to as late as September 30, 1995, if the commission determines that the earlier date is not feasible. The act requires the commission to continue to establish additional Medicaid managed care pilot programs if a federal waiver is not obtained to implement the proposed system.

SENATE BILL 18

SENATE AUTHOR: Moncrief, et al.

HOUSE SPONSOR: Counts

Senate Bill 18 amends the Dental Practice Act to provide for the continuation of the State Board of Dental Examiners and the Dental Hygiene Advisory Committee under the Texas Sunset Act until September 1, 2005. Senate Bill 18 increases the membership of the State Board of Dental Examiners (board) from 15 to 18, increases the number of public members from 3 to 6, and requires the president of the board to be a dentist elected by the board.

The act sets forth the composition of the Dental Hygiene Advisory Committee (committee) as follows: three dental hygienists and two public members, to be appointed by the governor, and one dentist appointed by the board. The committee is required to elect the committee chair, and a sitting member of the board is prohibited from being a member of the committee.

The committee is required to develop and recommend to the board rules that establish qualifications and requirements for dental hygienists. The board is required to approve or reject the proposed rules, and if a rule is not approved the board is further required to indicate to the committee the reasons that the rule was not approved and return the rule to the committee for further development. The board is vested with final authority on all rules. Provisions relating to rules governing dental hygienists expire three years from the effective date of Senate Bill 18, and the board is prohibited from setting a date on which the committee is abolished that is within four years of the effective date of Senate Bill 18.

Other substantive provisions included in the act would: (1) require the board to contract with an independent or regional testing service for clinical exams and authorize the board to use licensed professionals to assist the regional testing service; (2) require rather than permit the board to grant a dentistry or dental hygienist license to out-of-state applicants under certain conditions and allow the board to grant a license, under certain circumstances, to a dentist or dental hygienist who has not graduated from an accredited dental or dental hygiene school; (3) impose new civil, criminal, and administrative penalties for violations of the Dental Practice

EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Madla, et al.
HOUSE SPONSOR: Berlanga

Senate Bill 673 amends the Medical Practice Act to authorize a physician who serves a medically underserved area to delegate to a registered nurse or physician assistant the carrying out or signing of a prescription for dangerous drugs. A physician whose practice is based at a licensed hospital or long-term care facility may delegate to an advanced nurse practitioner, physician assistant, nurse anesthetist, physician assistant offering obstetrical services, or nurse midwife the acts of administering, providing, carrying out, or signing a prescription drug order. Numerous limitations and safeguards are imposed for the authorized delegation of these activities. The Board of Nurse Examiners is required to adopt rules for approval of a registered nurse to exercise this delegated authority and minimum requirements are set forth. A physician is granted immunity from liability for the delegated acts of a nurse or physician assistant unless the physician has reason to believe the nurse or assistant lacked competency to perform the act.
The act also authorizes a physician assistant to pronounce a person dead in certain circumstances, and the assistant is granted the same immunity from liability for damages arising from this action as is extended to a physician or nurse.

Senate Bill 673 requires the Texas Department of Health to develop a clearinghouse for health professionals seeking collaborative practice and authorizes the department to impose a fee to cover administrative expenses. It requires the Center for Rural Health Initiatives to take certain actions to ensure that rural areas receive the maximum benefits of telemedicine and distance learning and requires the center to develop in conjunction with various state agencies a study of rural health clinics. A hospital authority that owns or operates a licensed hospital located in a rural area is authorized to construct and operate certain facilities and services for the elderly and disabled. A hospital authority may issue revenue bonds and other notes for this purpose if a private provider is not accessible to the area.

Senate Bill 673 amends the Health and Safety Code by adding a chapter to establish procedures regarding the issuance of an out-of-hospital do-not-resuscitate order to withhold cardiopulmonary and certain other life-sustaining procedures. It also adds a chapter to establish that a childhood blood lead level of concern is a reportable health condition, specify health care professionals and public officials who are required to report such cases, and establish a registry of children with lead poisoning and blood lead levels of concern.

The act amends the Texas Health Maintenance Organization Act to require a health maintenance organization to accept certain accreditation of a hospital, facility, agency, or supplier, and it amends the Health and Safety Code to require the Texas Department of Human Services to accept licensure by the Texas Department of Health or certification by the Medicare program in establishing provider criteria for hospitals, home health, or hospice providers. The Managed Health Care Advisory Committee is required to include a provision in the managed health care plan for prison inmates that requires acceptance of certification by the Medicare program as an alternative to accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

Senate Bill 673 amends the Medical Practice Act to clarify that nothing in that act prohibits a hospital from entering into an independent contractor agreement with a physician to provide services at the hospital or at other health care facilities and repeals provisions relating to contracts between a physician and a nonprofit clinic that serves an indigent population.

Senate Bill 673 updates the name of the Texas State Board of Podiatry Examiners to the Texas State Board of Podiatric Medical Examiners. HOUSE BILL 1863
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE AUTHOR: Hilderbran, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Zaffirini, Nelson

House Bill 1863 makes many revisions to the state’s AFDC and related public assistance programs. The act requires each applicant to sign and comply with a responsibility agreement in order to receive assistance and limits the cumulative amount of time a recipient can receive financial and transitional assistance, based on the recipient's education level and amount of prior work experience. A recipient who has exhausted the time-limited benefits is allowed to reapply for assistance after five years. Exceptions to the required time limits are allowed if severe personal hardship or community economic factors prevent the recipient from obtaining employment or if the state is unable to provide support services. Time-limited benefits are to be gradually implemented statewide.

To assist recipients in becoming self-sufficient, House Bill 1863 requires the Texas Department of Human Services to assess the needs of each family, develop a plan through which the family can fulfill those needs, and provide necessary support services, including education, child care, and transportation. AFDC adults are required to work at least 30 hours a week or participate in the JOBS program, with exceptions. The act creates various pilot programs aimed at increasing self-sufficiency, including education, training, and emergency assistance programs. It also increases the amount of resources that are disregarded in determination of eligibility and requires each applicant to prove that each person receiving aid is a U.S. citizen or legal immigrant and a resident of the state. The applicant must also prove that each child under the age of five has been immunized or will be immunized before the family's next eligibility review.

House Bill 1863 provides for the suspension of state licenses of parents found to be delinquent in making child-support payments and requires that unemployed noncustodial parents be referred to education and training programs. Other elements of the legislation provide for maximizing federal funding by expanding eligibility for certain programs and assisting eligible AFDC recipients in applying for federal assistance, decreasing costs through integrated eligibility and service delivery systems, and strengthening fraud- and error-prevention efforts. The act authorizes a court to establish spousal maintenance in certain cases of divorce, broadens the oversight duties of the Health and Human Services Commission, and directs the commission to develop an integrated approach to the health and human services delivery system.

In addition, the act abolishes the Texas Employment Commission and creates the Texas Workforce Commission, to be made up of at least two divisions: a division of workforce development and a division of unemployment compensation. It consolidates under the workforce development division certain programs previously administered by other governmental entities. Programs consolidated include those relating to adult education, apprenticeship, food stamp employment and training, the Job Training Partnership Act, and the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills program. The commission is required to administer certain programs, review local workforce training, and allocate at least 80 percent of its workforce training and services funds as block grants to eligible local workforce development areas. The percentage change from one biennium to the next in funding allocations for a particular area is limited.

The act removes administrative barriers that impede the response of community and technical colleges to industry training needs, aims to develop incentives for those schools to provide customized training, and creates the Skills Development Fund from money in the general revenue fund to carry out these purposes. It modifies the responsibilities of the Council on Workforce and Economic Competitiveness and reduces the council's membership by eliminating ex officio members and certain government appointees. House Bill 1863 amends procedures through which a local workforce development board may be created and specifies components that must be included in the required plan of a local workforce development board. Finally, a Skill Standards Board is created as an advisory board to the governor and the legislature on the development of a statewide system of industry-defined and -recognized skill standards for occupations that provide employment and earnings opportunities and require less than a college degree.

It also transfers the commission's responsibility for administrative hearings to the State Office of Administrative Hearings.

The membership of the board of directors of the Certified Self-Insurer Guaranty Association is increased to seven, adding a certified self-insurer as a voting member. The act clarifies that the executive director of the commission and the director of the commission's division of self-insurance regulation serve as nonvoting members. The time period to build the guaranty trust fund is increased from 5 to 10 years.

The act expands the criteria used to remove a doctor from the list of approved doctors and sets out certain mandatory qualifications and training for designated doctors. It limits communication with a designated doctor, authorizes the commission to impose additional sanctions against designated doctors for violations of the law, and requires the commission's division of medical review to evaluate the compliance of health care providers serving as designated doctors.
Each state agency is designated as an employer for purposes of workers’ compensation insurance. State agencies are required to establish health and safety programs that the commission’s risk management division is required to review and approve.

Other substantive provisions of the act (1) specify that benefits for employees who have an occupational disease terminate 401 weeks after the date the benefits begin to accrue; (2) authorize the commission to exclude employers meeting certain conditions from the extra-hazardous employers program; (3) modify employer report-of-injury requirements and require the commission to develop plain language benefits information in English and Spanish and to contact an injured employee on receipt of an injury report; (4) establish mandatory qualifications, training guidelines, and continuing education for ombudsmen; (5) remove specific qualifications for field safety representatives, requiring the commission to establish qualifications; (6) clarify the rights of certain executives to cover or exclude themselves from workers’ compensation coverage; (7) authorize legislative oversight of the workers’ compensation system; and (8) prohibit the disclosure of information kept in the commission’s investigation files except in certain circumstances, specifying that the files are not “open records” as defined by state law.

The commission is authorized to impose an administrative penalty on employers failing to report certain employee injuries and illnesses. The act decreases the criteria necessary for applying administrative penalties to insurance carriers and health care providers for certain violations of the law. The act also adds criminal penalties for the disclosure of certain information in an injury report and for certain fraudulent acts.

HOUSE BILL 1090
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

The act authorizes the fund to conduct its own fraud and violations investigations, requiring it to coordinate its efforts with the Texas Workers’ Compensation Commission, and adds “health care provider” and “other person” to the list of entities the fund is required to include in its investigation program. The disclosure of information kept in the fund’s investigation files is prohibited except in specific circumstances. The act specifies that those files are not “open records” as defined by state law.

The fund is authorized to require certain companies applying for workers’ compensation insurance to insure all commonly owned or controlled companies if fraud is suspected. The fund is required to report, on request, statistical and other information on its underwriting experience to the Texas Workers’ Compensation Research Center, the legislative oversight committee on workers’ compensation, or a similar successor agency.

The act also subjects the fund to standard state oversight provisions relating to the appointment of an internal auditor, annual review of the use of outside legal counsel, and compliance with the state agency minority hiring practices guidelines in the General Appropriations Act. The act’s other standard oversight provisions require the state auditor to identify issues relating to the operation of the fund, require the issues to be included in the fund’s annual independent and internal audit plans, and impose certain reporting requirements on the fund’s internal and independent auditors and the state auditor.
The act clarifies that the insurance commissioner’s review of a decision made by the fund’s board of directors relating to policy cancellation does not suspend a ruling or other action of the fund, unless specifically ordered by the commissioner on a showing by the aggrieved party of immediate, irreparable injury, loss, or damage and probable success on the merits.

Other major provisions of the act (1) require the fund to provide information on request to appropriate legislative committees; (2) clarify that the fund is not required to appoint a local recording agent to act on its behalf and specify that an agent doing business with the fund is the applicant’s agent, not the fund’s agent; (3) prohibit the fund from disclosing employer information submitted by a licensed agent with certain exceptions; (4) require the commission to charge and collect fees for follow-up safety inspections of policyholders insured through the fund’s insurer of last resort program; and (5) change the filing deadline for the fund’s annual report to March 1, clarifying that the report must be filed with the department of insurance.

In addition, the TWDB is required to prepare and provide to the legislature a report on all pilot projects not later than January 1 of each odd-numbered year.

HOUSE BILL 2015

EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Talton

SENATE SPONSOR: J. Patterson

House Bill 2015 amends the Water Code and the Natural Resources Code to conform with the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) requirements of the federal Water Pollution Control Act (Clean Water Act). Currently, both the federal government and the state operate wastewater discharge permitting programs. The NPDES program could be delegated to the state if the state’s program meets certain criteria. This act makes changes necessary to obtain Environmental Protection Agency approval for delegation of the NPDES program to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC).

The act amends provisions pertaining to eligibility requirements of the commissioners of the TNRCC to conform with the conflict of interest provisions of the Clean Water Act. House Bill 2015 also sets forth the requirements that the TNRCC must follow in obtaining or administering the NPDES program and prohibits the commission from entering into a memorandum of agreement with state agencies or the federal government that would impose requirements in addition to or more stringent than those set forth in the Clean Water Act. This legislation raises the cap on a waste treatment inspection fee to $25,000 but prohibits the commission from increasing the fee on a treatment works owned by a local government before August 31, 1999.

The act amends enforcement provisions in the Water Code and the Natural Resources Code to prohibit the attorney general from opposing intervention by a person who has standing in a civil action brought by the attorney general to enforce NPDES permits or challenge the lack of an NPDES permit. The act further provides for public comment on a proposed judgment or agreement and requires the attorney general or the TNRCC to consider such comments before rendering a final judgment.

House Bill 2049 changes the penalty for violating a rule, permit, or order of the Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority from no more than $1,000 for each day of violation to no more than $1,000 a day for each violation.
HOUSE BILL 2050
EFFECTIVE: 5-8-95

House Bill 2050 deletes the 48-day limitation on per diem compensation for the directors of the Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority.

HOUSE BILL 2294
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2294 repeals Chapter 52 of the Water Code relating to underground water conservation districts and creates two new chapters governing groundwater regulation and management under Title 2, Water Code (State Water Administration).

The act authorizes the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) to designate groundwater management areas to conserve, preserve, protect, recharge, and prevent the waste of groundwater or groundwater reservoirs and control subsidence. The act establishes procedures for identifying, designating, and creating groundwater management areas and critical areas and provides for the joint planning by two or more districts located within the boundaries of the same management area. The act also exempts from this chapter any active groundwater conservation district or land within an active groundwater conservation district and establishes procedures for management of state-owned land located in a critical area not controlled by the TNRCC. House Bill 2294 also consolidates provisions governing groundwater conservation districts.

HOUSE BILL 2296
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2296 establishes a voluntary cleanup program for sites contaminated by solid and hazardous waste to be administered by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission.

As stated, the purpose of the act is to provide an incentive to remediate property by removing liability of lenders and future landowners. The act sets out procedures for voluntary participation in the cleanup program and provides that participants must enter into a voluntary cleanup agreement with the TNRCC and submit implementation work plans consistent with existing risk reduction rules and other applicable cleanup standards. The agreement must provide for recovery by the commission of all reasonable costs attributable to the voluntary cleanup agreement. The act prohibits the TNRCC from taking enforcement action against a person who is in compliance with this section for the contamination or release that is the subject of the voluntary cleanup agreement. Upon successful completion of the cleanup, House Bill 2296 requires the TNRCC to issue a certificate of completion, to be filed in the real property records of the county in which the land is located, releasing future owners and lenders from liability at the site.

HOUSE BILL 2315
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2315 amends the Health and Safety Code to exempt a permit holder or municipal solid waste management facility that intends to establish an energy and material recovery or gas recovery or transfer facility in conjunction with a permitted municipal solid waste management facility from the requirement to obtain a separate permit or amendments to an existing permit. The act requires a facility to register with the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission under this section and authorizes the commission to require registration to extract materials for energy and material recovery and for gas recovery or transfer.
HOUSE BILL 2387

House Bill 2387 amends Chapter 13 of the Water Code to clarify statutory provisions and consolidate certain regulatory functions previously administered by the Texas Department of Health. Specifically, this act changes the definitions of “member” and “water supply or sewer service corporation” to include services provided to subdivision residents and developers. This act also gives service providers the option to deny services to subdivisions in the service area if a subdivision has failed to comply with the service provider’s extension policy. Other changes to Chapter 13 include broadening the grounds for holding a hearing on a transfer of ownership of a service provider and notice provisions in the event of foreclosure.

HOUSE BILL 2473
EFFECTIVE: 5-23-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Chisum, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

House Bill 2473 creates the Environmental, Health, and Safety Audit Privilege Act to encourage voluntary compliance with health and safety and environmental laws through voluntarily conducted audits.

The act offers protection from discovery of information compiled during a voluntary audit and from such information being used against a company, individual, or other entity in court if certain conditions are met. To ensure that the information has been derived through a good faith audit, the act provides that the confidentiality privilege would not apply if it is waived, if privilege is asserted for a fraudulent purpose, or if the entity did not take appropriate efforts to comply with the law upon discovery of noncompliance. In addition, the act exempts most violations that have been voluntarily reported to a regulatory agency from being used as grounds for penalizing an entity if the disclosure is made promptly and the entity makes efforts to cooperate with the agency to correct the violation. The act also establishes that a disclosure is not voluntary if the person making the disclosure acted intentionally or knowingly regarding the commission of the violation or if the person’s reckless disregard resulted in off-site harm.

HOUSE BILL 2579

HOUSE BILL 2587
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Alexander
SENATE SPONSOR: Sims, Brown

House Bill 2587 amends petroleum storage tank remediation fund provisions of the Water Code to phase out the petroleum storage tank (PST) remediation fund and provides that the fund may not be used to pay the cost of corrective actions incurred for releases reported after December 22, 1998. The act authorizes the privatization of any part of the PST remediation program and provides that the program expires September 1, 2001. House Bill 2587 requires storage tank owners and operators to maintain insurance or evidence of financial responsibility after December 22, 1998, and authorizes the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) to impose penalties on violators and seek injunctive relief in district court in Travis County to force closure of a tank that does not comply with this provision. The act also abolishes the Petroleum Storage Tank Advisory Committee.
The act amends provisions relating to costs imposed on owners and operators for corrective action and requires owners and operators to comply with release detection, spill and overfill prevention, and corrosion protection requirements set by the TNRCC. House Bill 2587 requires the TNRCC to use risk-based corrective action when evaluating corrective action plans for remediation. The act provides that claims from the petroleum storage tank remediation fund are to be considered in the order in which they are received and clarifies that interest on reimbursement claims is prohibited. The act also enhances the TNRCC’s enforcement powers over consultants who perform corrective action at leaking storage tank sites and contractors who install, repair, or remove underground storage tanks.

Finally, House Bill 2587 doubles the current fees to the PST remediation fund by increasing the fees on bulk delivery of petroleum products and reauthorizes a temporary transfer of up to $120 million from the general revenue fund to the petroleum storage tank remediation fund to pay reimbursement claims against the fund. Eighty million dollars of the transfer amount must be repaid to the general revenue fund by August 31, 1996, and the balance of $40 million by May 31, 1997.

The other half of the revenue is dedicated to municipal solid waste geographic planning regions to carry out local and regional projects specific to area needs and in accordance with approved regional solid waste management plans. The act requires that a project must promote cooperation between public and private entities and may not be otherwise readily available or create a competitive advantage over a private industry that provides recycling or solid waste services. The act also requires each planning region to issue a biennial report to the legislature detailing how the revenue was spent.

House Bill 3215 amends the Water Code to increase from 17 to 19 the number of board members for the Harris-Galveston Coastal Subsidence District. The act authorizes the commissioners court from Galveston and Harris counties to each appoint an additional board member representing a municipal utility district.

HOUSE BILL 3226
EFFECTIVE: 6-8-95

House Bill 3226 amends the Natural Resources Code to codify the rules of the Coastal Management Program (CMP) as proposed by the General Land Office (GLO).

The act deletes the term “coastal conservation area,” replaces it with “coastal natural resource areas,” and defines the areas. The act establishes the coastal management program as an ongoing, comprehensive program that contains the elements required for approval under the federal Coastal Zone Management Act.

House Bill 3226 amends the CMP rules adopted by the GLO by restructuring the membership of the Coastal Coordination Council (CCC). The act removes the attorney general as a member of the CCC and adds a representative of the Texas Transportation Commission, a member of the Soil and Water Conservation Board, a member of the Texas Water Development Board, an additional public member who is a coastal area business owner, and a representative of agriculture appointed by the governor. The act also makes the CCC subject to the sunset statute in four years.

The act codifies actions subject to the CMP and requires the CCC to adopt, by rule, procedures by which agencies may submit rules and rule amendments. The act authorizes an agency taking an action subject to the CMP to issue a written determination that the action is consistent with CMP goals and policies. The CCC may only review an agency’s consistency finding in very limited circumstances, and such review is not mandatory. If the CCC protests a proposed action through an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members, the CCC shall report its findings to the agency. If the agency fails to make the proposed action consistent with the CCC report, the CCC may request that the attorney general issue an opinion and take subsequent enforcement action. The act also authorizes the CCC to review major federal actions that affect Texas coastal waters and prohibits the CCC from reviewing proposed rules of the Texas Department of Agriculture. The act requires the agency with jurisdiction over the proposed action to enforce provisions of the CMP and prohibits any action related to the CMP that may result in the taking, damage, or destruction of private property without compensation.

SENATE BILL 19

EFFECTIVE: 1-31-95

The federal Clean Air Act, administered by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), designated the areas of El Paso, Houston/Galveston, Beaumont/Port Arthur, and Dallas/Fort Worth as nonattainment areas because the ambient air quality failed to meet the national clean air standards. Nonattainment areas are required to reduce air pollution 15 percent by November 1996. To achieve this goal, the EPA has required vehicle emissions and maintenance testing in all nonattainment areas.

Senate Bill 19 establishes a 90-day delay on the federally mandated vehicle emissions and maintenance testing program. The act also appropriates $8.8 million from the clean air fund account to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission for payment to the managing contractors and subcontractors under contract with the commission to perform the vehicle emissions inspection and maintenance program. The funding provided is intended to offset losses incurred by the contractor resulting from the 90-day delay and must be paid back to the state, without interest, not later than August 31, 1997.

SENATE BILL 178

EFFECTIVE: 5-1-95

Senate Bill 178 establishes a vehicle emissions inspection and maintenance program to comply with the federal Clean Air Act. This program is intended to replace the vehicle emissions and maintenance program instituted by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) that was suspended for 90 days by Senate Bill 19 on January 31, 1995. The bill applies only to the following nonattainment counties: Brazoria, Fort Bend, Galveston, Harris, Montgomery, Collin, Denton, Dallas, Tarrant, and El Paso.

Senate Bill 178 resumes vehicle emissions inspection and maintenance testing on June 1, 1995, and provides that the program as set out in this legislation is effective until the governor determines, after negotiations with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the type of program necessary for the state. Upon making that determination, the governor by executive order shall direct the commission to develop and implement a program for the state as determined by the governor, and the program as established by this act is suspended. The governor is authorized to direct the exemption of a county from inclusion in a vehicle emissions inspection and maintenance program.

The testing program as established by Senate Bill 178 requires vehicles to be tested annually after the date of the second anniversary of the vehicle's first sale. The act exempts certain vehicles from the inspection requirement, including certain fleet, antique, classic, slow-moving, and circus vehicles. A vehicle may be tested at a decentralized test-only facility or a decentralized test-and-repair facility at the option of the vehicle owner. The TNRCC is required to adopt rules to prescribe the types of vehicle emissions tests to be used at each type of testing facility, but the commission may not require an emissions testing technology or procedure that is more stringent than a technology or procedure used or in place in vehicle emissions inspection and maintenance programs in this state before January 1, 1994.

Senate Bill 178 also requires the Department of Public Safety to develop and implement a program to certify, inspect, and audit vehicle emissions testing facilities. The department is authorized to collect a certification fee and after a hearing revoke the certification of a facility that violates rules or provisions of this act. The act also authorizes the department to establish a motor vehicle inspection and maintenance program for vehicles specified by the department at the direction of the governor in certain counties. In addition, the department is authorized to designate emissions testing facilities to perform safety inspections. Vehicle registration is no longer contingent on emissions testing. Instead, a safety inspection cannot be completed unless an emissions test has been performed, either during the safety inspection or prior to the safety inspection by a certified emissions testing facility.

SENATE BILL 200
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Armbrister
HOUSE SPONSOR: Stiles

Senate Bill 200 establishes an alternative fuels program for the state as mandated by the federal Clean Fuel Fleet Program of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. The act authorizes the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission to require the use of alternative fuels, including reformulated gasoline, for public and private fleet vehicles operating in nonattainment areas. The act also establishes program compliance credits and a Mobile Emissions Reduction Credit (MERC) program and sets deadlines for program implementation.

The act applies to mass transit vehicles, local governments that operate more than 15 vehicles, and private entities that operate more than 25 fleet vehicles. The act excludes law enforcement and emergency vehicles, fleet vehicles over a certain weight, and fleet vehicles that are parked at the user’s residence when not in use.

SENATE BILL 290
EFFECTIVE: 4-12-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Henderson, Haywood
HOUSE SPONSOR: Culberson

Under the federal Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, states containing a severe ozone nonattainment area must submit a state implementation plan requiring employers to implement programs to reduce work-related vehicle trips and miles traveled by employees. The Employer Trip Reduction (ETR) plan requires each employer of 100 or more persons at a single work site in a severe nonattainment area to increase average passenger occupancy per vehicle in commuting trips between home and the workplace during peak travel periods by not less than 25 percent.

Senate Bill 290 suspends the implementation of the ETR program for 180 days and allows the governor to extend the suspension for an additional 45 days after this act expires. Extension of the suspensions must be done by executive order and the governor can order successive 45-day suspensions.

Senate Bill 290 exempts employees from participating in an ETR plan if the employee travels less than 30 miles one way or spends less than one hour traveling one way from residence to workplace.

SENATE BILL 776
EFFECTIVE: See below

SENATE AUTHOR: Brown
HOUSE SPONSOR: Junell

The waste tire recycling fund, supported by fees on certain tire sales, compensates entities that process scrap tires. This act makes a $9.34 million supplemental appropriation from the fund to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission for the FY1994-FY1995 biennium. The appropriation is effective June 5, 1995, and enables the commission to pay tire shredders and recyclers for tires that have been processed but for which earlier appropriations had been exhausted. The remainder of the act takes effect September 1, 1995, and amends the Health and Safety Code and other state law to modify various aspects of the waste tire recycling program and waste tire handling. The legislation provides for the expiration of that program on December 31, 1997.

In addition to existing fees on new tires, the act establishes a fee of $1 on the sale of good used tires. It clarifies that tire fees do not apply to recapped or retreaded tires, nor to off-the-road tires intended for use on heavy machinery such as earthmoving equipment. The act clarifies circumstances under which tire dealers must accept used tires and prohibits the sale or conveyance to metals recyclers of Texas motor vehicles containing tires. It directs the commission to include in its 1997 report recommendations relating to adjustment of tire fees and tire processing reimbursement rates.

Under the code, the commission may allocate reimbursement money based on specified factors if the waste tire recycling fund or appropriations from the fund fail to keep pace with processing activity. The act amends these factors to give more preference in the future to processors who have developed actual end-use markets for their shredded tires. It gives carryover credits to processors for waste tires shredded in excess of their allocations and gives first priority to compensation of carryover credits accrued before September 1, 1995. The act eliminates a requirement that the commission assess statewide shredding capacity biennially.
The act modifies tire shredding specifications under the reimbursement program and increases from 25 to 50 percent the percentage of shredded tires that must originate from registered generators such as tire dealers and wholesalers. It reduces from 85 to 80 cents the reimbursement per tire that processors receive for shredding. The commission, however, reserves discretion to set the reimbursement rate for certain illegal scrap tire sites on its priority enforcement list for cleanup. Moreover, the act provides for an additional five cents, effectively restoring the original 85 cents, if the processor meets certain registration and verification deadlines and has a binding agreement to deliver all shredded tires for recycling, reuse, or energy recovery. Beginning January 1, 1996, all reimbursement is suspended for processors who fail to deliver tire shreds to an identified end-use market.

Prior law provided for reimbursement rates of 25 cents for recycling waste tires into useful products or baling whole tires for energy recovery purposes. The act eliminates such reimbursements, which never became operational. For recycling, it substitutes an authorization of grants for recycling facility construction, up to a total of $2 million per fiscal year.

Other newly authorized grants provide funds to cement kilns, pulp and paper mills, utility boilers, cogeneration plants, and other waste tire energy recovery facilities for capital and equipment costs toward retrofits to enable the use of tire shreds or whole tires as fuel. Waste tire energy recovery facilities must register with the commission and must register as storage sites if they accumulate in excess of a 30-day fuel supply. For shreds, the act authorizes up to $2 million in retrofit grants, limited to FY1996 or, if a facility is already retrofitted, reimbursement of 40 cents per tire equivalent, up to $600,000 in any one fiscal year. For whole tires, the act authorizes up to $4 million in FY1996 for retrofit grants and for reimbursements at a rate of 80 cents per tire. A facility may receive either a grant or the per-tire rate, but not both, and its reimbursements at the per-tire rate are capped at its combined retrofit and transport costs. For FY1997 and the last quarter of calendar 1997, the act discontinues all grants but authorizes reimbursement at a rate of 80 cents per whole tire burned for energy recovery or at the aforementioned rate of 40 cents for shreds. A facility may receive no payment for burning out-of-state tires and must both store and burn its tires or shreds in Texas.

The act requires registration fees of waste tire recyclers and waste tire energy recovery facility storage sites. It authorizes the commission, when it initiates an enforcement proceeding for statutory or regulatory violations, to suspend registration of or reimbursements to a waste tire generator, transporter, processor, recycler, or energy recovery facility. Other administrative, civil, or criminal penalties attach to parties who use false documentation to masquerade out-of-state tires as tires generated in Texas. The act requires biennial fiscal audits of each processor, recycler, and energy recovery facility. Persons seeking reimbursements from the waste tire recycling fund are subject to community service requirements relating to the cleanup of sites not on the priority enforcement list. New or expanded operations are subject to additional requirements that they certify end-use markets and assist as requested by the commission in the emergency management of waste tires from generators in the state’s rural counties.

SENATE BILL 792

SENATE AUTHOR: C. Harris
HOUSE SPONSOR: Goodman

SENATE BILL 1016

SENATE AUTHOR: Brown

EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

HOUSE SPONSOR: R. Lewis

Senate Bill 1016 amends provisions of the Water Code to broaden the fiscal and annexation powers of a water control and improvement district. The act authorizes a district to make construction contract payments from taxes and any other income of the district, provided that there is a majority of support from the electorate. The act also revises the conditions on which a water control and improvement district is authorized to annex contiguous land without the approval of the municipality in which the land is located by requiring that the municipality must not have supplied water and sewer service to that area within the preceding 12 months and that the district has not previously issued any bonded indebtedness. The act restricts a district’s annexation authority by stating that a district may not increase its total land area by more than 100 percent in any one calendar year. The act deletes a provision that would have required the district to notify the city of the proposed annexation and set a 120-day waiting period. In addition, the act deletes language that makes the annexation contingent on whether the city has, within that 120-day period, extended its utility service area to the land subject to annexation.

Finally, Senate Bill 1016 establishes that any limitation on a district’s authority to issue bonds that are imposed by a municipality when an original district is divided into two or more districts is void.

SENATE BILL 1017

SENATE AUTHOR: Wentworth, Brown

EFFECTIVE: 6-16-95

HOUSE SPONSOR: R. Lewis

Senate Bill 1017 amends the Water Code to authorize the creation of water quality protection zones in areas within the extraterritorial jurisdiction, but outside the corporate limits, of certain municipalities. The act provides that an owner of a contiguous tract of land in excess of 1,000 acres may designate the tract as a water quality protection zone. An owner of a contiguous tract of land containing less than 1,000 acres, but not less than 500 acres, may also designate the tract as a water quality protection zone, upon prior approval of the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC). The designation of a zone becomes effective upon the recordation of the designation in the deed records of the county in which the land is located. Once an area has been designated a water quality protection zone, the act requires water quality monitoring to establish a baseline level of water quality that must be maintained during all phases of development of the property within the zone.

After monitoring a water quality protection zone, the act requires the development of a water quality plan. The plan must be submitted to the TNRCC, whereupon the agency is required to review and approve the plan within 120 days. The act provides that a public hearing on the plan is not required and authorizes the TNRCC to assess reasonable and necessary fees to recover the administrative costs. The water quality plan becomes effective upon recordation of the plan in the deed records.

Once a water quality plan is adopted, a city may not enforce any of its ordinances, land use ordinances, rules, or requirements, including the abatement of nuisance, pollution control and abatement programs or regulations, water quality ordinances, subdivision requirements, or any environmental regulations within the zone that may limit or impair the water quality plan or land use plan. However, the act provides that a landowner and the municipality may agree in writing to waive the requirements of this act. The TNRCC is authorized to require and enforce additional water quality protection measures to comply with federal water quality requirements, standards, permit provisions, or regulations.
Senate Bill 1017 also provides that a water quality zone may be annexed by a municipality only after the installation and completion of 90 percent of all facilities and infrastructure described in the water quality plan for the entire zone or the expiration of 20 years from the date of designation of the zone, whichever occurs first.

Senate Bill 1125 amends provisions of the Health and Safety Code relating to renewal of preconstruction emissions permits. The act prohibits the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) from imposing requirements more stringent than those of the existing permit unless the TNRCC determines that the requirements are necessary to avoid air pollution or ensure compliance with federal or state air quality standards. The act authorizes the commission to hold a hearing on a permit amendment, modification, or renewal if the commission determines that the application involves a facility for which the applicant’s compliance history contains violations which are unresolved and which constitute a recurring pattern of egregious conduct which demonstrates a consistent disregard for the regulatory process, including the failure to make a timely and substantial attempt to correct the violations.

SENATE BILL 14  SENATE AUTHOR: Bivins, et al.
EFFECTIVE: See below  HOUSE SPONSOR: Combs, et al.

Senate Bill 14 adds a new chapter to the Government Code entitled the Private Real Property Rights Protection Act. The act waives and abolishes sovereign immunity to enable a private property owner to invalidate or collect compensation for certain governmental actions that reduce or limit the owner’s right to property and that reduce the property’s value by at least 25 percent. The act sets forth criteria to be used to determine whether a taking has occurred and outlines the procedures by which an owner may bring suit against a political subdivision or initiate administrative proceedings against a state agency.

These new provisions apply only when a municipality imposes special regulations for part, but not all, of the municipality’s extraterritorial jurisdiction; when a governmental entity imposes a physical invasion or requires dedication of private property; when a governmental entity adopts or issues policies or regulatory measures; or when enforcement of a governmental action is accomplished through the use of permitting, quasi-judicial proceedings, or other similar means. The act exempts certain governmental actions from the application of this chapter.

Effective January 1, 1996, the act requires governmental entities to prepare takings impact assessments and requires a political subdivision or state agency to give public notice of intent before it carries out an action that may result in a taking. All other provisions of Senate Bill 14 are effective September 1, 1995.

EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95  HOUSE SPONSOR: Oliveira

Senate Bill 336 amends the Property Code to impose new disclosure requirements and regulations on a seller who enters an executory contract for the sale of residential real estate located in certain counties. These counties are to be determined annually by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs based on certain criteria, including location and per capita income. Among the disclosure requirements, a seller must notify the buyer of any encumbrances on the title to the property and provide the buyer with a checklist of specific items indicating the condition of the property, including whether the property has water and sewer service or approval for a septic system, and whether the property is part of a recorded subdivision. If Spanish is the primary language used in the transaction, all written disclosure must be made in Spanish. The act provides that a seller’s failure to provide the specified information is a violation of the deceptive trade practices act. Furthermore, the act provides that a buyer may cancel and rescind a contract and receive a full refund of all payments made to the seller if a seller does not comply with the disclosure requirements. In addition, the act requires a seller to disclose financing terms in writing, to record the contract with the county clerk, and to provide the purchaser with an annual statement that includes the amount the buyer has paid and the amount still owed on the property. The act enables a buyer to cancel a contract 14 days after the date of the contract. It also clarifies the remedies available to a seller in the event of a buyer’s default. This act also requires the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs to develop a consumer education program regarding executory contracts for the purchase of residential property.

Senate Bill 1704 exempts certain permits, regulations, and standards from the Government Code’s uniform permitting provisions, including certain municipal zoning regulations, certain health and safety code permits, and the regulation of annexation, colonias, utility connections, and adult-oriented businesses. Previously, under the Tax Code, the use of land for wildlife management could qualify as agricultural use if, on January 1, 1992, the land was appraised or eligible to be appraised as open-space land and was used in at least two of seven specified ways favorable to the propagation of indigenous wild animals. House Bill 1358 amends the code to increase to three the requisite number of wild animal propagation methods used. It eliminates qualification based on the 1992 appraisal of open-space land or its eligibility for such appraisal on that date and instead bases qualification on a requirement of actual open-space appraisal at the time when active use for wildlife management begins. The act also requires the comptroller, with assistance from other state agencies, to provide each appraisal district with guidelines for determining whether land qualifies for wildlife management use.

House Bill 1537 amends the Tax Code to take account of certain tax refunds and appraisal corrections in the calculation of the effective tax rate and rollback tax rates. The revisions improve the comparability of tax rates from successive years by reflecting the appraisal roll values and revenue assumptions a taxing unit used when adopting the preceding year's budget and tax rate. The formulas as amended result in higher effective and rollback tax rates, reducing the likelihood of a revenue shortfall or rollback election. The act also makes a technical correction to the school district tax rollback rate to prevent a district from being penalized by increases in value of certain property in a tax increment reinvestment zone if the district does not reap the benefit of the taxes.

HOUSE BILL 1882
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

Under certain circumstances, individuals at least 65 years of age who claim the elderly homestead exemption may pay their property taxes in installments without penalties or interest. House Bill 1882 extends this payment plan to disabled persons and changes the eligibility requirement so that individuals can participate if they qualify for the school tax homestead exemption for the elderly or disabled, regardless of whether they actually claim it.

HOUSE BILL 1884
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

Under the Tax Code, open-space land used for agricultural purposes can be appraised at less than market value. If the use of the land changes, rollback taxes can be imposed, equal to the difference between the amount of taxes actually imposed during the five years preceding the change and the amount that would have been imposed based on market value, plus interest.

House Bill 1884 allows the use of land to be changed without rollback taxation if the land is smaller than five acres, located in an unincorporated area of a county with a population of less than 100,000, adjacent to a 100-year-old or older cemetery, and owned by a nonprofit cemetery organization that dedicates it for cemetery purposes.

HOUSE BILL 2197
EFFECTIVE: 6-17-95

House Bill 2197 allows persons to pay property taxes in installments without penalty or interest if they own a homestead or other residential property smaller than five living units that has been damaged by a disaster and is located in a disaster area. The installment option, however, applies only to property taxes imposed before the first anniversary of the disaster. Qualification requires that at least one-fourth of the taxes be paid by the delinquency date and be accompanied by a notice of intent. The remainder is due in three equal installments. An installment overpayment is credited toward the next installment, and an underpayment, if allowed by the tax collector, is subject to penalties and interest. If the tax delinquency date is postponed, the tax collector will extend the installment deadlines by the number of months the delinquency date was postponed, but the third installment deadline may not be extended beyond December 31.

HOUSE BILL 2610
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

House Bill 2610 amends the Tax Code to base a school district's rollback tax rate on the sum of a rate of eight cents, its debt rate, and its effective maintenance and operations rate multiplied by an enrollment adjustment. The adjustment is computed by dividing the current year's projected fall enrollment, as defined by the Texas Education Agency, by last year's enrollment, but in no case may take a value of less than 1.0. The act provides for certain other formula modifications among districts that have received distributions from an equalization tax, districts that have been certified by the commissioner of education to have been subject to a reduction in total revenue, and districts where local tax funds have been dedicated to a junior college district. House Bill 2610 prevails over comparable provisions of Senate Bill 1.

Certain other portions of the act relate to appraisal review boards. Under the Tax Code, an appraisal review board larger than three members may sit in panels of at least three members to hear tax protests. The act allows a rehearing of a protest by other board members if the full appraisal review board does not accept the panel’s recommendation. It requires the board to deliver written notice of a protest determination or rehearing to the protesting property owner and to deliver written notice of a good cause hearing to anyone the board wishes to subpoena for a protest case.

HOUSE BILL 2613
EFFECTIVE: 6-9-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Craddick

Under the Tax Code, an incomplete improvement of real property owned by a religious organization and intended as a place of worship can be exempted from property taxation for up to two years while it is under active construction or other physical preparation. House Bill 2613 clarifies the definition of “physical preparation” so that taxing authorities can more accurately determine the beginning and end of the two-year exemption period.

HOUSE BILL 2624
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-96

HOUSE AUTHOR: Craddick
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

House Bill 2624 clarifies Tax Code definitions and language regarding the calculation, assessment, and collection of property taxes on the motor vehicle inventories of motor vehicle dealers. It redefines “motor vehicle” to include towable recreational vehicles but to exclude any vehicle for which the title certificate has been surrendered in exchange for a salvage certificate.

The act modifies the appraisal of medium and heavy trucks, basing appraisals not on market value but on the previous year’s average monthly sales, and requires monthly tax prepayment on such trucks, the same as for most other motor vehicles. Excluded from this form of appraisal and tax prepayment are motor vehicles sold to other dealers, motor vehicles sold as part of fleet transactions, and motor vehicles involved in more than one dealer-financed sale from the same dealer’s inventory during the same year.

In addition to other applicable fines for each day of violation, the act assesses penalties for a dealer’s failure to file with the chief appraiser a motor vehicle inventory declaration or motor vehicle inventory tax statement. The act attaches a tax lien to the dealer’s or owner’s business personal property to secure payment of a penalty. The penalty is $1,000 for a late declaration, or $500 for a late tax statement, for each month or part of a month that the declaration or tax statement is past due. The act provides that the information contained in the declaration or tax statement is confidential and may be disclosed only for appraisal, judicial, or other limited purposes.

The act authorizes a chief appraiser to examine a dealer’s books and records regarding the dealer, the dealer’s vehicle inventory, or the taxation of the inventory.
HOUSE BILL 2860
EFFECTIVE: 6-17-95

House Bill 2860 applies to property within a reinvestment zone, with respect to which a city, a county, and a junior college district have entered into a joint tax abatement agreement. It provides that if the property is located in a school district whose wealth does not exceed the equalized wealth level, the tax abatement agreement must exempt from property taxation an additional 10 percent of the maximum portion of the property value that would otherwise be subject to the agreement.

HOUSE BILL 2940
EFFECTIVE: 1-1-96

House Bill 2940 adds a new section to the Tax Code regarding appraisal and property tax collection for dealer inventories of taxable boats under 65 feet in length and outboard motors. These inventories are to be appraised and taxed not on market value but on the previous year’s average monthly sales. Dealers must prepay the taxes monthly. Excluded from this form of appraisal and tax prepayment are boats and outboard motors sold to other dealers or as part of a fleet transaction and boats and motors involved in more than one dealer-financed sale from the same dealer’s inventory during the same year.

The act assesses misdemeanor fines and penalties for a dealer’s failure to file with the chief appraiser by the applicable deadline a boat and outboard motor inventory declaration or boat and outboard motor inventory tax statement. The act attaches a tax lien to the dealer’s or owner’s business personal property to secure payment of a penalty. The penalty is $1,000 for a late declaration, or $500 for a late tax statement, for each month or part of a month that the declaration or tax statement is past due. The act provides that the information contained in the declaration or tax statement is confidential and may be disclosed only for appraisal, judicial, or other limited purposes.

The act authorizes a chief appraiser to examine a dealer’s books and records regarding the dealer, the dealer’s boat and outboard motor inventory, or the taxation of the inventory.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 31
FOR ELECTION: 11-7-95

House Joint Resolution 31 proposes a constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to exempt from property taxation income-producing tangible personal property and mineral interests having a value of less than the minimum required to recover the costs of tax administration. The enabling legislation for the amendment is House Bill 366.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 35
FOR ELECTION: 11-7-95

House Joint Resolution 35 proposes a constitutional amendment authorizing taxing units to exempt from property taxation boats and other equipment used primarily in the commercial taking or production of marine life. The amendment would allow the legislature to impose additional qualifications or restrictions applicable to the exemption. House Bill 399 is the enabling legislation for the amendment.
HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 64
FOR ELECTION: 11-7-95

The Texas Constitution authorizes a county, city, school district, or other political subdivision to grant an exemption of $3,000 or more on the market value of the residence homestead of a disabled person. These same political subdivisions may also grant a similar exemption on the residence homestead of an elderly person. A person who is both disabled and elderly must choose between the two exemptions if a political subdivision has adopted both.

House Joint Resolution 64 proposes a constitutional amendment affecting the surviving spouse of an individual who received the residence homestead exemption for the elderly the year of his or her death. The amendment would entitle the surviving spouse to the same exemption on the same property and in the same amount if the surviving spouse remains a resident of the homestead, is age 55 or over when the deceased spouse dies, and is not himself or herself a recipient of either the disabled or the elderly residence homestead exemption.

The enabling legislation for House Joint Resolution 64 is House Bill 1127.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 68
FOR ELECTION: 11-7-95

House Joint Resolution 68 proposes a constitutional amendment to increase the maximum allowable dollar amounts of property tax exemptions available to certain disabled veterans or their surviving spouses and minor children. The amendment has no enabling legislation, but provides that the maximum amounts also become the actual exemption amounts, supplanting amounts specified by statute. The legislature, however, may set new exemption amounts by general law.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION 72
FOR ELECTION: 11-7-95

Under the Texas Constitution, open-space land devoted to farm or ranch use is taxed based on its productive capacity. The joint resolution proposes a constitutional amendment allowing similar taxation of open-space land devoted to wildlife management. A temporary constitutional provision would validate Tax Code amendments added by the 72nd Legislature in 1991. The 1991 legislation defined land for agricultural use to include land used for wildlife management, qualifying the latter for taxation based on productive capacity if it was eligible for appraisal as open-space agricultural land on January 1, 1992. The proposed amendment also prevents property owners from claiming a property tax refund based on the validation unless the tax payment was challenged before the validation's effective date.

SENATE BILL 101
EFFECTIVE: 6-17-95

Senate Bill 101 amends the Tax Code to designate a property tax payment as involuntary if the taxpayer indicates on the tax payment or on a document accompanying the payment that the tax is paid under protest.
SENATE BILL 428
EFFECTIVE: See below

SENATE AUTHOR: Galloway
HOUSE SPONSOR: Brady

Under the Tax Code, property owned and used exclusively by a qualified charitable organization is exempt from property taxation if the organization performs at least one of several specified charitable functions. Promoting or operating a theater of the dramatic arts meets the charitable function qualification. Senate Bill 428 clarifies that use of a theater for the performing arts also satisfies the exemption criteria.

A second provision allows land owned by a religious organization and changed from agricultural use to escape rollback taxes if the land is converted within five years to a tax-exempt religious use. This provision takes effect June 12, 1995. The provision relating to performing arts theaters takes effect January 1, 1996.

SENATE BILL 642
EFFECTIVE: See below

SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
HOUSE SPONSOR: Holzheauser

Senate Bill 642 transfers from the comptroller to the secretary of state the responsibility of serving process in property tax suits involving nonresidents. It authorizes, rather than requires, the comptroller to perform property value audits that are requested by the commissioner of education or school districts. The act modifies the deadline for the comptroller’s certification to the Teacher Retirement System of Texas of individual and statewide average school district maintenance and operations tax rates.

The act authorizes a court to excuse a party from prepayment of property taxes as a prerequisite to appeal if the party files an oath of inability to pay the taxes at issue and the court finds that prepayment would constitute an unreasonable restraint on judicial access. It decreases from 10 to 5 years the period allowed for back-assessment of erroneously allowed special appraisals for timber, public access airport property, and recreational, park, and scenic land. The act validates a homestead exemption adopted for the 1995 tax year by a commissioners court in a county with a population of more than 225,000.

The validation takes effect June 14, 1995. The remainder of the act takes effect January 1, 1996, at which time the validation provisions expire.

SENATE BILL 783
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

SENATE AUTHOR: Ratliff
HOUSE SPONSOR: Kuempel

Senate Bill 783 entitles a person who leases real or tangible personal property, and who is contractually obligated to reimburse the property owner for property taxes, to protest appraisal review board determinations if the owner does not. Entitlement in the case of real property, however, is limited to a single protest by either the lessee or the owner. A lessee may also appeal an appraisal review board order and, in making a protest or appeal, is considered the property owner for purposes of that action. The appraisal review board must deliver notice regarding a protest or protest determination to both the lessee and the property owner, and the chief appraiser must do likewise for a notice relating to an appeal.

SENATE BILL 1092

SENATE AUTHOR: Cain

SENATE BILL 1387
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Wentworth
HOUSE SPONSOR: Horn

Under the Tax Code, a property owner may authorize another person to pay his or her property taxes. The person paying the taxes, the transferee, receives from the taxing unit a payment receipt and the tax lien on that property. The transferee is entitled to the same remedies as the taxing unit, including the authority to charge penalties and interest and to foreclose the lien in a manner provided by law. Senate Bill 1387 provides additional procedures for the transfer and foreclosure of tax liens. It also increases the maximum interest rate that lien holders may charge on taxes and penalties and the maximum amount a person may pay to redeem property.

SENATE BILL 1545
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95
SENATE AUTHOR: Henderson
HOUSE SPONSOR: Dutton

Under the Tax Code, taxing units may obtain a warrant to seize personal property for payment of delinquent property taxes. For real property, prior law required a suit for lien foreclosure to collect delinquent taxes. Senate Bill 1545 authorizes a city to obtain a warrant to seize real property for payment of both delinquent taxes and amounts secured by municipal health and safety liens if the property is within the municipality’s jurisdiction, is smaller than one acre, and has been vacant or abandoned for at least one year. For property to be subject to seizure, taxes must have been delinquent for each of the preceding five years, or each of the preceding three years if the property is also subject to a municipal health and safety lien. The act requires the city’s tax collector to notify persons having an interest in the seized property, other than the delinquent taxpayer, of the time and place of the subsequent tax sale. If the sale does not generate a sufficient bid, the property may be sold for less than the warrant amount to a charitable organization intending to improve the property for low-income housing. A person who purchases the property at or after the tax sale takes the property free of any claims, subject to the delinquent taxpayer’s right of redemption and right to bring suit to set aside the tax sale under provisions of the act amending the Civil Practice and Remedies Code.

The act also amends the Health and Safety Code and Local Government Code to authorize certain governmental entities to foreclose liens on such vacant property.

HOUSE SPONSOR: Coleman

Senate Bill 1658 amends the Tax Code and Education Code to allow a taxpayer to donate certain property to certain institutions of higher education in exchange for a credit against the taxpayer’s payments of sales and use and franchise taxes.

The credit is equal to 50 percent of the property’s market value and could be taken in equal increments of up to 5 percent annually over a period of 20 years beginning on the credit issuance date. The institution must petition the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board for the tax credit after demonstrating that funds raised through revenue bonds would be insufficient to acquire the property. It must show that the property is included in the school’s most recent campus facilities plan and provide the property’s market value as determined by an experienced real estate appraiser. The institution must also demonstrate that the property is offered for sale on the open market. The coordinating board must promptly rule on the petition after requesting and considering information from the comptroller regarding the validity of the property’s appraised value and the taxpayer’s eligibility and current tax status.

SENATE BILL 1262
SENATE AUTHOR: Montford
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95
HOUSE SPONSOR: Junell

Current law provides that unused or underused state-owned land may be sold, following a General Land Office (GLO) evaluation and recommendation process, in one of two ways. Either the legislature may authorize the sale or the governor may propose that the GLO's asset management division handle the sale with the approval of the Legislative Budget Board (LBB).

Senate Bill 1262 alters the procedure by which a state agency may sell its unused or underused property in accordance with the recommendation of the GLO. The act authorizes the GLO commissioner to conduct the sale unless the GLO's recommendation is rejected by the governor within 90 days of receiving the recommendation. It provides that a state agency may not develop or dispose of the property until (1) the governor rejects the GLO's recommendation or (2) two years have elapsed from the date the recommended transaction is approved by operation of law, whichever occurs first. A state agency that intends to develop or dispose of the property before this time must submit a general development plan to the governor at least 30 days before the date the transaction would normally be approved by operation of law. Finally, Senate Bill 1262 requires the GLO's asset management division to provide the governor and LBB with a list of all known unused and underused state-owned properties, complete with recommendations for disposal of these properties, not later than November 1, 1995.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES

HOUSE BILL 175
EFFECTIVE: 6-15-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Hirschi, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

This act amends the whistleblower statute in the Government Code relating to legal protection of governmental employees who report violations of law by fellow employees or an employing governmental entity. The act eliminates the right to sue for exemplary damages but extends the scope of the statute beyond discrimination or suspension or termination of employment to cover a broader range of adverse personnel actions.

For whistleblowers, the act waives sovereign immunity and allows a public employee to sue the employing state or local government for relief without additional authorization. It amends venue provisions to allow public employees to bring suit in the district court of the county where the cause of action arises. For local government employees, venue extends also to the district court of any other county sharing the same regional planning commission or council of government. For state employees, the act eliminates venue in the county of residence but retains venue in Travis County district court.

The act increases civil penalties imposed for a violation of the whistleblower statute by supervising employees from $1,000 to $15,000 and requires the supervisor rather than the employing entity to pay such penalties.

The act sets varying limits on compensatory damages, ranging from $50,000 to $250,000 according to the governmental entity’s number of employees. It authorizes reinstatement of a suspended or terminated employee to an equivalent position as an alternative to the employee’s original position.

The act requires the attorney general following a judgment or settlement of at least $10,000 to brief the state auditor’s office on the suit. The state auditor may audit or investigate the governmental entity to determine any necessary corrective changes. Recommendations for such changes must go to the Legislative Audit Committee, the Legislative Budget Board, and the governmental entity.

HOUSE BILL 736
EFFECTIVE: 5-8-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: Craddick
SENATE SPONSOR: Montford

House Bill 736 provides a means for an elected or appointed officer to decline remuneration associated with a state government office by filing a form with the secretary of state. The officer may forego all remuneration or only particular types of remuneration such as salary, per diem, expense reimbursement, longevity pay, or fees. The legislation applies to individuals who have been elected but have not yet taken office and to those who have been nominated or appointed but not confirmed. An individual who declines remuneration before taking office or being confirmed may not later revoke the action during the term of office to which he or she has been elected or appointed. An individual who declines remuneration after taking office or being confirmed may, in contrast, revoke the action at any time. Declination of remuneration does not affect whether a position is a lucrative office or office of emolument for constitutional purposes.
HOUSE BILL 1527
EFFECTIVE: 4-20-95

The Government Code provided previously for a speaker’s day ceremony to honor former speakers of the Texas House of Representatives. The code authorized associated fund-raising and expenditures and required the reporting of contributors and contributions. This act renames speaker’s day as speaker’s reunion day, shifts its focus from the honoring of former speakers to the honoring of former house members, and limits a contributor’s aggregate contribution to a value of no more than $100.

HOUSE BILL 1924
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

To enable uniformity in computing intercity mileages for state-government travel reimbursement purposes, the comptroller of public accounts provides for the printing of an annual mileage guide for use by state agencies. This act amends the Government Code to require a mileage guide available in electronic as well as printed form and to direct the comptroller to encourage use of the electronic guide and prescribe the circumstances under which state agencies may rely on the printed guide. The act eliminates the requirement of annual issuance and provides instead for update as necessary.

HOUSE BILL 2032
EFFECTIVE: 6-1-95

House Bill 2032 amends Government Code provisions relating to the state’s optional retirement for higher education employees program to apply certain compensation limitations under the federal Internal Revenue Code to program participants who join in FY1997 or later. For participants who join earlier, federal grandfathering provisions apply, unless their state retirement contribution or their compensation in excess of the limitation amount is derived from general revenue funds or from higher education tuition or fees.

Amendments to the Education Code authorize certain medical and dental units within the higher education system to offer retirement incentives to eligible employees. Authorization extends to affiliated health care facilities, except for the M. D. Anderson Cancer Center, and includes schools of veterinary medicine. Retirement plans must be filed with the Legislative Budget Board and funded by medical fees or institutional funds. A unit may not, without approval of its president, rehire employees who receive the incentive.

The act also authorizes such units to acquire goods and services through methods that provide the best value, including competitive bidding, competitive sealed proposals, catalogue purchases, group purchasing programs, and open market contracts. In determining best value the unit may consider the price, quality, and other aspects of the goods, services, and vendor. These purchasing provisions expire September 1, 1999. The state auditor may audit purchases using best value methods and report to the 76th Legislature on the purchasing operations of participating medical and dental units.

HOUSE BILL 2508
EFFECTIVE: 8-28-95

House Bill 2508 amends the Government Code to authorize a governmental body to hold an open or closed meeting by telephone conference call if either of two conditions are met. A meeting by conference call is permissible if the meeting is held by an advisory board or if an emergency or public necessity exists and quorum assemblage at one site is difficult or impossible. The act makes such meetings subject to normal notice requirements, directs that the notice specify the location of the meeting, and requires that open portions of the conference call be tape-recorded and be audible to the public at the site identified in the notice. Each speaker during the conference call must clearly be identified before speaking, and two-way communication must be provided for the duration of the meeting at the site identified in the notice.

SENATE BILL 102
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

In 1977, in lieu of a pay raise, the Texas Legislature amended state law to require the state to pay not only the employer’s matching social security contribution for state employees, but also a portion of the employee’s contribution. Additionally, under related law, the legislature provided for state assumption of a portion of the social security contribution required of certain state-paid judges.

Senate Bill 102 amends the Government Code to eliminate this practice and to provide instead that state employees and state-paid judges assume the entirety of their required social security contribution, excluding the state match. The act cancels any contrary appropriations in the General Appropriations Act for continued state payment of those contributions. The elimination of the social security payment and the associated cancellation of appropriations take effect December 1, 1995, and apply to monthly benefits for calendar year 1996 and the first eight months of calendar year 1997. The social security payment thus continues through the end of calendar year 1995.

Compensating for the elimination of the social security payment, the act provides for equivalent benefit replacement pay. Such pay applies to persons employed by the state or in judicial office on August 31, 1995, and eligible at that time for the social security payment and to certain other persons not working on that date but seasonally employed, using unpaid leave, contractually scheduled to resume work, or fitting other specified special circumstances. Generally, persons not employed and judges not in office on August 31, 1995, are ineligible for benefit replacement pay and are ineligible for the social security payment for the remainder of 1995 prior to the termination of such payments.

The act is made contingent on appropriations for benefit replacement pay. House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Act, satisfies this condition. The act takes effect September 1, 1995, except for the provisions effective December 1, 1995, as described above.

SENATE BILL 646
EFFECTIVE: See below

Under the Government Code, veterans and their surviving spouses or orphans qualify for preferential hiring by public entities. This act expands the entitlement to include preferential job retention for entities that undergo workforce reductions. The act deletes references to specific wars and conflicts and links the veterans’ preference instead to military service of 90 days or more during a declared national emergency or to military discharge for a service-connected disability. Conscientious objection at the time of discharge no longer disqualifies a veteran, nor does receipt of or eligibility for military retirement pay. For surviving spouses and orphans, eligibility is linked to veterans who are killed on active duty and who meet the 90-day service requirement.
The act requires the Texas Employment Commission to adopt rules to facilitate the exchange of employment information between public entities and individuals entitled to the preference. Each entity must provide the commission with information regarding open positions that are subject to the hiring preference. The entity also must report quarterly to the comptroller the percentages of its total workforce and of new hires who are entitled to the preference. The comptroller must file with the legislature an annual report that compiles and analyzes this information.

The commission requirements to provide and exchange employment information take effect January 31, 1996. The remainder of the act takes effect September 1, 1995.

SENATE BILL 9
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

Senate Bill 9 is the Teacher Retirement System of Texas sunset review act. The act moves the system's administrative budget into the appropriations process, specifying that an appropriation from the general revenue fund shall be used to pay the operating expenses of the retirement system for each fiscal year. It sets new eligibility requirements for members of the board of trustees and sets the terms of some current board members to expire on August 31, 1995; it also changes the appointment of two members of the board from the State Board of Education to the governor, from nominees submitted by the state board, and allows the governor to designate the presiding officer of the board, who serves at the pleasure of the governor.

Employees of the retirement system are prohibited from advocating increased benefits and from engaging in activities to influence legislative action or inaction. Such activities would be grounds for dismissal. Additionally, assets of the system may not be used to influence an election or the passage or defeat of any legislative measure. The system is required to verify with the State Pension Review Board the accuracy of information about the effects of proposed legislation on benefits and the trust fund before including the information in any system publication.

The legislative audit committee is required to select an independent firm to evaluate the retirement system's investment practices and performance. The system is to pay the costs of the evaluation and to submit annual investment performance reports to the governor, legislature, State Pension Review Board, and the Legislative Budget Board. The report is required to include a listing of all commissions and fees paid by the system for the sale, purchase, or management of system assets.

The system is required to comply with space use requirements provided by state law and to lease all significant unused space in the home office of the retirement system.

The act provides the largest increase in benefits for current retirees in retirement system history. The increase is generally from 2 percent to 17 percent depending on year of retirement but is greater for persons who retired under old benefit formulas. The act also allows retirees who have selected a standard annuity and later married to change their annuity to include their spouses. The next sunset review is set for 2007.

STATE TAXES AND TAX ADMINISTRATION

HOUSE BILL 398
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

High-cost gas, as defined by federal law, is exempt from severance taxes during the 10-year period ending August 31, 2001, if produced from a well that is spudded between May 24, 1989, and September 1, 1996. House Bill 398 amends the Tax Code to provide a severance tax reduction for federally defined high-cost gas produced from a well spudded or completed between September 1, 1996, and August 31, 2002. The reduction applies for 120 consecutive calendar months or until the cumulative value of the reduction equals 50 percent of incurred drilling and completion costs, whichever occurs first. The reduced tax rate is determined by multiplying the normal severance tax rate by a ratio that compares drilling and completion costs for the individual well with the statewide median for such costs from federally defined high-cost wells during the preceding state fiscal year. The comptroller is responsible for calculating this median, and the Railroad Commission of Texas is responsible for filing informational reports with the Legislative Budget Board to assist in assessing the impact of the existing high-cost gas tax exemption and the new high-cost gas tax reduction.

The operator of the well must apply to the commission for certification of such a well, and the taxpayer must apply to the comptroller for the tax reduction. Taxes must be paid at the normal rate on gas produced from wells spudded or completed during the first year of the reduction period, but will be refunded after September 1, 1997. This procedure postpones to future fiscal biennia any resultant revenue losses from the act.

HOUSE AUTHOR: Denny, et al.
SENATE SPONSOR: Brown

For any one fiscal year, a municipality under 5,000 in population may retain from traffic fine revenues an amount equal to 30 percent of its audited revenue from all sources for the preceding fiscal year, excluding federal funds and bond proceeds. Above that percentage limit, portions of fines in excess of one dollar must be remitted to the state. House Bill 839 requires that special expenses, which may be imposed to pay court fees when violations are dismissed following driving safety courses, be included in the amount that is subject to the 30 percent limitation.

If its revenue from traffic violations during a fiscal year equals 20 percent or more of its revenue from all sources for the preceding year, a municipality of such size must forward to the comptroller a copy of its annual financial statement and a report on its traffic violation revenue collections. A city failing to do so as required must pay the costs of any enforcement audit conducted by the comptroller.

HOUSE BILL 958
EFFECTIVE: 6-15-95

HOUSE AUTHOR: B. Turner
SENATE SPONSOR: Wentworth

The Tax Code previously authorized a county with a population of 17,500 or less to impose a hotel occupancy tax if the county had a class 1 or class 2 horse racing track. A racetrack license revocation, or a license suspension exceeding one year, removed the tax authorization. House Bill 958 keeps the county population bracket, eliminates the racetrack requirement, and applies the tax authorization instead to a county containing no more than one municipality smaller than 2,500 and bordering two counties located wholly within the Edwards Aquifer Authority. The act repeals the provision tying loss of tax authorization to racetrack license revocation or suspension.

Additionally, the act authorizes a county hotel occupancy tax in three new types of counties: a county having an area of less than 275 square miles with a population of less than 10,000, a county bordering Possum Kingdom Lake with a population of 30,000 or less, and a county bordering Mexico with a population of more than 250,000 but less than 500,000. The act provides, however, that the county tax for the last two categories of counties does not apply to a hotel located in a city that imposes a municipal hotel occupancy tax. For a county fitting the third category, it authorizes use of resultant revenue for the bond debt service, construction, maintenance, or operation of a special events facility with a seating capacity of at least 8,000.
HOUSE BILL 1583

House Bill 1583 amends the code to base the lawn mowing and yard maintenance sales tax exemption for minors on the same dollar amount and time period. The act creates a new sales tax exemption for self-employed individuals who perform such services, likewise based on the $5,000 limitation and the four most recent calendar quarters.

HOUSE BILL 1611

HOUSE BILL 2129
EFFECTIVE: 9-1-95

The Tax Code provides an exemption from hotel occupancy taxes for federal and state employees, other than employees of institutions of higher education, when traveling on official business. House Bill 2129 requires federal entities to pay for employee hotel expenses directly in order to qualify for the tax exemption. For state employees qualifying for the general rate of travel reimbursement, it establishes procedures whereby the employee pays the tax and the employing agency applies to the comptroller, city, and county for refunds of the state, municipal, and county portions of the tax. For state employees to whom special rates of reimbursement apply, payment of the tax is not required if they are supplied photo identification verifying their identity and tax-exempt status.

The act also changes the population bracket defining cities authorized to charge a nine-cent municipal hotel occupancy tax. The redefinition authorizes a nine-cent rate in cities of more than 440,000 population, located in a county of at least 1,000,000 population, and having a capital improvement plan for the expansion of an existing convention center facility.

Other provisions affect a home-rule municipality bordering the Gulf of Mexico, containing a population of less than 80,000, and having a park board of trustees to administer public beaches. The act diverts two cents from the state portion of the hotel occupancy tax collected in the city and awards it to the city for the cleanup and maintenance of its beaches. Additional provisions clarify how that diversion affects other laws relating to the funding of the city’s beach operations.

SENATE BILL 345
EFFECTIVE: See below

SENATE AUTHOR: Brown, J. Patterson
HOUSE SPONSOR: Uher

Senate Bill 345 adopts a new subchapter of the Tax Code, the County Development District Act, authorizing the establishment of county development districts in counties with populations not exceeding 400,000. A county commissioners court may create a district on petition by landowners, subject to a confirmation election and voter approval of sales and use taxes. A district has powers relating to the attraction of visitors and promotion of tourism as well as powers of a municipal management district. It may issue bonds and, if located outside incorporated areas, is vested with the power of eminent domain. The maximum sales and use tax rate for the district is one-half of one percent.

Other provisions of Senate Bill 345 amend the Tax Code to provide for a sales and use and franchise tax refund to persons who paid school district property taxes on certain property within a reinvestment zone. To be eligible for the refund, the property must be subject to a municipal or county property tax abatement but not a school district abatement, and the person must have established or expanded a business within the reinvestment zone or modernized a business to retain jobs. The business’s Texas payroll must have increased by $3 million since the abatement began, or the abated property’s appraised value must have increased by at least $4 million since an initial comparison year beginning on or after January 1, 1996. Persons making nontax payments to a municipality or county during the abatement period are ineligible for the refund, excluding payments not exceeding an annual aggregate of $5,000 and certain payments for municipal or county services. The refund may not exceed the person’s net state sales and use and franchise tax payments for the eligible year and may only be provided for the lesser of five years or the duration of the tax abatement agreement. It is equal to the property’s school taxes that would not have been required to be paid if the school district had abated the property under terms identical to those of the municipality and county. However, if the total amount of eligible refunds claimed by all persons exceeds $10 million, each refund is reduced proportionately.

The legislation adds new content requirements for municipal tax abatement agreements, requires all taxing units to file copies of each agreement with the comptroller and Texas Department of Commerce, and directs the comptroller beginning in 1999 to submit an annual report to the legislature documenting refund amounts and incorporating other specified information, including a demonstration of the relationship between the refunds and the economy. It extends the expiration date of the Property Redevelopment and Tax Abatement Act to September 1, 2001. That extension of the act takes effect August 31, 1995. The remainder of Senate Bill 345 takes effect September 1, 1995.

Senate Bill 401 extends such liability to include anyone who controls or supervises the collection of a tax from another person or who controls or supervises the accounting for and paying of the tax and who wilfully fails to pay it or causes it not to be paid. The dissolution of a corporation, partnership, or other entity does not affect the responsible person's liability.

The act also adds a new Tax Code section, authorizing a penalty of five percent of taxes due on persons who are required to pay taxes by means of electronic transfer but instead pay by some other means. This penalty is in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

The act also provides a sales tax exemption on the first $50,000 of the purchase price of certain machinery used in timber operations, excluding purchases through short-term rental agreements and purchases of certain repair parts and tools and excluding services performed on more expensive machinery. It amends provisions relating to the recovery and refund of delinquent sales taxes and interest, clarifies the definition of certain property and taxable services, and requires the comptroller on request to supply a municipality of less than 50,000 population with information on municipal sales and use taxes from certain businesses that are sizable sales tax collectors.

For holders of diesel prepaid user permits, it authorizes nonrefundable credits equal to the difference between the permit price and the taxes that would apply to the amount of diesel fuel delivered for motor vehicle use.
Other Tax Code amendments authorize the summary suspension of an operating permit for cigarette, cigar, and tobacco product distributors and modify provisions relating to the administration and enforcement of the controlled substance tax. The act also amends code provisions relating to fees for the use and storage of lead acid batteries and certain municipal sales and use taxes.

The act provides that a person who acts as a motor transportation broker is required to provide a bond to the Texas Department of Transportation, establishes related requirements for operating as a broker, and creates an offense for failure to provide a bond.

Regulation of tow trucks by municipalities is limited to trucks that perform non-consent tows, to businesses with local offices, and as provided by federal law. Regulation of vehicle storage facilities is transferred from the Railroad Commission of Texas to the Texas Department of Transportation.

Under previous law, a county was required to submit an annual report to the Texas Department of Transportation on the expenditures of the additional motor vehicle registration fee that counties are allowed to retain. No penalty for noncompliance was provided. Senate Bill 437 deletes the reporting requirement and amends the County Road and Bridge Act to require a county to file an annual report with the comptroller on the total expenditures for county road and bridge construction, maintenance, rehabilitation, right-of-way acquisition, and utility construction and other road expenditures in the preceding year that are required by the construction or other law to be spent on public roads. The act prohibits the distribution of money from the county and road district highway fund until the required report has been filed.

Under the act, persons that perform motor vehicle warranty repair work are required to be licensed. Fees for licenses for manufacturers, distributors, representatives, converters, and franchised dealers are increased.

The act prohibits a manufacturer, distributor, or representative from directly or indirectly attempting to force a dealer to discontinue a line-make, parts, or products unless written notice is given and certain conditions are met. It is unlawful for a manufacturer or distributor to operate as a dealer except on a temporary basis under certain conditions. The act allows the commission to determine a protest by a dealer of a manufacturer’s refusal to allow a dealer to add or expand a line-make or parts.

CHAPTER 4
GOVERNOR'S VETO PROCLAMATIONS
PROCLAMATION

BY THE

Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

House Bill 1, the General Appropriations Bill, has reached my desk for action, having been duly certified by the Comptroller of Public Accounts pursuant to Article III, Section 49a of the Texas Constitution. The bill appropriates an estimated $79.9 billion from all fund sources and $45.1 billion from general revenue-related funds for the fiscal biennium beginning September 1, 1995.

The accomplishments of the Seventy-fourth Legislature, Regular Session, are of historical significance, and one of its notable achievements is the approval of a fiscally sound and responsible state budget. The members of the Legislature are to be commended for their diligence and the quality of their decisions.

From the outset, my budget priorities were clear and uncomplicated. My evaluation of the bill has been based upon those priorities, and I make note of the following:

- House Bill 1 requires no new taxes and eliminates the reliance on spending deferrals to balance the budget;
- House Bill 1 represents the lowest rate of growth from one biennium to the next in half a century by limiting the increase to only 6.2 percent;
- House Bill 1 allocates the lion's share of new spending to public schools, finances the costs of the new education code, and fully funds the projected state cost of the school finance system;
- House Bill 1 provides the financial resources necessary to reform our juvenile justice system;
- House Bill 1 provides authority to the Governor and the Legislative Budget Board to manage key areas of the budget during the interim;
- House Bill 1 maintains the focus of state agencies on achieving results by setting specific performance targets and tying agency budgets to agency accomplishments; and
- House Bill 1 was adopted by unanimous vote in both the House and the Senate.

Texas is a conservative state, with a conservative philosophy, and the Seventy-fourth Legislature has adopted a conservative budget which is consistent with my priorities. Accordingly, I apply my veto authority very sparingly.

My item vetoes, totaling approximately $14 million, would eliminate funding included for proposed legislation which did not pass and for legislation which I have also vetoed. I hereby veto the following items from House Bill 1, Seventy-fourth Legislature, Regular Session, 1995, and am including a statement of my objections to each of those items:
ARTICLE I - GENERAL GOVERNMENT

Office of the Attorney General  Page I-15

26. Contingency Rider for House Bill 1589. Contingent upon the enactment of House Bill 1589, Seventy-fourth Legislature, Regular Session, or similar legislation relating to the provision of workers' compensation benefits for certain state employees and to the creation of a State Office of Risk Management, and for the purpose of implementing the provisions of that Act:

a. the Comptroller of Public Accounts shall transfer the general revenue appropriation to the Office of the Attorney General in Strategy item E.1.b. Workers' Compensation, in the amount of $5,063,131 for fiscal year 1996 and $5,055,764 for fiscal year 1997, to the State Office of Risk Management within the Workers' Compensation Commission; and

b. the Comptroller of Public Accounts shall reduce the general revenue appropriation for the 1996-1997 biennium to the Office of the Attorney General by an amount which is equal to the amount by which the Attorney General Debt Collection Receipts for the 1994-1995 biennium exceed the Attorney General Debt Collection Receipts for the 1996-1997 biennium.

This veto action deletes a rider that was contingent upon proposed legislation which did not pass.

Office of the Attorney General Workers' Compensation Payments  Page I-17

4. Contingency Rider for House Bill 1589. Contingent upon the enactment of House Bill 1589, Seventy-fourth Legislature, Regular Session, or similar legislation relating to the provision of workers' compensation benefits for certain state employees and to the creation of a State Office of Risk Management, and for the purposes of implementing the provisions of that Act:

a. The Comptroller of Public Accounts shall reduce the fiscal year 1996 general revenue appropriation to Workers' Compensation Payments by $2,300,000; and

b. all references in the above riders to the Office of the Attorney General or the Attorney General's Office shall mean the State Office of Risk Management within the Workers' Compensation Commission.

This veto action deletes a rider that was contingent upon proposed legislation which did not pass.

Office of the Governor  Page I-55

15. Oil Overcharge Settlement Funds.

a. Unexpended balances from contracts executed in the 1994-95 biennium are reappropriated for the 1996-97 biennium for the purpose of completing existing projects under contract.

b. It is the intent of the Legislature that the LoanStar Program continue at the current level of financial commitment.

c. Any new receipts of oil overcharge funds to the State of Texas or any oil overcharge funds available for reallocation by the Governor shall be used to fund eligible programs with priority given to the LoanStar Program, property-poor school districts and low-income persons.
d. Any unexpended balances in oil overcharge funds as of August 31, 1995, for the Alternative Energy Program, Sustainable Energy Development Council, and the City of Dallas Alternative Fuels Taxi Program are hereby appropriated for the biennium beginning September 1, 1995 to the General Land Office for the completion of these projects and for the purpose of implementing the plan of the Sustainable Energy Development Council.

This rider would automatically continue funding for some contracts which will expire and would reassign responsibility for some projects without affording an opportunity for further review. The Governor, with the concurrence of the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House, has the authority to contract out these funds. This veto action will allow time to examine any issues with existing contracts and will allow decisions regarding the continuation of these contracts to be based upon the results of that examination.

Treasury Department  Page I-88

9. Contingency Appropriation for House Bill 2460. Contingent upon the enactment of House Bill 2460, or similar legislation relating to the possession, purchase, sale, distribution, and receipt of cigarette and tobacco products, by the Seventy-fourth Legislature, Regular Session, the Treasury Department is hereby appropriated an amount not to exceed $245,000 for fiscal year 1996 and $85,000 for fiscal year 1997 out of additional revenues collected pursuant to House Bill 2460 for the purpose of implementing that Act. The Treasury Department is hereby authorized to transfer the appropriation made pursuant to this provision to the appropriate strategy items listed above. Funds appropriated by this provision may be expended for capital budget purposes notwithstanding limitations on capital budget expenditures elsewhere in this Act.

House Bill 2460 was vetoed by the Governor; consequently, this veto action eliminates funding proposed for the implementation of that bill.

ARTICLE II - HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse  Page II-11

24. Contingency Appropriation for House Bill 2460. Contingent upon the enactment of House Bill 2460, or similar legislation relating to the possession, purchase, sale, distribution, and receipt of cigarettes and tobacco products, by the 74th Legislature, Regular Session, the Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse is hereby appropriated $904,920 for fiscal year 1996 and $663,720 for fiscal year 1997 out of additional revenues collected pursuant to House Bill 2460 for the purpose of implementing that Act. The Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse is hereby authorized to transfer the appropriation made pursuant to this provision to the appropriate strategy items listed above.

House Bill 2460 was vetoed by the Governor; consequently, this veto action eliminates funding proposed for the implementation of that bill.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 943 because of the following objections:

House Bill 943 is unnecessary as the governor currently has the power to direct the comptroller to conduct an audit in relation to public funds. In addition, the metropolitan authorities themselves may contract with the comptroller for auditing services under existing law.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 1013 because of the following objections:

House Bill 1013 would impose another layer of bureaucracy upon the Texas Agricultural Finance Authority and the Texas Department of Commerce by requiring them to present their bond programs to the Texas Public Finance Authority who would then make presentations to the Bond Review Board. Currently, both agencies present their bond programs directly to the Bond Review Board. This legislation is unnecessary and will result in additional costs and delays to the citizens of Texas.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 15th day of June, 1995.

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 1649 because of the following objections:

House Bill 1649 promotes inefficiency by imposing requirements on a child care management system that is currently being redesigned.

Additionally, House Bill 1649 does not acknowledge that all child care functions currently administered by the Department of Human Services will be transferred to the Texas Workforce Commission in the coming biennium. This program transfer will consolidate resources to promote efficiencies in the child care management system over and above the level of efficiency that is likely to be recovered under House Bill 1649.

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 2062 because of the following objections:

House Bill 2062 is unnecessary given that another bill having the same objective was recently signed into law.

House Bill 3157 creates a recall mechanism for appointed boards, thereby ensuring the responsiveness of a transit board to its citizens. Signing House Bill 2062 into law would be premature without first giving existing transit boards the opportunity to operate under the requirements of House Bill 3157.

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 2257 because of the following objections:

House Bill 2257 will unduly restrain the Texas Department of Insurance (TDI) from fulfilling its responsibility to regulate insurance companies and protect Texas consumers.

This Bill would preempt TDI's use of any information obtained in a company's response to a regulatory inquiry, and would prevent the introduction of such response as evidence in an administrative hearing. The Commissioner of Insurance has already directed TDI to exercise greater restraint in the issuance of requests and in the use of the information gathered. If this Bill became law, it would hamper TDI's enforcement powers and increase the costs of applying them.

House Bill 2331 creates a Class C misdemeanor when a person intentionally or knowingly prevents the execution of any service of process. However, House Bill 2331 contains an exception from a misdemeanor offense when the individual evades service of process by “avoiding detection.” The exception is vague and overbroad and effectively bars prosecution under this Bill.

PROCLAMATION
BY THE
Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article 4, Section 14 of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 2732 because of the following objections:

House Bill 2732 represents excessive government intervention in private industry.

This bill, which includes the “Liquor Industry Fair Dealing Act,” imposes upon liquor suppliers a binding statutory relationship with a single liquor wholesaler for the exclusive regional distribution of the supplier’s liquor brands in Texas. By its own provision, the bill would apply retroactively to May 1, 1995, compelling a liquor supplier to use the wholesaler with whom the supplier then had a contractual relationship. The bill further provides that a liquor supplier may only change wholesalers upon application to, and approval of, the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission (TABC).

The process for application review in House Bill 2732 is overly restrictive and ambiguous on its face. Additionally, this bill unreasonably impairs the ability of suppliers and wholesalers to freely contract with each other by limiting with whom the suppliers may contract and their ability to change wholesalers. While suppliers and wholesalers voluntarily may choose to use exclusive territorial arrangements, this bill mandates their use. Without compelling evidence that the current distribution system is harmful to Texas consumers, government intervention of this magnitude is unjustified and represents bad public policy.

House Bills 2732 also contains two provisions that appear to be unconstitutional. First, the proposed legislation affords a liquor wholesaler the right to appeal an adverse decision by the TABC on a supplier’s application to change wholesalers, but fails to grant suppliers a similar remedy. The proposed bill also retroactively limits a supplier’s vested rights in an existing contract by requiring the supplier to use the wholesaler who was under contract as of May 1, 1995. Thus, the retroactive imposition of previously existing contractual relationships may have the practical effect of granting the affected wholesalers a virtually perpetual franchise, dissolvable only upon the occurrence of an extraordinary circumstance.

The Secretary of State will take notice of this action and will notify the members of the Legislature.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 27th day of May, 1995.

BY THE
Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 2766 because of the following objections:

The market for health care is undergoing rapid and revolutionary change. This Bill attempted the difficult task of balancing the often conflicting interests of the parties in the health care delivery system while attempting to preserve consumer affordability. Had that focus remained sharp, good law would have resulted. Unfortunately, the final Bill imposes numerous new regulations on managed care organizations, adds potentially significant costs to state and local governments and private employers, and contains exemptions which may give a competitive advantage to some managed care organizations. The result was too little protection for patients and much too much protection for special interests combined with too little competition and too much cost.

The most blatant example of tilting the playing field for a special interest is that at least one managed care entity is totally excluded from the Bill’s provisions, while others must comply. The Bill also requires a specialty hospital (of which there is one in Texas) to be a provider for every HMO plan in the state. While well-intended, these provisions increase costs for all Texans, including those who might not need or choose such services.

The provisions that would have expanded patient freedom of choice (perhaps the Bill’s best feature) are unfortunately written so broadly that the Federal Health Care Financing Administration has indicated the Bill may violate federal requirements. Other provisions of the Bill may also contravene the Federal HMO Act.

Nevertheless, the Bill addressed a number of legitimate concerns, particularly in the area of patient protection and quality assurance. Therefore, I will direct the Commissioners of Insurance and Health to promulgate the following rules: (1) require disclosure of information concerning plan terms and conditions to allow enrollees and employers to make informed decisions when selecting among managed care plans; (2) allow evaluation of managed care plans to ensure consumers are receiving quality care at an affordable price; (3) where possible, expand HMO patient choice to allow for continuity of treatment should a patient’s treating physician be terminated; (4) implement reasonable due process procedures to ensure providers are given reasons if they are turned down or terminated from a managed care plan; and (5) prohibit retaliatory actions by HMOs against patients for filing complaints or appealing decisions.

House Bill 2856 seeks to create the Texas Food Security Council to purportedly address hunger in Texas. It is not in the State's best interest to create another bureaucratic entity that will solicit public and private grants when a private organization could be more effective in dealing with this issue, using the same resources.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto House Bill 2987 because of the following objections:

House Bill 2987 would remove the Texas Supreme Court and the State Bar of Texas from their historical role of protecting the citizens of Texas from unprofessional and unethical conduct by lawyers. The Bill provides that the Texas Supreme Court cannot pass rules that interfere with an attorney’s ability to contract for legal fees or that discourage competition among attorneys to provide legal services. This Bill would call into question the following: (i) Rule 1.04 of the Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct, which provides that an attorney in Texas may not charge a client an unreasonable fee; and (ii) the recently enacted lawyer advertising rules. Rule 1.04 was modeled on a rule suggested by the American Bar Association, passed overwhelmingly by State Bar members through a statewide referendum, and promulgated by a unanimous Texas Supreme Court in 1990.

This Bill is contrary to sound public policy because it is so broadly drawn. A more concisely-phrased Bill, supported by the State Bar, could more accurately address the policy concerns underlying this legislation; namely, the Texas Supreme Court’s authority to pass rules that interfere with the freedom of contract. The existing body of rules enacted by the Court reveal, however, that the Court, to date, has not adopted a rule which improperly infringes upon a lawyer’s freedom to contract.

House Bill 3181 proposes to allow sitting Hidalgo County Court at Law judges to practice law in federal courts. There are potential conflicts of interest inherent in allowing sitting judges to practice law. Furthermore, this practice contributes to a backlog of cases in county courts. The reason for allowing this practice was that the judges of county courts at law were not highly paid; however, with judges salaries at current levels, this is no longer an issue.

BY THE

Governor of the State of Texas

41-2632

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 695 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 695 would regulate the way in which state agencies and municipalities manage personnel records of firefighters and police officers. Agencies affected would have to bear the expense of creating separate personnel systems for the police and firefighters under their employment. In addition, cities and agencies would be burdened further by the notice requirements imposed under this Bill.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

PROCLAMATION

BY THE
Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 707 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 707, in its attempt to address the specific problem of "gang graffiti," imposes overly broad restrictions upon parents and guardians, and subjects law-abiding juveniles to prosecution. In addition, if this Bill becomes law, retail businesses will be forced to hire additional employees, purchase security equipment and remodel their businesses to avoid prosecution under this Bill.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereo at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 744 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 744 allows public water to be used in geothermal heat pumps and then returned to the public water supply. The potential risk of public water contamination is too great to allow this without further research.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

PROCLAMATION
BY THE
Governor of the State of Texas
41-2635

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 914 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 914 would virtually eliminate the at-will doctrine of employment as applied to the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission. The Bill would grant all TABC employees, except for those in senior management, a due process property interest in their employment positions. The TABC already has internal policies that allow procedural review of adverse employment actions.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

Governor of the State of Texas

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 1013 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 1013 would limit the internal investigations of public servants by prohibiting the use of polygraph examinations and by requiring "sufficient evidence" to prove allegations of misconduct. The "sufficient evidence" standard required by Senate Bill 1013 is legally vague and will encourage litigation against governmental bodies attempting to discipline their employees.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

PROCLAMATION
BY THE
Governor of the State of Texas
41-1637

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 1175 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 1175 is harmful to sexual assault victims. The Bill provides that the communications between a sexual assault victim and the victim’s advocate are legally confidential and privileged. Because a defendant has a constitutional right to confront and cross-examine witnesses with prior statements, this privilege is unconstitutional. If a defendant is precluded from cross-examining a victim about prior statements, then all of the victim’s statements may be excluded on appeal. Consequently, without any testimony from the victim, the prosecutor may be forced to dismiss the case.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.

PROCLAMATION

BY THE

Governor of the State of Texas

41-263B

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

Pursuant to Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I, George W. Bush, Governor of Texas, do hereby disapprove and veto Senate Bill 1296 because of the following objections:

Senate Bill 1296 would replace the substantial compliance rule with a rule of strict compliance regarding each and every technical aspect of an agency's rule-making process under the Texas Administrative Procedure Act. This would result in increased litigation attacking state regulations on the basis of hyper-technical defects that may have no substantive effect or impact on the public.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the State to be affixed hereto at Austin, this 16th day of June, 1995.
