DIGEST

Currently, the Texas Youth Commission has access to the criminal history information it needs to screen persons who may be unsuitable for contact with its youth. Last fiscal year the commission made approximately 2,600 inquiries of the Department of Public Safety for this information on its job applicants and volunteer applicants. The commission does not have authority, however, to obtain criminal history information on volunteers and employees of private entities that contract with the commission. In view of the ever-increasing role of private contractors in providing direct services to the commission youth, it is important that such access be provided. Approximately 350 to 400 additional inquiries are expected each fiscal year related to contractors' employees and volunteers. H.B. 2075 provides the Texas Youth Commission with access to criminal history record information.

PURPOSE

As proposed, H.B. 2075 provides the Texas Youth Commission with access to criminal history record information.

This bill does not grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
