AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Obesity rates in Texas have reached epidemic proportion. There are steps in place in Texas to treat and prevent obesity. A key step in this process is to monitor rates of obesity and the tactics that are in place to address this crisis. Monitoring prevention efforts allows for evaluation of current practices and can guide future planning.

As proposed, S.B. 556 creates an interagency obesity council (council) with the commissioner of agriculture, commissioner of state health services, and commissioner of education. The council will be responsible for a report about programs in the state that are active in preventing and treating obesity. The report must include a list of the programs that promote better health, assess the steps taken within each program to promote better health and nutrition, and follow the progress that has been made by these steps. The council will also be responsible for identifying areas that need improvement and making recommendations to better address obesity. The council will help monitor nutrition and physical activity.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
