AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The charging instrument in Class C misdemeanor cases is the complaint, the filing of which tolls the statute of limitations. However, complaints are not filed in most Class C cases because defendants may enter a plea to a citation or fail to appear in response to a citation for the offense, therefore not entering a plea. Consequently, from this failure to appear, the statute of limitations is not tolled. Once the generally accepted two-year statute of limitations period has run, the Class C offense can no longer be prosecuted.

Only when a defendant pleads "not guilty" to the citation is the state required, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, to prepare and file a complaint. Requiring the state to file a complaint when a defendant fails to appear and enter a plea would serve to toll the statute of limitations and permit prosecutions for Class C offenses more than two years after the date of the offense.

As proposed, S.B. 413 requires the state to file a complaint when a defendant fails to appear and enter a plea to a citation in a Class C misdemeanor case.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
