AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Currently, the presiding judges of the administrative judicial regions have the authority to appoint associate judges and visiting associate judges to hear Title IV-D child support and child protection cases under Subchapters B (Associate Judge for Title IV-D Cases) and C (Associate Judge for Child Protection Cases), Chapter 201, Texas Family Code. The associate judges appointed under Subchapters B and C are state employees of the Office of Court Administration who work on statewide programs. As such, the requirement that the person live in the administrative judicial region to be served or an adjacent county for the two years preceding appointment has severely limited the pool of persons eligible for appointment.

As proposed, S.B. 742 changes the eligibility requirements to expand the pool of judges who are authorized to be appointed to hear such cases by removing the two-year preappointment residency requirement for child support and child protection associate judges and by adding district court and statutory county court judges to those eligible for appointment as child support and child protection visiting associate judges. S.B. 742 also clarifies that a judge eligible for assignment under Section 74.054, Government Code, is eligible for assignment as an associate judge under Subchapters B and C, Chapter 201, Texas Family Code.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
